ANNUAL REPORT ON THE FINANCES

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., November 20, 1934.

SIR: I have the honor to make the following report:

BUDGET RESULTS

Receipts

Total receipts, exclusive of trust account items, during the fiscal year 1934 were $3,115,554,050, compared with $2,079,696,742 in 1933. Increased receipts resulted in customs and in every important category of internal revenue except the tax on admissions. These increases, coupled with the new National Industrial Recovery taxes and the agricultural adjustment taxes, accounted for the $1,035,857,308 increase in total receipts.

The trend in receipts, by major sources, from 1925 to 1934, inclusive, is shown in the chart above; and a more detailed comparison of receipts for 1933 and 1934 is presented in the table on page 2.

Miscellaneous internal revenue receipts in 1934 constituted 47 percent of total receipts, compared with 41 percent in 1933; and constituted 53 percent of total receipts exclusive of agricultural adjustment taxes. Income tax receipts increased in 1934 by $71,800,000 but constituted the smallest percentage (26 percent) of total receipts since 1917...

Income taxes.—In the fiscal year 1934 income taxes amounted to $818,000,000, compared with $746,200,000 in 1933. The increase of $71,800,000 was accounted for as follows: Collections of current taxes on individual incomes, $60,000,000; collections of current taxes on corporations, $2,100,000; and back tax collections, $9,700,000.

The fiscal year 1934 was the first full fiscal year to reflect the increased normal rates and surtaxes, reduced personal exemptions, the elimination of tax credit for earned income, and other provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932 relating to individual income taxes. Consequently, collections of current taxes on individual incomes increased considerably in the face of a continued decline of net taxable incomes in the calendar year 1933.

Current taxes on corporate incomes in the fiscal year 1934 likewise were collected for the first full fiscal year on the basis of the increased rate of 13½ percent (compared with the old rate of 12 percent), plus an additional tax of ¾ of 1 percent on net income reported on consolidated returns. That collections in 1934 exceeded 1933 collections by only $2,100,000 is due to the fact that net income in the calendar year 1933 was far below the 1931 total, which figured in the first half of the 1933 fiscal year collections.

Miscellaneous internal revenue.—Receipts from miscellaneous internal revenue taxes were $1,469,600,000 in the fiscal year 1934, compared with $858,200,000 in 1933, an increase of $611,400,000. Receipts from the leading revenue-producing taxes are shown in the table on page 2.

In 1934 nearly 90 percent of miscellaneous internal revenue came from the following sources, in the order of their importance as revenue producers: Tobacco taxes, manufacturers' excise taxes, the tax on fermented liquors, National Industrial Recovery taxes, the estate tax, and taxes on distilled spirits and wines.

The additional estate tax imposed by the Revenue Act of 1932 was largely responsible for the increased collections of taxes on estates in 1934, which amounted to $104,000,000, compared with $29,700,000 in 1933. Inasmuch as returns of this tax are not required to be filed until one year after death, 1933 collections reflected little effect of the additional tax.

Increased collections of the tax on gasoline, raised from 1 to 1½ cents per gallon by the National Industrial Recovery Act, accounted for more than one-half of the $142,200,000 increase in collections of manufacturers' excise taxes.

Taxes on fermented malt liquors collected during the fiscal year amounted to $169,000,000; on distilled spirits, $86,000,000; and on wines, $4,000,000. The manufacture and sale of beer had been authorized by the act of March 22, 1933, and consequently collections of taxes on fermented malt liquors cover the entire fiscal year. The manufacture and sale of distilled spirits and wine for beverage purposes have been legal since December 5, 1933; therefore, taxes collected on spirits and wine do not represent a full year's collection.

Agricultural adjustment taxes.—Agricultural adjustment taxes totaled $353,000,000. Taxes on cotton and wheat produced the largest share, $144,800,000 and $117,600,000, respectively.

Customs.—Customs receipts of $313,400,000 in 1934 exceeded by $62,600,000 the sum reported in 1933, and reflected a reversal, which began in the middle of 1933, of the previous steady decline in foreign trade.

Miscellaneous receipts.—Miscellaneous receipts, exclusive of trust account items, declined from $224,500,000 in the fiscal year 1933 to $161,500,000 in 1934. These receipts include such items as the proceeds from Government-owned securities, Panama Canal tolls, fees, fines and penalties, rents and royalties, the immigration head tax, tax on the circulation of national bank notes, and seigniorage. The decrease was due chiefly to the reduced receipts on account of obligations of foreign governments. These receipts amounted to $98,700,000 in the fiscal year 1933 and only $20,400,000 in 1934. Receipts on all other Government-owned securities rose from $32,100,000 in the fiscal year 1933 to $57,400,000 in 1934. The latter figure includes interest in the amount of approximately $48,900,000 paid by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on account of advances made by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Expenditures

During the fiscal year 1934 general and emergency expenditures, exclusive of trust account items, aggregated $7,105,050,085, as compared with $5,142,953,627 for the fiscal year 1933. This increase was entirely a result of an expansion in emergency expenditures, which on the basis of the daily Treasury statement (unrevised) increased from $1,277,000,000 to $4,004,000,000, while general expenditures declined from $3,866,000,000 to $3,101,000,000. A portion of the rise in 1934 emergency expenditures, however, reflected the fact that in the year 1933 the only expenditures placed in the emergency category were the expenditures of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The table on page 6 compares, for the fiscal years 1932 to 1934, expenditures of emergency organizations and other expenditures classified by important groups. The total shown in this table as expenditures of emergency organizations includes emergency expenditures classified in the daily Treasury statement (unrevised) as such, and also certain general expenditures for Agricultural Adjustment Administration, refunds of receipts on processing taxes, and subscriptions to stock of Federal land banks. Prior to the fiscal year 1934 the expenditures of emergency organizations included only expenditures on account of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and subscriptions to capital stock of the Federal land banks. Expenditures made from general disbursing accounts for public works for certain loans and credits to farmers, for the distribution of wheat and cotton for relief, and for emergency conservation work, and transactions for the agricultural marketing fund are included in the statement on page 6, as the last item under the caption "all other" expenditures, and advances by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to States, municipalities, and other public bodies for relief under the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, amounting to $298,560,000, are included under Reconstruction Finance Corporation direct loans and expenditures. For these reasons comparisons of expenditures along functional lines are impossible in many instances, particularly as regards public works and relief expenditures, aids to agriculture, and the "all other" category. It is certain, however, that substantial increases were made in 1934 for aids to agriculture and to home owners, for relief, and for public works. On the other hand, the postal deficiency was reduced $65,000,000, payments to veterans decreased $307,000,000, and service on the public debt was reduced $34,000,000. This latter decline reflected a decrease of $102,000,000 in public debt retirements, which was partly offset by an increase of $68,000,000 in interest payments.

EXPENDITURES, FISCAL YEARS 1925 TO 1934 (EXCLUSIVE OF TRUST ACCOUNT ITEMS)

All but $10,000,000 of the $290,000,000 shown in the following table as expended for account of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration consisted of items chargeable against receipts from agricultural adjustment taxes. These expenditures included rental and benefit payments, purchases for removal of surplus products, and administrative expenses. Receipts totaled $353,000,000 or $63,000,000 in excess of expenditures chargeable against them.

THE PUBLIC DEBT

The gross public debt outstanding at the end of the fiscal year 1934 amounted to $27,053,141,414 as compared with $22,538,672,560 on June 30, 1933, an increase of $4,514,468,854. The net changes in the character and amount of the outstanding debt are summarized in the following table showing the amounts of the various classes of debt outstanding at the beginning and at the end of the fiscal year.

The open market financing operations of the Treasury during 1934 reflect chiefly: (1) Borrowings necessary to finance emergency expenditures, (2) refunding of maturing debt, and (3) increase in the General Fund balance.

The volume of open market transactions during the year is summarized in the following table:

Public debt transactions, other than open market operations, included the issuance and redemption of special obligations connected with the investment of trust funds and postal savings, operations in connection with the national bank note and Federal Reserve bank note retirement funds, and the issuance and redemption of Treasury bonds of a special series¹ made available for payment in gold.

On the basis of the interest-bearing debt outstanding on June 30, 1933, and on June 30, 1934, the computed annual interest charge was increased from $742,175,955 to $842,301,131, and the computed rate was reduced from 3.350 to 3.181 percent. The course of the interest-the fiscal year after November 1, 1933, appear as exhibits 1 to 17 on pages 161 to 181.

The bonds, bearing $\frac{3}{4}$ percent interest, were dated Jan. 16, 1934, and matured Apr. 16, 1934. All bonds were redeemed before maturity.

Refunding the Fourth Liberty Loan

Fourth Liberty Loan 4½ percent bonds of 1933-38 were originally issued under date of October 24, 1918, in the amount of $6,964,581,100. This amount had been reduced to about $6,268,000,000 when on October 12, 1933, the first call was issued for redemption on April 15, 1934, of about $1,880,000,000, or 30 percent, of the outstanding bonds. This amount is only approximate. Fourth Liberty Loan bonds had been issued in the order of their serial numbers, and therefore are divisible into 10 series, as determined by the final digits of the serial numbers. Three series were included in the first call, the bonds designated being those bearing serial numbers ending in 9, 0, or 1.

On October 15, 1933, a series of Treasury bonds of 1943-45 was offered for subscription bearing interest at the rate of 4½ percent per annum from that date to October 15, 1934, and thereafter at the rate of 3½ percent per annum. The new bonds were offered at par in exchange for outstanding Fourth Liberty Loan bonds, whether called or uncalled, and at 101½ for cash, the price for cash including accrued interest from October 15 to November 1, 1933, the date fixed for cash payment.

The cash offering, which was for $500,000,000, or thereabouts, was closed on October 17, 1933, at which time subscriptions aggregating $1,989,015,000 were received, of which $500,421,950 were allotted. Exchange subscriptions, which were not closed until December 2, 1933, aggregated $900,716,550, a like amount of Fourth Liberty Loan bonds having been tendered in exchange—$874,863,900 of the called and $25,852,650 of the uncalled bonds. By this operation outstanding Fourth Liberty Loan bonds called for redemption on April 15, 1934, were reduced to about $1,005,000,000.

On April 4, 1934, a series of 3½ percent Treasury bonds of 1944-46 was offered for subscription in exchange for Fourth Liberty Loan bonds called for redemption on April 15, and for Treasury notes of series A-1934, maturing May 2, 1934. The offering was confined to exchange subscriptions, cash subscriptions not being received. A total of $1,061,960,500, including $827,496,200 of the called bonds and $234,464,300 of the maturing notes, was exchanged for the new bonds.

Through these two exchange offerings, $1,702,360,100 of the called bonds were refunded into Treasury bonds, resulting in an annual interest saving after the first year of over $17,000,000. On April 15 there remained outstanding about $178,000,000 of the called bonds due that date. To the end of the fiscal year, $127,000,000 of these bonds were redeemed in cash.

On April 13, 1934, a second call was issued for the redemption on October 15, 1934 of about $1,246,000,000 of outstanding Fourth Liberty Loan bonds. The bonds included in the second call were those which bear serial numbers ending in 8 or 2, and the amount is approximately two-sevenths of the uncalled bonds outstanding on April 13, 1934. No steps for refunding of the bonds included in the second call were taken before the close of the fiscal year 1934.

Department circulars issued and public announcements made during the fiscal year 1934 concerning the first call of October 12, 1933, and the second call of April 13, 1934, for partial redemption of Fourth Liberty Loan bonds, and the refunding issues announced on October 12, 1933, and April 4, 1934, are included as exhibits 15 and 16 on pages 176 to 183 of the annual report for 1933 and as exhibits 1 and 10 to 12 on pages 161 and 168 to 174 of this report.

Cumulative sinking fund

The permanent appropriation available for the cumulative sinking fund during the fiscal year 1934, including a small unexpended balance for the prior year, was $438,540,889. Treasury bonds in the face amount of $5,187,000, and Treasury notes in the face amount of $46,789,000, were purchased at a principal cost of $5,090,468 and $46,579,686, respectively; and $300,002,200, face amount of Fourth Liberty Loan bonds, and $7,513,700, face amount of Treasury notes of series A-1934, were redeemed at par for account of the fund. The face amount of total retirements on this account was thus $359,491,900 at an expenditure of $359,186,054. An unexpended balance of $79,354,835 was carried forward to the fiscal year 1935. Tables covering transactions on account of the fund for the fiscal year 1934, and from its inception on July 1, 1920, will be found on pages 368 and 369 of this report.

Two amendments to the cumulative sinking fund acts were enacted during the year: First, under provisions of the Treasury Department Appropriation Act, 1935, the addition to the fund established by section 308 of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932 was changed from an annual to a permanent appropriation, thus conforming to other appropriation provisions of the sinking fund acts; and second, under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, the appropriation for the fund, previously restricted to retirement of issues outstanding on July 1, 1920, and to issues subsequently made for refunding purposes, was extended to cover the retirement of any bonds or notes issued under the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended.

Indirect obligations of the United States

In addition to the public debt which is a direct obligation of the United States, there are classes of indirect obligations which are in the nature of contingent liabilities. These liabilities include obligations, payment of which with regard to principal and/or interest is guaranteed by the Government, as well as obligations based on the credit of the United States. A statement, showing in detail the contingent liabilities of the Federal Government on June 30, 1934, is presented on page 373 of this report. In this connection attention is called to the statement on page 381 of assets and liabilities of Government corporations and credit agencies of the United States, as of June 30, 1934, compiled from reports received from organizations concerned.

At the end of the fiscal year 1934, principal of outstanding obligations of Government agencies fully guaranteed both as to principal and interest included: $312,000,000 of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, $235,000,000 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and $134,000,000 of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. The latter agency also had outstanding $612,000,000 of bonds guaranteed only as to interest but exchangeable until October 27, 1934, for fully guaranteed bonds. The Federal land banks had outstanding $331,000,000 of bonds guaranteed as to interest but not as to principal. Obligations outstanding on June 30, 1934, secured by the credit of the United States included $58,000,000 of loans to the Secretary of Agriculture, based upon all cotton in his possession or control and secured by warehouse receipts for such cotton; and postal savings funds, amounting to $1,198,000,000.

GENERAL FUND OF THE TREASURY

All cash receipts of the Government are deposited in the General Fund of the Treasury and all expenditures are made therefrom. The balance of this fund represents the cash balance of the Government. Similar information is presented in somewhat greater detail, and on the basis of the daily Treasury statements (revised), in the table on p. 376 of this report.

EMERGENCY LEGISLATION

Further appropriations and allocations of funds were made during the fiscal year 1934 for the purpose of dealing with the emergency created by the depression. The amount of capital stock and obligations that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to have outstanding at any one time was increased from $4,575,000,000 to $5,925,000,000, exclusive of indefinite authorizations. During the year the Reconstruction Finance Corporation sold $1,670,000,000 of its notes to the Secretary of the Treasury, increasing the total sold to the Secretary to $3,255,000,000, in addition to the $500,000,000 of the Corporation's capital stock purchased by the Treasury. A total of $235,000,000 of notes was issued to banks from which the Corporation purchased preferred stock, capital notes, and debentures. Notes in the amount of $132,000,000 were issued for payment in gold; these obligations were retired during the fiscal year in connection with the sale of the Corporation's gold holdings to the Treasury.

The following table summarizes the funds appropriated and allocated to emergency organizations, expenditures therefrom, and unexpended balances. The allocation of funds from the $3,300,000,000 provided under the National Industrial Recovery Act was virtually completed as shown in this statement.

The emergency expenditures included in this statement for the period prior to the fiscal year 1934 include only expenditures on account of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and subscriptions to capital stock of Federal land banks under authority of the act of January 23, 1932. Expenditures prior to the fiscal year 1934 by the several departments and establishments for public works under the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932 were made from general disbursing accounts, and, therefore, are not susceptible to segregation from the general expenditures of such departments and establishments on the basis of the daily Treasury statement.

³ Includes $350,000,000 specific appropriations from the general Treasury under the acts of May 12, 1933, May 25, 1934, and June 19, 1934.

⁷ The appropriation of $950,000,000, provided in the act of February 15, 1934, was allocated by the President as follows: Civil Works Administration, $375,000,000; Federal Emergency Relief Administration, $575,000,000, of which latter amount $19,000,000 has been transferred to the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation for the purchase of commodities.

¹⁰ Less than $500,000.

REVENUE LEGISLATION

Important changes in Federal taxes occurred during the fiscal year 1934. With repeal of the eighteenth amendment, formally proclaimed by the President on December 5, 1933, existing taxes on distilled spirits and wines again became substantial revenue producers and the special taxes levied by the National Industrial Recovery Act, according to the specific provisions of that act, were repealed, effective as of the following dates: Dividends tax imposed by section 213 does not apply to dividends declared after December 31, 1933; capital stock tax imposed by section 215 does not apply in respect of any year beginning on or after July 1, 1934; excess-profits tax imposed by section 216 does not apply in respect of any taxable year ending after June 30, 1934. Further provisions for taxation were made by the specific acts cited below.

Liquor Taxing Act of 1934.—This act, approved January 11, 1934, repeals the act of March 22, 1933, providing for the taxation of non-intoxicating liquor containing one-half of 1 percent or more of alcohol by volume and not more than 3.2 percent of alcohol by weight. A copy of the Liquor Taxing Act of 1934 will be found as exhibit 30 on page 215 of this report. The major taxes provided by the Liquor Taxing Act of 1934, which went into effect January 12, 1934, and the superseded rates are as follows:

Revenue Act of 1934.—This act, approved May 10, 1934, provides for the following major changes in taxation:

(1) Corporations: The privilege of filing consolidated returns is limited to railroads with an increase in the income tax rate on such returns from 14¼ to 15¼ percent; for corporations accumulating surplus to avoid surtax on shareholders, a change in the special surtax from 50 percent of adjusted net income to 25 percent of the amount not in excess of $100,000, plus 35 percent of the amount in excess of $100,000; limitation of deduction for losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets to $2,000 plus the gains from such sales, applicable to all corporations, except banks and trust companies, a substantial part of whose business is the receipt of deposits; in addition to the regular rate upon the undistributed adjusted net income of personal holding companies, a special surtax of 30 percent of the undistributed adjusted net income not in excess of $100,000, plus 40 percent of the amount in excess of $100,000.

Taxes on capital stock and on excess profits of corporations are levied at the same rates as provided in the National Industrial Recovery Act, but with a slight modification of the determination of adjusted declared value of capital stock.

(2) Individual incomes: A decrease in the normal rate from 4 and 8 percent to 4 percent; for the purpose of normal tax, a credit against the net income of 10 percent of earned income; for the purpose of the surtax, a credit for personal exemption and for dependents; surtaxes graduated from 4 percent on "surtax net income" in excess of $4,000 and not in excess of $6,000, up to 59 percent on "surtax net income" in excess of $1,000,000; and other income tax changes, the most important of which is the treatment of gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets, whereby taxable gains and losses are computed on the basis of certain percentages, which vary according to the period for which assets have been held. Deduction of net capital losses computed on the bases of the various percentages is limited to $2,000 plus gains from such sales.

(3) Estates and gifts: Increase in rates for computing the additional tax on estates so that the maximum tax rate on net estates in excess of $10,000,000 is 60 instead of 45 percent; increase in graduated gift tax rates so that the maximum tax rate on net gifts in excess of $10,000,000 is 45 instead of 33½ percent. The increased rates for the additional estate tax apply to estates of decedents dying after May 10, 1934, and the increased rates for the gift tax to gifts for the calendar years 1935 and thereafter.

(4) Other taxes: Imposition of a tax on imports of certain marine animal and fish oils, processing taxes on vegetable and coconut oils, and excise taxes on crude petroleum and other articles; repeal of taxes on soft drinks and candy as of May 10, 1934, on use of certain boats as of June 30, 1934, and on checks as of January 1, 1935; increase in exemptions for taxes on furs and jewelry, reduction in stamp tax on sales of produce for future delivery.

Extension of agricultural adjustment legislation.—By two amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment Act, additions were made to the basic agricultural commodities upon which processing taxes can be levied by proclamation of the Secretary of Agriculture. The act of April 7, 1934, adds to the list of basic commodities cattle, peanuts, rye, flax, barley, and grain sorghums; and the act of May 9, 1934, adds sugar beets and sugarcane.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act provides for the imposition of taxes upon the first domestic processing of specified basic agricultural commodities, to become effective with respect to each commodity by proclamation of the Secretary of Agriculture. Similar taxes are authorized upon the first domestic processing of any commodity found by the Secretary of Agriculture to be competing to the disadvantage of a basic commodity. Taxes are also authorized on the floor stocks of articles processed wholly or in chief value from a commodity with respect to which a processing tax is imposed. Compensating taxes are imposed upon articles processed wholly or in chief value from a commodity with respect to which a processing tax is imposed, when such articles are imported into the United States, or into any possession thereof to which the act applies, from any foreign country or possession to which the act does not apply.

Under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, or the various amendments thereof, processing taxes are authorized to become effective in the case of each commodity on the first day of the marketing year next following the date of a proclamation of the Secretary of Agriculture, that rental or benefit payments are to be made with respect to that commodity, except in the case of sugar beets and sugarcane, which tax became effective on and after June 8, 1934. During the fiscal year 1934 agricultural adjustment taxes were levied with respect to the following basic agricultural commodities: Wheat, cotton, tobacco, field corn, hogs, sugar beets, and sugarcane; as well as on certain paper and certain jute found to be competing to the disadvantage of a basic commodity.

Other laws have been enacted containing certain administrative provisions with respect to the taxes imposed under the Agricultural Adjustment Act. These laws relate to refunds in the case of certain exports and to refunds or credits in the case of deliveries of articles to organizations for charitable distribution or use, limitations with respect to the filing of claims, and adjustments where rates of taxes are increased or decreased. They also revise the definition of processing in connection with certain commodities, create certain exemptions and changes in method of payment of tax, and make possible an extension of time for the payment of processing taxes.

The act approved April 21, 1934, to place the cotton industry on a sound commercial basis, etc., provides for the imposition of a tax upon the ginning of cotton; and the act approved June 28, 1934, to place the tobacco-growing industry on a sound financial and economic basis, etc., provides for a tax on the first bona fide sale of each pound of certain tobacco harvested subsequent to the enactment of this act.

Silver Purchase Act of 1934.—This act, approved June 19, 1934, provides for a stamp tax on the transfer of interests in silver bullion equal to 50 percent of the net profit to the transferor. The tax applies to all transfers of any interest in silver bullion on or after May 15, 1934, except transfers of silver bullion by deposit or delivery at a United States mint in compliance with an Executive order requiring such delivery of any or all silver by whomsoever owned or processed. A copy of this act is shown as exhibit 27 on page 205.

National Firearms Act.—The National Firearms Act, approved June 26, 1934, provides an annual special tax of $500 on importers and manufacturers of certain firearms, $200 on dealers other than pawnbrokers, and $300 on pawnbrokers, and a stamp tax of $200 each on certain firearms transferred in the United States, to be paid by the transferor. A copy of this act is presented as exhibit 31 on page 219.

ESTIMATES OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES

Actual receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year 1934 and estimates for the fiscal years 1935 and 1936 are shown in the table beginning on page 20. Estimated expenditures are based on the latest information from the Bureau of the Budget.

Total receipts from customs duties and internal revenue, exclusive of agricultural adjustment taxes, are estimated (on daily Treasury statement basis) at $2,895,000,000 for the fiscal year 1935, and at $3,172,000,000 for the fiscal year 1936, assuming extension of temporary taxes in the latter year. More detailed estimates of revenue are shown in table 15, on page 331.

The revenues of the Federal Government are mainly dependent upon the tax structure and the level of business activity. Therefore, in preparing revenue estimates in November of each year, the Treasury is required to assume the continuance of the then existing tax structure and to forecast the probable trend of business activity for the ensuing 20 months (the period covering the remainder of the then current fiscal year and the next fiscal year).

NOTE.—Excess credits in italics to be deducted.

In view of the nature of the Federal tax structure, it is not to be expected that revenues will reflect promptly an anticipated improvement in business conditions. For example, collections of income taxes during the latter half of the fiscal year 1935 will be based on the business volume of the calendar year 1934 and income tax collections during the fiscal year 1936 will be based on the volume of business of the calendar years 1934 and 1935. Therefore, it is anticipated that the rising level of business activity will increase income tax receipts only moderately during the remainder of the fiscal year 1935 and the fiscal year 1936. Certain miscellaneous internal revenue receipts, notably estate and gift taxes, show a lag in tax collections behind changes in general business conditions.

Fiscal year 1935

Total receipts from customs duties and internal revenue, excluding agricultural adjustment taxes, are estimated (on daily Treasury statement basis) at $2,895,000,000 for the fiscal year 1935, an increase of approximately $294,000,000 over the actual receipts in the fiscal year 1934. This estimated increase is the net result of gains in revenue derived from improvement in business activity, changes inaugurated by the Treasury in its administration of depreciation allowances, reenactment of the capital stock and excess-profits taxes, upward revisions in the yields of income, estate, and gift taxes, incorporated in the Revenue Act of 1934, and other factors; less the decreases in revenue occasioned principally by the removal of certain taxes, chiefly those on dividends and checks, and by smaller customs receipts.

Income tax receipts.—Total income tax collections are estimated at $1,051,000,000, an increase of $233,000,000 over actual collections for the fiscal year 1934. Collections from the current corporation income taxes are estimated at $440,000,000, an increase of $119,000,000 over the actual collections for the fiscal year 1934. Of this increase, $83,000,000 is anticipated to proceed from the higher level of corporate earnings, while the remainder is expected to result from the effects of eliminating consolidated returns, the changed provisions with regard to reorganizations under the Revenue Act of 1934, and the Treasury administration of depreciation allowances.

The last named factor is also expected to add to the results of the special efforts of the Bureau of Internal Revenue to collect back taxes on incomes, collections of which are estimated at $167,000,000, an increase of $26,000,000 over the fiscal year 1934.

Current individual income taxes are estimated to yield $444,000,000, an increase of $89,000,000 over the fiscal year 1934, of which approximately $26,000,000 is attributable to the net effect of changes in the rate structure and in the capital gains and losses provisions incorporated in the Revenue Act of 1934.

Miscellaneous internal revenue.—Total miscellaneous internal revenue receipts are estimated at $1,557,000,000, an increase of $87,000,000 (on daily Treasury statement basis) over those of the fiscal year 1934, despite a substantial decline in anticipated receipts from manufacturers' excise taxes, stamp taxes, and certain other sources.

Estimated increased receipts from estate taxes, resulting mainly from the anticipated increase in the value of estates, and to a slight extent from the application of the increased rates provided by the Revenue Act of 1934, and greater revenues resulting from the growing domestic manufacture and consumption of distilled spirits and wines, fermented malt liquors, and tobacco, are expected to more than counterbalance certain losses in revenue as follows: (1) Repeal of the tax on dividends which yielded more than $50,000,000 during the 6 months of the fiscal year 1934 that it was in effect; (2) repeal of taxes on checks, soft drinks, and candy; (3) reduction from 5 cents per $100 to 3 cents per $100 in the stamp tax on sales of produce for future delivery; (4) estimated decline of $43,000,000 in the yield of the tax on gasoline in the fiscal year 1935 because of the fact that the rate is 1 cent per gallon, as compared with the rate of 1½ cents per gallon imposed by the National Industrial Recovery Act and in effect during part of the fiscal year 1934.

Customs receipts.—Customs receipts for the fiscal year 1935 are expected to be about $26,000,000 smaller than those of the preceding year. The decrease is to be attributed to the reduction in duty on Cuban sugar and to a smaller volume of other dutiable imports, exclusive of alcoholic beverages. The duty on Cuban sugar was reduced from 2 cents per pound to 1.5 cents per pound, effective June 8, 1934; and to 9/10 of 1 cent per pound, effective September 3, 1934, after the signing of the Cuban Trade Agreement. The effect of the reduced sugar duty upon the customs receipts of the fiscal year 1935 was partly counteracted by the concentration in the latter half of the calendar year 1934 of a large part of the year's quota for Cuban sugar imports. Further counteracting, in part, the decline in customs revenues from sugar and other imports, is an estimated increase of $10,000,000 in the fiscal year 1935 of revenues from imports of distilled spirits and fermented liquors.

Agricultural adjustment taxes.—Agricultural adjustment taxes on farm products are estimated (on daily Treasury statement basis) to yield $589,000,000, an increase of $236,000,000 over actual collections in the fiscal year 1934. The largest increase is anticipated in corn-hog taxes, collections of which are expected to amount to $217,000,000, as against $81,500,000 in the fiscal year 1934. A very substantial increase is expected in receipts from taxes on sugar, which are estimated at $82,000,000 as against less than $170,000 collected in the fiscal year 1934. Taxes on tobacco are estimated to rise from $18,000,000 to $33,000,000, and on wheat from $117,600,000 to $121,000,000. On the other hand, collections from taxes on cotton, including jute and paper fiber, are expected to decline from $154,000,000 in the fiscal year 1934 to about $111,000,000 in the fiscal year 1935. The processing tax on peanuts, which was not effective in the fiscal year 1934, is expected to yield about $5,000,000.

Fiscal year 1936

Total receipts from customs duties and internal revenue, excluding agricultural adjustment taxes, are estimated at $3,172,000,000 for the fiscal year 1936 if the temporary taxes expiring June 30 and July 31, 1935, are extended. This figure represents (on daily Treasury statement basis) an increase of $277,000,000 over the estimated receipts in the fiscal year 1935 and of $571,000,000 over the actual receipts in the fiscal year 1934. Failure to extend the temporary taxes would reduce the total internal revenue receipts by approximately $378,000,000, and customs by approximately $11,000,000, to a total of $2,783,000,000, or $112,000,000 less than estimated receipts from these sources in the fiscal year 1935 (on daily Treasury statement basis).

Income tax receipts.—Total income tax collections are estimated at $1,188,000,000, an increase of $137,000,000 over the estimated collections for the fiscal year 1935. Receipts from income taxes in the fiscal year will reflect fully the upward revision of the tax structure under the Revenue Act of 1934 and are expected to show further gains because of the moderately higher incomes anticipated for the calendar years 1934 and 1935 as compared with those for 1933 and 1934, respectively.

Current corporation income taxes are estimated to yield $509,000,000, an increase of $69,000,000 over the estimates for the fiscal year 1935; and current individual income taxes are estimated to yield $506,000,000, an increase of $62,000,000 over the 1935 estimate.

Collections of back taxes on incomes are estimated at $173,000,000, an increase of $6,000,000 over the estimated level in the preceding fiscal year.

Miscellaneous internal revenue.—If the temporary taxes expiring June 30 and July 31, 1935, are extended, important increases are anticipated in receipts during the fiscal year 1936. Total miscellaneous internal revenue receipts, assuming extension of the temporary taxes, are estimated at $1,686,000,000, an increase of $129,000,000 over the estimated collections for the fiscal year 1935 (on daily Treasury statement basis).

Estate tax and gift tax collections will reflect fully the increased rates of the Revenue Act of 1934 and are estimated to yield $191,000,000 and $25,000,000, respectively, representing increases of $54,000,000 and $14,000,000 as compared with estimated receipts from these taxes in the fiscal year 1935. Revenues from distilled spirits and wines and from fermented liquors are estimated to show increases of $27,000,000 and $11,000,000, respectively, over estimates for the fiscal year 1935, partly in consequence of the anticipated higher level of incomes and partly because of the rising trend in the domestic manufacture and consumption of distilled spirits and wines, due to improvement in quality combined with a reduction in illicit manufacture. Repeal of the tax on checks, effective as of January 1, 1935, will offset part of the gains in the fiscal year 1936 from other sources by approximately $24,000,000.

Customs receipts.—Customs receipts are estimated at $298,000,000 for the fiscal year 1936, assuming that temporary duties on certain commodities (coal, lumber, petroleum products, copper and products) are extended, an increase of $11,000,000 over the estimated collections of 1935. Decreases are expected in collections from Cuban sugar imports and from imports of distilled spirits and fermented liquors, but other dutiable imports are expected to more than counterbalance these reductions. The lower duty on Cuban sugar will be effective throughout the year and, hence, is not expected to yield as much revenue as in the fiscal year 1935, when imports that would normally have been made in the forepart of the calendar year 1934 were concentrated in the latter half of that year, thus swelling the customs receipts of the 1935 fiscal year. A decline of some $3,000,000 is anticipated in the receipts from duties on imports of alcoholic beverages by reason of improvement in the quality of the domestic product.

Agricultural adjustment taxes.—Receipts from agricultural adjustment taxes for the fiscal year 1936 are estimated at $570,000,000. This estimate was made on the assumption that it would be necessary to continue the work of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration on practically the same basis as during the fiscal year 1935.

MONETARY DEVELOPMENTS

Gold

The regulation of the acquisition, holding, and export of gold established in the spring of 1933, under authority confirmed in the Emergency Banking Act of March 9, 1933, was continued in the Executive order of August 28, 1933, which revoked earlier orders and required the delivery to a Federal Reserve bank of all gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates domestically held, with certain exceptions.

By the Executive order of August 29, the Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to receive gold recovered from natural deposits in the United States on consignment for sale to persons licensed to acquire gold for use in the arts, industries, and professions, or, by export to foreign purchasers.

On October 25, the President issued an Executive order revoking the Executive order of August 29, and amending that of August 28. The order of October 25 authorized the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to acquire gold recovered from natural deposits in the United States which had been received on consignment by a United States mint or assay office and to hold, earmark for foreign account, export, or otherwise dispose of such gold. On the same day the Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced that it would receive subscriptions for its debentures maturing on February 1, 1934, payable in newly mined gold recovered from natural deposits in the United States (official release, Oct. 26, 1933). The daily authorized prices for which newly mined gold was acquired under the above orders over the period September 8, 1933, to January 31, 1934, appear as exhibit 26, on page 205 of this report. Certain foreign gold imported after November 1, 1933, was also authorized by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to be received by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in payment for the notes of the Corporation.

The Executive order of August 28 was supplemented by an order of the Secretary of the Treasury on December 28 (amended on Jan. 11 and supplemented on Jan. 15, 1934), requiring all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates domestically held (with certain stated exceptions) to be delivered for the account of the Treasurer of the United States.

In his message to Congress of January 15, 1934, the President recommended the passage of legislative provisions which Congress embodied in the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, approved on January 30. A copy of this act appears as exhibit 23 on page 189. This act includes the following provisions relating to gold:

Title to all gold coin and gold bullion of the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Reserve banks and Federal Reserve agents is vested in the United States Government, for which credits in the United States Treasury in equivalent dollar amounts are established;

Except to the extent permitted in regulations issued under the Gold Reserve Act, no currency of the United States is redeemable in gold, provided that gold certificates owned by the Federal Reserve banks are redeemable at such times and in such amounts as, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury, are necessary to maintain the equal purchasing power of every kind of currency of the United States. Such redemptions as are made in gold are to be made in gold bullion;

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to prescribe the conditions under which gold may be acquired and held, imported, exported, or earmarked;

All gold coins of the United States are to be withdrawn from circulation and, together with all other gold owned by the United States, formed into bars. No United States gold coin is hereafter to be minted or paid out;

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to buy or sell gold as an operation in the General Fund of the Treasury, at such rates and upon such terms and conditions as he deems most advantageous to the public interest, except that gold held as currency reserve or security may be sold only to the extent necessary to maintain such currency at a parity with the gold dollar;

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized, for a period of 2 years, unless the authorization is terminated earlier or extended 1 year by the President, to deal in gold and foreign exchange and such other instruments of credit and securities as he may deem necessary for the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar. A stabilization fund of $2,000,000,000 is established for this purpose out of the increment resulting from reduction in the weight of the gold dollar;

The authority contained in title III of the act of May 12, 1933, permitting the President under certain conditions to fix the weight of the gold dollar at not less than 50 percent of its then legal weight, was made more specific by adding the provision that the weight of the gold dollar shall not be fixed at more than 60 percent of its then legal weight.

The President's proclamation of January 31, 1934, issued under the above authorization, fixed the weight of the gold dollar at $15\frac{5}{16}$ grains of gold, nine-tenths fine. This action constituted a reduction of the gold in the dollar to 59.06 percent of the former content and gave to gold an equivalent value of \$35 a fine ounce.

On January 31, 1934, the Treasury Department issued a statement providing for the sale of gold for export whenever the United States exchange rates with gold standard currencies reach gold export point. The exports are to foreign central banks which buy and sell gold at fixed prices.

Silver

The Presidential proclamation of December 21, 1933, issued under the authority of title III of the act of May 12, 1933, directed the United States mints to receive silver mined in the United States since the date of the proclamation, and to deliver to the tenderer of such silver, standard silver dollars¹ in face amount equal to the silver dollars which might be coined from 50 percent of the silver so tendered. Under this authorization, domestic silver produced since December 21, 1933, is received by the mints on the basis of about 64½ cents per fine ounce.

The Silver Purchase Act of 1934, approved June 19, 1934, declared it to be the policy of the United States that the proportion of silver to gold in the monetary stocks of the United States should be increased with the ultimate objective of having and maintaining one-fourth of the monetary value of such stocks in silver. Whenever the proportion of silver in the stocks of gold and silver is less than one-fourth, the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to purchase silver, at such times and upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and most advantageous to the public interest, but at a price not to exceed its monetary value and not to exceed 50 cents per fine ounce for silver situated in continental United States on May 1, 1934. He is required to issue silver certificates in face amount not less than the cost of all silver purchased under the act. With the approval of the President, the Secretary is authorized to regulate or prohibit the acquisition, importation, exportation, or transportation of silver and silver contracts. The President is authorized at his discretion to require the delivery to the United States mints of any or all silver, in return for which shall be paid the monetary value of such silver in any form of United States coin or currency desired (less mint charges), provided that such value is not less than the market price of silver over a reasonable period previous to the date of the order. The act also imposed a tax at the rate of 50 percent of any profit on all transfers of any interest in silver bullion, with certain exceptions, on or after May 15, 1934.

On June 28, 1934, the Secretary of the Treasury issued an order prohibiting the exportation or transportation of silver from the continental United States except under license issued pursuant to the order.

Silver certificates

The issuance of silver certificates against silver accepted from foreign governments in payment of indebtedness to the United States under title III of the act of May 12, 1933, was begun on January 13, 1934.

The Gold Reserve Act of 1934 authorized the President to issue silver certificates "against any silver bullion, silver, or standard silver dollars in the Treasury not then held for the redemption of any outstanding certificates." Under this act, silver certificates became issuable against any unencumbered silver in the Treasury, irrespective of the authority under which the silver was received.

It was decided, therefore, to provide a single or consolidated series of silver certificates for issuance against any free silver held in the Treasury. Consequently payment of the certificates specifically prepared for issuance against silver received from foreign governments under the act of May 12, 1933, was discontinued, and issues of certificates under that and later authorizations awaited the preparation of the consolidated series.

This consolidated series of new silver certificates has been given the designation, "Series of 1934."

Attention is called to exhibits on pages 189 to 215 containing legislation, Executive orders, proclamations, and orders of the Secretary of the Treasury relating to monetary matters.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was created by the Banking Act of 1933 to insure the deposits of all banks which are entitled to insurance as specified in the act and to purchase, hold, and liquidate the assets of closed member banks of the Federal Reserve System. All licensed banks in the Federal Reserve System, without examination, automatically became members of the deposit insurance fund established by the act, and nonmember banks operating on an unrestricted basis were permitted to apply for participation and became eligible when certified as solvent by the State banking authorities, subject to examination and approval by the Corporation. The Corporation has been chiefly concerned with the insurance provisions of the act.

A temporary plan for the insurance of deposits in the amount of $2,500 of the net claim of any depositor was provided originally for the period January 1 to July 1, 1934, at which time a permanent plan was to have become effective. Under the provisions of the act of June 16, 1934, however, the temporary plan of deposit insurance was extended until July 1, 1935, and the amount of insured deposits of any depositor was increased from $2,500 to $5,000, with certain exceptions for mutual savings banks, for which a separate insurance fund was established.

On June 30, 1934, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation had received from the United States Treasury $150,000,000, and from Federal Reserve banks $139,000,000, representing subscriptions to capital stock in accordance with the act creating the corporation.

In addition, member banks of the temporary deposit insurance fund had been assessed $40,000,000, of which $9,000,000 represented assessments of banks withdrawing from the temporary fund. During the 6-month period, January-June 1934, the Corporation earned $2,400,000 on its investments; the expenses, including those of the initial organization, estimated net loss on account of payments to insured depositors in the one bank which closed during the period, and a provision of $400,000 for estimated suspense items, amounted to $3,200,000. At the close of the period the assets of the Corporation included cash on deposit with the Treasury in the amount of $99,000,000 and investments in United States Government bonds amounting to $228,000,000.

An aggregate of 14,166 banks were members of the deposit insurance fund on June 30, 1934. The membership included 5,417 national banks, 958 State member banks, 7,556 State nonmember commercial banks, and 235 mutual savings banks. It is estimated that more than 56,000,000 accounts were insured and that the insured deposits amounted to approximately $16,000,000,000.

By June 30, 1934, 167 mutual savings banks and 21 commercial banks had signified their intention to withdraw from the insurance fund, in accordance with provisions of the law and regulations issued by the Corporation. In this connection the Corporation was prepared to make refunds amounting to about $9,000,000. Of the mutual savings banks withdrawing from the fund, 133, located in New York State, have taken such action owing to the fact that a State-wide insurance fund for mutual savings banks has been established in that State. Action was taken by these banks prior to the establishment of the separate insurance fund for mutual savings banks under the provisions of the act of June 16, 1934. Sixty-eight mutual savings banks have become members of this separate Federal fund.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE

During the fiscal year 1934 important changes were made in the internal revenue laws affecting both income and miscellaneous taxes, providing additional administrative measures for the protection of the revenue, increasing the rates of certain existing taxes and designating new objects of taxation. Discussion of revenue legislation appears on pages 16 to 19.

Collections of internal revenue, exclusive of agricultural adjustment taxes during the fiscal year 1934, in the amount of ¹$2,301,000,000, exceeded collections in the preceding fiscal year by $681,000,000. The cost of collecting each $100 of internal revenue was $1.25 in the fiscal year 1934, compared with $1.85 in 1933. Agricultural adjustment taxes amounted to ¹$371,500,000; collection, which began during the fiscal year 1934, was effected at a cost of 69 cents per $100 of such taxes collected. The relatively lower cost of collecting agricultural adjustment taxes may be ascribed, at least in part, to the fact that Internal Revenue employees on the regular rolls shared the administrative burden with employees paid from agricultural adjustment funds.

Back taxes on incomes

In the autumn of 1933 a drive was inaugurated to increase collections of back taxes on incomes, and in January 1934 a 3-day meeting of collectors, revenue agents in charge, supervisors of accounts and collections, special intelligence agents in charge, and other field officials was held in Washington. At that time an aggregate quota of $200,000,000 in back tax collections was set for the calendar year 1934.

Assessments of back taxes on incomes, exclusive of jeopardy assessments (most of which are appealed), totaled $194,000,000 during 1934, an increase of $24,400,000 over 1933. Actual collections of back taxes on incomes in the fiscal year 1934 totaled $140,600,000, an increase of $8,200,000 over the preceding year and of $30,600,000 over the amount which it was originally anticipated would be collected.

The most significant improvement effected during the year in the administration of the back tax problem was the reduction in the number of cases pending before the Board of Tax Appeals and appellate courts. The number of such cases pending was 18,080 as of June 30, 1933, and 12,474 as of June 30, 1934, a net reduction of 5,606 cases. Of the 9,582 cases closed during the year, 7,490 were settled by agreement without trial. Another significant phase of the work appears in the record of agreements secured after final notices of deficiency had been issued but before appeals had been filed. Such agreements during 1934 resulted in the assessment of $38,500,000, as compared with $10,700,000 in 1933.

Investigations, undertaken during the fiscal year 1934, of alleged sales of securities between members of families and close business associates resulted in recommendations for the assessment of additional taxes totaling more than $25,000,000. Returns of information required to be filed by brokers formed the basis for these investigations.

Satisfactory progress was made during the fiscal year in the program to determine reasonable and consistent depreciation allowances for taxpayers claiming such deductions. While it is not possible at this stage of the program to measure accurately the result in back tax collections, data compiled for the 3-month period ended July 15, 1934, indicate a total reduction in depreciation allowances that will, it is estimated, produce approximately $30,000,000 in additional taxes.

Alcohol tax administration

The twenty-first amendment to the Constitution became effective on December 5, 1933, making inoperative on that date the National Prohibition Act so far as it concerned the use of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes. The Bureau of Industrial Alcohol and the Alcoholic Beverage Unit of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, were consolidated with the Bureau of Internal Revenue by Executive order of March 10, 1934, which became effective May 10, 1934. The Alcohol Tax Unit was organized in the Bureau of Internal Revenue to assume the functions of determining assessments of taxes on spirits, wines, and beer, and to suppress unlawful transactions in these liquors. The field organizations of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol and of the Alcoholic Beverage Unit of the Department of Justice were rearranged by the Alcohol Tax Unit into 15 districts with 62 branch offices.

By the end of the fiscal year 1934, the following were under the supervision of the Alcohol Tax Unit: 174 distilleries, 188 warehouses, 805 wineries and 91 bonded wine storerooms, 725 breweries, 384 rectifying plants, 6,666 wholesale liquor dealers, 39 denaturing plants, 69 bonded dealers in and 4,298 bonded manufacturers using specially denatured alcohol, and 5,887 hospitals, laboratories, and educational institutions using tax-free alcohol.

A detailed description of the work of the Bureau of Internal Revenue will be found on pages 97 to 118 of this report.

CONSTRUCTION ACTIVITIES OF THE TREASURY

The Department's building operations during the fiscal year 1934, carried on under several different programs and appropriations, resulted in the completion and occupation during the year of 203 projects with limits of cost of $38,830,400. In addition 52 projects with a total limit of cost of $24,594,977 were placed under contract, 85 additional projects with a total limit of cost of $7,596,901 were on the market for bids, or in the final stage of preparing specifications. Plans were being prepared for 172 additional projects, at a limit of cost of $15,283,445, and land had been acquired for 5 projects to cost approximately $456,000. Sites for 151 projects, to cost approximately $19,479,465, had been selected, or were in process of selection.

In the closing days of the fiscal year, additional funds were made available for construction activities in an emergency construction fund of $65,000,000, provided by the Emergency Appropriation Act, approved June 19, 1934. Under this act, before the close of the fiscal year, 303 projects were selected by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster General from projects contemplated by previous legislation, at a total limit of cost of $60,228,700.

In selecting these lists of projects the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster General were guided by the wording of the Appropriation Act which provides that "with a view to relieving country-wide unemployment" they "shall endeavor to distribute the projects equitably throughout the country so far as may be consistent with the needs of the public service."

The acquisition of the necessary land and the preparation of plans and specifications were taken in hand immediately with a view to getting the projects on the market for construction bids and contracts awarded within the shortest practicable time.

Building program in the District of Columbia

The program for Federal buildings in the District of Columbia under the original public building program is nearing completion. The Department of Commerce, the original Internal Revenue Building, the Post Office Department Building, the extension of the City Post Office Building, the Central Heating Plant, and the Public Health Service Building are completed and occupied. The Department of Labor Building and the Interstate Commerce Commission Building, with their connecting wing, the Department of Justice Building, the Archives Building, the last of the seven wings of the extensible office building of the Department of Agriculture, and the National Institute of Health are all rapidly nearing completion. A contract under the Public Works Program has been awarded for the construction of an addition to the Internal Revenue Building and the work is under way.

Status of work under the several building programs

The status of the various programs under which the Treasury's building activities are carried on is indicated below.

The original public building program.—The Public Building Act approved May 25, 1926, and subsequent acts enlarging the regular building program made general authorizations of $702,296,794 and total specific authorizations and appropriations for buildings and land of $494,642,437. Of the $494,642,437 specifically authorized under this program as of June 30, 1934, $426,544,427 in the aggregate was obligated as of that date. Expenditures to June 30, 1934, have been made under these obligations to the amount of $396,612,829. The amount of obligations outstanding at the end of the fiscal year was $29,931,598. The unobligated portion of the funds appropriated under these acts became unavailable under the provisions of the act approved March 31, 1933, except for items necessary to the completion of projects already under contract. Of the 735 construction projects previously under contract in this program, 578 with limits of cost of $170,321,222 had been completed on June 30, 1934, leaving still under contract 157 projects with limits of cost of $272,358,457. The projects completed during the fiscal year under this program are listed in the opening paragraph of this article.

Program under the Public Works Administration.—Under the National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 16, 1933, except with respect to uncompleted projects under contracts made previous to that date, public building construction was made subject to allotment by the Administrator of Public Works. During the fiscal year 1934, allotments of Public Works Administration funds were made to the Treasury for 465 building projects, most of which were contemplated by previous legislation, at a total limit cost of $67,410,788. No projects have yet been completed under this program; the status of the projects under contract, etc., is included in the opening paragraph of this article.

Detailed information with reference to all building programs and appropriations will be found in the abstract of the report of the Procurement Division under which the building activities of the Treasury are conducted, on pages 127 to 131 of this report.

BUREAU OF CUSTOMS

Customs receipts for the fiscal year 1934 amounted to $313,434,000, an increase of $62,684,000 over the preceding year. About 40 percent of this increase, $24,000,000, represented duties on imports of distilled and fermented liquors, the importation of which was legalized by the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, effective December 5, 1933. The remaining 60 percent may be attributed to higher unit values and larger quantities of commodity importations. An even larger increase in importations was offset in part by a reduction in importations of sugar from Cuba, in anticipation of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement between Cuba and the United States. Although the agreement was not effective until after the close of the fiscal year 1934, the rate on Cuban sugar was reduced by proclamation of the President of May 9, 1934, and made effective June 8, 1934.

The value of dutiable imports entered for consumption was $605,012,000, or 44.4 percent over the preceding year, and 4.8 percent over 1932. The value of imports entered free of duty constituted 63.6 percent of the total value of all imports entered for consumption during 1934, as compared with 64.3 percent for 1933.

The value of dutiable merchandise imported for consumption, exclusive of distilled and fermented liquors, was $574,660,000, or 37.2 percent over the preceding year. In addition to these imports the value of distilled and fermented liquors released from customs custody between December 5, 1933, and June 30, 1934, was $30,352,000.

The imports of distilled spirits and wines from December 5, 1933, through June 30, 1934, the duties collected thereon and the stocks in bonded warehouses at the end of the fiscal year were as follows:

	Distilled spirits (imports and stocks in proof gallons)	Wines (imports and stocks in wine gallons)

NONFISCAL ACTIVITIES

Coast Guard

During the year the Coast Guard continued to perform its usual duties, which have close relation both to the maritime interests and general public interests. In the main, its activities included the International Ice Patrol of the trans-Atlantic steamship lanes, in the vicinity of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, and associated ice-observation and oceanographic cruises and surveys; patrol of the coast—including aircraft patrol—to aid vessels and persons in distress; patrol of the waters of the North Pacific Ocean, Bering Sea, and southeastern Alaska in the enforcement of laws for the protection of the fur seal and sea otter, and of game, the fisheries, and fur-bearing animals of Alaska, and of other laws in Alaska; supervision over the anchorage and movements of vessels at ports and other places; enforcement of the customs, navigation, and motor boat laws; prevention of the smuggling of liquor and other contraband; removal of derelicts and other obstructions to navigation from the paths of marine commerce; and the preservation of life and property at sea and along the coasts. A noteworthy record was achieved during the year by the service forces in the saving of life—5,597 persons were saved or rescued from peril.

The following is a summary of the principal operations of the Coast Guard which are susceptible of statistical presentation:

A more detailed account of these and other operations of the Coast Guard will be found on pages 76 to 83 of this report.

Public Health Service

The unusual features of the work of the Public Health Service during the year occurred in connection with the outbreak of three major epidemics, amoebic dysentery in Chicago, epidemic encephalitis in St. Louis, and poliomyelitis in California. The Public Health Service cooperated with State and local authorities in these epidemics by the institution of careful epidemiological and laboratory studies.

The reservations of the United States with reference to the International Sanitary Convention for Aerial Navigation were accepted by all prior signatory governments, and the convention was signed on behalf of the United States by the American Minister at The Hague on April 6, 1934. Ratification of the convention by the 23 countries now signatory is pending.

The regulations governing the importation of birds of the parrot family into ports of the United States were revised further to safeguard this country. Quarantine officers of the United States were authorized to accept, under certain conditions, foreign certificates of deratization or deratization exemption not visaed by the American consular officers at the ports of issuance; under the Philippine Islands Independence Act, medical officers of the Public Health Service on duty in Manila were authorized to perform the medical examinations of citizens of the Philippine Islands who are applicants for immigration visas under the Philippine quota, and to make the medical examinations required in connection with the issuance of workers' permits to Filipino laborers destined for Hawaii; and instructions were issued to officers of the Public Health Service on duty at quarantine stations on the Mexican border to pass without formal examination Mexican citizens making temporary visits and presenting identification cards issued by American consular officers in the interior of Mexico.

In connection with the civil works program the Public Health Service assisted 14 States with malaria-control drainage projects, aided in the construction of more than 225,000 sanitary outdoor toilets for rural homes in 22 States, and assisted States in the sealing of abandoned mines to remove acid wastes from streams, and in conducting a rat-flea survey in connection with typhus fever control.

The research activities were for the most part a continuation of the investigations begun during the preceding fiscal year and included such problems as cancer, heart disease, leprosy, nutrition, spotted fever, psittacosis, typhus fever, and industrial hygiene.

In addition to cooperating with the State and local health departments in the control of venereal diseases, the Public Health Service participated in important studies in the clinical aspects of syphilis. At the request of the medical director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, a comprehensive program for the control of venereal diseases was submitted and the suggested measures were put into effect in the Norris area.

Administrative duties connected with the establishment of the United States Narcotic Farms, the supervision and furnishing of medical, psychiatric, and technical services for the Federal penal and correctional institutions, and studies dealing with the country's medical and scientific needs for narcotic drugs and with the medico-social problems of drug addiction were continued.

American merchant seamen and other legal beneficiaries continued to receive medical care in 26 marine hospitals and 183 contract hospitals in 154 ports of the United States and the possessions; seamen remain the most numerous class of beneficiaries. The customary medical assistance was given other Government agencies.

The activities of the Public Health Service are more fully presented on pages 139 to 147 of this report.

Bureau of Narcotics

In pursuing its policy of special enforcement against major narcotic law violators, the Bureau of Narcotics has made continued progress in eliminating the sources of supply of illicit narcotic drugs. Through the arrangement with foreign countries for the direct international exchange of information relative to illicit narcotic dealers and their shipments, and with the cooperation of the Bureau of Customs, the supply of narcotics heretofore available to the domestic illicit traffic from smuggled sources has been substantially decreased. Upon analysis of narcotic drugs seized in illicit traffic, particularly heroin, adulteration up to 90 percent to meet market demand has been noted. Another factor which aided in decreasing smuggling supplies at the place of foreign manufacture was the Convention for Limiting the Manufacture and Regulating the Distribution of Narcotic Drugs, first ratified by the United States March 31, 1932, subsequently ratified or acceded to by 46 other governments, and valid and effective as an international agreement since July 9, 1933. By July 1, 1934, the convention had been in effect nearly a year.

Decreased smuggling supplies have forced peddlers and addicts to tap legitimate domestic medical supply channels, evidenced by robberies of narcotic stocks as reported by wholesale and retail drug stores and by practitioners, by forgery or false execution of narcotic prescriptions, and by improper prescribing or dispensing of narcotics by a few practitioners. These methods of diversion of narcotics have received enforcement attention. The assistance of State and municipal enforcement agencies has been solicited to supplement the activity of Federal narcotic officers. Efforts are being made to give greater effect to local cooperation by causing the enactment throughout the States generally of the uniform State narcotic law, approved nearly 2 years ago by the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws and by the American Bar Association. During the fiscal year 1934 this act was adopted with little or no amendment in four States—Kentucky, Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Virginia. This makes a total of eight States which have adopted this model legislation. The four other States which had previously adopted the amendment are Florida, Nevada, New York, and New Jersey.

A more complete account of the activities of the Bureau will be found on pages 123 to 125 of this report.

ORGANIZATION CHANGES

A number of important changes in the organization of the Treasury Department were made during the fiscal year 1934. On November 20, 1933, by Treasury Department order, the following offices were created: (1) Assistant to the Secretary, in charge of all matters of public relations; (2) General Counsel to the Secretary, in charge of all legal matters; and (3) Administrative Assistant to the Secretary, in charge of all administrative matters including personnel and the departmental budget. The Revenue Act of 1934, approved May 10, 1934, established the General Counsel as the chief law officer of the Department with the title of General Counsel for the Department of the Treasury, and abolished the offices of General Counsel and Assistant General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and of Solicitor and Assistant Solicitor of the Treasury. A Legal Division was established on June 20, 1934, by order of the Secretary of the Treasury and was placed under the direct supervision and control of the General Counsel. To the Administrative Assistant to the Secretary, by Treasury Department order dated December 26, 1933, was assigned the supervision of the office of the Chief Clerk of the Department, which previously had reported to the Under Secretary, and of the Divisions of Appointments and of Supply, which previously had reported to an Assistant Secretary.

By order of the Secretary, pursuant to Executive orders of June 10 and July 27, 1933, there was established on October 10, 1933, a Procurement Division, reporting directly to the Secretary and having charge of the policies and methods of procurement, warehousing, and distribution of all property, equipment, and supplies. There were transferred to this Division the functions of specified Government agencies, including those of the Office of the Supervising Architect and the General Supply Committee of the Treasury Department, which latter activities formerly reported to an Assistant Secretary. Pursuant to the Executive order of June 10, 1933, there was also organized on December 16, 1933, a Division of Disbursement, which by order of the Secretary of the Treasury was assigned to the general supervision of the Commissioner of Accounts and Deposits.

Following the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution, a number of changes were made in the organization of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol. On December 6, 1933, the Bureau was consolidated under the Bureau of Internal Revenue. By Executive order, the President on March 10, 1934, abolished the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol and the Office of Commissioner of Industrial Alcohol and transferred the functions, duties, and personnel of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. By the same Executive order, the functions and personnel of the Alcohol Beverage Unit of the Division of Investigation of the Department of Justice, except those employed in the Taxes and Penalty Section of that Unit, were transferred to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. This action was effective 60 days thereafter, namely, May 10, 1934. On May 10, 1934, Treasury Decision 4432 established in the Bureau of Internal Revenue a unit designated as the Alcohol Tax Unit, to which was assigned all of the functions and duties theretofore performed by the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol and those transferred from the Department of Justice.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Secret Service Division were ordered to report directly to the Secretary of the Treasury instead of to the Fiscal Assistant Secretary.

The various Executive and Treasury orders affecting the organization of the Treasury are shown in exhibit 45 on page 258 of this report.

Attention is invited to the attached reports of other bureaus and divisions of the Treasury Department and to the exhibits and tables accompanying the report on the finances.

HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.,
Secretary of the Treasury.

ADMINISTRATIVE REPORTS OF BUREAUS AND DIVISIONS

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF ACCOUNTS AND DEPOSITS

Daily Statement of the United States Treasury

The Treasury makes available in the Daily Statement of the United States Treasury information with respect to the receipts and expenditures of the Government, the condition of the Treasury, and the public debt. In view of the special interest in the status of the funds provided by the Congress for carrying out the recovery program, provision was made to include in the Daily Statement of the United States Treasury a statement showing the sources of funds of the emergency organizations (i. e., from specific appropriations, statutory or executive allotments from lump-sum appropriations, or through allocations from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation), the expenditures therefrom, and the current unexpended balances.¹ A copy of the statement showing the status of funds for carrying out the recovery program is shown on page 14 of this report.

Combined statement of assets and liabilities of governmental corporations and credit agencies

There is available as of June 30, 1934,² a combined statement of assets and liabilities of governmental corporations and credit agencies of the United States, compiled from reports received from the organizations concerned. This statement appears on page 381 of this report.

Statement of the Public Debt of the United States

The Statement of the Public Debt of the United States, issued at the end of each month, contains a detailed classification of the obligations constituting the gross debt of the United States, together with certain detailed information concerning the outstanding securities representing the interest-bearing debt. Since June 1920 the reverse side of the Statement of the Public Debt has included a statement of the face amount of securities owned by the United States Government.

Effective June 30, 1934, several important changes were made in the form of the public debt statement for the purpose of making additional information conveniently available. The detailed information relative to the outstanding interest-bearing issues has been extended to include a condensed statement of the tax exemption features of the various issues and of their receivability in payment of certain taxes and their circulation privileges. This information appears in the footnotes to the table beginning on page 340 of this report.

Contingent liabilities of the United States.—The public debt represents a direct obligation of the United States, but there are classes of indirect obligations of the United States which are in the nature of contingent liabilities. The United States has assumed responsibility for the payment of such obligations, but they are, in the first instance, secured by specific collateral assets. For example, under the act of Congress approved June 25, 1910, as amended, the "faith of the United States is solemnly pledged to the payment of the deposits made in Postal Savings depository offices." These funds when received in the Postal Savings System are authorized to be redeposited in banks throughout the United States, which pledge collateral to secure such funds deposited with them. To the extent that such funds are not deposited in banks or represented by cash in possession of the Postal Savings System, they are invested in obligations of the United States.

Likewise, the United States guarantees as to "principal and interest" bonds issued by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation. These bonds are backed by mortgages on homes and farms acquired by these organizations at conservatively appraised values and under safeguards and limitations prescribed by statute. An additional margin of security is provided to the extent of the capital stock of these corporations which has been subscribed for and paid in by the United States.

No comprehensive tabulation of contingent liabilities of the United States has previously been published by the Treasury. Effective June 30, 1934, there is included with the Statement of the Public Debt of the United States a monthly statement of contingent liabilities of the United States, a copy of which appears on page 373.

Treasury accounting system

In order to provide a more effective and coordinated control of the accounting in the various bureaus, divisions, and offices of the Treasury Department, the Secretary, on June 30, 1934, issued Department Circular No. 514, providing that thereafter no installation of new accounting forms, systems, and procedures and no change in existing accounting forms, systems, and procedures shall be made in the Treasury Department without express approval of the Secretary of the Treasury or of an officer of the Department duly authorized to act for the Secretary, and also providing that all recommendations with respect thereto, before being acted upon by the Secretary of the Treasury or by his duly authorized representative, shall be submitted to the Office of the Commissioner of Accounts and Deposits for investigation and report. A copy of this circular appears as exhibit 42 on page 256.

Public No. 151, Seventy-third Congress, approved by the President on April 13, 1934, provides that it shall be unlawful within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, for any person to purchase or sell bonds, securities, or other obligations of any foreign government or political subdivision thereof or any organization or association acting for or on behalf of a foreign government or political subdivision thereof, issued after the passage of this act, or to make any loan to such foreign government, political subdivision, organization, or association, except a renewal or adjustment of existing indebtedness while such government, political subdivision, organization, or association, is in default in the payment of its obligations, or any part thereof, to the Government of the United States. The text of this act appears as exhibit 34 on page 238. An opinion of the Attorney General dated May 5, 1934, requested by the Secretary of State, upon various questions arising under the act will be found in exhibit 35 on page 238 of this report.

On September 6, 1934, the Trustees of the Austrian Guaranteed Loan of 1923-43 notified the Austrian Government that the objection raised in their letter of November 21, 1933, to the payments due by Austria under the relief credit agreements on January 1, 1934, must be considered as covering all payments due by Austria under relief credit agreements, including the annuities due January 1, 1934, covering payments postponed under the so-called Hoover moratorium. In view of this action by the Trustees, in recently clarifying their notice of November 21, 1933, the annuity of $34,767.23, due January 1, 1934, from Austria under the agreement of September 14, 1932, which had previously been treated by the Treasury as a payment due and unpaid, has been postponed, subject to repayment beginning January 1, 1944, in accordance with the provisions of the agreements of May 8, 1930, and September 14, 1932, between Austria and the United States.

Receipts from Germany

During the fiscal year 1934 the United States received no payments from the Government of Germany under the debt-funding agreement of June 23, 1930, covering the costs of the American Army of Occupation and the awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, other than a semiannual payment of interest due on principal installments postponed under the provisions of that agreement.

Army costs.—Payments aggregating 18,600,000 reichsmarks due during the fiscal year on account of the costs of the Army of Occupation were postponed under the provisions of the debt-funding agreement. In accordance with the provisions of the agreement such postponed payments bear interest at the rate of 3½ percent per annum. On September 30, 1933, interest in the amount of 458,562.50 reichsmarks, due on principal installments previously postponed, was paid in reichsmarks into an account in Germany, and was not paid to the United States in dollars, as required by the terms of the debt agreement. The interest due on March 31, 1934, on account of principal installments previously postponed was paid by Germany in the sum of 627,125 reichsmarks, or $249,800.84.

There has been no change in the Army cost account from that shown in the statement appearing on page 39 of the Annual Report for 1932.

Mixed claims, United States and Germany.—The payment of 20,400,000 reichsmarks, due on September 30, 1933, from the Government of Germany on account of mixed claim awards, was postponed under the provisions of the debt agreement of June 23, 1930. The amount postponed bears interest at the rate of 5 percent per annum, payable semiannually. Germany paid the sum of 2,040,000 reichsmarks, representing the interest due September 30, 1933, on amounts previously postponed on this account into an account in Germany, but this payment was not paid to the United States in dollars, as required by the debt agreement.

On March 31, 1934, Germany paid the sum of 2,550,000 reichsmarks, or $1,015,733.92, representing the interest due on that date on payments aggregating 102,000,000 reichsmarks previously postponed under the provisions of the debt agreement. The payments aggregating 102,000,000 reichsmarks, which were previously postponed, became due on March 31, 1934, and there also matured on that date a payment of 20,400,000 reichsmarks. These principal sums were not paid by the Government of Germany.

Annuities under moratorium agreement.—The first semiannual installment of the annuity under the moratorium agreement with the Government of Germany dated May 26, 1932, was due on September 30, 1933, in the amount of 1,529,049.45 reichsmarks. This amount was paid in reichsmarks into an account in Germany and was not paid to the United States in dollars, as required by the moratorium agreement. The second semiannual installment of the annuity due on March 31, 1934, in the amount of 1,529,049.45 reichsmarks, was not paid by Germany.

Treasury administration of alien and mixed claims

The Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928 authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to make payments on account of (1) awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, for claims of American nationals against the Government of Germany; (2) awards of the War Claims Arbitrer for claims of German, Austrian, and Hungarian nationals against the Government of the United States; and (3) awards of the Tripartite Claims Commission for claims of American nationals against the Governments of Austria and Hungary.

The time within which claimants receiving awards from the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, and the Tripartite Claims Commission, United States, Austria, and Hungary, could file application expired on March 10, 1934. Congress, however, by act of June 18, 1934 (Public Res. No. 38, 73d Cong.), extended the time within which such applications could be filed for a period of an additional two years from March 10, 1934. A copy of the act will be found as exhibit 38, page 253 of this report.

The joint resolution approved June 27, 1934, to amend the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, as amended (Public Res. No. 53, 73d Cong.), which will be found as exhibit 39 on page 253 of this report, requires the postponement of (a) further payments to German nationals from the German special deposit account established under section 4 of the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, on account of awards made by the War Claims Arbitrer for ships, patents, and a radio station seized and used by this Government during the war; and (b) further return of property belonging to German nationals held by the Alien Property Bureau, Department of Justice, while Germany is in arrears on its payments on claims of American nationals under the debt agreement of June 23, 1930. The position of the United States with respect to the enactment of this joint resolution is presented in Senate Report No. 1376, submitted by the Committee on Finance after its consideration of the joint resolution. Senate Report No. 1376 appears as exhibit 37 on page 247.

Mixed Claims Commission: Claims against Germany.—The Treasury had made payments up to September 30, 1934, in the aggregate amount of $135,377,880.29 on account of awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, from which there has been deducted $676,889.99, representing one-half of 1 percent authorized by the Settlement of War Claims Act, making net payments to claimants of $134,700,990.30. Of the deductions so made, $650,025.54 have been covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts or reserved for such purpose in accordance with the act as reimbursement to the United States for expenses incurred, and $26,864.45 has been paid to the German Government or reserved for payments to that Government in accordance with the agreement of December 31, 1928, and the act of Congress approved June 21, 1930, for defraying such expenses as were incurred by that Government in connection with the adjudication of the late claims.

The following summary shows by classes, number, and amount of awards certified to the Treasury by the Secretary of State, the amount paid on account, and the balance due as of September 30, 1934:

War Claims Arbiter.—Under the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928 it was the duty of the War Claims Arbiter, within certain limitations, to hear the claims of the German, Austrian, and Hungarian nationals and to determine the fair compensation to be paid by the United States for ships seized, patents sold or used by the United States, and a radio station sold to the United States.

War Claims Arbiter: Claims of German nationals.—Except for the accrual of an additional year's interest, there has been practically no change in the status of the awards of the War Claims Arbiter on account of claims of German nationals since September 30, 1933, as shown by the table on page 49 of the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the fiscal year 1933.

War Claims Arbiter: Claims of Austrian and Hungarian nationals.—The total awards of the War Claims Arbiter to Austrian nationals amounted to the sum of $663,740, together with $248,948 as interest at the rate of 5 percent per annum from July 2, 1921, to December 31, 1928, or a total of $912,688. The Treasury had made payments on account of these awards as of June 30, 1934, in the amount of $912,688, together with interest since December 31, 1928, at the rate of 5 percent per annum in the amount of $149,549.

The awards made by the Arbiter to Hungarian nationals in the sum of $39,125, together with interest amounting to $14,675 at the rate of 5 percent per annum from July 2, 1921, to December 31, 1928, or a total of $53,800, have been paid with the exception of three awards amounting to $4,675.24, together with interest at the rate of 5 percent from December 31, 1928.

The net increase in loans on adjusted service certificates during the year amounted to $33,346,218.45.

Monthly reports are made by the Treasury to the Veterans' Administration of all securities in the fund and the principal cost thereof as the result of investments made by the Secretary of the Treasury, and periodic verifications of the security holdings are made through reports rendered to the Administrator by the safe-keeping offices. Special funds

Colorado River Dam fund.—This fund was established under the act of December 21, 1928, to provide for the construction of works commonly referred to as the Boulder Canyon project. All revenues received in carrying out the provisions of the act are payable into the fund. Expenditures are made out of the fund under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to advance to the fund, from time to time, within the appropriations therefor, such amounts as the Secretary of the Interior deems necessary for carrying out the provisions of the act, except that the aggregate amount of such advances shall not exceed the sum of $165,000,000. Of this amount, $25,000,000 shall be allocated to flood control, and shall be repaid to the United States out of 62½ percent of revenues, if any, in excess of the amount necessary to meet periodical payments during the period of amortization, as provided in section 4 of the act. If the $25,000,000 is not repaid in full during the period of amortization, then 62½ percent of all net revenues shall be applied to payment of the remainder.

The Secretary of the Treasury is required to charge the fund, as of June 30 each year, with such amount as may be necessary for the payment of interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum accrued during the year upon the amounts advanced from the General Treasury and remaining unpaid, except that if the fund is insufficient to meet the payment of interest the Secretary of the Treasury may, in his discretion, defer any part of such payment, and the amount so deferred shall bear interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum until paid. Under an opinion of the Attorney General of the United States, dated December 26, 1929, funds advanced from the General Treasury to the Colorado River Dam fund for construction costs of the all-American canal are not subject to the interest charge. To date, however, no funds have been advanced to the fund on account of the all-American canal.

On June 30, 1934, the liability of the Colorado River Dam fund to the General Fund of the Treasury amounted to $61,508,529.64 representing advances in the sum of $58,058,561.96 and interest in the amount of $3,449,967.68. Upon recommendation of the Secretary of the Interior and in accordance with the authority contained in section 2 (d) of the act of December 21, 1928, the Secretary of the Treasury deferred for one year the payment of the total amount of interest due on June 30, 1934, of $3,449,967.68.

The status of the fund as of June 30, 1934, was as follows:

Advances to reclamation fund.—Under the act of Congress approved June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), there was established in the Treasury a special fund known as the "reclamation fund", representing receipts from the sale of public lands in certain States and Territories to be used for the construction of irrigation works for the reclamation of arid lands. Pursuant to the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 835), the Secretary of the Treasury advanced to the reclamation fund from the General Fund of the Treasury $20,000,000. The act of June 12, 1917 (40 Stat. 149), provides for the reimbursement of the money so advanced through the transfer of $1,000,000 annually from the reclamation fund to the General Fund of the Treasury beginning July 1, 1920, and continuing until full reimbursement is made. Beginning with the fiscal year 1921 there has been returned to the General Fund $1,000,000 annually, making a total of $10,000,000 for the 10 years ended with the fiscal year 1930. The Deficiency Act of February 6, 1931, provided for a suspension of the annual payments for a period of two years and the act of April 1, 1932, as amended by the act of March 3, 1933, provided a further extension until the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1936.

The Deficiency Act of March 4, 1931, authorized an additional advance to the reclamation fund from the General Fund of $5,000,000 all of which was advanced between April 28, 1931, and November 30, 1931.

Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants

The Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants, in the name of the Secretary of the Treasury, issues all warrants on the Treasurer of the United States, and under section 10 of the act of July 31, 1894 (U. S. C., title 5, sec. 255), keeps the official accounts relating to the receipt, appropriation, and expenditure of the public money, covering all departments and establishments of the Government. Other duties of the Division include the preparation of the annual digest of appropriations and the combined statement of receipts and expenditures, and the handling of duplicate checks, outstanding liability claims, budget matters, special deposit accounts, etc. The Division also maintains budgetary accounts relating to the apportionment and obligation of public funds covering all executive departments and independent establishments.

Statements of the receipts and expenditures of the Government for the fiscal year 1934, compiled by this Division, are shown as tables 1 and 2, pages 276 to 293 of this report.

Installments for 1931-36 suspended.

Division of Deposits

The Division of Deposits is charged with the administration of matters pertaining to the designation and supervision of Government depositaries and the deposit of Government funds in such depositaries. The regulations of the Treasury governing the deposit of public funds in depositaries are incorporated in Department Circulars Nos. 176 and 92.

The following statement shows the number and classes of depositaries maintained by the Treasury and the Government deposits held by such depositaries on June 30, 1934:

² Includes 2,018 national banks and 1,422 State banks and trust companies, of which 2,066 held deposits on June 30, 1934.

Several factors contributed toward unusual activity in the Treasury's depositary system during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934, principally the rapid progress made by the Comptroller of the Currency in the reopening of unlicensed banks under old or new charters, or absorption by going banks, the establishment of new bureaus and agencies of the Government, requiring additional depositary facilities, and the increased number of special depositaries which were qualified to make payment by credit for Government securities purchased under the terms of Department Circular No. 92. On March 16, 1933, approximately one-third of the regular depositaries were unlicensed. At the end of June 1934, all cases, with a few exceptions, had been adjusted. During the fiscal year 1934, approximately 1,300 changes and adjustments were effected within the depositary system, including new designations; some were necessary to meet new or changed governmental requirements and others resulted from reorganization of depositaries under new charters, the cancelation of designations in cases involving the curtailment or termination of governmental activities in certain localities, or the liquidation of existing depositaries, and other adjustments involving changes in the balances carried with general or limited depositaries. Changes in the collateral security accounts of depositary banks were abnormal, chiefly as the result of the Treasury's call for redemption of 4¼ percent Fourth Liberty Loan bonds on October 15, 1933, and April 15, 1934, and the issuance of new Government securities and of securities guaranteed by the Government, either as to interest or principal, or both, all of which were made eligible as collateral security for Government deposits supervised by the Secretary of the Treasury. (Amendments to Department Circulars Nos. 92 and 176, in this connection, will be found as exhibits 40 and 41 on pp. 255 and 256.)

The adjustment of depositary accounts in banks closed for liquidation during the past two years has proceeded in orderly fashion and was substantially completed during the past fiscal year. To date, the United States has not sustained any losses through the failure of depositary banks.

As indicated on page 70 of the annual report for the fiscal year 1933, the collection of interest upon Government deposits carried with banks by the Secretary of the Treasury, terminated by June 30, 1933, except in the case of certain special deposits. The total of all interest received by the Treasury to June 30, 1934, from all depositaries designated by the Secretary of the Treasury, including past-due interest accrued on deposits to June 30, 1933, is $112,702,126.59, according to the latest revised figures.

Section of Surety Bonds

On June 30, 1934, there were 62 domestic companies holding certificates of authority from the Secretary of the Treasury under the act of Congress approved August 13, 1894, as amended by the act of Congress approved March 23, 1910, qualifying them as sole sureties on recognizances, stipulations, bonds, and undertakings permitted or required by the laws of the United States, to be given with one or more sureties. There were also 2 domestic companies and 5 branches of foreign companies holding certificates of authority authorizing them to act only as reinsurers on bonds in favor of the United States. Changes in the outstanding certificates of authority during the period ended June 30, 1934, are indicated in the following table:

In accordance with the practice of the Treasury, a number of departmental circulars to the heads of departments and independent establishments of the Government, bond-approving officers, and others concerned, have been issued during the past year to advise such officials of the status of the bonds in favor of the United States executed by the companies whose certificates of authority were terminated. These circulars are numbered as follows: 492, 493, 495, 496, 497, 510, and 511.

Division of Disbursement

The Division of Disbursement was organized December 16, 1933, under the provisions of section 4 of Executive Order No. 6166, which transferred the function of disbursement of moneys of the United States exercised by any agency of the executive branch of the Government to the Division of Disbursement of the Treasury Department. The office of the Disbursing Clerk of the Treasury Department was transferred on December 16, 1933, and one week later the disbursing functions of eight independent establishments were likewise transferred. At various times up to June 1, 1934, this function was transferred from each of the departments and independent establishments located in Washington, except the Post Office Department, the Panama Canal, and that portion of the War and Navy Departments relating to national defense.

The personnel, supplies, equipment, and appropriations which were available for the disbursing work performed by these various departments and establishments were transferred to the Division of Disbursement as provided by the Executive order. The Division has been furnished quarters in the Treasury Annex, with an assignment of space in the old Post Office Building, for making rental and benefit payments for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and on June 30, 1934, had a force of approximately 700 employees. As the consolidation has been effected, the various accounts have been merged when possible without conflicting with established accounting procedures.¹

In March 1934, at the request of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, the Division of Disbursement established an office at Oklahoma City, Okla., for the purpose of disbursing relief administration funds in that State. About a month later offices at Boston, Mass., and Bismarck, N. Dak., were established for the same purpose.

During the month of June, field offices were established at Minneapolis, Kansas City, and San Francisco for the purpose of making disbursements in connection with emergency purchases of livestock and seed under the drought relief program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. It is anticipated that additional offices in other parts of the country will be established in the near future for the same purpose.

At various times assistant disbursing officers of the Division have been sent to various localities in order to make payments for land purchased for slum eradication projects of the Public Works Administration.

The Division has been requested by several of the Government-owned corporations to perform the disbursing services for those organizations, and as new agencies of the Government have been created, the Division has assumed the function of disbursement for those agencies. Among the largest agencies for which the function of disbursement has been assumed are the Railway Labor Retirement Board and the Federal Housing Administration.

On June 30, 1934, the Division of Disbursement was issuing in Washington an average of approximately 75,000 checks per day in payment of pay rolls and vouchers. The various field offices were issuing an average of approximately 50,000 checks per day, and in addition, the offices disbursing emergency relief funds were making several thousand payments in cash each week for the relief of transients.

DIVISION OF APPOINTMENTS

Number of employees

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934, there was a net increase of 2,310 in the number of employees in the Treasury Department in Washington. The principal increases occurred in the Office of the Treasurer, due to the large number of checks issued by the Civil Works Administration, and in the Division of Loans and Currency, because of the activities in connection with the calling of the Fourth Liberty Loan and the handling of bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation. The principal decrease was in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

In the field service the force was reduced from 48,922 on June 30, 1933, to 45,245 on June 30, 1934, a net decrease of 3,677. The principal decrease was caused by the transfer of the Custodian Service to the Post Office Department. Considerable increases occurred in the Public Health Service, due to the activities in connection with the Civil Works Administration program, and in the Bureau of Internal Revenue, caused by various new tax laws.

The number of employees in the departmental service of the Treasury, classified according to bureaus and offices, at the end of each month from June 30, 1933, to June 30, 1934, is shown in table 48, page 402, of this report. A comparison of the number of employees in the departmental and field services of the Treasury on June 30, 1933, and June 30, 1934, is contained in table 49, page 403.

Retirement of employees

During the fiscal year 1934, 318 persons were retired from the departmental service of the Treasury Department, 23 of whom were retired at their own option. During the same period 290 persons were retired from the field services, 18 at their own option. As of June 30, 1934, 10 persons above the retirement age were retained in the departmental service of the Treasury and 1 in the field service, under authority of the President in accordance with the provisions of section 204 of the Economy Act. Up to June 30, 1934, 36 employees of the Treasury Department in Washington, and 177 employees of the field services, who have served 30 years or more, and whose services were discontinued on account of necessary reduction of force on or since June 30, 1933, have been granted annuities under the provisions of section 8 (a) of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of June 16, 1933.

Table 50, page 404, shows the number of persons retired and the number retained in the departmental and field services of the Treasury under the provisions of the Civil Service Retirement Act, as amended, and of section 204 of the Economy Act of June 30, 1932, and the number granted annuities under the provisions of section 8 (a) of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of June 16, 1933.

BUDGET AND IMPROVEMENT COMMITTEE

The Budget and Improvement Committee is responsible, under the direction of the budget officer, for the preparation and examination of Treasury estimates of appropriations and for the improvement of administrative methods and procedure within the Treasury Department. In addition to examining all estimates, the committee makes inquiries as to the reserves which may be set up under the various appropriations and considers other matters affecting expenditures of the Department.

Subsequent to the submission of the regular estimates of appropriations for the fiscal year 1935, supplemental and deficiency estimates aggregating $98,831,462 were received. After examination by the budget officer, with the assistance of the committee, these estimates were reduced to $98,754,441 and submitted to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget.

In pursuance of the President's intention to effect substantial reductions in all expenditures, the Director of the Bureau of the Budget indicated that the cash withdrawals from the Treasury during the fiscal year 1934 on account of appropriations for the Treasury Department, other than for interest on and retirement of the public debt, should not exceed amounts under particular appropriations which were determined in general by taking as a base for each the amount appropriated for 1934, or the actual expenditures for 1932, whichever was less; and, after deducting the amount of the 15 per cent reduction in compensation of all officers and employees, making a further reduction equal to 10 percent of the remainder. The amounts so allocated were modified from time to time in accordance with changed conditions during the year and particularly because of the restoration of 5 percent of the compensation effective February 1, 1934. The revised total of the allocations for cash withdrawals was $252,884,936 of which $246,764,423 was actually withdrawn from the Treasury, leaving a saving of $6,120,513.

For the fiscal year 1935 the Director of the Bureau of the Budget has approved $182,817,841 for expenditure from appropriations, with reserves of $2,631,670 for savings.

For the fiscal year 1936 heads of bureaus and offices submitted estimates for annual and permanent and indefinite appropriations aggregating $1,635,269,793. After the examination by the Budget and Improvement Committee, items aggregating $21,721,720 were disapproved in estimates for annual appropriations. There was approved and submitted to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget for annual appropriations, $180,084,953 (which amount included $16,801,550 of appropriations made in lieu of permanent and indefinite appropriations, which were repealed by the Permanent Appropriations Repeal Act 1934, approved June 26, 1934); for permanent and indefinite appropriations and special funds, $2,491,420; trust funds, $15,535,300; interest on the public debt, $854,000,000; and public debt retirements chargeable against ordinary receipts, $561,434,000; making a grand total of $1,613,545,673.

Protection to navigation

International service of ice observation and ice patrol.—Two cutters and one 125-foot patrol boat were detailed to carry on this service for the season of 1934. Since vessels using the Canadian steamship lanes had reported numerous icebergs just north of latitude 45°, of which many were in positions for a probable drift to the southward, the 125-foot patrol boat was detailed in April 1934 to make a survey of ice conditions in the regions of the Grand Banks. The ice patrol was inaugurated on April 17, and from that date to June 29, 1934, two cutters made alternate cruises of about 15 days each in the ice regions. Four times each day ice information was broadcast to shipping, and once each day the Hydrographic Office of the Navy was furnished the latest ice information. Surface sea temperatures were collected for use in the preparation of surface isotherm charts which were valuable in predicting the drift of icebergs. The 125-foot patrol boat was employed exclusively in oceanographic work. This vessel made three oceanographic cruises and dynamic surveys of the patrol area, and from these data current charts were prepared for use in determining the probable set and drift of the ice. During the first 7 months of 1934 approximately 575 different icebergs were reported south of latitude 48°, which number is considerably greater than the yearly average of 377. While the ice season as a whole was heavier than usual, the menace to the North Atlantic steamship lanes, United States tracks, was considerably less than during years of average ice conditions. The patrol was discontinued on June 29, 1934.

Winter patrol.—The President, on November 6, 1933, on the recommendation of the Secretary of the Treasury, designated 12 cutters to perform the customary special winter cruising along the coast for the season 1933-34 to aid vessels in distress. One of the cutters was withdrawn and ordered to the Coast Guard depot for overhauling and repairs. These cutters cruised 36,606 miles, afforded assistance to 45 vessels, whose value, including cargoes, amounted to $3,763,832. There were 480 persons on board the vessels assisted. Sixty-three vessels were boarded in the interest of United States laws.

Anchorage and movements of vessels.—Supervision was continued over the anchorage and movements of vessels at ports and in localities where Federal regulations have been promulgated in the interest of safe navigation and the free and orderly movement of marine traffic in congested areas. At the larger ports this duty has been performed by officers designated as captains of the port, and enforcement of the regulations in other localities has been carried out through periodic inspections by Coast Guard vessels and by special assignments.

Enforcement of customs and other laws

The duties of the Coast Guard in connection with the enforcement of the customs, navigation, and motor-boat laws of the United States were continued as was also the customary assignment of Coast Guard vessels at the principal ports to assist the customs authorities in boarding incoming vessels, and in the conduct of other customs duties. Assistance was also afforded to other branches of the Government in the enforcement of Federal laws.

Liquor smuggling.—Smuggling of liquor into the United States from the sea changed considerably as a result of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment on December 5, 1933. As a result of reduced appropriations a large number of units were put out of commission and the Coast Guard was not in a position to resume promptly effective antismuggling measures. Immediately following repeal there was a sharp decline in smuggling on all coasts, but the end of the fiscal year 1934 witnessed a considerable renewal of smuggling activities. At that time smuggling was of moderate extent off the Atlantic coast north of the Chesapeake Capes, of considerable volume in the Carolinas and Georgia, and heavy in Florida and along the coast of the Gulf of Mexico. On the Pacific coast smuggling in bulk has almost terminated. A serious problem is the control of smuggling in aircraft which fly from the Bahamas into Florida, and from Mexico into the United States. Night flights and night landings are known to have been made, and destinations far inland are said to be common. A construction program of aircraft has been undertaken in an endeavor to control this form of smuggling.

Patrol in northern waters.—The regular annual patrol of the waters of the North Pacific Ocean, Bering Sea, and southeastern Alaska was conducted for the season of 1933 by six Coast Guard cutters and one 125-foot patrol boat. The vessels cruised over 51,000 miles, assisted 16 vessels, boarded 61 vessels, afforded medical and dental aid to 1,886 persons, and transported 317 persons.

The patrol for the season of 1934, which was in progress at the close of the fiscal year, is being performed by seven cutters and two 125-foot patrol boats.

Northern Pacific halibut fishery.—The Coast Guard annually performs for the Bureau of Fisheries, Department of Commerce, the duty of patrolling the waters in the interest of law enforcement with respect to halibut fishing. The work was carried on by one cutter from October 16 to 26, 1933, and March 3 to 21, 1934.

Communications

Telephone and telegraph lines and cables.—The Coast Guard owns and operates a coastal communication system consisting of telephone and telegraph lines of approximately 1,488 miles of pole line, 2,712 miles of open wire aerial circuits, 46 miles of aerial and underground cables, and 607 miles of submarine cable. In addition to the routine overhauling and repairing of the telephone and telegraph lines, major projects were undertaken involving the replacement of submarine cable at various places on the coasts. Other improvements were made in the construction, rebuilding, and extension of service lines, and the installation of cables connected with new projects.

The Coast Guard continued its scientific study and investigation of telephone transmission problems, with the result that considerable progress has been made.

Radio.—The extended use of aircraft in the Coast Guard necessitated the development of radio equipment to meet the special needs of the service. Material progress has been made in the matter of the elimination of electrical induction interference to radio reception on the planes and in the development of radio direction finders.

The program for the standardization and improvement of radio installations aboard vessels and aircraft of the service was continued. Previous experimentation in the matter of the installation of radio equipment on lifeboats located at life-saving stations of the Coast Guard has definitely proven that a standard plan could be evolved and put into operation.

An officer of the Coast Guard continued to represent the Treasury Department on the Interdepartmental Radio Advisory Committee.

Equipment

Floating equipment.—On June 30, 1934, there were in commission in the Coast Guard 37 cruising cutters, 24 harbor craft, 4 special craft, nine 165-foot patrol boats, thirty-two 125-foot patrol boats, thirteen 100-foot patrol boats, six 78-foot patrol boats, fifty-eight 75-foot patrol boats, 75 picket boats, and 24 miscellaneous patrol boats. This floating equipment does not include the primarily life-saving boat equipment attached to Coast Guard vessels and stations.

The remaining eight destroyers formerly obtained from the Navy were decommissioned and returned to the custody of the Navy.

A program for the construction of seven 328-foot cutters and five 165-foot cutters, nine 165-foot patrol boats, four 110-foot harbor cutters, and a number of lifeboats and surfboats for cutters and stations is now underway.

In addition to overhauling, reconditioning, and repairing certain vessels at the Coast Guard repair depot at Curtis Bay, Md., routine repairs to vessels and boats were made under contract with private concerns and at navy yards. New engines were installed in two patrol boats at an Army base.

Special study has been given to the preservation of the steel structure of Coast Guard floating units and it is thought the subject has so developed as to permit the service to take an advanced step in the preservation of all cutters and patrol boats.

Small boats.—Investigation and research work in connection with accelerated corrosion of lifeboat sheathing has continued with the cooperation of the laboratories and metallurgists of the various commercial firms which manufacture sheathing material. Conclusions will be available shortly and it is contemplated that steps will be taken to adopt the latest and most satisfactory material for sheathing not only new boats, but also present boats in service on which the sheathing is deteriorated.

Research work on copper bottom paint has been completed, and a standardized paint of known ingredients has been adopted. This procedure eliminates the use of various commercial brands of copper bottom paints for wood hulls which have proven unsatisfactory.

Experimental work of investigating and testing in the related fields of special metals, woods, marine equipment, fittings, and outfits was continued with success. Considerable economy has resulted from the improvement of lumber procurement, and the adoption at the Coast Guard depot of modern practices in the bending of white-oak frames.

Special attention was given to the incorporation of modern innovations in the design and construction of the two new 52-foot motor lifeboats. One boat will probably be completed by the end of 1934; the construction of the second boat, which is in frame, will follow.

Aviation.—During the year Coast Guard airplanes cruised 219,572 miles and searched over an area of 1,975,014 square miles. The planes were in the air 2,752 hours, and 5,494 vessels and planes were identified. Through the checking and reporting system established by the service along the Atlantic seaboard 11,592 airplanes were reported.

Coast Guard aircraft rendered assistance in 44 cases; transported critically sick or injured persons at sea to hospitals on shore, and serum and oxygen flasks to hospitals; located lost, missing, or overdue vessels and boats, and boats suspected of smuggling, and carried on regular patrol duty in the prevention of smuggling of contraband and aliens into the United States.

Contracts were awarded for the construction of 10 Douglas and 9 Grumman amphibian airplanes. A program for the erection of four new air stations has been started and is progressing rapidly.

On March 9, 1934, the Secretary of the Treasury directed that all aviation activities of the Treasury Department be consolidated under one head, and 15 planes of miscellaneous types, and their equipment, belonging to the Customs Service, were transferred to the Coast Guard.

Three Coast Guard air patrol detachments have been established, respectively, at Buffalo, N. Y., San Antonio, Tex., and San Diego, Calif., to aid in combatting smuggling of contraband over the Canadian and Mexican borders. Six land planes of the 02U-2 type were transferred from the Navy to the Coast Guard during the year. Twenty commissioned Coast Guard officers are undergoing flight training at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla. Thirty enlisted men were sent to Pensacola for flight training during the year. A school for the training of enlisted men for aviation ratings has been established at the Coast Guard air station, Cape May, N. J.

Ordinance.—The curtailment of expenditures has been continued in the interests of economy, but efforts have been made to maintain efficiency both in the use of arms and in the upkeep of equipment.

The Coast Guard won 3 national championship trophies, 1 gold medal, 19 silver medals, 43 bronze medals, and 11 President's bracers in small arms competitions with other services and civilian organizations. Interest in small arms efficiency has steadily grown, particularly among the personnel of stations.

Work on an armory at the Coast Guard depot has been completed, making possible the overhaul and repair of small arms at minimum cost. A large part of the work of reconstructing surveyed material is performed by personnel who are taking the armorer's course. This course includes training in the operation of small arms target ranges and in the use of the new light type wrecking outfit. An underground, reinforced concrete magazine completed at the depot provides safe stowage space for all classes of ammunition and pyrotechnic material, and a new landing dock facilitates the loading and unloading of magazine stores.

Experiments with shoulder line-throwing equipment have been continued. A special projectile for use with the service rifle has been developed.

When the modification of the fire control systems of two cutters has been completed, and the installations authorized for two others have been accomplished, all electric-drive cutters with the exception of one cutter will have sound powered telephone systems for fire control and intercommunication. Each of 22 units has been equipped with two vertical range-finder mounts, a range-computer slide rule and a check plate, and at the academy a Vickers director has been installed for instruction purposes. This equipment has been furnished in order to increase gunnery efficiency.

The academy, stations, bases, repair depot, engine school, repair base, etc.

Coast Guard Academy.—During the fiscal year, 51 cadets were appointed to the academy, 25 cadets resigned, and 5 cadets completed the course of instruction and were graduated from the academy and commissioned as ensigns on May 28, 1934. There were 101 cadets under instruction at the end of the fiscal year.

The practice cruise for cadets for 1933 was in progress at the close of the last fiscal year. Two cutters composed the special practice squadron for the 1934 cruise, and left New London, Conn., on June 3, 1934. Their itinerary includes calls at two United States ports and a number of foreign ports. The cruise is expected to terminate the latter part of August.

Stations and bases.—On June 30, 1934, 242 Coast Guard (life-saving) stations were in an active status and three shore bases were in commission. Ten shore bases and one floating base were discontinued during the year.

Rebuilding, repairs, alterations, additions, and improvements were completed during the year at 151 Coast Guard stations, 2 divisions, 8 bases, 12 radio stations, 1 communications storehouse, 6 air stations, at the Coast Guard Academy (New London, Conn.), Fort Trumbull Training Station (New London, Conn.), the Coast Guard depot (Curtis Bay, Md.), 7 miscellaneous units, and in 4 Coast Guard districts on property damaged by storm.

Contracts were awarded or work was begun within the year for major work of rebuilding, alterations, and improvements at 11 Coast Guard stations, 1 division, 2 radio stations, 1 communications storehouse, 4 air stations, at the Coast Guard Academy, and the Coast Guard depot. The Port Orford station, contract for the construction of which was awarded in the last fiscal year, was placed in commission July 1, 1934.

Repair depot.—During the year a number of Coast Guard vessels were overhauled, reconditioned, repaired, and improved at the repair depot, Curtis Bay, Md. The boat-building shop at the depot constructed a number of standard and miscellaneous boats for assignment to units of the Coast Guard as needed.

Engine School and Repair Base.—The reclamation plant, which operated at base 9, Cape May, N. J., as an industrial unit of the service, was used in reconditioning several types of marine engines and in converting aircraft engines for marine use, and also in repairing vessels of other units operating in the vicinity. The latter part of April 1934 the plant was moved to the Gas Engine School, at Norfolk, Va., and both units were combined under the name of Engine School and Repair Base. The duties of the repair base will remain the same.

Engineering competition

Thirty-one cruising cutters and eight Coast Guard destroyers took part in the engineering competition during the year. Before the end of the year the eight destroyers were decommissioned so none of these qualified. The engineering competition results in maintaining engineering personnel and material in the highest possible state of readiness and efficiency.

Personnel

On June 30, 1934, there were on the active list of the Coast Guard 459 regular and 2 temporary commissioned officers; 101 cadets; 84 chief and 503 regular warrant officers; 180 temporary warrant officers, 160 of whom were on duty with the War Department under orders contained in Executive Order 6169; 8,754 enlisted men, and 277 civilian employees in the field, of whom 234 were per diem civilian employees at the Coast Guard depot, Curtis Bay, Md.

Recruiting.—At the beginning of the fiscal year the recruiting service of the Coast Guard comprised 4 main stations and 3 substations. During the year two substations were closed due to the suspension of recruiting. Of 6,054 applicants for enlistment, 189 were enlisted, 248 were rejected for physical disability, and 5,617 rejected for other disabling causes.

Training.—The training for enlisted personnel was necessarily curtailed on account of a lack of funds, but where circumstances permitted, men were trained in various schools with excellent results. Equipment was added to the plant of the Engine School and Repair Base, at Norfolk, Va., providing better facilities for training. During the early part of the year Coast Guard men were trained in the Marine Corps Armorer's School, Philadelphia, Pa., and in the Naval Gun Factory, Washington, D. C. Several men were also trained at the Parachute Matériel School, Lakehurst, N. J., maintained by the Navy.

The Coast Guard Institute, at New London, Conn., continues to afford opportunities to men desiring to pursue home-study courses to prepare for promotion in whatever specialty they desire. During the year, 256 International Correspondence Schools diplomas and 592 Coast Guard Institute educational certificates were awarded to the personnel.

Awards of life-saving medals

The Secretary of the Treasury, under the provisions of law, awarded during the year 10 gold and 47 silver life-saving medals of honor in recognition of bravery exhibited in the rescue or attempted rescue of persons from drowning in waters over which the United States has jurisdiction, or upon an American vessel.

The following table shows the amounts appropriated for the Coast Guard for the fiscal year 1934, together with the balances of appropriations from the previous year, and the expenditures and unexpended balance of each appropriation. This includes an allotment of $25,031,872 from the National Industrial Recovery Appropriation for repairs on, and construction of, vessels, stations, etc.

Reopening and reorganization of national banks

On July 1, 1933, there remained in conservatorship as a result of the President's proclamation of March 6, 1933, 985 national banks with total deposits of $990,218,000. During the fiscal year 1934, three banks previously licensed to reopen had their licenses revoked and were placed in conservatorship bringing the total to 988 with total deposits of $994,201,000.

As the result of the activities of the Reorganization Division, 583 banks with deposits of $742,833,000 were licensed to reopen under old or new charters or absorbed by other national banks; 14 banks with deposits of $4,972,000 were placed in voluntary liquidation or received authorization for the sale of their assets to State banks; and 296 banks with deposits of $148,317,000 were placed in receivership. On June 30, 1934, there remained unlicensed 95 national banks, of which 82 with deposits of $89,747,000 have approved plans of reorganization, leaving only 13 with deposits of $8,332,000 without approved reorganization plans.

Summary of changes in membership in the national banking system

The authorized common capital of the 5,633 national banks in existence on June 30, 1934, was $1,354,428,741, a decrease during the year of $242,828,434, and the authorized preferred capital of these banks was $412,963,600, an increase during the year in this class of capitalization of $358,519,000. The net increase in capitalization was $115,690,566. During the year charters were issued to 491 national banking associations, of which 205 had common stock only, aggregating $30,192,500; the remaining 286 banks had an aggregate of $23,061,800 common stock and $25,873,800 preferred stock.

During the year, 798 existing national banks took advantage of the provisions of the act of March 9, 1933, and increased their capital by issuing preferred stock of an aggregate par value of $332,728,900. While charters were issued during the year to 491 associations, there was a net decrease of 313 in the number of banks—that is, from 5,946 to 5,633—by reason of voluntary liquidations, receiverships, and consolidations.

Changes in the number and capital of national banks during the last year are shown in the following summary:

BUREAU OF CUSTOMS

Customs receipts during the fiscal year 1934 showed an increase over those for the preceding year for the first time since 1929. Total collections for the year, $314,093,508, represented an increase of 25 percent over those for 1933, although they were 4 percent lower than the receipts for 1932.

A large portion of the increase is the result of the collection of duty on distilled liquors and wines, which, from December 5, 1933, to June 30, 1934, amounted to $24,023,703. The difference was due in part to increases in the quantities of certain commodities imported and in part to higher unit values of imported merchandise dutiable on an ad valorem basis.

The following statement shows in detail customs collections, refunds, and payments of drawback claims for the fiscal years 1933 and 1934. The total amount collected and covered into the Treasury as customs receipts does not include tonnage tax, head tax, internal revenue tax, and miscellaneous collections made by customs officers for other bureaus and deposited as receipts for the appropriate bureau or service.

Entries of merchandise.—The number of entries of merchandise increased from 2,010,068 in 1933 to 2,159,660 in 1934. Every type of entry participated in this increase, with the exception of mail. Although the mail entries decreased from 521,032 in 1933 to 449,799 in 1934, duties collected on importations through the mails, exceeding $100 in value, aggregated $3,047,944, an increase of $809,302 over 1933.

Vessels, highway traffic.—The decline in international traffic continued during 1934, as shown in the following table:

Drawback transactions.—Drawback entries numbered 17,319, which is 9.3 percent more than for 1933. In addition 160,609 notices of intent to export merchandise with benefit of drawback were filed, an increase of 55.3 percent over 1933. Drawback claims allowed increased from $7,708,797 in 1933 to $8,092,783 for the past year, while drawback claims paid increased from $7,590,971 to $8,076,988.

Under authority of section 318 of the Tariff Act of 1930, the President, by proclamation dated December 30, 1933, declared an emergency to exist because of the general business conditions and authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to extend for 1 year, after the expiration of the 3-year period prescribed by law, the time within which merchandise imported during 1931 may be permitted to remain in warehouse under the provisions of sections 557 and 559 of the Tariff Act of 1930; the time during which proof may be furnished that wool or camel's hair imported or withdrawn from bonded warehouse conditionally free of duty, under bond, during the calendar year 1931 has been used in manufactures prescribed in paragraph 1101, Tariff Act of 1930; and the time within which articles manufactured or produced with the use of merchandise imported during the calendar year 1933 may be exported with benefit of drawback under section 313, Tariff Act of 1930. Pursuant to this proclamation the Secretary of the Treasury issued Treasury Decision 46823, granting an extension of the time for 1 year in these cases.

Public Act No. 397, Seventy-third Congress, to provide for the establishment, operation, and maintenance of foreign trade zones in ports of entry of the United States, to expedite and encourage foreign commerce, and for other purposes, was approved June 18, 1934. Regulations covering the protection of the revenue and prescribing customs procedure in zones to be established pursuant to this act are in course of preparation.

Seizures.—Seizures for violations of the customs laws continued to decline, the number effected being 38,841, or a decrease of 12 percent from the preceding year. The number of liquor seizures was 11,721, as compared with 21,013 for 1933. Since repeal of the eighteenth amendment, most of the liquor seizures have been made either along the Atlantic coast or in dry States adjacent to the Mexican border.

In connection with violations of the customs laws, 786 automobiles, 161 boats, and 14 airplanes, with an aggregate value of $502,078, were seized, a decrease of 374 automobiles, 235 boats, and 16 airplanes from the number seized during 1933. In addition, customs officers effected 1,169 seizures for other agencies of the Government and detained 672 persons for violation of immigration, prohibition, and other laws.

Fines and penalties.—Collections due to violations of laws pertaining to the Customs Service aggregated $686,349, an increase of $40,330 over 1933. Undervaluation and false invoicing were responsible for almost one-third of the collections during 1934. Penalties for failure to declare foreign merchandise were responsible for only 5 percent of the total, whereas in 1933 they aggregated practically one-fourth of all fines collected.

Antidumping

Upon the recommendation of the antidumping unit of the investigative branch of the Customs Service, in cooperation with the Bureau of Customs, findings of dumping have been issued by the Secretary of the Treasury on a number of commodities. Only $6,625 was collected in dumping duties during the year, as compared with $37,807 collected in 1933.

Countervailing duties

Countervailing duties are collected under the provisions of section 303 of the Tariff Act of 1930, which directs the Secretary of the Treasury to impose rates of duty comparable with those imposed by foreign countries on the same commodity. The total collected amounted to $223,625, as compared with $203,556 during the preceding year. Approximately one-half of the 1934 collections was on coal and lumber products imported from Canada, while more than one-fourth represents duties on automobiles and parts from Great Britain and other countries. Countervailing duties on liquors and wines from Great Britain constituted 11 percent of the collections of such duties.

Smuggling

The system of handling criminal cases in connection with the smuggling of merchandise has resulted in securing a high percentage of convictions. All criminal cases incident to seizures effected by the Customs Service are investigated, reported, and followed through the courts by customs agents. When seizures are made, customs agents interrogate the persons immediately after arrest, are responsible for the taking of their fingerprints and photographs, undertake to develop evidence in connection with the cases, present the case to the United States Commissioner, report them in proper form to the United States attorney, cooperate in their presentation to grand juries, cooperate with United States marshals in locating and enforcing attendance of defendants and witnesses at trials, and cooperate with the United States attorney in the actual presentation of testimony during trials.

Obscene books, pamphlets, stationery, etc., abortive and preventive drugs and appliances, lottery tickets and related advertisements, and insurrectionary or treasonable literature are prohibited importations under section 305, Tariff Act of 1930. During the past year, 16,440 seizures of lottery tickets and advertisements and 714 seizures of obscene and other prohibited articles were destroyed. In addition, 31 seizures were permitted to be exported under customs supervision, 17 were released to the importers after investigation, and 758 lottery seizures were assigned to the Post Office Department for the issuance of fraud orders.

The prevention of smuggling of narcotics has occurred in several instances by the use of a file containing the names of all persons suspected of smuggling and methods employed for landing contraband. The work has also been facilitated by the close relationship maintained between the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Customs Service.

Smuggling of watches and watch movements declined during the year. The activities of the customs agents, especially on the Canadian border, resulted in the apprehension of some of the most notorious smugglers of these articles.

The smuggling of grain, grain products, and particularly raw wool from Canada, has been continuous. These products are brought into border territory, a large portion of which is difficult to patrol because of inadequate equipment and the climatic conditions during the winter months. Last winter the international boundary line was accessible for crossing at practically all points by utilizing sleighs and sleds.

An investigation instituted at the beginning of the present calendar year into the smuggling activities of a certain company and its allied companies, owned or controlled by persons of Vancouver, British Columbia, disclosed that more than 200,000 cases of foreign liquors had been landed on the Pacific coast between July 1929, and the date of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. A civil suit was instituted in the United States District Court at Seattle, Wash., for the recovery of $17,500,000, the forfeiture value of the liquors and other charges due the United States. Two of the four defendants named in the indictment posted a $100,000 bond, each, which they forfeited by default. In order to further secure itself in case of favorable judgment, the Government has levied attachments against the real and personal property of the defendant companies valued at approximately $500,000.

Miscellaneous provisions of the tariff act

Marking of imported articles.—Importations received without having been marked so as to indicate the country of origin, as required by section 304, Tariff Act of 1930, were disposed of as follows: In 7,935 cases, the articles were released after having been marked under customs supervision; in 5,074 cases, they were released as incapable of being marked; and in 211 cases, were exported. The 10 percent additional duty imposed under this section resulted in a collection of $125,097 in 1934, as compared with $69,741 in 1933.

Merchandise bearing American trade marks.—Under the provisions of section 526 of the Tariff Act of 1930, prohibiting the unauthorized importation of merchandise bearing an American trade mark, 2,701 seizures were accomplished during the year, of which 9 were destroyed, 19 exported, 2,400 permitted to be imported after removal or obliteration of the trade mark, and 256 permitted to be imported by consent of the trade-mark registrant, the remainder being either sold or released under bond.

Investigative unit

Undervaluation.—Investigations of undervaluation cases continued a most important factor in the work of the investigative unit, both in the United States and abroad. Information was obtained which indicates the continued attempt on the part of unscrupulous importers to invoice merchandise incorrectly. Recoveries made as the result of this class of work during 1934, amounted to $284,590, which was in excess of that collected in 1933.

A major undervaluation and smuggling case involving an importer of women's apparel was concluded in Philadelphia, Pa., and resulted in the acceptance of an offer in compromise of $30,553, and in addition $700 in penalties and forfeiture value was collected from the president of the firm for the smuggling of a diamond bracelet.

Criminal cases.—Criminal cases incident to seizures effected by the Customs Service are investigated, reported, and followed through the courts by customs agents. This system has continued with gratifying success since it has resulted in securing a high percentage of convictions.

Classification.—Many investigations have been conducted relative to the classification of merchandise imported. Evidence was developed to warrant a change in the classification of human hair imported from China so as to provide a 20 percent instead of a 10 percent ad valorem rate of duty. This change will result in increased revenue of hundreds of thousands of dollars per year. It was also found that leaf tobacco imported from Cuba was not being properly classified and appraised.

Customs foreign service.—The investigative unit maintains offices in Canada, Europe, the Orient, and Cuba, which are divided for administrative purposes into districts. An officer, known as a Treasury attaché, is in charge of each of these foreign offices, except the district of Montreal, Canada, whose chief officer is the supervising customs agent. A corps of trained investigators is assigned to each Treasury attaché. These investigators contact foreign manufacturers in an effort to establish foreign market values of merchandise exported to the United States, in response to requests made by appraising officers in this country.

The foreign service officers render invaluable service through their cooperation with the domestic service in the detection and prevention of the smuggling of narcotics and other articles.

Customs information exchange.—The customs information exchange is the medium used by the Customs Service to disseminate information relative to market values and classifications of imported merchandise and other pertinent customs data. The statement following summarizes its activities during the year:

These expenditures are exclusive of $311,221 and $892,836 for 1934 and 1933, respectively, the amounts impounded under the provisions of sections 110 and 203 of the Economy Act. The passage of the 40-hour week law for mechanics affected 769 employees of the Bureau. Inasmuch as 3,289 employees were not included in this legislation it was necessary to continue operating the plant on a 44-hour basis and to coordinate as effectively as possible the work of these two groups of employees.

The rotating furlough continued throughout the year, but schedules were changed frequently to meet conditions brought about by the receipt of new and increased orders for securities of various classes.

The greatest pressure for work during the year occurred in connection with checks, bonds, and postal savings certificates. All orders received were urgent and three shifts were frequently established until sufficient engraved stock was available. Much overtime work was necessary to meet delivery schedules. There was also considerable loss of time and extra expense in meeting orders as a result of changes in regular production routine in order to meet urgent orders.

The largest bond orders came from the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, and aggregated (the orders totaling) more than 2,000,000 sheets. Special stamps were prepared for bottled distilled spirits, and a special issue of liquor stamps was ordered by the District of Columbia. In addition, certificates of indebtedness, Treasury notes, and bonds were printed in connection with the Treasury financing program. New models were prepared for gold and silver certificates and for Federal Reserve notes. The engraving work of a few denominations of silver certificates was completed before the end of the year and a small quantity was printed and delivered.

Production and distribution of Civil Works Administration checks required the employment of 50 temporary employees and the organization of three 8-hour shifts.

COMMITTEE ON ENROLLMENT AND DISBARMENT OF ATTORNEYS AND AGENTS

The Committee on Enrollment and Disbarment of Attorneys and Agents, created by Department Circular No. 230, dated February 15, 1921, is responsible for the examination of applicants wishing to practice as attorneys, agents, or other representatives before the Treasury Department or offices thereof; and receives complaints, conducts hearings, and makes inquiries concerning violations of the regulations by enrolled practitioners. The conclusions of this committee in each case are submitted as recommendations to the Secretary of the Treasury.

During the fiscal year 1934, 1,329 applications for enrollment of attorneys and agents were approved and 4 were disapproved. In one case the applicant for enrollment was afforded a formal hearing by the committee.

On June 30, 1933, complaints were pending against 93 enrolled individuals, 48 new complaints were filed during the year, and 49 were disposed of by the Secretary, leaving 92 pending on June 30, 1934. In 16 cases the Secretary, on recommendation of the committee, accepted the answers of the respondents as sufficient and the complaints were dismissed. In each of 33 cases the committee, after formal hearing accorded the respondent, submitted its findings and recommendations to the Secretary, who disposed of them as follows: In 3 cases it was found that the charges were not proven and the complaints were dismissed; in 30 cases the charges were found proven in whole or in part and the Secretary imposed penalties—22 practitioners were disbarred from further practice before the Treasury Department, 4 were suspended from practice for various periods, and 4 were reprimanded.

It is the policy of the committee to give an enrolled attorney or agent opportunity to show cause why formal disbarment proceedings should not be instituted against him; 11 such cases occurred during the year.

Since the organization of the Committee on Enrollment and Disbarment, 36,241 applications for enrollment have been approved and 502 disapproved. One hundred and sixty-one practitioners have been disbarred from further practice before the Treasury Department, 114 have been suspended from practice for various periods, and 156 have been reprimanded. In 13 cases the order of disbarment has been terminated and the practitioner restored to good standing before the Department.

SECTION OF FINANCIAL AND ECONOMIC RESEARCH¹

The section, which includes the Office of Government Actuary, performs a combined research, editorial, actuarial, and service function for the Treasury, largely in the field of finance. Upon request or on the initiative of the section, studies and investigations in taxation, public debt, and other subjects in or related to the field of public finance are conducted, largely for use within the Department. Studies in taxation during the fiscal year were related especially to tax legislation passed during the period. The section engages also in estimating revenue receipts.

As in the past, the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury was edited and in part prepared by the section, under the general supervision of the Under Secretary; the section also participated in the preparation and editing of Statistics of Income for 1932, and of other Treasury publications.

The monthly publication of daily yields of Government bonds and notes, and the monthly estimate of the population of the United States (appearing on the Circulation Statement of United States Money) were continued. A monthly index of yields of Treasury bonds was inaugurated during the fiscal year.

Service on various governmental committees was performed by members of the section, including the service of the Government Actuary on the Board of Government Actuaries in connection with the Civil Service retirement law.

² Includes income tax on Alaska railroads (act of July 18, 1914) amounting to $4,262.03 for 1933 and $2,240.12 for 1934.

Refunds.—In the foregoing statement of receipts no deductions have been made on account of refunds, which during the fiscal year 1934 were paid from the several appropriations as follows:

Refunding taxes illegally collected 1932 and prior years.....	$402. 96
Refunding taxes illegally collected 1933 and prior years.....	7, 792, 909. 27

In addition to the above amount, there were certain repayments as provided under specific appropriations which were not refunds of taxes erroneously paid under our present internal revenue laws. The redemption of stamps represents the return to the Government of stamps purchased by the taxpayer in excess of his requirements. The stamps so redeemed during the fiscal year, including interest, totaled $1,479,237.36.

If the tax refunds during the year on account of erroneous or illegal collections for 1934 and prior years, amounting to $47,194,722.75, and payments for redemption of stamps, amounting to $1,479,237.36, were deducted from the gross collections of $2,672,239,194.52, the net collections for the fiscal year 1934 would be $2,623,565,234.41. The gross collections, however, are used for comparative purposes in this report.

Additional assessments.—The additional assessments resulting from office audits and field investigations, which amounted to $328,188,720.51, were as follows:

³ Includes, for agricultural adjustment taxes, $905,912.03 from the Processing Tax Unit and $11,619,685 from the Accounts and Collections Unit.

Cost of administration.—The total amount expended and obligated in administering tax laws during the fiscal year 1934 was $31,370,404.12. This sum does not include the amount expended for refunding taxes illegally or erroneously collected, and for redemption of stamps, which is in no sense an administrative expense. The total revenue collected was $2,672,239,194.52 of which $2,300,816,308.88 represented internal revenue and $371,422,885.64, agricultural adjustment taxes. Therefore, the cost of collecting each $100 of the total revenue was $1.17. Administration of the internal revenue laws cost $28,826,225.73, as compared with $30,031,722.98 during the fiscal year 1933. The cost of collecting each $100 of internal revenue was $1.25, as compared with $1.85 for the fiscal year 1933. (The amounts expended by the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol in administering the liquor laws prior to consolidation with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, May 10, 1934, are not included in these figures.) The amount expended and obligated in administering the agricultural adjustment tax laws was $2,544,178.39, or 69 cents for each $100 of agricultural adjustment taxes collected.

Income Tax Unit

The Income Tax Unit is charged with the duty of auditing and closing all income tax returns except those filed on form 1040A. Returns filed on form 1040A (returns of individuals reporting income, chiefly from salaries and wages, of less than $5,000) are audited in the collectors' offices under the supervision of the Accounts and Collections Unit.

Additional revenue.—The total additional revenue made available for collection (exclusive of jeopardy assessments) was $194,030,746.36 as compared with $169,629,609.96 the previous fiscal year, an increase of $24,401,136.40. The field forces of the Income Tax Unit secured agreements to the immediate assessment and collection of $18,897,448.21, while $175,133,298.15 was assessed after consideration in Washington.

The additional revenues are classified in the following table to show the amounts involved as additional tax, interest, and penalty, and also the procedure involved in reaching a settlement with the taxpayers.

In addition to the amount of revenue thus made available, additional taxes were also assessed under the jeopardy provisions of the several revenue acts, as follows:

Final notices of deficiency (60 or 90-day letters).—During the year 13,003 final notices of deficiency (60- or 90-day letters) were mailed by the Income Tax Unit, as compared with 17,772 for the previous fiscal period.

Petitions were filed with the Board of Tax Appeals involving 41 percent of the returns with respect to which 60- or 90-day letters had been issued. This compares with 37 percent (revised basis) during the fiscal year 1933.

The following table shows the number of tax years involved in petitions filed with the Board of Tax Appeals during the fiscal years 1931 to 1934, inclusive:

There were also allowed during the year 10,114 collectors' claims, of which 8,898 recommended abatements or credits and 1,216 recommended refunds. A collector's claim usually lists a number of items in favor of different taxpayers, and those settled during the year covered 13,590 items for abatement or credit and 42,128 for refund.

Audit in the field.—On June 30, 1934, there were 310,566 returns for all years pending for verification in the offices of the 38 field divisions of the Income Tax Unit, compared with 230,119 returns on hand June 30, 1933.

Changes in tax liability were recommended by the field forces in 137,682 returns, or 26 percent of the 527,517 returns disposed of by the field during the year. On 110,590 returns, or 80 percent of those changed, taxpayers agreed with revenue agents' conclusions. The total additional tax recommended by revenue agents during the fiscal year was $203,510,465.96, compared with $209,560,777.80 the preceding fiscal year.

The technical staff

Effective November 16, 1933, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue abolished the special advisory committee and created in lieu thereof the technical staff. The following represents the results of the settlement work conducted by these two settlement agencies during the fiscal year 1934:

On July 1, 1933, the special advisory committee had on hand a total of 7,652 docketed cases pending before the United States Board of Tax Appeals. During the period from July 1, 1933, to November 15, 1933, it considered to a conclusion 2,333 Board cases and recommended for settlement 1,410 Board cases, or 60 percent thereof. The deficiency proposed on cases recommended for settlement by the committee during this period was $37,352,377.57 and the recomputed deficiency (without eliminating the enforced credit in estate tax cases) was $7,680,868.25.

On November 16, 1933, the staff took over 5,970 docketed Board cases. During the period from November 16, 1933, to June 30, 1934, it considered to a conclusion 3,410 Board cases, and recommended for settlement 2,135 Board cases, or 63 percent thereof. The deficiency proposed on cases recommended for settlement by the staff from November 16, 1933, to June 30, 1934, was $36,755,176.44; and the recomputed deficiency (eliminating the enforced credit in estate tax cases) was $20,454,996.51.

Miscellaneous Tax Unit

The Miscellaneous Tax Unit is charged with the administration of all internal revenue taxes, other than those applicable to incomes and alcoholic liquors, as well as agricultural adjustment taxes. The unit is composed of five divisions, namely, Estate Tax Division, Sales Tax Division, Tobacco Division, Processing Tax Division, and Silver Tax Division. A force operating in the field is engaged solely in investigating matters affecting the miscellaneous taxes. There has been a substantial increase in the personnel of the Miscellaneous Tax Unit, made necessary by additional work in connection with the administration of the processing and related taxes, the capital stock tax, the silver tax, and other miscellaneous taxes imposed under laws recently enacted.

Estate Tax Division.—Estate tax collections amounted to $103,985,288.04, an increase of $74,292,226.15 over the collections for the preceding year. This increase is due primarily to the additional estate tax imposed under the Revenue Act of 1932. Gift tax collections amounted to $9,153,076.06, an increase of $4,536,414.10 over the preceding year. The collection of approximately $7,000,000 of deficiencies asserted in estate and gift taxes was stayed by the filing of appeals with the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

The Revenue Act of 1932 lowered the exemption applicable to estates in the case of residents from $100,000 to $50,000. Chiefly as a result of the lowered exemption there were 11,210 estate tax returns filed during the year 1934, an increase of 2,706 over the number filed during the preceding year. There were filed 3,619 gift tax returns, which represented an increase over the preceding year of 1,909 returns.

As a result of the audit of estate tax returns, deficiencies in tax aggregating $13,185,549.91 were assessed, such deficiencies being attributable to approximately 52.5 percent of the cases closed. Deficiencies in gift tax amounting to $138,097.51 were assessed. The refunds of estate and gift taxes amounted to $2,991,384.79 (exclusive of interest), and taxes were abated in the amount of $61,130,238.15. Substantially all of the abatements of estate tax resulted from the allowance of credit for State estate, inheritance, legacy, or succession taxes. In these cases the Federal estate tax had been assessed either at the time the return was filed, or later for the purpose of protecting the interests of the Government because the evidence required to substantiate the credit had not been filed by the end of the statutory period provided for the assessment of the tax. A summary of refund and abatement claims follows:

Sales Tax Division.—The yield from the taxes administered in the Sales Tax Division amounted to $633,282,185.22, an increase over the preceding year of approximately $241,000,000. These figures do not include the taxes relating to distilled spirits, wines, and fermented liquors, since the alcoholic liquor taxes are now administered by the Alcohol Tax Unit of the Bureau. The increase in collections is due principally to the imposition of the capital stock tax and to larger returns of manufacturer's excise taxes, stamp taxes, tax on checks, tax on electrical energy, and taxes on telegraph, telephone, cable, and radio messages.

A comparison of the taxes collected by the Sales Tax Division during the fiscal years 1933 and 1934, and the sources of those taxes, are shown in the table which follows:

There were 9,041 sales tax credit cases, totaling $1,927,597.94, on hand at the beginning of the year; 17,891 cases amounting to $3,982,614.23 were received; 18,663 cases aggregating $2,770,365.88 were disposed of, leaving on hand at the end of the year 8,269 sales tax credit cases amounting to $3,139,846.29.

A total of $673,460,413.37, representing 1,803,570 items, was approved by the Commissioner on miscellaneous assessment lists. The miscellaneous tax lists do not include the processing and related taxes, or the taxes collected by the sale of stamps. There was included in these lists a total of $22,463,679.44, representing 50,180 additional assessments resulting from office audit and field investigation. The interest paid and assessed on the miscellaneous tax lists amounted to $1,898,607.61.

During the year there were received and examined 1,288,348 returns filed by taxpayers in connection with the taxes administered in the Sales Tax Division, not including the capital stock tax returns. There were received in the same period returns of capital stock by corporations as follows: 371,496 taxable domestic returns; 115,092 nontaxable domestic returns; 272 taxable foreign returns and 37 nontaxable foreign returns. The total capital stock returns filed numbered 486,897, of which approximately 150,000 had been examined at the end of the year and closed.

The number of offers in compromise submitted in settlement of liabilities incurred in connection with sales, tobacco, estate, gift, spirits, narcotics, capital stock, and miscellaneous stamp and special taxes, and the aggregate amounts thereof, received and disposed of are shown in the table which follows:

Tobacco Division.—The collections from tobacco taxes amounted to $425,168,897.04, which reflected an increase of $22,429,837.79, or 5.57 percent, over the previous year. The sources of the taxes collected on the various tobacco products are shown in table 8, page 319.

Processing Tax Division.—The total collections from processing, compensating, and floor stock taxes imposed under the Agricultural Adjustment Act during the year amounted to $371,422,885.64. The amount of tax liability due is somewhat in excess of actual collections, as many taxpayers availed themselves of the privilege provided by the act of securing extensions of time of from 30 to 90 days, within which to make payment of the tax. A summary of the taxes imposed under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, collected during the year, is shown in the table which follows:

The offers in compromise submitted during the year in settlement of the liabilities incurred under the Agricultural Adjustment Act totaled 684 and amounted to $35,945.14.

During the year a total of $332,733,693.67, representing 1,351,230 items, was approved by the Commissioner on the processing tax assessment lists. Included in this amount was $905,912.03, representing 835 additional assessments resulting from office audit and field investigation. The interest assessed on the processing tax lists amounted to $79,902.85.

Silver Tax Division.—A division is being organized to administer the silver tax, which became effective May 15, 1934, and a force will be functioning in sufficient time to audit returns when filed in accordance with the regulations, and to adjust claims and furnish rulings.

Alcohol Tax Unit

On December 5, 1933, the effective date of the twenty-first amendment to the Constitution, the functions of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol were transferred to the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the personnel of the Bureau was placed under the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. These transfers were made by Treasury Decision 4410, in accordance with the authority contained in section 4 of the act of March 3, 1927. The Bureau of Industrial Alcohol was continued for the time being as a unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

By Executive order the President, on March 10, 1934, under authority of section 16 of the act of March 3, 1933, abolished the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol and the office of Commissioner of Industrial Alcohol and transferred the functions and duties, as well as the personnel of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. By the same Executive order the functions and personnel of the Alcoholic Beverage Unit of the Division of Investigation, Department of Justice, except those employed in the Taxes and Penalties Section of that unit, were transferred to the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Under the statute this Executive order was required to be transmitted to the Congress and could not take effect until 60 days after it was so transmitted, unless otherwise determined in accordance with law. No action was taken by the Congress in respect of this Executive order, and it accordingly took effect on May 10, 1934.

On May 10, 1934, Treasury Decision 4432 established in the Bureau of Internal Revenue the Alcohol Tax Unit. This unit was charged with the administration of internal revenue laws relating to the supervision of production and warehousing, and the tax payment of distilled spirits, alcohol, wines, fermented liquors, cereal beverages, and denatured alcohol. All functions relating to the production, custody, and supervision of these products, together with the inquiries and investigations relating to returns for occupational taxes and the detection of violations of laws relating to these products, remain with the local supervisors. The receipt and accounting for taxes continued as a function of the collectors of internal revenue.

The 12 field districts of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, each under the direction of a district supervisor, were continued. The 23 local offices of the Alcoholic Beverage Unit were also continued, each under the direction of an acting investigator in charge. The 12 field districts are being rearranged into 15 districts with 62 branch offices. The 23 local offices transferred from the Alcoholic Beverage Unit will be merged with the 62 branch offices when these branch offices are established. Each of the branch offices will be under the direction of an investigator in charge and will function as enforcement agencies for the detection and suppression of violations of laws relating to spirits, wines, and beer.

The Alcohol Tax Unit in Bureau headquarters was placed in charge of a deputy commissioner of internal revenue, with two assistant deputy commissioners. One assistant deputy commissioner will have supervision of the permissive activities of the unit, and one assistant deputy commissioner is charged with the duties relating to the enforcement of the liquor laws.

Five major divisions were set up in Bureau headquarters in the Alcohol Tax Unit: The Technical Division; the Audit Division; the Enforcement and Investigative Division; the Field Inspection Division; and the Plant Control Division.

The Technical Division supervises the chemical laboratories of the Bureau and passes upon plans and surveys of distilleries, bonded warehouses, breweries, and wineries, to determine whether all requirements of law and regulations are complied with.

The Audit Division examines and adjusts the accounts of alcohol and other distilled spirits, rectified spirits, wine, and beer, and has general supervision over assessments, claims, and offers in compromise relating to taxes on these products.

The Enforcement and Investigative Division directs the operations of investigators and inspectors in the detection and prosecution of persons violating the internal revenue laws relating to distilled spirits, wine, and beer. It is contemplated that there will be approximately 1,800 field agents in this force.

The Field Inspection Division examines the offices of field supervisors and branch officers with respect to procedure and management. There are at present nine field office inspectors in this division.

Inspectors operating under the Plant Control Division examine distilleries, alcohol and denaturing plants and warehouses, wineries, breweries, and rectifying plants to determine whether they are complying with the requirements of the laws and regulations. There are at present 34 plant-control inspectors.

Accounts and Collections Unit

The Accounts and Collections Unit, which is the central administrative organization for the 64 collection districts, is divided into 3 divisions: The Collection Accounting Division; the Collectors' Personnel, Equipment, and Space Division; and the Disbursement Accounting Division.

There were filed in the collectors' offices during the year, 9,144,268 tax returns, compared with 7,288,080 for the previous year, an increase of 1,856,188. Of the total tax returns filed in 1934, there were 4,933,376 income tax returns compared with 5,166,091 filed during the previous year, a decrease of 232,715.

Approximately 2,300,000 income tax returns of individuals on form 1040-A were audited and closed in collectors' offices during the year, and 4,140,634 information returns were verified. In connection with this audit work 44,954 income tax returns were investigated.

A total of 9,351,968,124 revenue stamps, valued at $833,901,971.05, was issued to collectors of internal revenue and the Postmaster General, compared with 8,415,413,120 stamps, valued at $565,354,578.51, issued during the fiscal year 1933. Stamps returned by collectors and by the Postmaster General amounted to $52,946,424.83, compared with $5,698,164.98 for 1933. The repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution was mainly responsible for the large increase in the number and value of stamps issued to collectors and the stamps returned by collectors to the Bureau.

After the appropriate administrative procedure, collectors of internal revenue transmitted to the Bureau, or otherwise disposed of, 151,470 claims as compared with 110,519 during 1933, an increase of 40,951. The number of claims on hand at the close of the fiscal year 1934 was 6,878, compared with 2,396 at the close of the previous fiscal year. The large increase in the number of claims on hand at the end of the year was due principally to necessary correspondence of collectors with processing taxpayers for additional information before the claims could be forwarded to the Bureau.

During the year field deputy collectors made 532,609 revenue-producing investigations in connection with the verification of tax returns, the discovery of delinquent taxpayers and warrants for distraint. The total amount of tax involved in these investigations was $57,491,799, including $44,588,643 collected and $12,903,156 reported for assessment. The amounts involved for the various types of work were:

Additional taxes collected and reported for assessment by collectors' field forces during the fiscal year 1934

	Collected	Reported for assessment
Verification of tax returns.....	$3,028,888	$3,696,757
Delinquent taxpayers.....	14,603,119	9,206,399
Warrants for distraint.....	26,956,636
Total.....	44,588,643	12,903,156

There were 103,808 warrants for distraint served by deputy collectors during the year, and on June 30, 1934, there were 52,425 warrants in the hands of the field forces for collection as compared with 27,434 on June 30, 1933.

Special attention has been given to the discovery of the various classes of delinquent taxes and to the collection of back income taxes. That these efforts have been successful is evidenced by the fact that the total income tax collections during the year, relating to other than current taxable periods (back taxes) amounted to $140,586,953.02, which is $30,586,953.02 in excess of the amount which it was originally anticipated would be collected. After the Director of the Budget released $2,885,799 to assist in carrying out the program for the speedy collection of back taxes, the Treasury made another estimate increasing to $130,000,000 the probable amount of back tax collections.

The supervisors of accounts and collections submitted 100 reports covering their examinations of the accounts of the various collectors' offices compared with 120 reports submitted during 1933. With the exception of two districts, every collector's office was examined at least once and most of them twice during the year. During the year these officers installed in office 59 new collectors and 6 acting collectors.

Collectors' Personnel, Equipment, and Space Division.—At the beginning of the fiscal year 1934 there was in the Internal Revenue Collection Service engaged on regular internal revenue work a total authorized force, including collectors, of 4,571 employees at an annual basic salary rate of $10,022,701. On July 15, 1933, a reduction of 242 positions was made in the total authorized collectors' personnel. On October 2, 1933, 190 of these positions were restored in connection with a special drive inaugurated for the collection of back taxes and 82 additional positions were later authorized as a further aid in the prosecution of the delinquent tax drive, to provide needed assistance in connection with the increased work as the result of repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and to aid collectors in handling the increased work incident to the many new taxes. At the close of the fiscal year there was a total authorized force, including collectors, of 4,601 employees at an annual basic salary rate of $9,654,580. It will be observed that there was a net increase of only 30 in the total number of positions although there was a decrease of $368,121 in the annual basic salary rate. The decrease in the annual rate is due to the large turn-over in the force during the year and the fact that all appointments have been made at the initial salary rates in the respective grades.

During the year a total of $163,474.70 was expended from the internal revenue allotment for the employment of temporary personnel, compared with $93,682.02 during the preceding fiscal year. The increase of $69,792.68 in expenditures for temporary assistance during the year was occasioned chiefly by emergency conditions which arose in connection with the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. During the year the sum of $1,720,133.89 (net) was expended for salaries of permanent and temporary office and field employees on the processing tax roll.

Considerable preliminary work was handled during the latter part of the year in connection with the setting up of a special section in collectors' offices in cotton-producing States to administer the tax collection provisions of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act. At the close of business June 30, 1934, collectors of such districts had been authorized to employ a total of 235 temporary office and field employees on the cotton tax roll to carry out the tax provisions of this act.

During the fiscal year the sum of $115,969.24 was expended from the rental of quarters for collectors' offices and branch offices, compared with $209,306.43 in the preceding fiscal year. The decrease of $93,337.19 was brought about by the removal of several of the offices from commercial to Federal space and in certain instances through reduction in rental under existing leases.

Disbursement Accounting Division.—The Disbursement Accounting Division is charged with keeping the internal revenue appropriation accounts and expenditures, and is responsible for the administrative examination required by law of the accounts of 64 collectors of internal revenue and 38 internal revenue agents in charge of divisions, including internal revenue salary accounts of the collector of customs at San Juan, Puerto Rico. The appropriation accounting work increased considerably during the year by reason of the bureau's administrative duties in connection with assessing and collecting the processing taxes.

Office of the General Counsel

Under the provisions of section 512 of the Revenue Act of 1934, the office of General Counsel for the Department of the Treasury, and the office of Assistant General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue were created. The incumbents qualified and took office on June 20, 1934, at which time the office of General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue was abolished.

General Counsel's Committee.—On July 5, 1933, a committee was organized in the office of the General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue known as the "General Counsel's Committee", and composed of six members, one of whom was the General Counsel. The purpose of this committee is to facilitate and expedite the rendering of final decisions in cases and at the same time to coordinate rulings so that conflicting results in similar cases in different sections of the office would be minimized. During the fiscal year just closed the committee received 286 cases and closed 274, leaving 12 cases pending on June 30, 1934.

Civil Division.—The Civil Division, in cooperation with, and at the request of the Department of Justice and the various United States attorneys, assists in handling civil internal revenue cases arising in the Federal district courts, the United States Court of Claims, and the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, together with a limited number of cases originating in State courts. Except in bankruptcy and receivership cases, and cases arising in the Court of Claims, the actual trials of such cases and the arguments upon appeals are now conducted by the Department of Justice pursuant to the President's Executive order of June 10, 1933. The Division's major activities during the fiscal year are shown in the following tables:

Offers in compromise of pending suits received during the year numbered 51. Compromise offers disposed of, including those pending at the beginning of the fiscal year, numbered 45, of which 16 were accepted and 29 were rejected. The total amount of taxes sought to be recovered in cases finally compromised was $538,515.02, and the sum of $73,452.67 was secured.

The number of cases tried or decided during the fiscal year is shown in the following table:

In the 1,585 cases closed, relating to bankruptcy and receivership, claims were filed in the amount of $8,672,514.96, and the sum of $1,848,214.76 was collected.

Interpretative Division.—This division is charged with the preparation of opinions relating to the administrative construction of internal revenue laws and, until July 1, 1934, with the framing of regulations to carry such laws into effect. The enactment by Congress of new legislation, such as the Revenue Act of 1934, the Liquor Taxing Act of 1934, the acts amending and supplementing the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933, increased the work of this division.

Review Division.—This division reviews cases involving refunds, credits, and abatements of internal revenue taxes. It prepares public decisions in accordance with Treasury Decision 4264 in all cases where the overassessments exceed $20,000; prepares reports to the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation in cases involving credits and/or refunds in excess of $75,000, as required by section 710 of the Revenue Act of 1928; and also participates in conferences and negotiations in other bureau agencies involving proposed overpayments.

There were 779 cases disposed of during the year involving reductions in tax aggregating $102,143,621.93. In 169 of these cases memoranda were prepared. The allowances were reduced by adjustments in this division in the amount of $4,113,449.51. Some of the principles involved in these adjustments affected the disposition of other cases pending elsewhere in the Bureau. Public decisions were promulgated in 575 cases, and memoranda were submitted to the joint congressional committee in 39 cases.

As heretofore this division has regularly afforded conferences in cases in which issues appeared to require action contrary to the taxpayer's contentions.

Appeals Division.—Cases involving income, estate, and gift taxes filed with the Board of Tax Appeals are in the immediate charge of this division. During this fiscal year 9,582 cases were closed while 3,976 new cases were filed. At the end of the year there were pending 16 gift tax cases involving $198,715; 449 estate tax cases involving $60,160,922; and 12,009 income tax cases involving $388,133,443; or a total of 12,474 cases involving $448,493,080. Of this number 11,338 were pending before the Board and 1,136 were in appellate courts on appeal from Board decisions.

Penal Division.—The Penal Division, in cooperation with the Department of Justice and the various United States attorneys, passes upon criminal internal revenue cases; prepares opinions on liability for percentage penalties for fraud (occasionally for negligence or delinquency), and on acceptance or rejection of offers in compromise of tax cases in which such questions are involved. The Division also prepares opinions interpreting or construing percentage penalty and criminal statutes, and opinions on all questions of law involved in a case where there is also a question of percentage penalty or crime. The Division also passes upon questions as to whether cases that have been closed by agreement under section 606 of the Revenue Act of 1928, and similar provisions of the other revenue acts, should be reopened, because of "fraud or malfeasance, or misrepresentation of a material fact", and informers' reward claims under section 3463 of the Revised Statutes.

The following table shows the work of the division during the last two fiscal years:

Administrative Division.—The activities of the Administrative Division include the review of offers in compromise and the holding of conferences on difficult and complicated or protested cases. The Division is charged with the supervision of the personnel, library, manuscripts, mail, and records; and devises and inaugurates methods of procedure, assembles and reviews efficiency ratings, interviews applicants, and performs other varied and miscellaneous duties pertaining to the work of the General Counsel's office.

Compromise Section.—During the fiscal year 629 cases handled in this Section were closed by acceptance of offers in compromise and collection of filed claims in the aggregate amount of $5,208,075. The following table shows the volume of cases handled by the Section.

Effective June 4, 1934, all offers in compromise involving income tax liability, except cases in which insolvent banks, or assignment for the benefit of creditors, or liquidation proceedings, or liability of decedents or their estates are involved, were, by order of the Commissioner, transferred to the Technical Staff. Up to June 4, 1934, the Section handled all offers submitted in compromise of income and miscellaneous taxes, interest, ad valorem penalties, and specific penalties, except those offers that involved fraud penalties, criminal prosecution, section 104 of the Revenue Acts of 1928 and 1932, or section 220 of prior revenue acts.

In addition to the individually docketed cases covered by the above table this section, during the fiscal year 1934, handled cases briefed in the Income Tax Unit covering interest and delinquency penalties and cases briefed in the Miscellaneous Tax Unit covering specific penalties, as shown in the following table and, since the organization of the Alcohol Tax Unit, May 10, 1934, offers involving specific penalties under the Liquor Taxing Act of 1934 are being routed to this section and handled as other specific penalty cases. Cases involving questions of remission and/or mitigation of forfeitures under section 709 of the Revenue Act of 1928 are also being routed to this section by the Alcohol Tax Unit, but action on them is being withheld pending determination of procedure to be followed.

Intelligence Unit

The Intelligence Unit was formed on July 1, 1919. Its duties were defined as, primarily, the investigation of willful attempts to defraud the Government of taxes due under the various revenue acts, and the investigation of charges against employees in the Internal Revenue Service. There have been added to the duties of the unit since that time the investigation of charges against attorneys and agents practicing before the Treasury Department, the investigation of offers in compromise of tax liability, and such special investigations as may be desired by the Commissioner with respect to the general work of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and by the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to general departmental matters.

The principal work of the unit consists in the investigation of tax fraud cases. This work is performed in cooperation with internal revenue agents and deputy collectors and has increased steadily during the last few years. For the period from July 1, 1919, to June 30, 1934, there were investigated 7,744 tax fraud cases (approximately 31,000 tax years). There have been 1,236 indictments for these offenses and to date 688 of these cases have been disposed of in the courts, resulting in the conviction or plea of guilty of 615 individuals and 73 acquittals. During the period from July 1, 1919, to June 30, 1934, the total amount of taxes and penalties recommended for assessment as a result of investigations of this character was $354,659,992. The yearly average of such recommendations for the 15 years ended June 30, 1934, was $22,310,666; the average for the last 6 fiscal years has been $30,306,000.

In addition to the collections by the Bureau of Internal Revenue of taxes, penalties, and interest, amounts are covered into the Treasury by way of fines imposed in criminal cases; in fact, in some jurisdictions the courts have imposed an additional penalty by requiring the defendants to pay the costs of the investigations, that is, the salaries and expenses of the agents incurred during investigations.

Since the organization of the unit charges of a serious nature involving employees of the service have been investigated by special agents, and in all cases where the interests of the service demanded, employees have been promptly separated from their positions. In those instances in which violations of the criminal statutes were indicated, prosecutions have been instituted.

The investigation of charges against attorneys and agents admitted to practice before the Treasury Department was assigned to this unit effective April 1, 1924. From that date to June 30, 1934, 957 such cases were investigated, as a result of which 157 agents and attorneys were disbarred from practicing and 308 otherwise punished.

The work of the Intelligence Unit has been performed by a yearly average of 79 special agents, including special agents in charge of divisions, with a present enrollment of 115. The present annual cost of this unit is $522,650, and the average annual cost has been approximately $358,000.

LEGAL DIVISION

The Treasury Department had no legal division until Executive Order No. 6166 of June 10, 1933, became effective on August 10, 1933. Legal questions arising in the Department were referred for opinion and advice to the Solicitor of the Treasury, who was an officer of the Department of Justice answerable to the Attorney General. By section 5 of the aforesaid Executive order the functions of the office of the Solicitor of the Treasury not specifically placed under the Department of Justice were transferred to the Treasury.

With a view to centralizing control and coordinating in one agency, under a single officer, the legal duties and functions of the Department, handled by legal units in the different bureaus and agencies, there was submitted to the Congress a provision which subsequently became section 512 of the Revenue Act of 1934. This section created in the Department of the Treasury the office of General Counsel for the Department, and provided that the General Counsel, to be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, should be the chief law officer of the Department. The section also authorized the appointment, in the same manner, of an Assistant General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the appointment by the Secretary of not exceeding five Assistant General Counsels. The offices of General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue and of Solicitor of the Treasury were abolished and the powers, duties, and functions of such offices were transferred to the General Counsel. The General Counsel qualified and took office on June 19, 1934.

Organization of the Legal Division was begun immediately by the appointment of an Assistant General Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Thereafter an Assistant to the General Counsel and four Assistant General Counsels were appointed, each Assistant General Counsel being made answerable to the General Counsel for the handling of all legal problems arising in, or pertaining to, the particular bureaus and agencies of the Treasury Department placed under his jurisdiction.

The order of the Secretary of the Treasury of June 20, 1934, created a Legal Division, Department of the Treasury, under the supervision and direct control of the General Counsel. All personnel, records, books, furniture, and supplies connected with the legal activities of the Treasury Department were transferred to this Division.

Since organization, the Legal Division, in addition to the usual routine legal business of the Department, has engaged in the preparation of legal opinions, briefs, and memoranda for the information and guidance of administrative officers; prepared and examined numerous contracts pertaining to the public building program of the Treasury; drafted proposed legislation deemed necessary or desirable for the more efficient operation of the Department, for the collection of revenue, and for the safeguarding of the national credit; prepared Executive orders, and departmental orders and regulations, particularly with reference to gold and silver; and handled numerous questions arising in connection with the Emergency Banking Act.

BUREAU OF THE MINT

Institutions of the Mint Service

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934, six Mint Service institutions were in operation: Coinage mints at Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Denver; the assay office at New York, which makes large sales of fine gold bars; the mint at New Orleans conducted as an assay office; and the assay office at Seattle. The two last-named institutions are, in effect, bullion-purchasing agencies for the large institutions and also serve the public by making assays of ores and bullion. Electrolytic refineries are located at the New York, Denver, and San Francisco institutions.

*Gold operations*¹

Under the Executive order of August 29, 1933, providing that gold produced from domestic mines might be sold abroad at world-market prices, the United States mints and assay offices received, on consignment, newly produced gold, supported by affidavits evidencing eligibility, and delivered gold to buyers. The average sale price under this order was $30.99+ per fine ounce.

An Executive order of October 25 authorized acquisition by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of newly mined domestic gold received on consignment by United States mints and assay offices. Gold was received under this order at prices fixed by authorized Government officials from day to day, ranging from $31.36 to $34.06, averaging through January 15, 1934, $33.59 per fine ounce.

An Executive order of January 15, 1934, and regulations issued thereunder authorized purchase by the New York Federal Reserve Bank of gold received on consignment by the mints and assay offices, at prices fixed from day to day by the Secretary of the Treasury. Under this order the price was fixed at $34.45 per fine ounce and remained at that level until the President's proclamation of January 31, 1934.

The Presidential proclamation of January 31, 1934, authorized by the act of May 12, 1933, as amended by act of January 30, 1934, fixed the gold content of the dollar of the United States at 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ grains of gold 0.9 fine. This compares with the previous gold dollar consisting of 25.8 grains of gold 0.9 fine, and constitutes a reduction of about 41 percent, making the present gold dollar equivalent to about 59.06 cents of the former unit. Under this proclamation the United States mints and assay offices resumed the purchase of proffered eligible gold, at the price of \$35 per fine ounce fixed by the proclamation, and revalued the gold they held, at the same figure.

Gold purchased by the several Mint Service institutions during the fiscal year 1934, at $20.67 + per fine ounce amounted to $20,114,858.02; gold purchased at $35 per fine ounce amounted to $800,047,115.02. Gold from the Federal Reserve banks and agents and gold coin, both received through other Treasury offices, valued at $35 per fine ounce, amounted to $107,290,767.68 and $10,207,157.47, respectively; and gold bullion originally consigned to the mint institutions, purchased by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and finally received by the mint institutions as Government holdings through the Treasurer's office, amounted to $27,834,891.57 valued at $32.75. The increment resulting from the revaluation of amounts received at less than $35 an ounce was $15,854,442.50. The total of direct purchases by the mints and acquisitions through other Treasury offices, valued at $35 per fine ounce, was $981,349,232.26. In addition intermint service institution transfers, at $35 per fine ounce, amounted to $8,582,894.42. This constitutes a grand total of $989,932,126.68 at $35 a fine ounce.

Silver bullion acquired by the Mint Service institutions during the fiscal year 1934 totaled 32,578,359.12 fine ounces, the average cost of which was 54.377 cents per fine ounce, and the total cost $17,715,096.26. The items making up this total were: Silver received in exchange for bars bearing the Government stamp, 509,864.45 fine ounces; silver in gold deposits purchased at market rates, 354,825.84 fine ounces; silver received for credit on foreign debts at 50 cents per ounce (act of May 12, 1933), 22,734,824.35 fine ounces; newly mined domestic silver acquired at 64 + cents per ounce (Presidential proclamation of Dec. 21, 1933), 8,558,160.96 fine ounces; and silver received through other Treasury offices under the Silver Purchase Act of 1934 (act of June 19, 1934), valued at market rates, 420,683.52 fine ounces. In addition, United States coin received for recoinage totaled 5,026,139.37 fine ounces, the recoinage value being $6,949,092.15, and silver deposited in trust by other governments totaled 16,062,294.32 fine ounces. Silver transfers between Mint Service offices totaled 2,040,305.16 fine ounces. The aggregate of the above items is 55,707,097.97 fine ounces.

The market price of silver in New York (mean of bid and asked), during the fiscal year 1934, was at the lowest point on August 16, 1933, $0.353125; the highest point, $0.470625, was effective for three different periods, February 19, 1934, March 12, 13, and 14, and April 10 and 11, 1934. The fiscal year average was $0.42540, which compares with the prior fiscal year average of $0.28714. The prior year's range was between $0.245625 and $0.375625.

Coinage

Resumption early in 1934 of coinage demand by the public was a factor in the increased output of domestic coin during the fiscal year 1934. Total domestic pieces made in the fiscal year under review were 46,634,250 as compared with 32,154,300 in 1933. The 1934 value was $3,499,125 as compared with the prior year's value of $27,861,420; the decrease is explained by the absence of gold coinage in 1934. The 1934 domestic coinage consisted of 10,414,250 silver pieces valued at $3,136,925, and 36,220,000 bronze pieces valued at $362,200.

For foreign countries there were made during the fiscal year 1934, 19,040,000 pieces, consisting of 10,540,000 silver, and 8,500,000 nickel pieces. These were all made at the Philadelphia mint, and were for Colombia, Cuba, Ecuador, and Honduras. The prior year's coinage for foreign countries consisted of 5,921,800 pieces.

The total of domestic and foreign pieces coined in the fiscal year 1934 amounted to 65,674,250, compared with the 1933 total of 38,076,100.

Bullion deposit transactions

The number of bullion deposits again showed a large increase over recent prior years, the 1934 total being 115,870 as compared with 73,238 in 1933, 54,105 in 1932, and 36,098 in 1931. Small parcels of newly mined gold from placer miners, and from secondary materials returned from industry to monetary use, continued in large volume.

Refineries

The refineries produced, during the year, 2,387,817 fine ounces (81.8 tons) of electrolytically refined gold, compared with 2,336,943 fine ounces (80.1 tons) in the prior year; and 703,284 fine ounces (24.1 tons) of electrolytically refined silver, compared with 872,249 fine ounces (29.9 tons) in the prior year.

The stock of gold and silver in unrefined bullion on hand at the close of the fiscal year 1934 was 929 tons, an increase of about 99 tons during the year as compared with the prior year's increase of 165 tons. Except for a very short period during the past fiscal year, the electrolytic refinery at the New York assay office remained closed for the fourth successive year.

Gold and silver in the United States

Stock of coin and monetary bullion.—On June 30, 1934, the estimated stock of domestic coin in the United States was $961,884,257, of which $540,006,894 was standard silver dollars, $294,770,252 subsidiary silver coin, and $127,107,111 minor coin.

The stock of gold held in the Treasury on the same date was $7,856,180,556 at $35 per fine ounce; the stock of silver bullion was 59,476,956 fine ounces, an increase of 31,720,059 fine ounces.

Production of gold and silver.—Domestic gold production during the calendar year 1933 was $52,842,300 (at $20.67 + per ounce), compared with $50,626,000 in 1932. The output was about 52 percent of that for the record year 1915, when the total was $101,035,700.

Domestic silver production during 1933 totaled 23,002,629 ounces, valued at $8,050,920, compared with 23,980,773 ounces, valued at $6,762,578, for 1932. The record production of 1915 was 74,961,075 fine ounces, valued at $37,397,300.

Industrial consumption of gold and silver.—Gold consumption in the industrial arts during the calendar year 1933 is estimated at $17,013,260; the return from industrial use exceeded the estimated use by industry by $5,792,700, which is a reversal of the usual practice. Silver used in the arts is estimated at 29,343,451 fine ounces, of which 10,810,571 fine ounces was new material. As compared with the prior year, silver consumption was about 5,100,000 ounces more and gold consumption about $3,000,000 less.

Appropriations, expenses, and income

Appropriations available for the Mint Service during the fiscal year 1934 totaled $1,296,842, and reimbursements to appropriations for services rendered amounted to $148,132.50, making a total of $1,444,974.50.

Expenses amounted to $1,246,355.64, of which $1,208,871.52 was chargeable to appropriations and $37,484.12 chargeable to income.

The income realized by the Treasury from the Mint Service aggregated $3,116,524.81, of which $528,886.32 was seigniorage. The seigniorage on subsidiary silver coin was $197,941.16, and on bronze coin, $330,945.16.

The number and value of deposits, transfers, gross income, and expenses for the fiscal year 1934, and number of employees on June 30, 1934, at each institution are shown in the following table:

BUREAU OF NARCOTICS

Enforcement activities

The special attention which the Bureau has paid to eliminating the larger sources of supply of illicit narcotic drugs has unquestionably resulted in somewhat of a stringency in the illicit market. Prices of contraband narcotics have remained high, and the peddlers have found it necessary to adulterate the drug in an attempt to meet the market demand of addicts. Samples of drugs seized in the illicit traffic have been found upon analysis to contain as high as 90 percent of nonnarcotic ingredients.

Dearth of supply through the usual channels has also resulted in efforts by peddlers and addicts to divert narcotics from legitimate medical channels. Enforcement attention has been given to the methods of diversion, and the cooperation of State and municipal authorities has been solicited to supplement Federal action.

An important factor in achieving State cooperation is the enactment by several more States of the uniform State narcotic law which was mentioned in the previous report. Four additional States, Kentucky, Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Virginia, have now adopted the uniform narcotic law with little or no amendment, making a total of eight States which have put into effect this model legislation. A number of States have already enacted narcotic legislation comparable to the uniform narcotic law, but the Bureau is conducting an educational campaign to secure a more widespread adoption of the uniform law to afford a complete enforcement basis for narcotic drug traffic control.

The Convention for Limiting the Manufacture and Regulating the Distribution of Narcotic Drugs, to which the United States is a party, went into effect July 9, 1933. Pursuant to its obligation under this convention, the Bureau prepared and submitted for the first time, through the State Department, to the supervisory body at Geneva, estimates of the medical needs of the United States for manufactured narcotic drugs covered by the convention. These estimates formed the basis for limiting the manufacture of narcotic drugs in the United States during the calendar year 1934.

The following table shows the number of cases of violation, by registered and nonregistered persons, of the narcotic laws and the cases disposed of during the year as reported by Federal narcotic enforcement officers:

Extent and trend of narcotic traffic

On June 30, 1934, there were 317,394 registrants under the Harrison Narcotic Law, as amended, 218 as importers and manufacturers, 1,426 as wholesale dealers, 49,907 as retail dealers, 144,643 as practitioners, and 121,200 as dealers in and manufacturers of untaxed narcotic preparations, the latter number including registrants not required to pay occupational tax under the act.

During the year 131,194 pounds of opium were imported as compared with importations of 112,654 pounds during the previous year, or an increase of 18,540 pounds. Importations of coca leaves for medicinal purposes amounted to 246,679 pounds as compared with importations of 131,512 pounds during the previous year, or an increase of 115,166 pounds. A further quantity of 9,879 pounds of coca leaves was imported for manufacture of decocainized coca extracts as provided by section 6 of the act of June 14, 1930.

Exports of narcotic drugs of all kinds amounted to 1,871 ounces in 1933 and 2,834 ounces in 1934, or an increase of 963 ounces. The drugs exported during 1934 involved 50,959 taxable ounces of products.

The net quantity of pure drugs of all kinds sold to domestic purchasers by manufacturers amounted to 373,339 ounces as compared with sales of 338,759 ounces of such drugs during the previous year.

PROCUREMENT DIVISION

Provision for the creation of the Procurement Division was made in Executive Order No. 6166, dated June 10, 1933. The operation of this order, however, was delayed by Executive Order No. 6224 of July 27, 1933, but made effective with regard to this Division by the order of the Secretary of the Treasury, approved by the President, October 9, 1933.

Under these orders the Procurement Division is charged with the determination of policies and methods involved in the procurement, warehousing, and distribution of property, facilities, structures, improvements, machinery, equipment, stores, and supplies. The following functions and divisions were transferred to it under the same orders: The functions of the General Supply Committee of the Treasury Department; the functions of the Office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department (the administration of buildings containing major post-office activities, however, was transferred to the Post Office Department, and the administration of buildings containing neither postal nor Treasury activities was transferred to the Interior Department); the fuel yards of the Bureau of Mines, Department of Commerce; custody and control of the Federal warehouse; the functions of the Federal Coordinating Service relating to the disposition of seized and surplus property, and to the procurement, warehousing, and distribution of property as exercised by the area coordinators, by the Federal Real Estate Board, the Federal Specifications Board, the Federal Standard Stock Catalog Board, the Federal Traffic Board, and the Interdepartmental Board of Contracts and Adjustments.

The Procurement Division is comprised of two main branches, the Branch of Supply and the Public Works Branch.

Branch of Supply

The Branch of Supply performs all those functions formerly vested in the General Supply Committee, the fuel yards of the Bureau of Mines, Department of Commerce, and those functions of the former Federal coordinating service relating to the disposition of seized and surplus property, and to the procurement, warehousing, and distribution of property.

The order of the Secretary of the Treasury dated April 16, 1934, provided that the disposition of all property, including all motor vehicles, seized by the Government and made available for use by the Treasury Department shall be in charge of the Director of Procurement.

By order of the Secretary of the Treasury, effective June 1, 1934, the authority and responsibility for the acquisition of all motor equipment of the Treasury Department and the assignment thereof to the various agencies of the Department were vested in the Director of Procurement. This order also charged the Branch of Supply with responsibility for the maintenance, repair, and garaging of all motor equipment of the Treasury Department in the District of Columbia, and transferred to it all garages, garage equipment, and records.

During the fiscal year 1934, 5,548 bids were received and 2,269 contracts entered into, purchases by the departments thereunder aggregating approximately $20,000,000. In connection with the bids received, 30,357 samples were submitted.

Material, supplies, and equipment received at the Federal warehouse during the year amounted to 14,736,365 pounds and deliveries to the departments and establishments amounted to 16,239,936 pounds.

The fuel yards issued and delivered to the departments and establishments 286,727 tons of coal, 421 cords of wood, 22 tons of charcoal, 58 tons of coke, and 22,072 tons of oil valued at $1,645,990. In addition, stowage and reimbursable work performed amounted to $36,610.

Approximately 8,000 typewriters were overhauled or adjusted for the various Government activities in Washington, representing charges of $16,175.

The Federal Real Estate Section acted upon 3,647 requests for clearance to lease property, 66 applications to purchase, 62 applications for sales, and 6 transfers of land and/or buildings among the executive departments.

The Federal Traffic Section, in addition to its general coordinating activities, issued 2,461 routing orders covering 39,709 cars and furnished 31,774 rate quotations.

The Federal Specifications Board promulgated 72 new specifications, 111 revisions, and 95 amendments to Federal specifications, and in addition submitted to the departments for criticism 61 proposed new Federal specifications and 88 proposed revisions.

The Federal Standard Stock Catalog Board aided in bringing the general schedule of contracts into conformity with its catalog, and in securing the inclusion in the proposal forms revisions to Federal or departmental specifications to enable manufacturers or dealers to quote upon the requirements set forth.

The Federal Contract Board, together with its studies and recommendations relating to Government contracts, contract forms, and procedure, acted upon numerous requests for deviation from existing standard forms.

The Federal Surplus Property Section, in addition to its activities in the District of Columbia, handled 1,000 lists of surplus property in the field, effecting 1,170 transfers and granting 429 clearances for sale.

Since March 1934 the Branch of Supply has been the general liaison office between the Government activities and the National Recovery Administration in matters arising from the application of Executive Order No. 6646. All requests for exceptions to this order are submitted to the National Recovery Administration by the Director of Procurement. This procedure has materially expedited requests of the departments and has enabled the Director to maintain uniformity of applications.

The 143 Federal business associations, whose memberships comprise Federal officials and employees, functioned actively as agents of the Director of Procurement. Efforts have been made to promote cooperation among local Government activities, and economy and efficiency in transacting the routine business of the Government. The associations have been particularly active in the adjustment of office space and loan of property and equipment, consolidated procurement, and special surveys. The following table shows the financial status of the Branch of Supply at the close of the fiscal year 1934:

Public Works Branch

Building activities.—On October 16, 1933, the Public Works Branch assumed the duties of the Office of the Supervising Architect. Under an order approved by the Secretary of the Treasury on January 18, 1934, a temporary reorganization was effected, under an assistant director, with units headed, respectively, by a supervising engineer, a supervising architect, an office manager, a chairman of the Board of Award, and a chief of the Legal Section. The branch was moved in February, 1934, from the Treasury Building and rented quarters to the Federal Warehouse Building.

The functions of the Public Works Branch are to collect and prepare for submission to Congress data and estimates for public building projects; to acquire land for public building sites; to prepare plans, and specifications, and estimates for construction; to take bids and award contracts therefor; to supervise construction, remodeling, extension, etc.; to repair all public buildings transferred from the Treasury Department under the Executive order of June 10, 1933, to the custody of the Post Office and Interior Departments; and to operate, repair, equip, and maintain all public buildings in the custody of the Treasury Department outside of the District of Columbia.

Original public building program.—Under the act of March 31, 1933, the unobligated funds, appropriated by Congress for public buildings under the Keyes-Elliott Act and subsequent acts, became unavailable, except for items necessary to the completion of projects already under contract. Consequently, no new contracts were awarded under these acts during the fiscal year, but 203 projects at a limit of cost of $38,830,400, previously contracted for, were completed.

The status of the work under the original public building program was as follows at the end of the fiscal year 1934:

	Limit of cost
Completed, 578 projects.....	$170,321,221.78
Under contract, 157 projects.....	272,358,457.00

As of June 30, 1934, $494,642,437.31 had been specifically authorized under this program. Of this amount, $426,544,426.54 in the aggregate was obligated as of that date, and expenditures to June 30, 1934, under these obligations amounted to $396,612,828.91. Outstanding obligations at the end of the fiscal year were $29,931,597.63.

Program under the Public Works Administrator.—Under the National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 16, 1933, public building construction by the Treasury, not necessary to the completion of contracts made previous to that date, became subject to allotment by the Administrator of Public Works.

At various times during the fiscal year 1934 allotments of funds for 465 building projects in the sum of $67,410,788 were made to the Treasury Department by the Administrator of Public Works.

The status of the work under this program on June 30, 1934, is shown in terms of limits of cost in the following table:

Control, administration, and repair of Federal buildings.—In accordance with Executive Orders No. 6166, June 10, 1933, and No. 6224, dated July 27, 1933, the Treasury Department, during the fiscal year 1934, transferred to the Post Office Department the administration of 1,629 buildings, and to the Interior Department the administration of 11 buildings. The control of these buildings, however, is charged to the Procurement Division, as well as that of all other buildings listed in the following table, which indicates, as of June 30, 1934, the number, administration, and cost of the buildings (exclusive of land), for which repairs are payable from annual appropriations for repairs to public buildings:

Emergency construction program.—In the Emergency Appropriation Act approved June 19, 1934, Congress appropriated an additional sum of $65,000,000 for the emergency construction of public buildings throughout the country, to be selected by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Postmaster General from public building projects specified in statements nos. 2 and 3 in House Report 1879, Seventy-third Congress. In accordance with this legislation, 303 projects at a total limit of cost of $60,228,700 had been selected and approved by the end of the fiscal year, including administrative expenses and one item of $1,540,000 for structural and mechanical equipment repairs to Federal buildings throughout the country. Congress also authorized $2,500,000 from Public Works Administration funds for the purpose of permitting increases up to 10 percent in limits of cost of Public Works Administration and emergency construction projects, when the bid of the lowest responsible bidder exceeds the amount previously available for any project.

No expenditures were incurred, and no contracts were awarded under this legislation during the fiscal year 1934.

Private architectural services.—Under the authorization by Congress for the employment of private architects to the extent deemed necessary by the Secretary of the Treasury, contracts had been made by the end of the fiscal year 1933 with architectural firms for 349 projects, having limits of cost amounting to approximately 50 percent of the aggregate specific authorizations at that time. During 1934, 8 additional contracts were made, and 56 of those in force were terminated or settled, leaving 301 contracts in force at the end of the fiscal year 1934.

Total expenditures.—Total expenditures for all purposes for the Public Works Branch during the fiscal year 1934, together with outstanding contract liabilities and remaining unencumbered balances of appropriations, are shown in the following table:

Register of the Treasury

The Register of the Treasury is charged with the final audit and custody of all retired Federal securities, including interest coupons, and renders monthly certification to the Comptroller General of all public debt securities redeemed by the Treasurer of the United States. The Register also establishes credits due the Federal Reserve banks and the Division of Loans and Currency for securities forwarded by them on account of exchanges, replacements, transfers of registration, etc. During the fiscal year 1934 the Register's Office has taken over the retirement and custody of securities issued by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and the Farm Credit Administration.

During the fiscal year 1934 more than 35,000,000 security documents, aggregating over $27,000,000,000, were retired in the Register's Office, which represents an increase of over 5,500,000 pieces as compared with the previous fiscal year. This increase is due principally to the redemption of portions of the Fourth Liberty Loan and the retirement of securities issued by agencies of the Government.

The following statement sets forth, by class of security, the total number of documents, together with the face value thereof, which were received, examined, and filed during the fiscal year 1934:

Division of Public Debt Accounts and Audit

This Division maintains administrative control accounts for all official transactions in the public debt conducted by the various Treasury offices and the Federal Reserve banks as fiscal agents of the United States, and also for transactions involving paper used for printing public debt securities, United States currency, stamps, etc., and other miscellaneous securities and documents in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Numerous administrative audit functions are performed in connection with the foregoing. The Division also maintains control accounts for various classes of unissued currency in reserve stocks of the Treasurer of the United States and the Comptroller of the Currency, and conducts administrative examinations and physical audits of such unissued stocks of currency and of cash balances in custody and collateral securities held in trust in the offices of the Treasurer of the United States.

During the fiscal year, 77 physical audits were conducted, involving securities, currency, paper, interest checks, etc., amounting to about $18,000,000,000 in face value and over 65,000,000 in number of pieces.

The Division determined and certified credits to the cumulative sinking fund and amounts in the sinking fund available for expenditure from time to time, interest on all classes of public debt securities which became due and payable on their respective interest-payment dates, and the amount of each form of public debt securities and unpaid interest outstanding each month. It prepared estimates of interest to become payable on public debt securities in future fiscal years, and expenditures to be made on account of retirements for the sinking fund and other special accounts, and prepared statements showing the accountability of Federal Reserve banks for public debt securities for the use of Federal Reserve Board examiners in their periodical examinations of those banks. Numerous data pertaining to public debt transactions for various interested offices and individuals were also compiled.

During the last half of the fiscal year the work of this Division was greatly increased on account of activities in connection with the various issues of bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and the Farm Credit Administration, which were handled by the Treasury Department under agreements entered into with those corporations. During this period about 350,000 shipments of these bonds were made, amounting to over 2,800,000 pieces with a face value of $1,270,000,000. The work of this Division involved the securing of receipts in connection with all of these shipments and the transmission of copies of such receipts to the corporation which authorized the issue, in addition to the regular auditing and accounting work incident to the verification of all transactions in these bonds, and the maintenance of control and detail accounts reflecting this information.

Division of Sanitary Reports and Statistics

Reports to the Public Health Service from 27 States indicate a general death rate for the calendar year 1933 of 10.5 per 1,000 population. The death rate in 1932 which was the lowest previously recorded rate for these States was 10.8 per 1,000. New low death rates for tuberculosis, typhoid fever, and diphtheria were recorded for 1933 in these States.

Late in July 1933 there appeared in the suburban area of St. Louis, Mo., a type of encephalitis which had not heretofore made its appearance in the United States in serious epidemic form. A total of approximately 1,100 cases was reported during the epidemic, with a mortality of about 20 percent.

The Public Health Reports was issued regularly each week. Information on outbreaks of disease dangerous to the public health and on the prevalence of communicable diseases was collected, and the data were made available to health officers and other sanitarians. Copies of publications distributed during the fiscal year 1934 numbered 179,370, as compared with 130,802 during the preceding fiscal year.

Division of Foreign and Insular Quarantine and Immigration

Quarantine transactions.—During the fiscal year 14,796 vessels and 1,737,416 persons from foreign ports were inspected by quarantine officers at continental and insular ports, as shown in the following table:

Inspections by quarantine officers during the fiscal year 1934

Inspection at—	Vessels	Passengers	Seamen
Ports in continental United States.....	11, 576	524, 283	852, 749
Insular ports.....	3, 220	135, 125	225, 259
Foreign ports, prior to embarkation.....	211	51, 574	8, 198
Total.....	15, 007	710, 982	1, 086, 206

In addition, 3,668 airplanes, carrying 26,951 persons, arrived at 19 airports of entry in the United States from foreign ports, requiring quarantine inspection. Of the number of persons, 4,364 were aliens who were medically examined by medical officers of the Public Health Service.

A total of 18,417 passengers who embarked at European ports for United States ports was vaccinated and 7,226 were deloused under the surveillance of medical officers of the Public Health Service, and 17,818 pieces of baggage were disinfected to safeguard against the introduction of smallpox and typhus fever into United States territory.

A total of 1,289 vessels was fumigated either because of the occurrence of disease on board or for the destruction of rats as a plague-preventive measure.

Six-thousand and seventy dead rats were retrieved following fumigation, 4,229 of which were examined for plague infection.

None of the quarantinable diseases was imported into the United States or its dependencies during the year.

The regulations governing the importation of birds of the parrot family into ports of the United States were revised to prohibit the importation of birds under the age of 8 months (as young birds were found to be especially likely to transmit infection) and to provide for the laboratory examination of suspected birds upon arrival at ports of entry.

The International Sanitary Convention for Aerial Navigation was signed on behalf of the United States by the American minister at The Hague on April 6, 1934. During the year ended April 12, 1934, the latest date on which the convention was open for original signatures, 23 countries, including the United States, had signed the convention. Its ratification by the signatory countries is now pending. The ratifications of 10 countries must be deposited with the Government of the Netherlands before the convention will become effective.

Medical examination of aliens.—There were 680,152, alien passengers and 783,377 alien seamen examined by medical officers at the various ports of entry. Of this number 1,502 passengers and 507 seamen were certified to the proper immigration officials, in accordance with the act of February 5, 1917, as being afflicted with one or more mental or physical defects or diseases calling for exclusion under the immigration laws.

The work of the medical officers of the Public Health Service on duty in the Philippine Islands was increased by the acceptance by the Philippine Legislature, on May 1, 1934, of the Philippine Islands Independence Act, which provides for the application of the immigration laws of the United States to citizens of the Philippine Islands and for the administration of such laws by Foreign Service officers of the United States.

In order to facilitate the entry of Mexican citizens desirous of temporarily visiting the United States, officers of the Public Health Service on duty at quarantine stations on the Mexican border were authorized to pass without formal examination all persons holding identification cards issued to them by American consular officers in the interior of Mexico, provided they show no evidence of quarantinable disease at time of entry.

Examination of prospective immigrants abroad.—There were 35,539 applicants for immigration visas examined by medical officers in American consulates in foreign countries. Of this number, 22,420 were examined in Europe, and the remainder were examined in the Western Hemisphere. Of the number examined, 5,049 in Europe and 1,955 in the Western Hemisphere were reported by the medical officers to the American consuls as being afflicted with one or more mental or physical defects, and 1,446 in Europe and 881 in the Western Hemisphere were refused visas for medical reasons. None of the aliens to whom immigration visas had been issued was certified upon arrival at a United States port as being afflicted with a defect or disease requiring mandatory deportation.

Division of Domestic Quarantine

The State health agencies continued their cooperation in connection with the certification of sources of drinking water used by interstate railroads, busses, vessels, and airplanes. Of the 2,241 supplies used, 94 percent were inspected and controlled. Of the vessels engaged in interstate traffic, 52.6 percent were inspected and issued certificates of compliance with the regulations governing drinking-water systems, while 20 percent were issued temporary certificates pending inspection.

Surveys and inspections of shellfish-growing areas and shipping establishments were continued in order to determine the efficiency of State control over the sanitation of the shellfish industry. A total of 1,498 State certificates was approved during the year.

Assistance was rendered States engaged in stream pollution investigations, and, with funds allotted by the Public Works Administration at the request of the Chesapeake Bay Authority, a study was made of the pollution of the Hampton Roads area of Chesapeake Bay.

Allotments from the Public Works Administration to other Federal agencies for public works projects increased the public health engineering services rendered by the Public Health Service to such agencies considerably over the volume of service rendered in previous years. This work amounted to 43 percent of the time of the engineering field force, of which over 26 percent was time devoted to assisting the National Park Service and Bureau of Indian Affairs. As in previous years, assistance was rendered the Procurement Division, Public Works Branch (formerly the Supervising Architect's Office), the Bureau of Prisons, the Lighthouse Service, and others. The design of a sewage disposal plant for the Beltsville Experimental Station of the Department of Agriculture was also supervised.

A spread of rodent plague to three additional counties in California necessitated more intensive work by the Public Health Service in cooperation with the State health authorities toward the close of the fiscal year. Rodent infection of a virulent type was discovered in Kern, Tulare, and Modoc Counties. Human cases occurred in Tulare County, Calif., and in Lake County, Oreg. It is possible that rodent infection has spread to other localities in the inland areas of the northwestern States.

To protect the port of Honolulu from the possible introduction of plague infection from the Island of Maui, the Public Health Service inaugurated control activities in cooperation with the Territorial authorities of Hawaii.

Studies of health problems in rural areas were continued. On account of the drastic reduction in the appropriation for rural health work, financial assistance to county health units was abandoned; the maintenance of advisory service for State health authorities on rural health activities was continued, however. There was a decrease in the number of full-time county health units maintained in the several States from 581 in 1932 to 533 in 1933.

Allotments for trachoma eradication work were reduced, but cooperative activities were continued in Tennessee, Kentucky, and Missouri; 32,677 persons were examined, 6,329 treatments were given in field clinics and dispensaries, and 726 cases were admitted to hospitals.

Division of Scientific Research

The original systematic program of cancer research was continued in its major aspects. As in the past the investigations included studies of the biological effects of radiation, resistance and susceptibility to malignant growths, and biochemical, cytological, physiological, and pathological studies.

Epidemiological and laboratory studies of the St. Louis encephalitis epidemic were conducted by service officers working in cooperation with State and local health authorities and the Washington University Medical School.

Further attempts have been made by laboratory and field studies to determine the factors predisposing to rheumatic heart disease, with particular attention being given to a determination of the role which subclinical scurvy may play in the etiology of rheumatic carditis.

Studies to determine the basic needs of the people in matters pertaining to public health practices in county health departments are being continued. The information thus gained will be of value in planning future rural health organizations.

The personnel engaged in field investigations of malaria has planned and supervised the malaria control activities undertaken in connection with the Civil Works Administration emergency program which commenced in November 1933, and which were in progress at the close of the fiscal year.

The study of the attempt to control malaria in tropical climates by the administration of atabrine alone was brought to a conclusion, the findings indicating that while the drug controls the clinical attack rate of malaria, it does not materially affect the infection rate. However, a combination of plasmochin and atabrine has produced encouraging results.

Researches in the malaria therapy of paresis have been continued, and studies conducted to perfect methods for retaining the viability of sporozoites after dissection of infected mosquitoes have been very successful.

Clinical studies of leprosy have been directed toward investigations of the early manifestations of the disease. Experimental studies have been concerned with attempts to determine the mode of entrance of the leprosy bacillus into the human body.

It was felt that the correlation between blacktongue (canine pellagra) and human pellagra had been worked out thoroughly enough for sufficiently reliable results on the study of the pellagra-preventive value of foods to be obtained from experiments with dogs, and so the studies of human pellagra conducted at the Milledgeville State Hospital, Milledgeville, Ga., were discontinued. Considerable attention is being given to the development of a satisfactory rat method for testing pellagra-preventive activity.

The incidence and mortality of psittacosis in the United States were greater than during the preceding fiscal year, due largely to an epidemic occurring in a Pittsburgh department store. From the studies conducted by the Public Health Service it is now apparent that psittacosis can be controlled by adequate control of breeding and commercial handling of psittacine birds.

Construction work on the new laboratory unit at Hamilton, Mont., for the study of Rocky Mountain spotted fever and related diseases has been completed except for mechanical installations. Two hundred and twelve liters of vaccine were manufactured for the 1934 season. The year-by-year increase in the demand for vaccine continues. An additional 40.8 liters of vaccine were furnished for use by the personnel in Civilian Conservation Camps located in sections where the danger of infection is greatest or the disease most fatal.

A statistical analysis of data on weights of children, collected in May 1933, in studies of child health and development in relation to the economic crisis, indicates that in comparison with the average weight for age and sex obtained during the years 1923-28, there was no significant difference in the weights of boys during the last few years of the depression, but that there was a slight increase in the number of underweight girls.

A dental health survey undertaken in cooperation with the American Dental Association has been in progress and is designed to show existing facilities in State departments and institutions and to determine the dental needs of children of school age.

In connection with studies of industrial dermatoses, investigations were made of processes of manufacture with reference to the skin hazards involved in 27 plants employing a total of 19,483 workers.

Studies of the health of workers in dusty trades have included the effects of the respective dusts on anthracite coal miners and talc workers, the physiological response of the peritoneal tissue to dusts introduced as foreign bodies, silicosis among granite quarriers, pulmonary infection in pneumoconioses, and the effect of inhaled marble dust as observed in Vermont marble finishers.

The study of atmospheric pollution in 14 cities, made to determine the average conditions and various fundamental relations which might prove of importance in programs for smoke abatement, has been completed and a report of the study is in progress.

Research activities in connection with milk investigations have included laboratory studies on the chlorine and thermal resistance of the B. coli communior test organism, the bactericidal treatment of milk coolers, design of air- and foam-heating equipment, and the washing and bactericidal treatment of milk cans and milk bottles.

The statistical analysis of the data collected on sickness and mortality among families of the unemployed was continued. The results indicate higher sickness rates among the recent poor class and a rising mortality in the class most severely affected by the depression in the face of a downward trend in the death rate in the general population.

The efficiency of the activated sludge method of sewage purification and stream oxidation continue to be the major research studies at the stream pollution laboratory.

Studies at the National Institute of Health included investigations of such diseases as typhus, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, epidemic encephalitis, relapsing fever, tularemia, poliomyelitis, and trachoma, as well as studies relating to the control of biologic products in accordance with the act of July 1, 1902.

Work on the etiology of epidemic encephalitis which prevailed in St. Louis, Mo., in the summer of 1933 has led to the isolation, at the National Institute of Health, of a virus that is distinct, in its animal symptomatology, pathology, and immunology, from the other viruses isolated from six fatal cases of the disease.

On the basis of animal experiments a chemical method was discovered for the treatment of bichloride poisoning in human cases.

In connection with sugar researches the 5-carbon sugar xylose has been transformed to the 4-carbon sugar threose by a method which will permit its preparation in sufficient quantity for biochemical study. The basic problem of carbohydrate nutrition is being advanced by such work.

Following the outbreak of amebic dysentery in Chicago in the summer of 1933, the Public Health Service, in conjunction with the Chicago city health department, undertook epidemiological and laboratory studies of this disease which are still in progress.

Division of Marine Hospitals and Relief

The daily average number of patients in hospitals was 4,455; the daily average number of out-patient treatments was 2,804; there were 42,611 patients in hospital during the year. A total of 305,155 beneficiaries received treatment and other medical services at the marine hospitals and other relief stations, and on June 30, 1934, there were 4,531 in hospital, representing 599 more patients than were in hospital on June 30, 1933; and of this number 157 were old-line beneficiaries, 230 patients from the Civilian Conservation Corps, 113 patients from the Civil Works Administration, and 99 patients from the Veterans' Administration. A total of 24,649 patients from the Civil Works Administration was treated during the year, the Service having been obliged to care for them without additional appropriation, and, therefore, it was necessary to secure a release of $120,000 of impounded funds for the purpose.

The hospitals continued to work with reduced appropriations and personnel. In 1933 the personnel was reduced by 476 persons, following the withdrawal of veterans from marine hospitals. However, the enactment of Public No. 141 liberalized the benefits to veterans, and more of these patients have been admitted to marine hospitals; on June 30, 1934, there were 99 in hospital as compared with 37 on June 30, 1933, adding somewhat to the income and making it possible to employ a few additional persons. Throughout the year it was necessary to practice every economy, and it became apparent on January 2, 1934, that unless additional funds were secured some of the relief stations would have to be closed. Upon presenting the facts to the Director of the Budget, $150,000 of impounded funds was released.

The per diem cost was forced down to the low figure of $3.05 because of insufficient available appropriations. This was done by keeping personnel at the lowest practicable number and foregoing, for the time being, the replacement and repair of equipment in normal amount.

Division of Venereal Diseases

The program of disease control includes a study of methods of treatment and prevention of venereal diseases, dissemination of information concerning these diseases, and cooperation with State boards of health for their control. In furthering this program, experimental research work has been continued at the laboratory of the Stapleton Marine Hospital. The subjects of study during the year were the chemical prophylaxis of syphilis, the possibility of the existence of a syphilis carrier, culture of Treponema pallidum, and lymphogranuloma inguinale.

Results of treatment for syphilis have been studied over a period of several years. This investigation is carried on in cooperation with several of the leading syphilologists of the United States, material from five large clinics being made available for study. Financial assistance was given by the Milbank Memorial Fund. In April of 1934, an article entitled "Standard Treatment Procedure in Early Syphilis: a Résumé of Modern Principles" was published in Venereal Disease Information, issued by the Division. The findings of this important study were given further publicity by an exhibit of charts at the annual meeting of the American Medical Association. Studies of other phases of clinical syphilis, part of this same undertaking, have also been published and have had wide circulation.

Subscriptions to Venereal Disease Information have shown a gradual gain since January 1934, as a result, in part at least, of the circularization of the county medical societies through the cooperation of the State boards of health, and of fourth-year students of accredited medical schools. Reprints of six of the special articles have had wide distribution. The bulletin is a valuable contribution to the program for the control of venereal disease, as is attested by the increasing number of requests for further information received from subscribers. These requests come from syphilologists, social workers, and general practitioners in all sections of the country.

Efforts directed toward the prevention of disease were carried on largely in cooperation with the State departments of health. In two States control activities were directed by Public Health Service officers. In North Carolina the plan of enlisting the aid of physicians throughout the State to act as cooperating clinicians was adopted. Thirty-three physicians were furnished with drugs for the free treatment of persons who were carried on the relief rolls and others who, in the judgment of the local relief officers, were unable to pay for treatment. In Tennessee, renewed activity in the economic life of the State made special provisions necessary. One request for aid came from the medical director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, in response to which a comprehensive program for venereal disease control was prepared and put into effect.

The clinic at Hot Springs, Ark., the only clinic which is maintained by the Public Health Service, has faced the most trying year of its existence. The tremendous influx of transients into the city brought with it an enormous increase in the number of applicants for admission to the clinic. Additional personnel was necessary to handle the work, which has increased more than 50 percent over the preceding year.

State boards of health have been urged to encourage private physicians and clinic directors to submit reports of all cases of venereal diseases. At the present time it is estimated that only about one-half of all cases under treatment are reported. Activities of 615 cooperating clinics were reported during the year. Approximately 128,000 cases were admitted; more than 55,000 were discharged as cured, and more than 3,000,000 treatments were given. From 47 State departments of health approximately 385,000 cases of venereal diseases were reported. More than 1,276,000 doses of arsphenamine were administered, and about 2,000,000 laboratory examinations made.

Division of Mental Hygiene

The activities of the Division of Mental Hygiene included studies of the nature and treatment of drug addiction and dissemination of information upon the subject; studies of the abusive uses of narcotic drugs; administrative functions incident to the establishment of narcotic farms; supervising and furnishing the medical and psychiatric services for the Federal penal and correctional system; and cooperating with other agencies interested in the various phases of work with which the Division is concerned.

Two additional medical units were established during the year, one at the United States Penitentiary, Alcatraz Island, Calif., and one at the Federal Prison Camp, Tucson, Ariz., making a total of 17 medical units being operated by the Public Health Service in connection with the correctional institutions under supervision of the Department of Justice.

Special studies of the nature of drug addiction were continued at the United States Penitentiary Annex, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., incident to the establishment of the first United States Narcotic Farm. Progress has been made in the construction of the latter institution, and it is anticipated that it will be completed and ready to receive admissions by April 1, 1935. Funds were made available through the Public Works Program for beginning construction of the second institution at Fort Worth, Tex.

Further studies were made dealing with the addiction liability of codeine and other substances, including dihydrodesoxymorphine-D made from opium by a process discovered by Dr. Lyndon F. Small, consultant in alkaloid chemistry. Application for patenting this process was made by Dr. Small, the patent to become the property of the United States and to be lodged with the Secretary of the Treasury as ex officio custodian thereof.

Division of Personnel and Accounts

Personnel.—The operation of the marine hospitals and quarantine stations was attended by difficulty, due to the reduction of personnel made necessary by decreased appropriations. At the hospitals, for example, it was necessary in many instances to employ internes in place of the experienced physicians, which the character of the work required.

On July 1, 1934, the regular commissioned corps of the Public Health Service consisted of 370 commissioned officers, of whom 48 were on waiting orders. The reserve officers on active duty numbered 37. PUBLIC WORKS OF ART PROJECT

The Public Works of Art Project was organized on December 8, 1933, as an emergency relief activity designed to aid those of artistic inclination who were in need of employment and qualified as artists to produce work of value. Policies were outlined by an advisory committee composed of 6 leading authorities, and 5 directors were named to coordinate and supervise procedure. The country was divided into 16 regions with a chairman named for each. More than 600 private citizens contributed their services and expert knowledge without remuneration in administering the project. Artists given employment numbered 3,749.

The project was financed by an allotment of $1,408,381 from the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator. A total of $1,184,748.32 was paid out in the form of artists' pay rolls, and $127,429.61 on administrative pay roll, travel, and miscellaneous supplies, leaving an unexpended balance of $96,203.07 as of June 30, 1934.

The project produced some 15,663 works of art, including 3,821 oil paintings, 54 portraits, 1,076 etchings, 2,938 water colorings, and 647 pieces of sculpture. A large proportion of these works of art has been allocated to publicly owned buildings throughout the country, such as public libraries, public schools, museums, Government offices, etc. The distribution is now being completed by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. The allocations have been made with the understanding that the works of art remain the property of the Federal Government.

Field reports indicate that the project was well received throughout the country. A complete report on the activities of the project has been made to the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator.

The Secretary of the Treasury invites subscriptions, from the people of the United States, at par, for 3¼ percent Treasury bonds of 1944-46, of an issue of bonds of the United States authorized by the Second Liberty Bond act, approved September 24, 1917, as amended, in payment of which only Fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ percent bonds of 1933-38 (hereinafter referred to as Fourth 4¼'s) called for redemption on April 15, 1934, and Treasury notes of series A-1934, maturing May 2, 1934, may be tendered. The amount of the issue will be limited to the amount of such called Fourth 4¼'s and Treasury notes of series A-1934, tendered and accepted. Fourth 4¼'s not called for redemption on April 15, 1934, may not be tendered under this circular.

DESCRIPTION OF BONDS

The bonds will be dated April 16, 1934, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 3¼ percent per annum, payable on October 15, 1934, on a semiannual basis, and thereafter semiannually on April 15 and October 15 in each year until the principal amount becomes payable. They will mature April 15, 1946, but may be redeemed at the option of the United States on and after April 15, 1944, in whole or in part, at par and accrued interest, on any interest day or days, on 4 months' notice of redemption given in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe. In case of partial redemption the bonds to be redeemed will be determined by such method as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. From the date of redemption designated in any such notice, interest on the bonds called for redemption shall cease.

Bearer bonds with interest coupons attached and bonds registered as to principal and interest will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, and $100,000. Provision will be made for the interchange of bonds of different denominations and of coupon and registered bonds and for the transfer of registered bonds under rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The bonds shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority, except (a) estate or inheritance taxes, and (b) graduated additional income taxes, commonly known as surtaxes, and excess-profits and war-profits taxes, now or hereafter imposed by the United States, upon the income or profits of individuals, partnerships, associations, or corporations. The interest on an amount of bonds authorized by said act approved September 24, 1917, as amended, the principal of which does not exceed $5,000, owned by any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, shall be exempt from the taxes provided for in clause (b) above.

The bonds will be acceptable to secure deposits of public moneys, and will bear the circulation privilege only to the extent provided in the act approved July 22, 1932, as amended. They will not be entitled to any privilege of conversion.

The bonds will be subject to the general regulations of the Treasury Department, now or hereafter issued, governing United States bonds.

APPLICATION AND ALLOTMENT

Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve banks and branches and at the Treasury Department, Washington. Banking institutions generally will handle applications for subscribers, but only the Federal Reserve banks and the Treasury Department are authorized to act as official agencies.

Subject to the reservations contained in the next succeeding paragraph, all subscriptions will be allotted in full.

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any subscription, in whole or in part, and to allot less than the amount of bonds applied for, and to close the books as to any or all subscriptions or classes of subscriptions at any time without notice; the Secretary of the Treasury also reserves the right to make allotment in full upon applications for smaller amounts and to make reduced allotments upon, or to reject, applications for larger amounts, to make classified allotments or to make allotments upon a graduated scale or to adopt any or all of said methods or such other methods of allotment and classification of allotments as shall be deemed by him to be in the public interest; and his action in these respects shall be final. Allotment notices will be sent out promptly upon allotment, and the basis of the allotment will be publicly announced.

PAYMENT

Payment for any bonds allotted may be made only in called Fourth 4¼'s, which will be accepted at par, with no adjustment of interest, or in Treasury notes of series A-1934 (with coupon dated May 2, 1934, attached), which will be accepted at par with an adjustment of accrued interest as of April 16, 1934, and should be made when the subscription is tendered, except that Fourth 4¼'s which have previously been surrendered for redemption on April 15, 1934, in accordance with the provisions of Department Circular No. 501, will be accepted as payment upon request in proper form of the owners thereof, such subscriptions to be presented through the same channels as were the called bonds when surrendered for redemption. If any subscription is rejected, in whole or in part, any called Fourth 4¼'s which may have been tendered and not accepted will be held for redemption, and any Treasury notes of series A-1934 which may have been tendered and not accepted will be returned to the subscriber.

SURRENDER OF CALLED FOURTH 4¼'S ON EXCHANGE SUBSCRIPTIONS

The bonds must be delivered at the expense and risk of the holder. Facilities for transportation of bonds by registered mail insured may be arranged between incorporated banks and trust companies and the Federal Reserve banks, and holders may take advantage of such arrangements when available, utilizing such incorporated banks and trust companies as their agents. Incorporated banks and trust companies are not agents of the United States under this circular. (Department Circular No. 509)

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

To Holders of Fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ Percent Bonds of 1933-38, and Others Concerned:

I. NOTICE OF SECOND CALL FOR PARTIAL REDEMPTION BEFORE MATURITY OF FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN 4¼ PERCENT BONDS OF 1933-38 (FOURTH 4¼'s)¹

1. All outstanding Fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ percent bonds of 1933-38 (hereinafter referred to as Fourth 4¼'s) bearing serial numbers the final digit of which is 8 or 2 (such serial numbers in the case of permanent coupon bonds being

¹ Fourth 4¼'s (temporary coupon, permanent coupon, and registered) are numbered serially beginning with no. 1 for each denomination; in the case of permanent coupon bonds each serial number is prefixed by a distinguishing letter, the letters A to K (omitting I) being used, which letters, in order, rotate with and correspond to the final digits from 1 to 0, respectively.

Fourth 4¼'s called for redemption on Apr. 15, 1934, bear serial numbers ending in 9, 0, or 1 (in the case of permanent coupon bonds preceded by the distinguishing letter J, K, or A, respectively); Fourth 4¼'s included in the second call for partial redemption on Oct. 15, 1934, bear serial numbers ending in 8 or 2 (in the case of permanent coupon bonds preceded by the distinguishing letter H or B, respectively); uncalled Fourth 4¼'s bear serial numbers ending in 3, 4, 5, 6, or 7 (in the case of permanent coupon bonds preceded by the distinguishing letter C, D, E, F, or G, respectively).

prefixed by the corresponding distinguishing letter H or B, respectively), are hereby called for redemption on October 15, 1934, on which date interest on such bonds called for redemption will cease.

2. This second call for partial redemption is made pursuant to the provision for redemption contained in the bonds and in Treasury Department Circular No. 121, dated September 28, 1918, under which the bonds were originally issued, the bonds to be redeemed having been determined by lot in the manner prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

3. Outstanding Fourth 4½'s bearing serial numbers (and prefix letters) other than those designated are not included in or affected by this second call for partial redemption.

II. TRANSACTIONS IN CALLED AND UNCALLED BONDS

1. Pursuant to the first call for partial redemption on April 15, 1934 (see Department Circular No. 501, dated Oct. 12, 1933), all Fourth 4½'s outstanding October 12, 1933, were divided into two separate and distinct classes: Called bonds, and uncalled bonds. Hereafter such Fourth 4½'s called for redemption on April 15, 1934, shall be designated "first-called" bonds. Pursuant to the second call for partial redemption, and effective at the close of business on this date, all outstanding Fourth 4½'s included in the second call for partial redemption on October 15, 1934, will be included in the class of called bonds and shall be designated "second-called" bonds. The Treasury Department, and the Federal Reserve banks as fiscal agents of the United States, will observe this division of Fourth 4½'s into three classes—first-called, second-called, and uncalled bonds—and hereafter in all transactions affecting second-called and uncalled Fourth 4½'s, including exchanges of denominations, exchanges of coupon bonds for registered bonds, exchanges of registered bonds for coupon bonds, and transfers of registered bonds: (1) Only bonds bearing distinguishing serial numbers or letters falling within the class second-called bonds will be issued upon exchange or transfer of second-called bonds, and (2) only bonds bearing distinguishing serial numbers or letters falling within the class uncalled bonds will be issued upon exchange or transfer of uncalled bonds. Exchanges or transfers as between second-called and uncalled bonds will not be permitted. Denominational exchanges of coupon bonds within the class "called for redemption on October 15, 1934" (second-called bonds) will terminate on that date. Transfers and exchanges of registered bonds falling within the class "called for redemption on October 15, 1934" (second-called bonds) will terminate on September 15, 1934, the date of the closing of the transfer books.

2. In accordance with the provisions of Treasury Department Circular No. 121, dated September 28, 1918, the provisions of Treasury Department Circular No. 300, dated July 31, 1923, prescribing regulations with respect to United States bonds and notes, which were modified by Department Circular No. 501, dated October 12, 1933, are hereby further modified accordingly with respect to transactions in Fourth 4½'s.

III. PAYMENT OR EXCHANGE

1. Payment of called bonds on October 15, 1934.—Holders of any outstanding Fourth 4½'s included in the second call for partial redemption on October 15, 1934, will be entitled to have their bonds redeemed and paid at par on October 15, 1934, with interest in full to that date. After October 15, 1934, interest will not accrue on any bonds included in this second call for partial redemption on that date. (See secs. IV and V of this circular for instructions for presentation of bonds for redemption on Oct. 15, 1934, under this second call.)

2. Optional exchange offering.—Holders of any outstanding Fourth 4½'s included in the second call for partial redemption on October 15, 1934, may, in advance of October 15, 1934, be offered the privilege of exchanging all or part of their called bonds for other interest-bearing obligations of the United States. Holders who desire to avail themselves of an exchange privilege, if and when announced, should watch for an announcement thereof, and should request their bank or trust company to notify them when information regarding any exchange offering is received. (In case of an optional exchange offering, instructions then given in the public announcement should be followed in presenting called bonds for exchange.)

IV. RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING REDEMPTION

Pursuant to the second call for partial redemption, as set forth in section I of this circular, the following rules and regulations are hereby prescribed to govern the surrender of Fourth 4½'s called for redemption on October 15, 1934:

1. Presentation and surrender of coupon bonds.—Any Fourth 4½'s in coupon form, which are included in the second call for partial redemption, should be presented and surrendered to any Federal Reserve bank or branch, or to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., for redemption on October 15, 1934. The bonds must be delivered at the expense and risk of holders (see par. 8 of this section) and should be accompanied by appropriate written advice. (See form P. D. 1381 attached hereto.) Checks in payment of principal will be mailed to the address given in the form of advice accompanying the bonds surrendered.

2. Coupons dated October 15, 1934, which become payable on that date, should be detached from any Fourth 4½'s included in the second call for partial redemption before such bonds are presented for redemption on October 15, 1934, and such coupons should be collected in regular course when due. All coupons pertaining to such bonds bearing dates subsequent to October 15, 1934, must be attached to any such bonds when presented for redemption, provided, however, if any such coupons are missing from bonds so presented for redemption the bonds nevertheless will be redeemed, but the full face amount of any such missing coupons will be deducted from the payment to be made on account of such redemption, and any amounts so deducted will be held in the Treasury to provide for adjustments or refunds on account of such missing coupons as may subsequently be presented.

3. The final coupon attached to temporary coupon bonds became due on October 15, 1920. The holders of any such temporary bonds which are included in the second call for partial redemption on October 15, 1934, will receive all past due interest from October 15, 1920, when the bonds are redeemed pursuant to such call. Any coupons now attached to any such temporary bonds should be detached and collected in regular course.

4. Presentation and surrender of registered bonds.—Any Fourth 4½'s in registered form, which are included in the second call for partial redemption, must be assigned by the registered payees or assigns thereof, or by their duly constituted representatives, in accordance with the general regulations of the Treasury Department governing assignments, in the form indicated in the next paragraph hereof, and should thereafter be presented and surrendered to any Federal Reserve bank or branch, or to the Division of Loans and Currency, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., for redemption on October 15, 1934. The bonds must be delivered at the expense and risk of holders (see par. 8 of this section) and should be accompanied by appropriate written advice. (See form P. D. 1382 attached hereto.) In all cases checks in payment of principal will be mailed to the address given in the form of advice accompanying the bonds surrendered.

5. If the registered holder of record, or an assignee holding under proper assignment from the registered holder of record, or a duly constituted representative of such registered holder or assignee, desires that payment of the principal be made to him, the bonds should be assigned to "The Secretary of the Treasury for redemption." In case it is desired to have payment of the registered bonds made to someone other than the registered holder of record, without intermediate assignment, the bonds may be assigned to "The Secretary of the Treasury for redemption for account of -----" and in such case the name and address of the payee for whose account the redemption is to be made must be inserted. Assignments in this form must be completed before acknowledgment and not left in blank.

6. Assignment in blank, or other assignment having similar effect, will be recognized, but in that event payment will be made to the person surrendering the bond for redemption, since under such assignment the bonds become in effect payable to bearer. Assignments in blank or assignments having similar effect should be avoided, if possible, in order not to lose the protection afforded by registration.

7. Final interest due on October 15, 1934, on any Fourth 4½'s in registered form, which are included in the second call for partial redemption and presented for redemption on October 15, 1934, will be paid by checks issued in regular course in the same manner as if such bonds had not been called for redemption.

8. Transportation of bonds.—Bonds presented for redemption under this circular must be delivered to a Federal Reserve bank or branch, or to the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., at the expense and risk of the holder. Coupon bonds should be forwarded by registered mail insured, or by express prepaid. Registered bonds bearing restricted assignments may be forwarded by registered mail, but registered bonds bearing unrestricted assignments should be forwarded by registered mail insured or by express. Facilities for transportation of bonds by registered mail insured may be arranged between incorporated banks and trust companies and the Federal Reserve banks, and holders may take advantage of such arrangements when available, utilizing such incorporated banks and trust companies as their agents. Incorporated banks and trust companies are not agents of the United States under this circular.

V. TIME OF PRESENTATION OF FOURTH 4¼'S FOR REDEMPTION

1. In order to facilitate the redemption of Fourth 4¼'s included in the second call for partial redemption on October 15, 1934, any such bonds may be presented and surrendered in the manner herein prescribed in advance of that date but not before September 15, 1934. Such early presentation by holders, on and after September 15, 1934, and well in advance of October 15, 1934, will insure prompt payment of principal when due. This is particularly important with respect to registered bonds, for payment cannot be made until registration shall have been discharged at the Treasury Department.

2. It will expedite redemption if bonds included in the second call for partial redemption are presented to Federal Reserve banks or branches, and not direct to the Treasury Department.

3. As hereinbefore provided: (1) Coupons due October 15, 1934, should be detached from any permanent coupon bonds included in this second call for partial redemption when such bonds are presented for redemption on that date, such coupons to be collected when due; and (2) final interest due on any registered bonds included in this second call for partial redemption will be paid by check issued in regular course. Accordingly, early presentation of bonds will not affect the payment of final interest due on October 15, 1934.

VI. FURTHER INFORMATION

Any further information which may be desired regarding the partial redemption of Fourth 4¼'s under this circular may be obtained from any Federal Reserve bank or branch, or from the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., where copies of the Treasury Department's regulations governing assignments may also be obtained. The Secretary of the Treasury may at any time, or from time to time, provide supplemental or amendatory rules and regulations governing the matters covered by this circular.

HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.,
Secretary of the Treasury.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Fourth 4¼'s called for redemption on October 15, 1934, should be presented well in advance of that date but not before September 15, 1934, and the instructions given in this circular should be followed. If an exchange opportunity is afforded, and Fourth 4¼'s are to be presented for exchange, the instructions given in subsequent announcement should be followed. Information concerning the partial redemption of Fourth 4¼'s on October 15, 1934, and information concerning an optional exchange if and when offered, may be obtained from the officers of banks and trust companies generally. As those banks and trust companies may offer their facilities in the matter of arranging redemption or exchange, it is suggested that holders of Fourth 4¼'s consult their own bank or trust company.

On June 4, 1934, the Treasury offered for subscription Treasury bonds and Treasury notes as described in the following circulars. In the related press release it was stated that about $175,000,000 of Treasury certificates would mature on June 15, 1934, and about $345,000,000 of Treasury notes would mature on August 1, 1934, and about $117,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt would become due and payable on June 15, 1934.

[Department Circular No. 512]

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

June 4, 1934.

The Secretary of the Treasury, pursuant to the authority of the Second Liberty Bond Act, approved September 24, 1917, as amended, invites subscriptions, at par and accrued interest, from the people of the United States, for 3 percent bonds of the United States, designated Treasury bonds of 1946-48. The amount of the offering is $300,000,000, or thereabouts, with the right reserved to the Secretary of the Treasury to increase the offering by an amount sufficient to accept all subscriptions for which ¼ percent Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TJ-1934, maturing June 15, 1934, or 2½ percent Treasury notes of series B-1934, maturing August 1, 1934, are tendered in payment.

DESCRIPTION OF BONDS

The bonds will be dated June 15, 1934, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 3 percent per annum, payable semiannually, on December 15, 1934, and thereafter on June 15 and December 15 in each year until the principal amount becomes payable. They will mature June 15, 1948, but may be redeemed at the option of the United States on and after June 15, 1946, in whole or in part, at par and accrued interest, on any interest day or days, on 4 months' notice of redemption given in such manner as the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe. In case of partial redemption the bonds to be redeemed will be determined by such method as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. From the date of redemption designated in any such notice, interest on the bonds called for redemption shall cease.¹ * * *

APPLICATION AND ALLOTMENT

Applications will be received at the Federal Reserve banks and branches and at the Treasury Department, Washington, and unless made by an incorporated bank or trust company, must be accompanied by payment in full or by payment of 5 percent of the amount of bonds applied for. Banking institutions generally will handle applications for subscribers, but only the Federal Reserve banks and the Treasury Department are authorized to act as official agencies. The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to close the books as to any or all subscriptions or classes of subscriptions at any time without notice.

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any subscription, in whole or in part, to allot less than the amount of bonds applied for, to make allotments in full upon applications for smaller amounts and to make reduced allotments upon, or to reject, applications for larger amounts, to make classified allotments or to make allotments upon a graduated scale, or to adopt any or all of said methods or such other methods of allotment and classification of allotments as shall be deemed by him to be in the public interest; and his action in any or all of these respects shall be final. Allotment notices will be sent out promptly upon allotment, and the basis of allotment will be publicly announced.

Subject to the reservations contained in the next preceding paragraph, allotments will be made as follows: Cash subscriptions for amounts up to and including $10,000 will be given preferred allotment, all other cash subscriptions will be allotted on an equal percentage basis, and subscriptions for which payment is to be tendered in Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TJ-1934 or in Treasury notes of series B-1934 will be allotted in full.

PAYMENT

Payment at par and accrued interest, if any, for bonds allotted must be made or completed on or before June 15, 1934, or on later allotment. In every case where payment is not so completed, the 5 percent payment with application shall, upon declaration made by the Secretary of the Treasury in his discretion, be forfeited to the United States. Any qualified depository will be permitted to make payment by credit for bonds allotted on cash subscriptions to it for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve bank of its district. Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TJ-1934, maturing June 15, 1934, will be accepted at par in payment for any bonds subscribed for and allotted. Treasury notes of series B-1934, maturing August 1, 1934, with coupon dated August 1, 1934, attached, will be accepted at par with an adjustment of accrued interest as of June 15, 1934, in payment for any bonds subscribed for and allotted. Payment through surrender of Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TJ-1934 or Treasury notes of series B-1934 should be made when the subscription is tendered.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

As fiscal agents of the United States, Federal Reserve banks are authorized and requested to receive subscriptions, to make allotments on the basis and up to the amounts indicated by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal Reserve banks of the respective districts, to issue allotment notices, to receive payment for bonds allotted, to make delivery of bonds on full-paid subscriptions allotted, and they may issue interim receipts pending delivery of the definitive bonds.

The Secretary of the Treasury may at any time, or from time to time, prescribe supplemental or amendatory rules and regulations governing the offering, which will be communicated promptly to the Federal Reserve banks.

HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.,
Secretary of the Treasury.

The amount of the offering is $500,000,000, or thereabouts.

Subscriptions and allotments, Treasury bonds of 1946-48 and Treasury notes, series A-1939 (from press releases, June 6, 8, and 12, 1934; revised¹)

Secretary Morgenthau announced that the subscription books for the current offering of 2½ percent Treasury notes of series A-1939 closed at the close of business June 5, 1934.

The subscription books for the offering of 3 percent Treasury bonds of 1946-48 also closed at the close of business June 5 for the receipt of cash subscriptions, but remained open through June 8 for the receipt of subscriptions for which payment was tendered in Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TJ-1934, maturing June 15, 1934, or in Treasury notes of series B-1934, maturing August 1, 1934.

Reports received from the Federal Reserve banks show that cash subscriptions for the Treasury bonds aggregated $2,514,503,500. Cash subscriptions in amounts up to and including $10,000 were allotted in full, and those in amounts over $10,000 were allotted 10 percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription. In addition to such allotments on cash subscriptions, all subscriptions for which payment was tendered in Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TJ-1934, maturing June 15, 1934, or Treasury notes of series B-1934, maturing August 1, 1934, were allotted in full.

For the offering of Treasury notes, which was for $500,000,000, or thereabouts, total subscriptions aggregated $4,931,830,600. Subscriptions in amounts up to and including $10,000 were allotted in full and those in amounts over $10,000 were allotted 9 percent, but not less than $10,000 on any one subscription.

Issues of Treasury bills

Exhibit 15

Inviting tenders for Treasury bills dated November 1, 1933, and maturing January 31, 1934 (press release, Oct. 26, 1933)

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that tenders are invited for Treasury bills to the amount of $60,000,000, or thereabouts. They will be 91-day bills; and will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders. Tenders will be received at the Federal Reserve banks, or the branches thereof, up to 2 p. m., Eastern Standard time, on Monday, October 30, 1933. Tenders will not be received at the Treasury Department, Washington.

The Treasury bills will be dated November 1, 1933, and will mature on January 31, 1934, and on the maturity date the face amount will be payable without interest. They will be issued in bearer form only, and in amounts or denominations of $1,000, $10,000, $100,000, $500,000, and $1,000,000 (maturity value).

It is urged that tenders be made on the printed forms and forwarded in the special envelopes which will be supplied by the Federal Reserve banks or branches upon application therefor.

No tender for an amount less than $1,000 will be considered. Each tender must be in multiples of $1,000. The price offered must be expressed on the basis of 100, with not more than three decimal places, e.g., 99.125. Fractions must not be used.

Tenders will be accepted without cash deposit from incorporated banks and trust companies and from responsible and recognized dealers in investment securities. Tenders from others must be accompanied by a deposit of 10 percent of the face amount of Treasury bills applied for, unless the tenders are accompanied by an express guaranty of payment by an incorporated bank or trust company.

Immediately after the closing hour for receipt of tenders on October 30, 1933, all tenders received at the Federal Reserve banks or branches thereof up to the closing hour will be opened and public announcement of the acceptable prices will follow as soon as possible thereafter, probably on the following morning. The Secretary of the Treasury expressly reserves the right to reject any or all tenders or parts of tenders, and to allot less than the amount applied for, and his action in any such respect shall be final. Those submitting tenders will be advised of the acceptance or rejection thereof. Payment at the price offered for Treasury bills allotted must be made at the Federal Reserve banks in cash or other immediately available funds on November 1, 1933.

The Treasury bills will be exempt, as to principal and interest, and any gain from the sale or other disposition thereof will also be exempt, from all taxation, except estate and inheritance taxes. No loss from the sale or other disposition of the Treasury bills shall be allowed as a deduction, or otherwise recognized, for the purposes of any tax now or hereafter imposed by the United States or any of its possessions.

Treasury Department Circular No. 418, as amended, and this notice prescribe the terms of the Treasury bills and govern the conditions of their issue. Copies of the circular may be obtained from any Federal Reserve bank or branch thereof.

Acceptance of tenders for Treasury bills dated November 1, 1933, and maturing January 31, 1934 (press release, Oct. 31, 1933)

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Acheson announced today that the tenders for $60,000,000, or thereabouts, of 91-day Treasury bills, dated November 1, 1933, and maturing January 31, 1934, which were offered on October 26, were opened at the Federal Reserve banks on October 30, 1933.

The total amount applied for was $232,713,000, of which $60,180,000 was accepted. The accepted bids ranged in price from 99.955, equivalent to a rate of about 0.18 percent per annum, to 99.939, equivalent to a rate of about 0.24 percent per annum, on a bank discount basis. Only part of the amount bid for at the latter price was accepted. The average price of Treasury bills to be issued is 99.945 and the average rate is about 0.22 percent per annum on a bank discount basis.

General circular governing the sale and issue of Treasury bills

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

May 3, 1934.

1. The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized by section 5 of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended,¹ to issue Treasury bills on a discount basis and payable at maturity without interest, and to fix the form, terms, and conditions thereof, and to offer them for sale on a competitive basis, under such regulations and upon such terms and conditions as he may prescribe. Pursuant to said authorization, the Secretary of the Treasury, by public notice, may from time to time offer Treasury bills for sale and invite tenders therefor, through the Federal Reserve banks. The Treasury bills so offered and the tenders made will be subject to the terms and conditions and to the general rules and regulations herein contained and also to the terms and conditions stated in the public notices as issued by the Secretary of the Treasury from time to time in connection with particular offerings.

DESCRIPTION OF TREASURY BILLS

2. Treasury bills are bearer obligations of the United States, promising to pay a specified amount without interest on a specified date. They are to be issued on a discount basis. Each Treasury bill, prior to its issue, must be validated by a Federal Reserve bank as fiscal agent of the United States, and the dates of the original issue and the maturity thereof will be stated thereon. Treasury bills are payable at maturity upon presentation to the Treasurer of the United States in Washington or to any Federal Reserve bank.

3. Treasury bills will be issued in denominations (maturity value) of $1,000, $10,000, $100,000, $500,000, and $1,000,000. Exchanges of denominations of Treasury bills of the same series (bearing the same issue and maturity dates) will be permitted at Federal Reserve banks.

4. Treasury bills will be exempt, as to principal and interest, and any gain from the sale or other disposition of Treasury bills shall also be exempt, from all taxation (except estate or inheritance taxes) now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority; and no loss from the sale or other disposition of Treasury bills shall be allowed as a deduction, or otherwise recognized, for the purposes of any tax now or hereafter imposed by the United States or any of its possessions.² However, taxpayers making income tax returns are required to report in their returns, for information purposes, the number and amount of obligations and securities of the United States owned by them and the income received therefrom. In reporting in their income tax returns the amount of Treasury bills owned by them and the income received therefrom, taxpayers will be governed by the provisions of Treasury Decision 4431 which appears on pages 3 and 4 of this circular. It will be noted from that Treasury Decision that (1) the "amount of such obligations and securities" to be so reported is the face or maturity value of the Treasury bills, and that (2) the "income received therefrom" to be reported is the net excess of the amount realized during the taxable year from the sale or other disposition of the bills over the cost or other basis thereof, no separate computation of discount being necessary.

5. Treasury bills will be acceptable at maturity value to secure deposits of public moneys, but they will not bear the circulation privilege. Treasury bills will be acceptable at maturity, but not before, and under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed or approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, in payment of income and profits taxes payable at the maturity of the Treasury bills. Notes secured by Treasury bills are eligible for discount or rediscount at Federal Reserve banks by member banks, as are notes secured by bonds and notes of the United States, under the provisions of section 13 of the Federal Reserve Act. Treasury bills will be acceptable at maturity, but not before, in payment of interest or of principal on account of obligations of foreign governments held by the United States.

PUBLIC NOTICE

6. When tenders are to be invited, public notice thereof will be given by the Secretary of the Treasury prior to the date of issue of the Treasury bills. In such public notice there will be set forth (a) the amount of the Treasury bills for which tenders are then invited, (b) the date or dates of issue, (c) the date or dates when such bills will become due and payable, (d) the closing hour and date for the receipt of tenders at the Federal Reserve banks, and (e) the date or dates on which payment for accepted tenders must be made.

TENDERS

7. Tenders, in response to any such public notice, will be received only at the Federal Reserve banks, or branches thereof, and unless received before the fixed time of closing will be disregarded.—No tender will be accepted for an amount less than $1,000 (maturity value), and each tender must be for an amount in multiples of $1,000 (maturity value). The price or prices offered by the subscriber for the amount or amounts (at maturity value) applied for must be stated, and must be expressed on the basis of 100, with not more than three decimal places, e. g., 99.125. Fractions must not be used.

² For Treasury bills issued prior to June 17, 1930, see Department Circular No. 418, dated Nov. 22, 1929, and T. D. 4276 annexed to that circular.

8. Tenders should be submitted on the prescribed forms and inclosed in special envelopes, securely sealed. On application, the forms and special envelopes will be supplied by the Federal Reserve bank of the district in which the subscriber is located. If a special envelop is not available, the inscription "Tender for Treasury Bills" should be placed on the envelop used. The instructions of the Federal Reserve banks with respect to the submission of tenders should be observed. Tenders will be accepted without cash deposit from incorporated banks and trust companies and from responsible and recognized dealers in investment securities. Tenders from others must be accompanied by a 10 percent payment of the face amount of the Treasury bills applied for; provided, however, that such deposit will not be required if the tender is accompanied by an express guaranty of payment in full by an incorporated bank or trust company. The forfeiture of the 10 percent cash deposit may be declared by the Secretary of the Treasury if payment in full is not made, in the case of accepted tenders, on the prescribed date.

9. The time of closing will be specified in the public notice. At the time fixed for closing, all tenders received by the Federal Reserve banks, or branches, will be opened. The Secretary of the Treasury will determine the acceptable prices offered and will make public announcement thereof as soon as possible after the opening of bids, probably on the following morning. Those submitting tenders will be advised by the Federal Reserve banks of the acceptance or rejection thereof, and payment on accepted tenders must be made on the date specified in the public notice.

10. In considering the acceptance of tenders, the highest prices offered will be accepted in full down to the amount required, and if the same price appears in two or more tenders and it is necessary to accept only a part of the amount offered at such price, the amount accepted at such price will be prorated in accordance with the respective amounts applied for. However, the Secretary of the Treasury expressly reserves the right on any occasion to reject any or all tenders or parts of tenders; and to award less than the amount applied for; and any action he may take in any such respect or respects shall be final.

11. All payments which may be due on account of accepted tenders must be made to the appropriate Federal Reserve bank in cash or other funds that will be immediately available on the date specified: Provided, however, That the Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, on any occasion inviting tenders for Treasury bills, may permit any qualified depository to make such payments by credit for itself and its customers up to any amount for which it shall be qualified in excess of existing deposits, when so notified by the Federal Reserve bank of its district.

12. Federal Reserve banks as fiscal agents of the United States are authorized to perform such acts as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this circular and of the public notice or notices issued in connection with any offering of Treasury bills.

DESTROYED, MUTILATED, OR DEFACED TREASURY BILLS

13. No relief will be granted on account of the loss or theft of Treasury bills issued hereunder. Relief will be granted on account of the destruction, mutilation, or defacement thereof under the conditions and in accordance with the procedure prescribed in paragraphs 80 and 81 of Treasury Department Circular No. 300, dated July 31, 1923, so far as applicable.

GENERAL

14. The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to withdraw, amend, or supplement this circular at any time, or from time to time.

HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Income Tax—Exemption of Treasury Bills

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
Washington, D. C., May 3, 1934.

To Collectors of Internal Revenue and others concerned:

Attention is invited to the act entitled "An act providing certain exemptions from taxation for Treasury bills", approved June 17, 1930 (46 Stat. L. 775), which amends section 5 of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended (46 Stat. L. 19), by adding at the end thereof a new subdivision known as subdivision (d). This new subdivision provides that any gain from the sale or other disposition of Treasury bills issued after the enactment of the act approved June 17, 1930, shall be exempt from all Federal, State, and local taxation (except estate or inheritance taxes), and that no loss from the sale or other disposition of such Treasury bills shall be allowed as a deduction, or otherwise recognized, for the purposes of any tax imposed by the United States or any of its possessions. Section 5 of the Second Liberty Bond Act, as so amended, reads as follows, the tax-exemption provisions being contained in subdivisions (b) and (d) thereof:

"Sec. 5. (a) That in addition to the bonds and notes authorized by sections 1 and 18 of this act, as amended, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to borrow from time to time, on the credit of the United States, for the purposes of this act, to provide for the purchase or redemption before maturity of any certificates of indebtedness or Treasury bills issued hereunder, and to meet public expenditures authorized by law, such sum or sums as in his judgment may be necessary, and to issue therefor (1) certificates of indebtedness of the United States at not less than par and at such rate or rates of interest, payable at such time or times as he may prescribe; or (2) Treasury bills on a discount basis and payable at maturity without interest. Treasury bills to be issued hereunder shall be offered for sale on a competitive basis, under such regulations and upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, and the decisions of the Secretary in respect of any issue shall be final. Certificates of indebtedness and Treasury bills issued hereunder shall be in such form or forms and subject to such terms and conditions, shall be payable at such time not exceeding 1 year from the date of issue, and may be redeemable before maturity upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe. Treasury bills issued hereunder shall not be acceptable before maturity in payment of interest or of principal on account of obligations of foreign governments held by the United States of America. The sum of the par value of such certificates and Treasury bills outstanding hereunder and under section 6 of the First Liberty Bond Act shall not at any one time exceed in the aggregate $10,000,000,000.

"(b) All certificates of indebtedness and Treasury bills issued hereunder (after the date upon which this subdivision becomes law) shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation (except estate and inheritance taxes) now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority; and the amount of discount at which Treasury bills are originally sold by the United States shall be considered to be interest within the meaning of this subdivision.

"(c) Wherever the words 'bonds and notes of the United States', or 'bonds and notes of the Government of the United States', or 'bonds or notes of the United States' are used in the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, they shall be held to include certificates of indebtedness and Treasury bills issued hereunder.

"(d) Any gain from the sale or other disposition of Treasury bills issued hereunder (after the date upon which this subdivision becomes law) shall be exempt from all taxation (except estate or inheritance taxes) now or hereafter imposed by the United States, any State, or any of the possessions of the United States, or by any local taxing authority; and no loss from the sale or other disposition of such Treasury bills shall be allowed as a deduction, or otherwise recognized, for the purposes of any tax now or hereafter imposed by the United States or any of its possessions."

The report of the Committee on Ways and Means (H. Rept. No. 1759, accompanying H. R. 12440, 71st Cong.) shows that it is the purpose of the act approved June 17, 1930, to obviate the necessity, which existed under the law prior to its amendment by such act, of keeping a complicated system of bookkeeping records in order to ascertain gain or loss from the sale or other disposition of Treasury bills as differentiated from the discount received on such bills.

Attention is also invited to section 22 (b) (4) of the Revenue Act of 1932, which provides in part:

"SEC. 22. * * * (b) Exclusions from Gross Income * * * The following items shall not be included in gross income and shall be exempt from taxation under this title: * * * (4) * * * Interest upon (A) the obligations of a State, Territory, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia; or (B) securities issued under the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan Act, or under the provisions of such act as amended; or (C) the obligations of the United States or its possessions. Every person owning any of the obligations or securities enumerated in clause (A), (B), or (C), shall, in the return required by this title, submit a statement showing the number and amount of such obligations and securities owned by him and the income received therefrom, in such form and with such information as the Commissioner may require. In the case of obligations of the United States issued after September 1, 1917 (other than postal savings certificates of deposit), the interest shall be exempt only if and to the extent provided in the respective acts authorizing the issue thereof as amended and supplemented, and shall be excluded from gross income only if and to the extent it is wholly exempt to the taxpayer from the taxes imposed by this title; * * *."

Article 81 of regulations 77 promulgated under the Revenue Act of 1932, provides that "Every person owning obligations of a State, Territory, any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia; securities issued under the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan Act or of such act as amended; or obligations of the United States or its possessions, must, however, submit in his income tax return a statement showing the number and amount of such obligations and securities owned and the income received therefrom.

Under the above-quoted provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932 and regulations 77, in the case of Treasury bills issued after June 17, 1930, (1) the "amount of such obligations and securities" is their par (maturity) value and (2) the "income received therefrom" is the net excess of the amount realized during the taxable year from the sale or other disposition of the bills over the cost or other basis thereof, no separate computation of discount being necessary.

GUY T. HELVERING,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Approved:
HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.,
Secretary of the Treasury.

1. Department Circular No. 225, dated January 31, 1921, prescribes the regulations governing the receipt of bonds and notes of the United States for Federal estate or inheritance taxes pursuant to the provisions of section 14 of the Second Liberty Bond Act, approved September 24, 1917, as amended (U. Sections 4 and 5 of the Federal Farm Mortgage Act (Public No. 88, 73d Cong., approved Jan. 31, 1934), guaranteeing principal and interest of Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation bonds by the United States

SEC. 4. (a) With the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Corporation is authorized to issue and have outstanding at any one time bonds in an aggregate amount not exceeding $2,000,000,000. Such bonds shall be in such forms and denominations, shall have such maturities, shall bear such rates of interest, shall be subject to such terms and conditions, and shall be issued in such manner and sold at such prices, as may be prescribed by the Corporation, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Such bonds shall be fully and unconditionally guaranteed both as to interest and principal by the United States and such guaranty shall be expressed on the face thereof, and such bonds shall be lawful investments, and may be accepted as security, for all fiduciary, trust, and public funds the investment or deposit of which shall be under the authority or control of the United States or any officer or officers thereof. In the event that the Corporation shall be unable to pay upon demand, when due, the principal of or interest on, such bonds, the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to the holder the amount thereof which is hereby authorized to be appropriated, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, and thereupon to the extent of the amount so paid the Secretary of the Treasury shall succeed to all the rights of the holders of such bonds. The Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, is authorized to purchase any bonds of the Corporation issued hereunder, and for such purpose the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to use as a public debt transaction the proceeds from the sale of any securities hereafter issued under the Second Liberty Loan Act, as amended, and the purposes for which securities may be issued under such act, as amended, are extended to include any purchases of the Corporation's bonds hereunder. The Secretary of the Treasury may, at any time, sell any of the bonds of the Corporation acquired by him under this section. All redemptions, purchases, and sales by the Secretary of the Treasury of the bonds of the Corporation shall be treated as public debt transactions of the United States. Such bonds shall be fully and adequately secured by such assets of the Corporation and in such manner as shall be prescribed by its board of directors. The Corporation shall have power to purchase such bonds in the open market at any time and at any price. On such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon, the Corporation may exchange such bonds, upon application of any Federal land bank for consolidated farm loan bonds of equal face value issued under the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended, and may exchange such consolidated farm loan bonds held by it for bonds of the Corporation of equal face value.

(b) The Corporation is further authorized to purchase from time to time, for cash, such consolidated farm loan bonds at such prices and upon such terms as may be approved by the board of directors of the Corporation, to make loans to Federal land banks on the security of such consolidated bonds, and to invest its funds in mortgage loans made under section 32 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, as amended.

(c) In order to furnish bonds for delivery by the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to prepare suitable bonds in such form, subject to the provisions of this act, as the board of directors may approve, such bonds when prepared to be held in the Treasury subject to delivery upon order of the Corporation. The engraved plates, dies, bedpieces, and so forth, executed in connection therewith shall remain in the custody of the Secretary of the Treasury. The Corporation shall reimburse the Secretary of the Treasury for any expenditures made in the preparation, custody, and delivery of such bonds.

SEC. 5. After 90 days after the enactment of this act, no Federal land bank shall issue any bonds under the provisions of the last paragraph of section 32 of the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended, subject to the guarantee of interest on such bonds by the United States except for the purpose of refinancing any bond which is or has been issued subject to such guarantee of interest.

Section 1 of Public No. 178, Seventy-third Congress, approved April 27, 1934, guaranteeing principal and interest of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds by the United States

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That (a) section 4 (c) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 is amended to read as follows:

"(c) The Corporation is authorized to issue bonds in an aggregate amount not to exceed $2,000,000,000, which may be sold by the Corporation to obtain funds for carrying out the purposes of this section, or exchanged as hereinafter provided. Such bonds shall be in such forms and denominations, shall mature within such periods of not more than eighteen years from the date of their issue, shall bear such rates of interest not exceeding 4 per centum per annum, shall be subject to such terms and conditions, and shall be issued in such manner and sold at such prices, as may be prescribed by the Corporation, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Such bonds shall be fully and unconditionally guaranteed both as to interest and principal by the United States, and such guaranty shall be expressed on the face thereof, and such bonds shall be lawful investments, and may be accepted as security, for all fiduciary, trust, and public funds, the investment or deposit of which shall be under the authority or control of the United States or any officer or officers thereof. In the event that the Corporation shall be unable to pay upon demand, when due, the principal of, or interest on, such bonds, the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to the holder the amount thereof which is hereby authorized to be appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, and thereupon to the extent of the amount so paid the Secretary of the Treasury shall succeed to all the rights of the holders of such bonds. The Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, is authorized to purchase any bonds of the Corporation issued under this subsection which are guaranteed as to interest and principal, and for such purpose the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to use as a public debt transaction the proceeds from the sale of any securities hereafter issued under the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, and the purposes for which securities may be issued under such act, as amended, are extended to include any purchases of the Corporation's bonds hereunder. The Secretary of the Treasury may, at any time, sell any of the bonds of the Corporation acquired by him under this subsection. All redemptions, purchases, and sales by the Secretary of the Treasury of the bonds of the Corporation shall be treated as public debt transactions of the United States. The bonds issued by the Corporation under this subsection shall be exempt, both as to principal and interest, from all taxation (except surtaxes, estate, inheritance, and gift taxes) now or hereafter imposed by the United States or any District, Territory, dependency, or possession thereof, or by any State, county, municipality, or local taxing authority. The Corporation, including its franchise, its capital, reserves and surplus, and its loans and income, shall likewise be exempt from such taxation; except that any real property of the Corporation shall be subject to taxation to the same extent, according to its value, as other real property is taxed. No such bonds shall be issued in excess of the assets of the Corporation, including the assets to be obtained from the proceeds of such bonds, but a failure to comply with this provision shall not invalidate the bonds or the guaranty of the same. The Corporation shall have power to purchase in the open market at any time and at any price not to exceed par any of the bonds issued by it. Any such bonds so purchased may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, be sold or resold at any time and at any price. For a period of six months after the date this subsection, as amended, takes effect, the Corporation is authorized to refund any of its bonds issued prior to such date or any bonds issued after such date in compliance with commitments of the Corporation outstanding on such date, upon application of the holders thereof, by exchanging therefor bonds of an equal face amount issued by the Corporation under this subsection as amended, and bearing interest at such rate as may be prescribed by the Corporation with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury; but such rate shall not be less than that first fixed after this subsection, as amended, takes effect on bonds exchanged by the Corporation for home mortgages. For the purpose of such refunding the Corporation is further authorized to increase its total bond issue in an amount equal to the amount of the bonds so refunded. Nothing in this subsection, as amended, shall be construed to prevent the Corporation from issuing bonds in compliance with commitments of the Corporation on the date this subsection, as amended, takes effect."

(b) The amendments made by subsection (a) of this section (except with respect to refunding) shall not apply to any bonds heretofore issued by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation under such section 4 (c), or to any bonds hereafter issued in compliance with commitments of the Corporation outstanding on the date of enactment of this act.

[Public No. 144, 73d Cong., S. 1528]

An act to amend section 3702, Revised Statutes

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 3702 of the Revised Statutes is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following paragraphs:

"(2) Whenever it appears to the Secretary of the Treasury by clear and unequivocal proof that any interest-bearing bond of the United States, fully identified by number and description, has, without bad faith on the part of the owner, been lost to such owner under such circumstances and for such period of time after it has matured or has become redeemable pursuant to a call for redemption as in the judgment of the Secretary would indicate that it had been destroyed or irretrievably lost, is not held by any person as his own property, and will not be presented by a bona fide holder for value, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to make payment of the amount which would have been due on such bond had it been presented at the time it became due and payable. But no payment shall be made on account of interest represented by coupons claimed to have been attached to a missing coupon bond at the time of its loss or destruction, unless the Secretary of the Treasury is satisfied that such coupons have not been paid and are in fact destroyed or can never be made the basis of a claim against the United States: Provided, That where relief is authorized under the provisions of this paragraph the bond of indemnity required by section 3703 of the Revised Statutes shall be in a penal sum of double the amount to be paid and shall be executed by an approved corporate surety. The Secretary of the Treasury is further authorized to make from time to time such regulations and restrictions as he may prescribe with respect to the administration of this paragraph.

"(3) The term 'bond' wherever used in this section and in sections 3703, 3704, and 3705 of the Revised Statutes shall be deemed, for the purposes of these sections, to include any interest-bearing obligation of the United States or those issued on a discount basis."

Approved, April 9, 1934.

MONEY AND BANKING

Exhibit 23

[Public No. 87, 73d Cong., H.R. 6976]

An act to protect the currency system of the United States, to provide for the better use of the monetary gold stock of the United States, and for other purposes

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the short title of this act shall be the "Gold Reserve Act of 1934."

SEC. 2. (a) Upon the approval of this act all right, title, and interest, and every claim of the Federal Reserve Board, of every Federal Reserve bank, and of every Federal Reserve agent, in and to any and all gold coin and gold bullion shall pass to and are hereby vested in the United States; and in payment therefor credits in equivalent amounts in dollars are hereby established in the Treasury in the accounts authorized under the sixteenth paragraph of section 16 of the Federal Reserve Act, as heretofore and by this act amended (U. S. C., title 12, sec. 467). Balances in such accounts shall be payable in gold certificates, which shall be in such form and in such denominations as the Secretary of the Treasury may determine. All gold so transferred, not in the possession of the United States, shall be held in custody for the United States and delivered upon the order of the Secretary of the Treasury; and the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Reserve banks, and the Federal Reserve agents shall give such instruction and shall take such action as may be necessary to assure that such gold shall be so held and delivered.

(b) Section 16 of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, is further amended in the following respects:

(1) The third sentence of the first paragraph is amended to read as follows: "They shall be redeemed in lawful money on demand at the Treasury Department of the United States, in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, or at any Federal Reserve bank."

(2) So much of the third sentence of the second paragraph as precedes the proviso is amended to read as follows: "The collateral security thus offered shall be notes, drafts, bills of exchange, or acceptances acquired under the provisions of section 13 of this act, or bills of exchange endorsed by a member bank of any Federal Reserve district and purchased under the provisions of section 14 of this act, or bankers' acceptances purchased under the provisions of said section 14, or gold certificates."

(3) The first sentence of the third paragraph is amended to read as follows: "Every Federal Reserve bank shall maintain reserves in gold certificates or lawful money of not less than 35 per centum against its deposits and reserves in gold certificates of not less than 40 per centum against its Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation: Provided, however, That when the Federal Reserve agent holds gold certificates as collateral for Federal Reserve notes issued to the bank such gold certificates shall be counted as part of the reserve which such bank is required to maintain against its Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation."

(4) The fifth and sixth sentences of the third paragraph are amended to read as follows: "Notes presented for redemption at the Treasury of the United States shall be paid out of the redemption fund and returned to the Federal Reserve banks through which they were originally issued, and thereupon such Federal Reserve bank shall, upon demand of the Secretary of the Treasury, reimburse such redemption fund in lawful money or, if such Federal Reserve notes have been redeemed by the Treasurer in gold certificates, then such funds shall be reimbursed to the extent deemed necessary by the Secretary of the Treasury in gold certificates, and such Federal Reserve bank shall, so long as any of its Federal Reserve notes remain outstanding, maintain with the Treasurer in gold certificates an amount sufficient in the judgment of the Secretary to provide for all redemptions to be made by the Treasurer. Federal Reserve notes received by the Treasurer otherwise than for redemption may be exchanged for gold certificates out of the redemption fund hereinafter provided and returned to the Reserve bank through which they were originally issued, or they may be returned to such bank for the credit of the United States."

(5) The fourth, fifth, and sixth paragraphs are amended to read as follows:

"The Federal Reserve Board shall require each Federal Reserve bank to maintain on deposit in the Treasury of the United States a sum in gold certificates sufficient in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury for the redemption of the Federal Reserve notes issued to such bank, but in no event less than 5 per centum of the total amount of notes issued less the amount of gold certificates held by the Federal Reserve agent as collateral security; but such deposit of gold certificates shall be counted and included as part of the 40 per centum reserve hereinbefore required. The Board shall have the right, acting through the Federal Reserve agent, to grant in whole or in part, or to reject entirely the application of any Federal Reserve bank for Federal Reserve notes; but to the extent that such application may be granted the Federal Reserve Board shall, through its local Federal Reserve agent, supply Federal Reserve notes to the banks so applying, and such bank shall be charged with the amount of the notes issued to it and shall pay such rate of interest as may be established by the Federal Reserve Board on only that amount of such notes which equals the total amount of its outstanding Federal Reserve notes less the amount of gold certificates held by the Federal Reserve agent as collateral security. Federal Reserve notes issued to any such bank shall, upon delivery, together with such notes of such Federal Reserve bank as may be issued under section 18 of this act upon security of United States 2 per centum Government bonds, become a first and paramount lien on all the assets of such bank.

"Any Federal Reserve bank may at any time reduce its liability for outstanding Federal Reserve notes by depositing with the Federal Reserve agent its Federal Reserve notes, gold certificates, or lawful money of the United States. Federal Reserve notes so deposited shall not be reissued, except upon compliance with the conditions of an original issue.

"The Federal Reserve agent shall hold such gold certificates or lawful money available exclusively for exchange for the outstanding Federal Reserve notes when offered by the Reserve bank of which he is a director. Upon the request of the Secretary of the Treasury the Federal Reserve Board shall require the Federal Reserve agent to transmit to the Treasurer of the United States so much of the gold certificates held by him as collateral security for Federal Reserve notes as may be required for the exclusive purpose of the redemption of such Federal Reserve notes, but such gold certificates when deposited with the Treasurer shall be counted and considered as if collateral security on deposit with the Federal Reserve agent."

(6) The eighth paragraph is amended to read as follows:

"All Federal Reserve notes and all gold certificates and lawful money issued to or deposited with any Federal Reserve agent under the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act shall hereafter be held for such agent, under such rules and regulations as the Federal Reserve Board may prescribe, in the joint custody of himself and the Federal Reserve bank to which he is accredited. Such agent and such Federal Reserve bank shall be jointly liable for the safe-keeping of such Federal Reserve notes, gold certificates, and lawful money. Nothing herein contained, however, shall be construed to prohibit a Federal Reserve agent from depositing gold certificates with the Federal Reserve Board, to be held by such Board subject to his order, or with the Treasurer of the United States for the purposes authorized by law."

(7) The sixteenth paragraph is amended to read as follows:

"The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and directed to receive deposits of gold or of gold certificates with the Treasurer or any Assistant Treasurer of the United States when tendered by any Federal Reserve bank or Federal Reserve agent for credit to its or his account with the Federal Reserve Board. The Secretary shall prescribe by regulation the form of receipt to be issued by the Treasurer or Assistant Treasurer to the Federal Reserve bank or Federal Reserve agent making the deposit, and a duplicate of such receipt shall be delivered to the Federal Reserve Board by the Treasurer at Washington upon proper advices from any Assistant Treasurer that such deposit has been made. Deposits so made shall be held subject to the orders of the Federal Reserve Board and shall be payable in gold certificates on the order of the Federal Reserve Board to any Federal Reserve bank or Federal Reserve agent at the Treasury or at the Subtreasury of the United States nearest the place of business of such Federal Reserve bank or such Federal Reserve agent. The order used by the Federal Reserve Board in making such payments shall be signed by the governor or vice governor, or such other officers or members as the Board may by regulation prescribe. The form of such order shall be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury."

(8) The eighteenth paragraph is amended to read as follows:

"Deposits made under this section standing to the credit of any Federal Reserve bank with the Federal Reserve Board shall, at the option of said bank, be counted as part of the lawful reserve which it is required to maintain against outstanding Federal Reserve notes, or as a part of the reserve it is required to maintain against deposits."

SEC. 3. The Secretary of the Treasury shall, by regulations issued hereunder, with the approval of the President, prescribe the conditions under which gold may be acquired and held, transported, melted or treated, imported, exported, or earmarked: (a) for industrial, professional, and artistic use; (b) by the Federal Reserve banks for the purpose of settling international balances; and (c) for such other purposes as in his judgment are not inconsistent with the purposes of this act. Gold in any form may be acquired, transported, melted or treated, imported, exported, or earmarked or held in custody for foreign or domestic account (except on behalf of the United States) only to the extent permitted by, and subject to the conditions prescribed in, or pursuant to, such regulations. Such regulations may exempt from the provisions of this section, in whole or in part, gold situated in the Philippine Islands or other places beyond the limits of the continental United States.

SEC. 4. Any gold withheld, acquired, transported, melted or treated, imported, exported, or earmarked or held in custody, in violation of this act or of any regulations issued hereunder, or licenses issued pursuant thereto, shall be forfeited to the United States, and may be seized and condemned by like proceedings as those provided by law for the forfeiture, seizure, and condemnation of property imported into the United States contrary to law; and in addition any person failing to comply with the provisions of this act or of any such regulations or licenses, shall be subject to a penalty equal to twice the value of the gold in respect of which such failure occurred.

SEC. 5. No, gold shall hereafter be coined, and no gold coin shall hereafter be paid out or delivered by the United States: Provided, however, That coinage may continue to be executed by the mints of the United States for foreign countries in accordance with the act of January 29, 1874 (U. S. C., title 31, sec. 367). All gold coin of the United States shall be withdrawn from circulation, and, together with all other gold owned by the United States, shall be formed into bars of such weights and degrees of fineness as the Secretary of the Treasury may direct.

SEC. 6. Except to the extent permitted in regulations which may be issued hereunder by the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President, no currency of the United States shall be redeemed in gold: Provided, however, That gold certificates owned by the Federal Reserve banks shall be redeemed at such times and in such amounts as, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury, are necessary to maintain the equal purchasing power of every kind of currency of the United States: And provided further, That the reserve for United States notes and for Treasury notes of 1890, and the security for gold certificates (including the gold certificates held in the Treasury for credits payable therein) shall be maintained in gold bullion equal to the dollar amounts required by law, and the reserve for Federal Reserve notes shall be maintained in gold certificates, or in credits payable in gold certificates maintained with the Treasurer of the United States under section 16 of the Federal Reserve Act, as heretofore and by this act amended.

No redemptions in gold shall be made except in gold bullion bearing the stamp of a United States mint or assay office in an amount equivalent at the time of redemption to the currency surrendered for such purpose.

SEC. 7. In the event that the weight of the gold dollar shall at any time be reduced, the resulting increase in value of the gold held by the United States (including the gold held as security for gold certificates and as a reserve for any United States notes and for Treasury notes of 1890) shall be covered into the Treasury as a miscellaneous receipt; and, in the event that the weight of the gold dollar shall at any time be increased, the resulting decrease in value of the gold held as a reserve for any United States notes and for Treasury notes of 1890, and as security for gold certificates shall be compensated by transfers of gold bullion from the general fund, and there is hereby appropriated an amount sufficient to provide for such transfers and to cover the decrease in value of the gold in the general fund.

SEC. 8. Section 3700 of the Revised Statutes (U. S. C., title 31, sec. 734) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 3700. With the approval of the President, the Secretary of the Treasury may purchase gold in any amounts, at home or abroad, with any direct obligations, coin, or currency of the United States, authorized by law, or with any funds in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, at such rates and upon such terms and conditions as he may deem most advantageous to the public interest; any provision of law relating to the maintenance of parity, or limiting the purposes for which any of such obligations, coin, or currency, may be issued, or requiring any such obligations to be offered as a popular loan or on a competitive basis, or to be offered or issued at not less than par, to the contrary notwithstanding. All gold so purchased shall be included as an asset of the general fund of the Treasury."

SEC. 9. Section 3699 of the Revised Statutes (U. S. C., title 31, sec. 733) is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 3699. The Secretary of the Treasury may anticipate the payment of interest on the public debt, by a period not exceeding one year, from time to time, either with or without a rebate of interest upon the coupons, as to him may seem expedient; and he may sell gold in any amounts, at home or abroad, in such manner and at such rates and upon such terms and conditions as he may deem most advantageous to the public interest, and the proceeds of any gold so sold shall be covered into the general fund of the Treasury: Provided, however, That the Secretary of the Treasury may sell the gold which is required to be maintained as a reserve or as security for currency issued by the United States, only to the extent necessary to maintain such currency at a parity with the gold dollar."

SEC. 10. (a) For the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar, the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, directly or through such agencies as he may designate, is authorized, for the account of the fund established in this section, to deal in gold and foreign exchange and such other instruments of credit and securities as he may deem necessary to carry out the purpose of this section. An annual audit of such fund shall be made and a report thereof submitted to the President.

(b) To enable the Secretary of the Treasury to carry out the provisions of this section there is hereby appropriated, out of the receipts which are directed to be covered into the Treasury under section 7 hereof, the sum of $2,000,000,000, which sum when available shall be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States in a stabilization fund (hereinafter called the "fund") under the exclusive control of the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, whose decisions shall be final and not be subject to review by any other officer of the United States. The fund shall be available for expenditure, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury and in his discretion, for any purpose in connection with carrying out the provisions of this section, including the investment and reinvestment in direct obligations of the United States of any portions of the fund which the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, may from time to time determine are not currently required for stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar. The proceeds of all sales and investments and all earnings and interest accruing under the operations of this section shall be paid into the fund and shall be available for the purposes of the fund.

(c) All the powers conferred by this section shall expire two years after the date of enactment of this act, unless the President shall sooner declare the existing emergency ended and the operation of the stabilization fund terminated; but the President may extend such period for not more than one additional year after such date by proclamation recognizing the continuance of such emergency.

SEC. 11. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to issue, with the approval of the President, such rules and regulations as the Secretary may deem necessary or proper to carry out the purposes of this act.

SEC. 12. Paragraph (b) (2), of section 43, title III, of the act approved May 12, 1933 (Public, Numbered 10, Seventy-third Congress), is amended by adding two new sentences at the end thereof reading as follows:

"Nor shall the weight of the gold dollar be fixed in any event at more than 60 per centum of its present weight. The powers of the President specified in this paragraph shall be deemed to be separate, distinct, and continuing powers, and may be exercised by him, from time to time, severally or together, when ever and as the expressed objects of this section in his judgment may require; except that such powers shall expire two years after the date of enactment of the Gold Reserve Act of 1934 unless the President shall sooner declare the existing emergency ended, but the President may extend such period for not more than one additional year after such date by proclamation recognizing the continuance of such emergency."

Paragraph (2) of subsection (b) of section 43, title III, of an act entitled "An act to relieve the existing national economic emergency by increasing agricultural purchasing power, to raise revenue for extraordinary expenses incurred by reason of such emergency, to provide emergency relief with respect to agricultural indebtedness, to provide for the orderly liquidation of joint stock land banks, and for other purposes", approved May 12, 1933, is amended by adding at the end of said paragraph (2) the following:

"The President, in addition to the authority to provide for the unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio so fixed, under such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, is further authorized to cause to be issued and delivered to the tenderer of silver for coinage, silver certificates in lieu of the standard silver dollars to which the tenderer would be entitled and in an amount in dollars equal to the number of coined standard silver dollars that the tenderer of such silver for coinage would receive in standard silver dollars.

"The President is further authorized to issue silver certificates in such denominations as he may prescribe against any silver bullion, silver, or standard silver dollars in the Treasury not then held for redemption of any outstanding silver certificates, and to coin standard silver dollars or subsidiary currency for the redemption of such silver certificates.

"The President is authorized, in his discretion, to prescribe different terms and conditions and to make different charges, or to collect different seigniorage, for the coinage of silver of foreign production than for the coinage of silver produced in the United States or its dependencies. The silver certificates herein referred to shall be issued, delivered, and circulated substantially in conformity with the law now governing existing silver certificates, except as may herein be expressly provided to the contrary, and shall have and possess all of the privileges and the legal tender characteristics of existing silver certificates now in the Treasury of the United States, or in circulation.

"The President is authorized, in addition to other powers, to reduce the weight of the standard silver dollar in the same percentage that he reduces the weight of the gold dollar.

"The President is further authorized to reduce and fix the weight of subsidiary coins so as to maintain the parity of such coins with the standard silver dollar and with the gold dollar."

Sec. 13. All actions, regulations, rules, orders, and proclamations heretofore taken, promulgated, made or issued by the President of the United States or the Secretary of the Treasury, under the act of March 9, 1933, or under section 43 or section 45 of title III of the act of May 12, 1933, are hereby approved, ratified, and confirmed.

Sec. 14. (a) The Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, is further amended as follows:

(1) By adding at the end of section 1 (U. S. C., title 31, sec. 752; Supp. VII, title 31, sec. 752), a new paragraph as follows:

Notwithstanding the provisions of the foregoing paragraph, the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time, when he deems it to be in the public interest, offer such bonds otherwise than as a popular loan and he may make allotments in full, or reject or reduce allotments upon any applications whether or not the offering was made as a popular loan."

(2) By inserting in section 8 (U. S. C., title 31, sec. 771), after the words "certificates of indebtedness", a comma and the words "Treasury bills."

(3) By striking out the figures "$7,500,000,000" where they appear in section 18 (U. S. C., title 31, sec. 753) and inserting in lieu thereof the figures "$10,000,000,000."

(4) By adding thereto two new sections, as follows:

"Sec. 19. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, any obligations authorized by this act may be issued for the purchase, redemption, or refunding, at or before maturity, of any outstanding bonds, notes, certificates of indebtedness, or Treasury bills, of the United States, or to obtain funds for such purchase, redemption, or refunding, under such rules, regulations, terms, and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe.

"SEC. 20. The Secretary of the Treasury may issue any obligations authorized by this act and maturing not more than one year from the date of their issue on a discount basis and payable at maturity without interest. Any such obligations may also be offered for sale on a competitive basis under such regulations and upon such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, and the decisions of the Secretary in respect of any issue shall be final."

(b) Section 6 of the Victory Liberty Loan Act (U. S. C., title 31, sec. 767; Supp. VII, title 31, secs. 767-767a) is amended by striking out the words "for refunding purposes", together with the preceding comma, at the end of the first sentence of subsection (a).

(c) The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to issue gold certificates, in such form and in such denominations as he may determine, against any gold held by the Treasurer of the United States, except the gold fund held as a reserve for any United States notes and Treasury notes of 1890. The amount or gold certificates issued and outstanding shall at no time exceed the value, at the legal standard, of the gold so held against gold certificates.

SEC. 15. As used in this act the term "United States" means the Government of the United States; the term "the continental United States" means the States of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Territory of Alaska; the term "currency of the United States" means currency which is legal tender in the United States, and includes United States notes, Treasury notes of 1890, gold certificates, silver certificates, Federal Reserve notes, and circulating notes of Federal Reserve banks and national banking associations; and the term "person" means any individual, partnership, association, or corporation, including the Federal Reserve Board, Federal Reserve banks, and Federal Reserve agents. Wherever reference is made in this act to equivalents as between dollars or currency of the United States and gold, one dollar or one dollar face amount of any currency of the United States equals such a number of grains of gold, nine-tenths fine, as, at the time referred to, are contained in the standard unit of value, that is, so long as the President shall not have altered by proclamation the weight of the gold dollar under the authority of section 43, title III, of the act approved May 12, 1933, as heretofore and by this act amended, twenty-five and eight-tenths grains of gold, nine-tenths fine, and thereafter such a number of grains of gold, nine-tenths fine, as the President shall have fixed under such authority.

SEC. 16. The right to alter, amend, or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved. If any provision of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstances, is held invalid, the remainder of the act, and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

SEC. 17. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with any of the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Approved, January 30, 1934.

"Whenever in the judgment of the Secretary of the Treasury such action is necessary to protect the currency system of the United States, the Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, may require any or all individuals, partnerships, associations, and corporations to pay and deliver to the Treasurer of the United States any or all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates owned by such individuals, partnerships, associations, and corporations. Upon receipt of such gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates, the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay therefor an equivalent amount of any other form of coin or currency coined or issued under the laws of the United States. The Secretary of the Treasury shall pay all costs of the transportation of such gold bullion, gold certificates, coin, or currency, including the cost of insurance, protection, and such other incidental costs as may be reasonably necessary. Any individual, partnership, association, or corporation failing to comply with any requirement of the Secretary of the Treasury made under this subsection shall be subject to a penalty equal to twice the value of the gold or gold certificates in respect of which such failure occurred, and such penalty may be collected by the Secretary of the Treasury by suit or otherwise"; and

Whereas in my judgment such action is necessary to protect the currency system of the United States;

Now, therefore, I, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Acting Secretary of the Treasury, do hereby require every person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States forthwith to pay and deliver to the Treasurer of the United States all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates situated in the United States, owned by such person, except as follows:

(a) Gold bullion owned by a person now holding such gold under a license heretofore granted by or under authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, pursuant to the Executive order of August 28, 1933, relating to the hoarding, export, and earmarking of gold coin, bullion, or currency and to transactions in foreign exchange;

(b) Gold coin having a recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coin (but not including quarter eagles, otherwise known as $2.50 pieces);

(c) Unmelted scrap gold and gold sweepings in an amount not exceeding in the aggregate $100 belonging to any one person; and gold which has been put through a process of fabrication for a specific and customary industrial, professional, or ornamental use;

(d) Gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates owned by a Federal Reserve bank or the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; and

(e) Gold bullion and foreign gold coin now situated in the Philippine Islands, American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Panama Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands of the United States, owned by a person not domiciled or doing business in the continental United States.

Sec. 2. Delivery.—The gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates herein required to be paid and delivered to the Treasurer of the United States shall be delivered by placing the same forthwith in the custody of a Federal Reserve bank or branch or a bank member of the Federal Reserve System for the account of the United States and by forwarding confirmation that the gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates have been so placed in custody for the account of the United States and are held subject to the order of the Treasurer of the United States, signed by such bank and the person making the delivery (or the authorized agent of such person) to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C., in a postage-prepaid envelop bearing a postmark dated prior to midnight of the day the gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates are so placed in custody.

Sec. 3. Payment and reimbursement of costs.—Upon receipt of the confirmation signed and delivered as required under section 2, the Secretary of the Treasury will pay for the gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates placed in custody for the account of the United States in accordance with section 2, an equivalent amount of any form of coin or currency coined or issued under the laws of the United States designated by the Secretary of the Treasury. The Secretary of the Treasury will pay all costs of the transportation of such gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates to the Federal Reserve bank or branch or bank member of the Federal Reserve System in the city or town nearest to the place where such gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates are now situated, including the cost of insurance, protection, and such other incidental costs as may be reasonably necessary. Persons desiring reimbursement for such costs actually incurred shall submit their accounts on voucher forms which may be obtained by writing to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Sec. 4. Definitions.—As used in this order, the term "person" means any individual, partnership, association, or corporation; the term "United States" means the United States and any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof; the term "continental United States" means the States of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Territory of Alaska; the term "gold coin" means any coin containing gold, including foreign gold coin; and the term "gold bullion" means any gold which has been put through a process of smelting or refining that is in such form that its value depends upon the gold content and not upon the form, but does not include gold coin or metals containing less than five troy ounces of fine gold per short ton.

SEC. 5. Any individual, partnership, association, or corporation failing to comply with any requirement hereof or of any rules or regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury hereunder shall be subject to the penalty provided in section 11 (n) of the Federal Reserve Act as amended.

This order may be modified or revoked at any time.

HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.,
Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY, JANUARY 15, 1934, SUPPLEMENTING
THE ORDER OF DECEMBER 28, 1933, REQUIRING THE DELIVERY OF GOLD COIN, GOLD BULLION, AND GOLD CERTIFICATES TO THE TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES

Whereas on December 28, 1933, I, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., as Acting Secretary of the Treasury, issued an order under authority of section 11 of the Federal Reserve Act of December 23, 1913, as amended by section 3 of the Act of March 9, 1933, entitled "An act to provide relief in the existing national emergency in banking, and for other purposes";

"In the event that any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates withheld in noncompliance with said order and of this order are offered after January 17, 1934, to the Secretary of the Treasury, the Treasurer of the United States, any United States mint or assay office, or to any fiscal agent of the United States, there shall be paid therefor only such part or none of the amount otherwise payable therefor as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time prescribe and the whole or any balance shall be retained and applied to the penalty payable for failure to comply with the requirements of such order and of this order. The acceptance of any such coin, bullion, or certificates after January 17, 1934, whether or not a part or all of the amount otherwise payable therefor is so retained, shall be without prejudice to the right to collect by suit or otherwise the full penalty provided in section 11 (n) of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, less such portion of the penalty as may have been retained as hereinbefore provided."

HENRY MORGENTHAU, Jr.,

PROCLAMATION, JANUARY 31, 1934, REDUCING THE WEIGHT OF THE GOLD DOLLAR

Whereas, by virtue of section 1 of the act of Congress approved March 14, 1900 (31 Stat. L. 45), the present weight of the gold dollar is fixed at twenty-five and eight-tenths grains of gold nine-tenths fine; and

Whereas, by section 43, title III of the act approved May 12, 1933 (Public No. 10, 73d Cong.), as amended by section 12 of the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, it is provided in part as follows:

"Whenever the President finds, upon investigation, that (1) the foreign commerce of the United States is adversely affected by reason of the depreciation in the value of the currency of any other government or governments in relation to the present standard value of gold, or (2) action under this section is necessary in order to regulate and maintain the parity of currency issues of the United States, or (3) an economic emergency requires an expansion of credit, or (4) an expansion of credit is necessary to secure by international agreement a stabilization at proper levels of the currencies of various governments, the President is authorized, in his discretion—

"(a) To direct the Secretary of the Treasury to enter into agreements with the several Federal Reserve banks and with the Federal Reserve Board whereby the Federal Reserve Board will, and it is hereby authorized to, notwithstanding any provisions of law or rules and regulations to the contrary, permit such reserve banks to agree that they will, (1) conduct, pursuant to existing law, throughout specified periods, open-market operations in obligations of the United States Government or corporations in which the United States is the majority stockholder, and (2) purchase directly and hold in portfolio for an agreed period or periods of time Treasury bills or other obligations of the United States Government in an aggregate sum of $3,000,000,000 in addition to those they may then hold, unless prior to the termination of such period or periods the Secretary shall consent to their sale. No suspension of reserve requirements of the Federal Reserve banks, under the terms of section 11 (c) of the Federal Reserve Act, necessitated by reason of operations under this section, shall require the imposition of the graduated tax upon any deficiency in reserves as provided in said section 11 (c). Nor shall it require any automatic increase in the rates of interest or discount charged by any Federal Reserve bank, as otherwise specified in that section. The Federal Reserve Board, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may require the Federal Reserve banks to take such action as may be necessary, in the judgment of the Board and of the Secretary of the Treasury, to prevent undue credit expansion.

"(b) If the Secretary, when directed by the President, is unable to secure the assent of the several Federal Reserve banks and the Federal Reserve Board to the agreements authorized in this section, or if operations under the above provisions prove to be inadequate to meet the purposes of this section, or if for any other reason additional measures are required in the judgment of the President to meet such purposes, then the President is authorized—

"(2) By proclamation to fix the weight of the gold dollar in grains nine-tenths fine and also to fix the weight of the silver dollar in grains nine-tenths fine at a definite fixed ratio in relation to the gold dollar at such amounts as he finds necessary from his investigation to stabilize domestic prices or to protect the foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, and to provide for the unlimited coinage of such gold and silver at the ratio so fixed, or in case the Government of the United States enters into an agreement with any government or governments under the terms of which the ratio between the value of gold and other currency issued by the United States and by any such government or governments is established, the President may fix the weight of the gold dollar in accordance with the ratio so agreed upon, and such gold dollar, the weight of which is so fixed, shall be the standard unit of value, and all forms of money issued or coined by the United States shall be maintained at a parity with this standard and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to maintain such parity, but in no event shall the weight of the gold dollar be fixed so as to reduce its present weight by more than 50 per centum. Nor shall the weight of the gold dollar be fixed in any event at more than 60 per centum of its present weight. The powers of the President specified in this paragraph shall be deemed to be separate, distinct, and continuing powers, and may be exercised by him, from time to time, severally or together, whenever and as the expressed objects of this section in his judgment may require; except that such powers shall expire two years after the date of enactment of the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, unless the President shall sooner declare the existing emergency ended, but the President may extend such period for not more than one additional year after such date by proclamation recognizing the continuance of such emergency"; and

Whereas, I find, upon investigation, that the foreign commerce of the United States is adversely affected by reason of the depreciation in the value of the currencies of other governments in relation to the present standard value of gold, and that an economic emergency requires an expansion of credit; and

Whereas, in my judgment, measures additional to those provided by subsection (a) of said section 43 are required to meet the purposes of such section; and

Whereas, I find, from my investigation, that, in order to stabilize domestic prices and to protect the foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, it is necessary to fix the weight of the gold dollar at 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ grains nine-tenths fine,

Now, therefore, be it known that I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States, by virtue of the authority vested in me by section 43, title III of said act of May 12, 1933, as amended, and by virtue of all other authority vested in me, do hereby proclaim, order, direct, declare and fix the weight of the gold dollar to be 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ grains nine-tenths fine, from and after the date and hour of this proclamation. The weight of the silver dollar is not altered or affected in any manner by reason of this proclamation.

This proclamation shall remain in force and effect until and unless repealed or modified by act of Congress or by subsequent proclamation; and notice is hereby given that I reserve the right by virtue of the authority vested in me to alter or modify this proclamation as the interest of the United States may seem to require.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the city of Washington at 3:10 o'clock in the afternoon, eastern standard time, this 31st day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and fifty-eighth.

[SEAL]

By the President:

CORDELL HULL,

Secretary of State.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

STATEMENTS BY SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU, JANUARY 31 AND FEBRUARY 1, 1934, RELATING TO THE PURCHASE AND SALE OF GOLD BY THE TREASURY

JANUARY 31, 1934.

In connection with the announcement today (Jan. 31) that the Treasury will buy gold, the Secretary of the Treasury states that, until further notice, he will also sell gold for export to foreign central banks whenever our exchange rates with gold standard currencies reach gold export point. Like the purchases, all such sales of gold will be made through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York as fiscal agent of the United States upon the following terms and conditions which the Secretary of the Treasury deems most advantageous to the public interest:

Sales of gold will be made at $35 per fine ounce plus one-quarter percent handling charge and will be governed by the regulations issued under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934.

FEBRUARY 1, 1934.

Amplifying his statement issued yesterday, * * * the Secretary of the Treasury today made public the following announcement:

"Beginning Thursday, February 1, 1934, and until further notice, I will buy imported fine gold bars through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York as fiscal agent of the United States; and other gold, foreign or domestic, through any United States Mint or the United States Assay Offices at New York or Seattle, both at the following rate and upon the following terms and conditions deemed by me most advantageous to the public interest:

"Purchases will be made at the rate of $35 per fine troy ounce, less the usual mint charges and less one-quarter of one percent for handling charges, all subject to compliance with the regulations issued under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934."

It was explained that the phrase "fine gold bars" means gold bars of a fineness of 0.899 or finer, such as are ordinarily used in the settlement of international balances, carrying a recognized stamp indicating the weight and degree of fineness. The mints will purchase imported gold in other condition, such as unrefined gold and gold in other forms than in stamped bars, along with the domestic gold specified in section 35 of the regulations issued yesterday.

Regulations as to hoarded gold are unchanged.

Chronology of action with respect to gold from March 6, 1933, to February 1, 1934

1. On March 6, 1933, the President of the United States issued a proclamation declaring a banking holiday from March 6 to March 9, 1933, both dates inclusive, and directing that during the holiday, except as provided in said proclamation, no banking institution should "pay out, export, earmark, or permit the withdrawal or transfer in any manner or by any device whatsoever of any gold or silver coin or bullion or currency or take any other action which might facilitate the hoarding thereof, nor pay out deposits, make loans or discounts, deal in foreign exchange, transfers of credit from the United States to any place abroad, or transact any other banking business whatsoever." The Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, was authorized to permit any bank to perform any or all of the usual banking functions. This action of the President was based upon the authority of section 5 (b) of the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. L. 411) as amended.

The Treasurer of the United States and the Director of the Mint were instructed by separate orders of March 6, 1933, signed by the President and the Secretary of the Treasury, to make payments in gold in any form during the continuance of the bank holiday only under license issued by the Secretary of the Treasury.

2. On March 9, 1933, a message sent by the President to the Congress transmitted for enactment the Emergency Banking Act. It was enacted into law the same day. Title I of that act approved and confirmed the action taken by the President March 6, and amended the act of October 6, 1917. In addition section 11 of the Federal Reserve Act was amended by adding a new subsection (n), authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to "require any or all individuals, partnerships, associations, and corporations to pay and deliver to the Treasurer of the United States any or all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates" owned by them. An equivalent amount of any other form of coin or currency coined or issued under the laws of the United States was directed to be given in exchange for the surrendered gold and gold certificates.

3. On March 9, after the passage of the Emergency Banking Act, the President issued a proclamation continuing in full force and effect the provisions of the proclamation of March 6, 1933, and the regulations and orders issued thereunder "until further proclamation by the President."

4. On March 10 the President issued an Executive order which, among other things, prohibited until further order any individual, partnership, association, or corporation from exporting or otherwise removing or permitting to be withdrawn from the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates, except in accordance with regulations prescribed by or under license issued by the Secretary of the Treasury. The order provided that permission given to banking institutions to perform banking functions should not include authorization to pay out any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates, except as authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury.

5. On April 5 the President issued an Executive order forbidding the hoarding of gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates. All persons were required to deliver to a Federal Reserve bank or branch or agency thereof or to a member bank all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates, with certain exceptions, including reasonable amounts for use in industry and the arts, and rare coins, and a maximum of $100 per person in gold coin and gold certificates. Member banks were required to deliver all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates owned or received by them (with the same exceptions as aforementioned) to the Federal Reserve banks of their respective districts.

6. On April 19, 1933, the Secretary of the Treasury advised that until further notice no further licenses would be granted for the export of gold from the United States for the purpose of supporting the dollar in foreign exchange. On April 20, the President issued an Executive order relating to foreign exchange and the earmarking and export of gold coin or bullion or currency. It prohibited the earmarking for foreign account and the export of gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates, but authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to issue licenses permitting such export under certain conditions.

7. On April 29, the Secretary of the Treasury issued regulations relating to the Executive orders of April 5 and 20 with respect to gold hoarding and the gold export embargo. On the previous day Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ballantine ruled that "Until further notice the Secretary of the Treasury will grant no licenses for the acquisition of gold, gold coin, or bullion by persons making application for the same under the Executive order of April 5, 1933, for the purpose of meeting maturing obligations calling for payment in gold coin or bullion, within the United States or elsewhere, except where such applicants have surrendered gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates in obedience to the Executive order of April 5, 1933." No licenses to acquire gold or gold coin to meet maturing gold clause obligations in the United States were, in fact, issued, none of the applicants having surrendered gold, gold coin, or gold certificates.

8. On May 12, the President approved an act of Congress dealing primarily with agricultural purchasing power and farm indebtedness, title III of which dealt with currency and monetary matters. The act authorized the President under certain conditions—

A. To direct the Secretary of the Treasury to enter into agreements with the Federal Reserve banks and Board under which such banks would conduct open-market operations in United States securities, and purchase directly from the Treasury and hold in portfolio Treasury bills or other Government obligations in an aggregate amount of $3,000,000,000 in addition to those they might then hold.

B. To direct the Secretary of the Treasury to cause to be issued United States notes, the aggregate amount of which outstanding at any one time should not be more than $3,000,000,000. Such notes and all other coins and currency theretofore or thereafter coined or issued by or under the authority of the United States were declared to be legal tender for all debts.

C. By proclamation to fix the weight of the gold dollar and to fix the weight of the silver dollar at a definite fixed ratio to the gold dollar and to provide for unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio so fixed, or, in case the United States enters into an agreement with any government under the terms of which the ratio between the value of the gold and other currency issued by the United States and by any such government is established, to fix the weight of the gold dollar in accordance with the ratio so agreed upon, but in no event was the weight of the dollar to be fixed so as to reduce its then existing weight by more than 50 per centum. The gold dollar as thus fixed was to be the standard unit of value and all forms of money issued by the United States were to be maintained at a parity with such standard.

D. To accept silver at a price not to exceed 50 cents an ounce in payment of the debts of foreign governments, up to $200,000,000, and to cause it to be coined into silver dollars to be retained in the Treasury for the redemption of silver certificates which the act directed to be issued.

9. By Public Resolution No. 10, approved June 5, 1933, all "gold clauses" contained in dollar obligations, excepting currency, were declared to be against public policy; and such obligations, whether or not they contained a "gold clause", were declared to be discharged upon payment, dollar for dollar, in any coin or currency which was legal tender at the time of payment. All coins and currencies of the United States were declared to be legal tender.

10. On July 2, the President sent a message to the London Economic Conference. In it he spoke of "efforts to plan national currencies with the objective of giving to those currencies a continuing purchasing power which does not greatly vary in terms of the commodities and need of modern civilization." He stated that "the United States seeks the kind of a dollar which a generation hence will have the same purchasing and debt-paying power as the dollar we hope to attain in the near future."

11. On August 28, the President issued an Executive order, revoking the Executive orders of April 5 and April 20, referred to above, and containing more complete provisions with respect to the hoarding, export, and earmarking of gold coin, bullion, or currency and to transactions in foreign exchange. Returns of gold and gold certificate holdings were required and the acquisition, holding, and export of gold and gold certificates were regulated. This order was amended in a minor respect by the Executive order of January 12, 1934.

12. On August 29, the President issued an Executive order relating to the sale and export of gold recovered from natural deposits. The Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to receive such gold on consignment for sale (a) to persons licensed to acquire gold for use in the arts, industries, and professions, or (b) by export to foreign purchasers.

13. On September 12, 1933, the Secretary of the Treasury issued regulations under said Executive orders of August 28 and 29.

14. On October 22, in a radio address, the President reiterated that the definite policy of the Government "has been to restore commodity price levels." He stated that when the price level had been restored, "we shall seek to establish and maintain a dollar which will not change its purchasing and debt-paying power during the succeeding generation." Stating that "it becomes increasingly important to develop and apply the further measures which may be necessary from time to time to control the gold value of our own dollar at home", and that "the United States must take firmly in its own hands the control of the gold value of our dollar", the President announced the establishment of a Government market for gold in the United States. He stated that he was authorizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy gold newly mined in the United States at prices to be determined from time to time after consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury and the President. "Whenever necessary to the end in view", the President added, "we shall also buy or sell gold in the world market." He continued, "Government credit will be maintained and a sound currency will accompany a rise in the American commodity price level."

15. On October 25, the President issued an Executive order revoking the Executive order of August 29 and amending that of August 28 referred to above. The order of October 25 authorized the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to acquire and to hold, earmark for foreign account, export, or otherwise dispose of gold newly mined in the United States and received by the mints and assay offices on consignment for such purpose. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced on the same day that it would receive subscriptions for its 90-day notes payable in the gold so received. The circular for such notes was issued on October 26. The rate at which newly mined gold was to be taken was announced from time to time. The rate for gold other than newly mined gold was not changed by the orders of August 29 or October 25, or the act of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; but remained at $20.67 an ounce.

16. On November 1, the Chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced that the Corporation had authorized the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to dispose of the notes of the Corporation and take therefor certain foreign gold.

17. On December 28, the Secretary of the Treasury issued an order complementing the President's orders of April 5 and August 28. This order required every person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States to deliver to the Treasurer of the United States all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates situated in the United States, with certain stated exceptions. This order did not contain the exception of the earlier orders with respect to holdings in amounts of less than $100. An exception relating to rare coin was amended in a minor respect on January 11, 1934.

18. On January 15, the President issued an Executive order authorizing the mints and assay offices to receive gold on consignment provided the gold had not been withheld unlawfully; and on the same day the Secretary of the Treasury directed the mints and assay offices to receive gold newly mined in the United States on consignment for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The rate for gold other than newly mined gold was not changed by the order of January 15, or by the purchases by the Federal Reserve bank.

19. The Secretary of the Treasury, on January 15, supplemented his order of December 28 by fixing midnight of January 17, 1934, as the expiration of the period within which deliveries of gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates could be made in compliance with the order of December 28.

20. On January 17, the Secretary of the Treasury sent instructions to the Treasurer of the United States, the United States mints and assay offices, and the fiscal agents of the United States, concerning wrongfully withheld gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates delivered after January 17, 1934.

21. On January 30, 1934, the Gold Reserve Act of 1934 was approved, and the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, issued the provisional regulations thereunder. This act transferred to the United States title to all gold of the Federal Reserve System. It amended the act of May 12, 1933, so as to provide that the weight of the gold dollar should not be fixed in any event at more than 60 per centum of the weight then existing. Gold coin was ordered withdrawn from circulation and formed into bars. It was provided that redemption of currency in gold should be made only to the extent permitted in regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President, and in such cases should be made only in gold bullion. The act provided that gold in any form might be acquired, transported, melted or treated, imported, exported, or earmarked or held in custody for foreign or domestic account (except on behalf of the United States) only to the extent permitted by the regulations issued under the act. The act made provision for a fund for the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar.

22. On January 31, the President issued a proclamation fixing the weight of the gold dollar at 15 5/21 grains nine-tenths fine. At this weight, the statutory value of gold is $35 per fine ounce.

23. On January 31, the provisional regulations under the Gold Reserve Act were amended by adding new articles authorizing the mints (1) to purchase newly mined gold, unmelted scrap gold, gold imported after January 30, and such other gold as might be authorized from time to time by rulings of the Secretary of the Treasury, and (2) to sell gold to licensed persons for industrial, professional, or artistic use. The purchase price payable by the mints was fixed at $35 (less one-fourth of 1 percent), and the sales price at $35 (plus one-fourth of 1 percent) per troy ounce of fine gold.

24. The Secretary of the Treasury issued statements with respect to the purchase and sale of gold, which are as follows:

"Beginning Thursday, February 1, 1934, and until further notice, I will buy imported fine gold bars through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York as fiscal agent of the United States; and other gold, foreign or domestic, through any United States mint or the United States assay offices at New York or Seattle, both at the following rate and upon the following terms and conditions deemed by me most advantageous to the public interest: Purchases will be made at the rate of $35 per fine troy ounce, less the usual mint charges and less one-quarter of 1 percent for handling charges, all subject to compliance with the regulations issued under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934." (Statement of Jan. 31, as amplified by statement of Feb. 1.)

"In connection with the announcement today (Jan. 31) that the Treasury will buy gold, the Secretary of the Treasury states that, until further notice, he will also sell gold for export to foreign central banks whenever our exchange rates with gold standard currencies reach gold export point. Like the purchases, all such sales of gold will be made through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York as fiscal agent of the United States upon the following terms and conditions which the Secretary of the Treasury deems most advantageous to the public interest:

"Sales of gold will be made at $35 per fine ounce plus one-quarter percent handling charge and will be governed by the regulations issued under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934." (Statement of Jan. 31.)

[Public No. 438, 73d Cong., H. R. 9745]

An act to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase silver, issue silver certificates, and for other purposes

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the short title of this Act shall be the "Silver Purchase Act of 1934."

SEC. 2. It is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States that the proportion of silver to gold in the monetary stocks of the United States should be increased, with the ultimate objective of having and maintaining, one-fourth of the monetary value of such stocks in silver.

SEC. 3. Whenever and so long as the proportion of silver in the stocks of gold and silver of the United States is less than one-fourth of the monetary value of such stocks, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to purchase silver, at home or abroad, for present or future delivery with any direct obligations, coin, or currency of the United States, authorized by law, or with any funds in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, at such rates, at such times, and upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and most advantageous to the public interest: Provided, That no purchase of silver shall be made hereunder at a price in excess of the monetary value thereof: And provided further, That no purchases of silver situated in the continental United States on May 1, 1934, shall be made hereunder at a price in excess of 50 cents a fine ounce.

SEC. 4. Whenever and so long as the market price of silver exceeds its monetary value or the monetary value of the stocks of silver is greater than 25 per centum of the monetary value of the stocks of gold and silver, the Secretary of the Treasury may, with the approval of the President and subject to the provisions of section 5, sell any silver acquired under the authority of this act, at home or abroad, for present or future delivery, at such rates, at such times, and upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and most advantageous to the public interest.

SEC. 5. The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to issue silver certificates in such denominations as he may from time to time prescribe in a face amount not less than the cost of all silver purchased under the authority of section 3, and such certificates shall be placed in actual circulation. There shall be maintained in the Treasury as security for all silver certificates heretofore or hereafter issued and at the time outstanding an amount of silver in bullion and standard silver dollars of a monetary value equal to the face amount of such silver certificates. All silver certificates heretofore or hereafter issued shall be legal tender for all debts, public and private, public charges, taxes, duties, and dues, and shall be redeemable on demand at the Treasury of the United States in standard silver dollars; and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to coin standard silver dollars for such redemption.

SEC. 6. Whenever in his judgment such action is necessary to effectuate the policy of this act, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized, with the approval of the President, to investigate, regulate, or prohibit, by means of licenses or otherwise, the acquisition, importation, exportation, or transportation of silver and of contracts and other arrangements made with respect thereto; and to require the filing of reports deemed by him reasonably necessary in connection therewith. Whoever willfully violates the provisions of any license, order, rule, or regulation issued pursuant to the authorization contained in this section shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than $10,000 or, if a natural person, may be imprisoned for not more than ten years, or both; and any officer, director, or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in such violation may be punished by a like fine, imprisonment, or both.

SEC. 7. Whenever in the judgment of the President such action is necessary to effectuate the policy of this act, he may by Executive order require the delivery to the United States mints of any or all silver by whomever owned or possessed. The silver so delivered shall be coined into standard silver dollars or otherwise added to the monetary stocks of the United States as the President may determine; and there shall be returned therefor in standard silver dollars, or any other coin or currency of the United States, the monetary value of the silver so delivered less such deductions for seigniorage, brassage, coinage, and other mint charges as the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President shall have determined: Provided, That in no case shall the value of the amount returned therefor be less than the fair value at the time of such order of the silver required to be delivered as such value is determined by the market price over a reasonable period terminating at the time of such order. The Secretary of the Treasury shall pay all necessary costs of the transportation of such silver and standard silver dollars, coin, or currency, including the cost of insurance, protection, and such other incidental costs as may be reasonably necessary. Any silver withheld in violation of any Executive order issued under this section or of any regulations issued pursuant thereto shall be forfeited to the United States, and may be seized and condemned by like proceedings as those provided by law for the forfeiture, seizure, and condemnation of property imported into the United States contrary to law; and, in addition, any person failing to comply with the provisions of any such Executive order or regulation shall be subject to a penalty equal to twice the monetary value of the silver in respect of which such failure occurred.

SEC. 8. Schedule A of title VIII of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended (relating to stamp taxes), is amended by adding at the end thereof a new subdivision to read as follows:

"10. SILVER, AND SO FORTH, SALES AND TRANSFERS.—On all transfers of any interest in silver bullion, if the price for which such interest is or is to be transferred exceeds the total of the cost thereof and allowed expenses, 50 per centum of the amount of such excess. On every such transfer there shall be made and delivered by the transferor to the transferee a memorandum to which there shall be affixed lawful stamps in value equal to the tax thereon. Every such memorandum shall show the date thereof, the names and addresses of the transferor and transferee, the interest in silver bullion to which it refers, the price for which such interest is or is to be transferred, and the cost thereof and the allowed expenses. Any person liable for payment of tax under this subdivision (or anyone who acts in the matter as agent or broker for any such person) who is a party to any such transfer, or who in pursuance of any such transfer delivers any silver bullion or interest therein, without a memorandum stating truly and completely the information herein required, or who delivers any such memorandum without having the proper stamps affixed thereto, with intent to evade the foregoing provisions, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall pay a fine of not exceeding $1,000 or be imprisoned not more than six months, or both. Stamps affixed under this subdivision shall be canceled (in lieu of the manner provided in section 504) by such officers and in such manner as regulations under this subdivision shall prescribe. Such officers shall cancel such stamps only if it appears that the proper tax is being paid, and when stamps with respect to any transfer are so canceled, the transferor and not the transferee shall be liable for any additional tax found due or penalty with respect to such transfer. The Commissioner shall abate or refund, in accordance with regulations issued hereunder, such portion of any tax hereunder as he finds to be attributable to profits (1) realized in the course of the transferor's regular business of furnishing silver bullion for industrial, professional, or artistic use and (a) not resulting from a change in the market price of silver bullion, or (b) offset by contemporaneous losses incurred in transactions in interests in silver bullion determined, in accordance with such regulations, to have been specifically related hedging transactions; or (2) offset by contemporaneous losses attributable to changes in the market price of silver bullion and incurred in transactions in silver foreign exchange determined, in accordance with such regulations, to have been hedged specifically by the interest in silver bullion transferred. The provisions of this subdivision shall extend to all transfers in the United States of any interest in silver bullion, and to all such transfers outside the United States if either party thereto is a resident of the United States or is a citizen of the United States who has been a resident thereof within three months before the date of the transfer or if such silver bullion or interest therein is situated in the United States; and shall extend to transfers to the United States Government (the tax in such cases to be payable by the transferor), but shall not extend to transfers of silver bullion by deposit or delivery at a United States mint under proclamation by the President or in compliance with any Executive order issued pursuant to section 7 of the Silver Purchase Act of 1934. The tax under this subdivision on transfers enumerated in subdivision 4 shall be in addition to the tax under such subdivision. This subdivision shall apply (1) with respect to all transfers of any interest in silver bullion after the enactment of the Silver Purchase Act of 1934, and (2) with respect to all transfers of any interest in silver bullion on or after May 15, 1934, and prior to the enactment of the Silver Purchase Act of 1934, except that in such cases it shall be paid by the transferor in such manner and at such time as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may by regulations prescribe, and the requirement of a memorandum of such transfer shall not apply.

"As used in this subdivision—

"The terms 'cost' means the cost of the interest in silver bullion to the transferor, except that (a) in case of silver bullion produced from materials containing silver which has not previously entered into industrial, commercial, or monetary use, the cost to a transferor who is the producer shall be deemed to be the market price at the time of production determined in accordance with regulations issued hereunder; (b) in the case of an interest in silver bullion acquired by the transferor otherwise than for valuable consideration, the cost shall be deemed to be the cost thereof to the last previous transferor by whom it was acquired for a valuable consideration; and (c) in the case of any interest in silver bullion acquired by the transferor (after April 15, 1934) in a wash sale, the cost shall be deemed to be the cost to him of the interest transferred by him in such wash sale, but with proper adjustment, in accordance with regulations under this subdivision, when such interests are in silver bullion for delivery at different times.

"The term 'transfer' means a sale, agreement of sale, agreement to sell, memorandum of sale or delivery of, or transfer, whether made by assignment in blank or by any delivery, or by any paper or agreement or memorandum or any other evidence of transfer or sale; or means to make a transfer as so defined.

"The term 'interest in silver bullion' means any title or claim to, or interest in, any silver bullion or contract therefor.

"The term 'allowed expenses' means usual and necessary expenses actually incurred in holding, processing, or transporting the interest in silver bullion as to which an interest is transferred (including storage, insurance, and transportation charges but not including interest, taxes, or charges in the nature of overhead), determined in accordance with regulations issued hereunder.

"The term 'memorandum' means a bill, memorandum, agreement, or other evidence of a transfer.

"The term 'wash sale' means a transaction involving the transfer of an interest in silver bullion and, within thirty days before or after such transfer, the acquisition by the same person of an interest in silver bullion. Only so much of the interest so acquired as does not exceed the interest so transferred, and only so much of the interest so transferred as does not exceed the interest so acquired, shall be deemed to be included in the wash sale.

"The term 'silver bullion' means silver which has been melted, smelted, or refined and is in such state or condition that its value depends primarily upon the silver content and not upon its form."

SEC. 9. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to issue, with the approval of the President, such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may deem necessary or proper to carry out the purposes of this Act, or of any order issued hereunder.

SEC. 10. As used in this Act—

The term "person" means an individual, partnership, association, or corporation;

The term "the continental United States" means the States of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Territory of Alaska;

The term "monetary value" means a value calculated on the basis of $1 for an amount of silver or gold equal to the amount at the time contained in the standard silver dollar and the gold dollar, respectively;

The term "stocks of silver" means the total amount of silver at the time owned by the United States (whether or not held as security for outstanding currency of the United States) and of silver contained in coins of the United States at the time outstanding;

The term "stocks of gold" means the total amount of gold at the time owned by the United States, whether or not held as a reserve or as security for any outstanding currency of the United States.

SEC. 11. There is authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $500,000, which shall be available for expenditure under the direction of the President and in his discretion, for any purpose in connection with the carrying out of this act; and there are hereby authorized to be appropriated annually such additional sums as may be necessary for such purposes.

SEC. 12. The right to alter, amend, or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved. If any provision of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstances, is held invalid, the remainder of the act, and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

SEC. 13. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with any of the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, but the authority conferred in this act upon the President and the Secretary of the Treasury is declared to be supplemental to the authority heretofore conferred.

Proclamation and orders relating to silver

PROCLAMATION, DECEMBER 21, 1933, RELATING TO THE COINAGE OF SILVER

Whereas, by paragraph (2) of section 43, title III, of the act of Congress, approved May 12, 1933 (Public No. 10), the President is authorized "By proclamation to fix the weight of the gold dollar in grains nine-tenths fine and also to fix the weight of the silver dollar in grains nine-tenths fine at a definite fixed ratio in relation to the gold dollar at such amounts as he finds necessary from his investigation to stabilize domestic prices or to protect the foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, and to provide for the unlimited coinage of such gold and silver at the ratio so fixed, * * *"; and

Whereas, from investigations made by me, I find it necessary, in aid of the stabilization of domestic prices and in accordance with the policy and program authorized by Congress, which are now being administered, and to protect our foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, that the price of silver be enhanced and stabilized; and

Whereas a resolution presented by the delegation of the United States of America was unanimously adopted at the World Economic and Monetary Conference in London on July 20, 1933, by the representatives of sixty-six governments, which in substance provided that said governments will abandon the policy and practice of melting up or debasing silver coins; that low valued silver currency be replaced with silver coins and that no legislation should be enacted that will depreciate the value of silver; and

Whereas a separate and supplemental agreement was entered into, at the instance of the representatives of the United States, between China, India, and Spain, the holders and users of large quantities of silver, on the one hand, and Australia, Canada, Mexico, Peru, and the United States on the other hand, as the chief producers of silver, wherein China agreed not to dispose of any silver derived from the melting up or debasement of silver coins, and India agreed not to dispose of over 35,000,000 ounces of silver per annum during a period of four years commencing January 1, 1934, and Spain agreed not to dispose of over 5,000,000 ounces of silver annually during said period, and both of said governments agreed that at the end of said period of four years they would then subject themselves to the general resolution adopted at the London Conference, and in consideration of such limitation it was agreed that the governments of the five producing countries would each absorb from the mines in their respective countries a certain amount of silver, the total amount to be absorbed by said producing countries being 35,000,000 ounces per annum during the four years commencing the 1st day of January, 1934; that such silver so absorbed would be retained in each of said respective countries for said period of four years, to be used for coinage purposes or as reserves for currency, or to otherwise be retained and kept off the world market during such period of time, it being understood that of the 35,000,000 ounces the United States was to absorb annually at least 24,421,410 ounces of the silver produced in the United States during such period of time.

Now, therefore, finding it proper to cooperate with other governments and necessary to assist in increasing and stabilizing domestic prices, to augment the purchasing power of peoples in silver-using countries, to protect our foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, and to carry out the understanding between the sixty-six governments that adopted the resolution hereinbefore referred to; by virtue of the power in me vested by the act of Congress above cited, the other legislation designated for national recovery, and by virtue of all other authority in me vested;

I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do proclaim and direct that each United States coinage mint shall receive for coinage into standard silver dollars any silver which such mint, subject to regulations prescribed hereunder by the Secretary of the Treasury, is satisfied has been mined, subsequently to the date of this proclamation, from natural deposits in the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof. The Director of the Mint, with the voluntary consent of the owner, shall deduct and retain of such silver so received fifty percent as seigniorage and for services performed by the Government of the United States relative to the coinage and delivery of silver dollars. The balance of such silver so received, that is, fifty percent thereof, shall be coined into standard silver dollars and the same, or an equal number of other standard silver dollars, shall be delivered to the owner or depositor of such silver. The fifty percent of such silver so deducted shall be retained as bullion by the Treasury and shall not be disposed of prior to the thirty-first day of December, 1937, except for coining into United States coins.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to prescribe regulations to carry out the purposes of this proclamation. Such regulations shall contain provisions substantially similar to the provisions contained in the regulations made pursuant to the act of Congress, approved April 23, 1918, (40 Statutes at Large, page 535), known as the Pittman Act, with such changes as he shall determine, prescribing how silver mined, subsequently to the date of this proclamation, from natural deposits in the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, shall be identified.

This proclamation shall remain in force and effect until the thirty-first day of December, 1937, unless repealed or modified by act of Congress or by subsequent proclamation.

The present ratio in weight and fineness of the silver dollar to the gold dollar shall, for the purposes of this proclamation, be maintained until changed by further order or proclamation.

Notice is hereby given that I reserve the right by virtue of the authority vested in me to revoke or modify this proclamation as the interest of the United States may seem to require.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 21st day of December, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and fifty-eighth.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

By the President:

WILLIAM PHILLIPS,

Acting Secretary of State.

OFFICIAL ORDER, JUNE 14, 1934, RELATING TO THE ISSUANCE OF SILVER CERTIFICATES

JUNE 14, 1934.

MY DEAR MR. In the event that the shipment is to be made by mail, a copy of the license shall be sent to the postmaster of the post office designated in the application, who will act under the instructions of the Postmaster General in regard thereto.

SEC. 8. Exports prohibited by other orders, etc.—The provisions of sections 3, 4, 5, and 6 shall not be construed to authorize any exportation or transportation from the continental United States prohibited by any other order or by any law, ruling, or regulation.

Proclamation and Executive orders relating to banking, foreign exchange, and related matters

PROCLAMATION, DECEMBER 30, 1933, RELATIVE TO THE CONTROL OVER STATE BANKING INSTITUTIONS

Whereas, on March 6, 1933, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, by virtue of authority vested in me by the act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. L. 411), as amended, issued a proclamation declaring that an emergency existed and that a national banking holiday be observed;

Whereas, on March 9, 1933, I issued a proclamation continuing the terms and conditions of said proclamation of March 6, 1933, in full force and effect until further proclamation by the President:

Whereas, on March 10, 1933, I issued an Executive order authorizing the appropriate authority having immediate supervision of banking institutions in each State or any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States to permit any banking institution not a member of the Federal Reserve System to perform any or all of its usual banking functions except as otherwise provided;

Whereas, the Secretary of the Treasury, pursuant to authority granted by other provisions of the said Executive order of March 10, 1933, has acted upon all requests for licensing of banks members of the Federal Reserve System;

Whereas, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has acted upon all applications to it for membership in the Temporary Federal Deposit Insurance Fund as provided for in section 12B (y) of the Federal Reserve Act as amended by section 8 of the act of June 16, 1933, Public No. 66, Seventy-third Congress, and has admitted to the said fund all applicant banks which are duly and properly qualified; and

Whereas, it is now appropriate that the banking authority in each State and any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States should have and exercise the sole responsibility for, and control over, banking institutions not members of the Federal Reserve System;

Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States, in order to assure that the banking authority in each State and in any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States shall have and exercise the sole responsibility for, and control over, banking institutions which are not members of the Federal Reserve System, do hereby proclaim, order, direct, and declare that the proclamations of March 6, 1933, and March 9, 1933, and the Executive order of March 10, 1933, and all orders and regulations pursuant thereto, are amended, effective the first day of January, nineteen hundred and thirty-four, to exclude from their scope banking institutions which are not members of the Federal Reserve System: Provided, however, That no banking institutions shall pay out any gold coin, gold bullion, or gold certificates, except as authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury, nor allow the withdrawal of any currency for hoarding, nor engage in any transactions in foreign exchange except such as may be undertaken for legitimate and normal business requirements, for reasonable traveling and other personal requirements, and for the fulfillment of contracts entered into prior to March 6, 1933.¹

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the city of Washington this 30th day of December in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three, and of [SEAL] the Independence of the United States the one hundred and fifty-eighth.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

By the President:

WILLIAM PHILLIPS,

Acting Secretary of State.

No person shall (except as provided in section 202) transport, possess, buy, sell, or transfer any distilled spirits, unless the immediate container thereof has affixed thereto a stamp denoting the quantity of distilled spirits contained therein and evidencing payment of all internal revenue taxes imposed on such spirits. Sec. 202. Every person who, on the effective date of this title, holds for sale (or use in the manufacture or production of an article intended for sale) any distilled spirits in containers required to be stamped by section 201, on which all internal revenue taxes have been paid, may possess such spirits, but shall, not later than the tenth day after such date, apply for, and shall be sold (in accordance with section 203) the requisite stamps. Such stamps shall be promptly affixed to the immediate containers of such spirits, except that when such spirits contained in bottles in closed cases are held for sale or sold otherwise than at retail, such stamps need not be affixed until the cases are opened or sold at retail, when such stamps shall be immediately affixed to the bottles, but such stamps shall be sold or transferred in connection with any sale or transfer of such spirits and the person in possession of such spirits shall be in possession of such stamps therefor.

Sec. 203. Any person placing or intending to place any distilled spirits upon which all internal revenue taxes have been paid into any container upon which a stamp is required by this title, or withdrawing or intending to withdraw any imported spirits in such containers from customs custody, shall be entitled to purchase sufficient stamps for stamping such containers. When in his judgment there is no danger to the revenue, and upon the giving of such bonds or other security as he may deem necessary, the Commissioner may authorize (1) the sale prior to the effective date of this title of such stamps and (2) the sale of such stamps to importers for stamping containers in the country from which imported.

Sec. 204. Every person emptying any container stamped under the provisions of this title shall at the time of emptying such container destroy the stamp thereon.

Sec. 205. The Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall prescribe (a) regulations with respect to the time and manner of applying for, issuing, affixing, and destroying stamps required by this title, the form and denominations of such stamps, proof that applicants are entitled to such stamps, and the method of accounting for receipts from the sale of such stamps, and (b) such other regulations as he shall deem necessary for the enforcement of this title.

Sec. 206. All distilled spirits found in any container required to bear a stamp by this title, which container is not stamped in compliance with this title and regulations issued thereunder, shall be forfeited to the United States. Distilled spirits placed in such containers prior to the effective date of this title shall not be subject to this section until the expiration of 10 days after the effective date of this title, nor (when it is established that application for stamps therefor was made within the proper time) until such stamps are received by the applicant.

Sec. 207. Any person who violates any provision of this title, or who, with intent to defraud, falsely makes, forges, alters, or counterfeits any stamp made or used under this title, or who uses, sells, or has in his possession any such forged, altered, or counterfeited stamp, or any plate or die used or which may be used in the manufacture thereof, or any stamp required to be destroyed by this title, or who makes, uses, sells, or has in his possession any paper in imitation of the paper used in the manufacture of any such stamp, or who reuses any stamp required to be destroyed by this title, or who places any distilled spirits in any bottle which has been filled and stamped under this title without destroying the stamp previously affixed to such bottle, or who affixes any stamp issued under this title to any container of distilled spirits on which any tax due is unpaid, or who makes any false statement in any application for stamps under this title, or who has in his possession any such stamps obtained by him otherwise than as provided in sections 202 and 203, or who sells or transfers any such stamp otherwise than as provided in section 202, shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000, or by imprisonment at hard labor not exceeding five years, or by both. Any officer authorized to enforce any provisions of law relating to internal revenue stamps is authorized to enforce the provisions of this section and the provisions of section 7 of the act of March 3, 1897, relating to the bottling of distilled spirits in bond.

Sec. 208. This title shall take effect on the thirtieth day following the date of the enactment of this act, except that if on or before the twentieth day following the date of the enactment of this act the Secretary of the Treasury finds that it is impracticable to put this title into effect on the thirtieth day following the date of the enactment of this act and so proclaims, specifying the date, not later than the sixtieth day following the date of the enactment of this act on which it will be practicable to put this title into effect, this title shall take effect on the date specified in such proclamation. Notwithstanding the previous provisions of this section, this section and sections 202, 203, and 205 shall take effect on the date of the enactment of this act.

[Public No. 474, 73d Cong., H. R. 9741]

An act to provide for the taxation of manufacturers, importers, and dealers in certain firearms and machine guns, to tax the sale or other disposal of such weapons, and to restrict importation and regulate interstate transportation thereof

(a) The term "firearm" means a shotgun or rifle having a barrel of less than eighteen inches in length, or any other weapon, except a pistol or revolver, from which a shot is discharged by an explosive if such weapon is capable of being concealed on the person, or a machine gun, and includes a muffler or silencer for any firearm whether or not such firearm is included within the foregoing definition.

(b) The term "machine gun" means any weapon which shoots, or is designed to shoot, automatically or semiautomatically, more than one shot, without manual reloading, by a single function of the trigger.

(c) The term "person" includes a partnership, company, association, or corporation, as well as a natural person.

(d) The term "continental United States" means the States of the United States and the District of Columbia.

(e) The term "importer" means any person who imports or brings firearms into the continental United States for sale.

(f) The term "manufacturer" means any person who is engaged within the continental United States in the manufacture of firearms, or who otherwise produces therein any firearm for sale or disposition.

(g) The term "dealer" means any person not a manufacturer or importer engaged within the continental United States in the business of selling firearms. The term "dealer" shall include wholesalers, pawnbrokers, and dealers in used firearms.

(k) The term "to transfer" or "transferred" shall include to sell, assign, pledge, lease, loan, give away, or otherwise dispose of.

Sec. 2. (a) Within fifteen days after the effective date of this act, or upon first engaging in business, and thereafter on or before the 1st day of July of each year, every importer, manufacturer, and dealer in firearms shall register with the collector of internal revenue for each district in which such business is to be carried on, his name or style, principal place of business, and places of business in such district, and pay a special tax at the following rates: Importers or manufacturers, $500 a year; dealers, other than pawnbrokers, $200 a year; pawnbrokers, $300 a year. Where the tax is payable on the 1st day of July in any year it shall be computed for one year; where the tax is payable on any other day it shall be computed proportionately from the 1st day of the month in which the liability to the tax accrued to the 1st day of July following.

(b) It shall be unlawful for any person required to register under the provisions of this section to import, manufacture, or deal in firearms without having registered and paid the tax imposed by this section.

Sec. 3. (a) There shall be levied, collected, and paid upon firearms transferred in the continental United States a tax at the rate of $200 for each firearm, such tax to be paid by the transferor, and to be represented by appropriate stamps to be provided by the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary; and the stamps herein provided shall be affixed to the order for such firearm, hereinafter provided for. The tax imposed by this section shall be in addition to any import duty imposed on such firearm.

(b) All provisions of law (including those relating to special taxes, to the assessment, collection, remission, and refund of internal revenue taxes, to the engraving, issuance, sale, accountability, cancellation, and distribution of tax-paid stamps provided for in the internal revenue laws, and to penalties) applicable with respect to the taxes imposed by section 1 of the act of December 17, 1914, as amended (U. S. C., Supp. VII, title 26, secs. 1040 and 1383), and all other provisions of the internal revenue laws shall, insofar as not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be applicable with respect to the taxes imposed by this act.

(c) Under such rules and regulations as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe, and upon proof of the exportation of any firearm to any foreign country (whether exported as part of another article or not) with respect to which the transfer tax under this section has been paid by the manufacturer, the Commissioner shall refund to the manufacturer the amount of the tax so paid, or, if the manufacturer waives all claim for the amount to be refunded, the refund shall be made to the exporter.

Sec. 4. (a) It shall be unlawful for any person to transfer a firearm except in pursuance of a written order from the person seeking to obtain such article, on an application form issued in blank in duplicate for that purpose by the Commissioner. Such order shall identify the applicant by such means of identification as may be prescribed by regulations under this act: Provided, That, if the applicant is an individual, such identification shall include fingerprints and a photograph thereof.

(b) The Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, shall cause suitable forms to be prepared for the purposes above mentioned, and shall cause the same to be distributed to collectors of internal revenue.

(c) Every person so transferring a firearm shall set forth in each copy of such order the manufacturer's number or other mark identifying such firearm, and shall forward a copy of such order to the Commissioner. The original thereof with stamps affixed, shall be returned to the applicant.

(d) No person shall transfer a firearm which has previously been transferred on or after the effective date of this act, unless such person, in addition to complying with subsection (c), transfers therewith the stamp-affixed order provided for in this section for each such prior transfer, in compliance with such regulations as may be prescribed under this act for proof of payment of all taxes on such firearms.

(e) If the transfer of a firearm is exempted from the provisions of this act as provided in section 13 hereof, the person transferring such firearm shall notify the Commissioner of the name and address of the applicant, the number or other mark identifying such firearm, and the date of its transfer, and shall file with the Commissioner such documents in proof thereof as the Commissioner may by regulations prescribe.

(f) Importers, manufacturers, and dealers who have registered and paid the tax as provided for in section 2 (a) of this act shall not be required to conform to the provisions of this section with respect to transactions in firearms with dealers or manufacturers if such dealers or manufacturers have registered and have paid such tax, but shall keep such records and make such reports regarding such transactions as may be prescribed by regulations under this act.

Sec. 5. (a) Within sixty days after the effective date of this act every person possessing a firearm shall register, with the collector of the district in which he resides, the number or other mark identifying such firearm, together with his name, address, place where such firearm is usually kept, and place of business or employment, and, if such person is other than a natural person, the name and home address of an executive officer thereof: Provided, That no person shall be required to register under this section with respect to any firearm acquired after the effective date of and in conformity with the provisions of this act.

(b) Whenever, on trial for a violation of section 6 hereof, the defendant is shown to have or to have had possession of such firearm at any time after such period of sixty days without having registered as required by this section, such possession shall create a presumption that such firearm came into the possession of the defendant subsequent to the effective date of this act, but this presumption shall not be conclusive.

Sec. 6. It shall be unlawful for any person to receive or possess any firearm which has at any time been transferred in violation of section 3 or 4 of this act.

Sec. 7. (a) Any firearm which has at any time been transferred in violation of the provisions of this act shall be subject to seizure and forfeiture, and (except as provided in subsection (b)) all the provisions of internal revenue laws relating to searches, seizures, and forfeiture of unstamped articles are extended to and made to apply to the articles taxed under this act and the persons to whom this act applies.

(b) In the case of the forfeiture of any firearm by reason of a violation of this act: No notice of public sale shall be required; no such firearm shall be sold at public sale; if such firearm is in the possession of any officer of the United States except the Secretary, such officer shall deliver the firearm to the Secretary; and the Secretary may order such firearm destroyed or may sell such firearm to any State, Territory, or possession (including the Philippine Islands), or political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or retain it for the use of the Treasury Department or transfer it without charge to any Executive department or independent establishment of the Government for use by it.

Sec. 8. (a) Each manufacturer and importer of a firearm shall identify it with a number or other identification mark approved by the Commissioner, such number or mark to be stamped or otherwise placed thereon in a manner approved by the Commissioner.

(b) It shall be unlawful for anyone to obliterate, remove, change, or alter such number or other identification mark. Whenever on trial for a violation of this subsection the defendant is shown to have or to have had possession of any firearm upon which such number or mark shall have been obliterated, removed, changed, or altered, such possession shall be deemed sufficient evidence to authorize conviction, unless the defendant explains such possession to the satisfaction of the jury.

Sec. 9. Importers, manufacturers, and dealers shall keep such books and records and render such returns in relation to the transactions in firearms specified in this act as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, may by regulations require.

Sec. 10. (a) No firearm shall be imported or brought into the United States or any territory under its control or jurisdiction (including the Philippine Islands), except that, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary, any firearm may be so imported or brought in which (1) the purpose thereof is shown to be lawful and (2) such firearm is unique or of a type which cannot be obtained within the United States or such territory.

(b) It shall be unlawful (1) fraudulently or knowingly to import or bring any firearm into the United States or any territory under its control or jurisdiction (including the Philippine Islands), in violation of the provisions of this act; or (2) knowingly to assist in so doing; or (3) to receive, conceal, buy, sell, or in any manner facilitate the transportation, concealment, or sale of any such firearm after being imported or brought in, knowing the same to have been imported or brought in contrary to law. Whenever on trial for a violation of this section the defendant is shown to have or to have had possession of such firearm, such possession shall be deemed sufficient evidence to authorize conviction.

tion unless the defendant explains such possession to the satisfaction of the jury.

SEC. 11. It shall be unlawful for any person who is required to register as provided in section 5 hereof and who shall not have so registered, or any other person who has not in his possession a stamp-affixed order as provided in section 4 hereof, to ship, carry, or deliver any firearm in interstate commerce.

SEC. 12. The Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary for carrying the provisions of this act into effect.

SEC. 13. This act shall not apply to the transfer of firearms (1) to the United States Government, any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or to any political subdivision thereof, or to the District of Columbia; (2) to any peace officer or any Federal officer designated by regulations of the Commissioner; (3) to the transfer of any firearm which is unserviceable and which is transferred as a curiosity or ornament.

SEC. 14. Any person who violates or fails to comply with any of the requirements of this act shall, upon conviction, be fined not more than $2,000 or be imprisoned for not more than five years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 15. The taxes imposed by paragraph (a) of section 600 of the Revenue Act of 1926 (U. S. C., Supp. VII, title 26, sec. 1120) and by section 610 of the Revenue Act of 1932 (47 Stat. 169, 264), shall not apply to any firearm on which the tax provided by section 3 of this act has been paid.

SEC. 16. If any provision of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance, is held invalid, the remainder of the act, and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

SEC. 17. This act shall take effect on the thirtieth day after the date of its enactment.

SEC. 18. This act may be cited as the "National Firearms Act."

Approved, June 26, 1934.

OBLIGATIONS OF FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS

Exhibit 32

Statement by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, announcing the postponement of the payment due from Austria on January 1, 1934, on account of its indebtedness to the United States (press release, Dec. 13, 1933)

The Treasury has been notified by the Department of State that a note dated December 1, 1933, was received from the Austrian Minister stating that the Austrian Government received on November 29, 1933, a communication from the trustees of the guaranteed Austrian loan of 1923-1943, in which objections are raised by the trustees against the payment to the creditor governments signatory to the agreements relative to the settlement of the relief debts, of the amounts due to them on January 1, 1934. In view of these objections the Austrian Government has notified the United States that no remittance can be made to cover the sixth installment due on January 1, 1934, on account of its relief debt to the United States.

The lien upon the assets and revenues of Austria pledged for the payment of the Austrian relief bonds has been subordinated to the lien upon such assets and revenues pledged for the payment of the Austrian reconstruction loan of 1923. The objections by the trustees to the payments due from Austria on account of the relief bonds is in accordance with the agreements concluded between Austria and the International Relief Bonds Committee and the agreement of May 8, 1930, between Austria and the United States. The debt-funding agreement between Austria and the United States provides that:

"* * * the obligation of Austria to pay annuities during the years 1929 to 1943 will in the case of each annuity not arise if the trustees of the reconstruction loan of 1923 prior to the preceding December first have raised objection to the payment of the annuity in question on the due date."

In accordance with the provisions of the debt-funding agreement between the Republic of Austria and the United States bond no. 6 in the face amount of $460,093, due January 1, 1934, will be postponed, which, together with interest at the rate of 5 percent per annum compounded annually to December 31, 1943, shall be repaid, together with further interest at 5 percent per annum, in twenty-five equal annuities on January 1 of each of the years 1944 to 1968, inclusive.

BELGIUM

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Belgian Ambassador, December 12, 1933 (translation)

(1) In a note of December 6, 1932, the Belgian Ambassador informed the Government of the United States of the reasons why the Belgian Government was not in a position to resume the payments which had been suspended pursuant to the agreement entered into in July 1931. The Belgian Government is obliged to point out that the circumstances which motivated its attitude have not changed and that the arguments it invoked have retained all their force.

(2) The solemn engagements of the Allied and Associated Powers and the spontaneous promises of Germany concerning the entire restoration of Belgium create a moral right which nothing can destroy and place Belgium in a special situation among the Powers which took part in the war of 1914-18.

(3) Relying upon the declaration of President Wilson which had made the restoration of Belgium one of the conditions of peace, the Belgian representatives in 1919 did not consent to sign the Treaty of Versailles until they had received formal assurance of the cancelation of their war debts.

(4) When the Belgian Government signed the Washington agreement of August 20, 1925, it did so because it had been assured by the statements of the American representatives themselves that the payments due to the United States would be amply covered by the payments of Germany on reparations account.

(5) In June 1931 when President Hoover proposed to suspend for a year the service of intergovernmental debts, the Belgian Government in its reply to the American Government recalled the recognized special rights of Belgium. In a spirit of international solidarity it consented to give up temporarily a claim which the country regarded as sacred, but it took pains to affirm that it did not intend that an action taken with a view to international recovery should become a cause of ruin for Belgium.

(6) Later, in consenting at Lausanne to make definitive the sacrifice which the Hoover proposal imposed on it, Belgium assumed the cancelation of its claim to reparations to be inconceivable without the parallel suppression of its intergovernmental debts.

(7) By its note of December 5, 1932, the Belgian Government set forth the effects on Belgium of the interruption of German payments and of the general economic depression. The difficulties pointed out at that time have continuously increased.

In these circumstances the Belgian Government, while reaffirming its good will and its desire to collaborate in a comprehensive settlement of the debt question, finds itself unable to make on December 15 next the payment provided for in the agreement of 1925.

BELGIAN EMBASSY.

To the Belgian Ambassador, December 13, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

In acknowledging the receipt of the note transmitted under your no. 4095, of December 12, 1933, I take note of Your Excellency's statement that the Belgian Government finds itself unable to make the payment falling due December 15, 1933, on account of the indebtedness of Belgium to the United States.

Accept [etc.],

Acting Secretary of State.

(translation)*

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of Your Excellency's letter dated May 26, 1934. I immediately transmitted the text thereof to my Government.

The latter has just charged me to bring to Your Excellency's knowledge the following communication:

"By a note of the 6th of December last the Ambassador of Belgium at Washington recalled to the Government of the United States the reasons for which the Belgian Government was not in a position to resume, on the date of December 15, 1933, the service of its debts to America.

"Since the last due date no new factor has intervened which would permit Belgium to modify her attitude.

"She therefore sees herself under the impossibility of effecting, on June 15th next, the payment contemplated by the Belgian-American agreement of August 18, 1925."

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Minister of Czechoslovakia, December 9, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

In the note of June 15, 1933, I had the honor to express the hope of the Czechoslovak Government that a final settlement of the Czechoslovak debt due to the United States would be reached in the near future and offered at the same time a partial payment of the due installment as an expression of its utmost willingness to meet its obligations in the limits of the budgetary and monetary equilibrium of Czechoslovakia.

As the next installment of the payment is due on the fifteenth of this month, both the short span of time and the present complex and difficult economic and monetary conditions do not permit the hope of reaching a final settlement, I am directed to offer again a partial payment amounting to $150,000 (one hundred and fifty thousand dollars) on account of the due obligations and to confirm these existing obligations until a final settlement will be made possible.

Accept [etc.].

FERDINAND VEVERKA.

To the Minister of Czechoslovakia, December 11, 1933

SIR:

The President directs me to acknowledge the receipt of your note of December 9, 1933, in which you set forth that you are instructed by your Government, with reference to the payment due December 15 on the indebtedness of your Government to the United States, to offer a partial payment of $150,000 on account of the due obligations and to confirm these existing obligations.

Note is taken of your reference to the willingness of your Government to meet its obligations in the limits of the budgetary and monetary equilibrium of Czechoslovakia.

This Government will receive the partial payment of $150,000 as confirmation of existing obligations.

Accept [etc.].

Acting Secretary of State.

ESTONIA

To the Secretary of State from the Estonian Minister for Foreign Affairs, November 16, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

By notes dated November 28, 1932, December 15, 1932, and June 13, 1933, the Estonian Government had the honour to inform the Government of the United States of America of the economic and financial reasons on account of which it had not been in a position to effect the payment of the installments due on December 15, 1932, and on June 15, 1933, under the terms of the debt-funding agreement of 1925, and to request the Government of the United States of America to agree to a friendly exchange of views regarding the possibility of a reconsideration of the debt agreement of 1925.

In view of the circumstance that the economic and financial conditions in Estonia have up to now not shown any improvement, I have the honour to inform Your Excellency that the Government of Estonia will unfortunately not be able to effect the payment of the installment falling due on December 15, 1933.

I avail myself [etc.].

JUL. SELJAMAA.

To the Estonian Acting Consul General at New York City, December 9, 1933

SIR:

In acknowledging receipt of the note (12-R) addressed to the Secretary of State on November 16, 1933, by the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Estonia, I take note of the Minister's statement that the Government of Estonia will not be able to effect the payment falling due December 15, 1933, on account of the indebtedness of Estonia to the United States.

Accept [etc.].

WILLIAM PHILLIPS,
Acting Secretary of State.

*To the Secretary of State from the Estonian Minister for Foreign Affairs,
May 31, 1934*

EXCELLENCY:

The Estonian Government view with great concern the continuation of the economic depression which still dominates the world and which hinders to develop such intercourse between nations which would be normal and which, granted reciprocal trade relations, would allow them to discharge their obligations towards each other. The Estonian Government have likewise and with the greatest of interest followed the steps taken by the United States Government towards recovery and on their part have not spared, within their limited possibilities, any efforts to do their share in the same spirit.

But unfortunately the courageous policy adopted by the United States and the steps taken elsewhere have not yet brought about an improvement in the fields of international cooperation between nations, and Estonia, dependent in her economic intercourse with the outside world only on her foreign trade, having no capital reserves and no foreign investments, cannot abandon her position of defense of her economic selfpreservation.

In view of the fact that economic and financial conditions in Estonia have not improved, I have the honor to inform you that the Estonian Government, after a mature consideration of the debt question to the United States Government, will unfortunately not be able under the terms of the Debt Funding Agreement of 1925, to effect the payment of the installment falling due on June 15th, 1934.

I sincerely hope that this decision of the Estonian Government prescribed by necessity will be understood and appreciated by the United States Government.

I avail myself [etc.].

FINLAND

Department of State, for the press, December 14, 1933

The Minister of Finland has informed the Acting Secretary of State that the full amount due on account of the Finnish debt to the United States will be paid in the ordinary routine to the Federal Reserve Bank in New York on December 15th. This installment amounts to $229,623.

Department of State, for the press, June 4, 1934

The Finnish Minister, Mr. L. Aström, called at the Department of State today to advise the Acting Secretary of State, Mr. William R. Phillips, that he had received instructions to make full payment of the installment due on the Finnish debt owing to the United States and that payment accordingly would be made in cash as usual in New York.

The call relates to the installment on the Finnish debt due on June 15 next of $166,538, of which $147,507.50 is interest and $19,030.50 principal.

To the Chargé d'Affaires ad interim of Finland, July 7, 1934

SIR:

I am requested by the Secretary of the Treasury to notify you that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York received on June 15, 1934, the sum of $166,538.00, representing a payment made for the account of the Government of Finland; and that this amount has been deposited in the Treasury as a payment of semi-annual interest due June 15, 1934, in the amount of $147,507.50 on the funded indebtedness of the Government of Finland to the United States pursuant to the funding agreement of May 1, 1923, and as the semiannual payment of the annuity due June 15, 1934, in the amount of $19,030.50 under the agreement of May 23, 1932.

I take the occasion to express my recognition of the effort on the part of the people of Finland which this payment has required and to associate myself with the manifest appreciation with which the attitude of the Government of Finland has been greeted in this country. At a time when contractual obligations have been widely disregarded or are too easily subordinated to considerations of brief expediency, and to a degree which threatens one of the most important bases of human relations, the consistent steadfastness with which Finland has unhesitatingly met its obligations has been enheartening.

While this Government in its role of creditor is ever mindful of leniency, or equity, or ability to pay, and of other considerations to which debtor governments are entitled, it was never more important than at present that debtor governments should make every reasonable effort to meet their financial obligations, and in doing so to preserve for the future their credit and the international credit structure.

Therefore, in keeping faith with its financial obligations, the Government of Finland has set a timely and valuable example.

FRANCE

*To the Secretary of State from the French Ambassador, December 15, 1933

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of November 28 last, and in reply to transmit herewith the following communication from my Government:

"Inasmuch as no new factor has developed with respect to war debts since the resolution voted by the Chamber of Deputies on December 13, 1932, the French Government regrets that it is not in a position usefully to initiate a new debate on the question, and is obliged to postpone the payments due December 15 next.

"Nevertheless, in order to remove any possibility of misunderstanding it desires to recall the tenor of this resolution.

"The French Government has never contemplated the unilateral violation of undertakings freely entered into, which would have been contrary to the invariable traditions of France. But it judged that the decisions which were taken on both sides in 1931 and 1932 in the hopes of facilitating the economic recovery of the world had modified conditions which formerly existed, and now justify new arrangements which take into account the changes thus brought about.

"The French Government cannot of course fail to recognize the difficulties which the achievement of such a new arrangement would involve. Nevertheless it hopes that such difficulties may be overcome and that in the near future a solution of the problem of war debts acceptable to both countries may be anticipated.

"For its part it will consider it a duty not to neglect any of the possibilities which may arise in order to attain this end."

ANDRÉ DE LABOULAYE.

To the French Ambassador, December 15, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

In acknowledging the receipt of your communication of December 15, 1933, I take note of the statement that the Government of France will not be able to effect the payment falling due December 15, 1933, on account of the indebtedness of France to the United States.

Accept [etc.].

WILLIAM PHILLIPS,
Acting Secretary of State.

To the Secretary of State from the French Ambassador, June 12, 1934

MR. SECRETARY:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the letter which Your Excellency was pleased to address to me on May 26 transmitting a statement of the sums due by France to the United States on June 15, 1934, under the terms of the agreements of April 29, 1926, and July 6, 1931.

In compliance with instructions which I have just received, I have the honor to inform Your Excellency that as there has been no new development in regard to intergovernmental debts since the month of December 1932, the French Government is not in a position to resume, on the 15th of the present month, the payments which, since December 15, 1932, it has found itself constrained to postpone as the result of the consequences of the moratorium of that year.

On this occasion my Government desires to reaffirm that it does not contest the validity of its debts and that it is still prepared to seek an agreement with the American Government in regard to that debt upon a basis which in existing circumstances may be acceptable to both countries.

The Government of the Republic hopes that such an agreement may be reached in the near future and it desires to reaffirm to the American Government the assurance that it will consider it a duty to neglect no opportunity which may arise to attain that result.

I take this occasion [etc.].

ANDRÉ DE LABOULAYE.

GREAT BRITAIN

To the Secretary of State from the British Ambassador, June 4, 1934

In their note of December 1st, 1932, His Majesty's Government gave a full statement of the reasons which convinced them that the existing system of intergovernmental war debt obligations had broken down. They pointed out the difference between these war-debt obligations and normal credit operations for development purposes: They showed the economic impossibility of making transfers on the scale required by these obligations and the disastrous effect which any further attempt to do so would have on trade and prices. They emphasized the sacrifices which the British Nation had made in this matter and the injustice of the difference between their funding settlement and those accorded to other debtors. They concluded that a revision of the existing settlements was essential in the interests of world revival, and they urged that further payments should be postponed pending such a revision. Nothing that has since occurred has led His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom to change the views they then expressed.

2. That the present settlement imposes upon the people of the United Kingdom a burden which is both unreasonable in itself and inequitable in relation to the treatment accorded to other countries may be clearly seen from the following figures.

In respect of the war advances totaling 4,277,000,000 dollars payments totaling 2,025,000,000 dollars have been made up to date by His Majesty's Government to the United States Government. Yet despite these payments the nominal amount of the debt still outstanding as at June 15th, 1934, amounts to 4,713,785,000 dollars.

Meanwhile in respect of war advances totaling 5,773,300,000 dollars made by the United States Government to other European Governments, aggregate payments made up to date amount to only 678,500,000 dollars. Thus though the war advances to these other Governments exceed by one-quarter the advances made to the United Kingdom, payments made by the United Kingdom amount to three times what the United States Government has received from those other powers.

On the other hand, His Majesty's Government are creditors as well as debtors in respect of these intergovernmental obligations. While, as stated above, they borrowed 4,277,000,000 dollars from the United States, they themselves made war advances to the allied governments totalling £1,600,000,000 (7,800,000,000 dollars at par). These loans were raised by His Majesty's Government from the people of the United Kingdom and the annual interest thereon, and eventually their capital repayment, must, in the absence of payments by debtor governments, be met out of the general taxation of their own people. In this respect the position of the United Kingdom is precisely similar to that of the United States, but whereas the United States have received very substantial payments against the domestic charges involved, His Majesty's Government have had to meet the domestic charges of their war loans to allied governments in full, as they have paid over to the United States Government all that they have received both from war debts and war reparations, and they have in addition paid nearly as much again out of their own resources.

If the United States feel the burden of their war advances of 10,050,000,000 dollars, against which they have received 2,703,000,000 dollars, how much heavier is the burden of the United Kingdom, which with one-third of the population of the United States has had to meet the full charges on its war advances of 7,800,000,000 dollars without any net receipts against these charges, and has in addition made large payments out of its own resources on account of its war debt to the United States.

None the less, convinced that any resumption of payments on the past scale could not but intensify the world crisis and might provoke financial and economic chaos, His Majesty's Government have suspended their claims on their debtors in the hope that a general revision of these intergovernmental obligations may be effected in the interest of world recovery. But it would be impossible for them to contemplate a situation in which they would be called on to honour in full their war obligations to others while continuing to suspend all demands for payment of war obligations due to them.

3. The improvement which has taken place in the budgetary situation of the United Kingdom in no way invalidates this conclusion. This improvement is due entirely to unprecedented sacrifices made by the people of this country. Since the war they have been carrying a burden of indebtedness amounting to approximately £8,000,000,000 (40,000,000,000 dollars) or £178 (850 dollars) per head of their population, about one-fifth of which represents war loans made to allied governments. They have balanced their budget and even realised a surplus by the painful process of reducing expenditure and increasing taxation. For fifteen years they have been paying taxation on a scale for which it would be hard to find a parallel elsewhere. During the whole of this period the burden of taxation has been higher in the United Kingdom, and for a considerable part of the period twice as high as in the United States, including all Federal, State, and local taxation. This taxation, amounting to close on one-quarter of the national income, has aggravated the depression over a long period and the necessity of maintaining an army of unemployed resulting from this depression has constituted a formidable problem to the national finances ever since the war ended. Yet in order to restore the national credit in 1931 the people of the United Kingdom accepted further and heavy increases in taxation, accompanied by rigorous control of expenditure, and cuts in salaries and allowances of all kinds; and despite all these measures the budget would have again shown a deficit last year had it not been possible to secure by the conversion operation carried through in 1932 a reduction in the rate of interest paid on a large proportion of the public debt. This reduction has enabled His Majesty's Government to remit a part of the emergency sacrifices imposed in 1931 and to restore part of the cuts on salaries and the whole cut in unemployment allowances, the continuance of which was imposing a severe strain on the national conscience. It would have been a gross act of social injustice to have denied this relief to the people of this country in order to pay war debts to the United States while suspending war debt payments due to the United Kingdom.

4. But although it is desirable that the internal budgetary position of this country should not be misunderstood, it is really irrelevant to the question of intergovernmental debt, the payment of which has to be related to the balance of trade and not to the volume of internal revenue. The revenues of the United Kingdom are sterling revenues, whereas the debt payments to America have to be made in dollars or in gold. In order to secure the means to pay, therefore, any sums available in sterling would have to be transferred across the exchange. The attempt to transfer amounts of this magnitude would as its immediate effect cause a sharp depreciation of sterling against the dollar, which as His Majesty's Government understands would not be consistent with the monetary policy of the United States Government. And in the long run such international transfers would be impossible without a radical alteration in the economic policies of the United States. Payment of debts implies the willingness of the creditor to accept goods and services sufficient to cover the debts due to him over and above the goods and services required to cover his exports; and to make it possible for the United States to receive payment of their claims, it would be necessary to effect a complete reversal of the existing favourable balance of trade between their country and the rest of the world. In the case of the United Kingdom the balance of trade is heavily unfavorable, and the balance of accounts is not such that His Majesty's Government could contemplate the transfer of any substantial sum across the exchange, unless it was compensated by equivalent receipts from the foreign debts of this country. If this were done, sterling would not be affected by the payments to America, but the burden would be thrown on the currencies of the European debtor countries, thereby aggravating the present crisis, which it is the object of both the United States and His Majesty's Government to alleviate.

5. Thus the question of the British war debt is only a part of the wider question of intergovernmental obligations resulting from the World War. As has already been pointed out, the United Kingdom, while it was a debtor to the United States, was itself a creditor for larger amounts from France, Italy, and other ex-Allied Powers in respect of war debts, and these in turn are co-creditors with the United Kingdom of Germany in respect of reparations. These intergovernmental debts, as stated in the British note of December 1, 1931, are radically different from commercial loans raised by foreign governments on the markets for productive purposes. War debts are neither productive nor self-liquidating, and the unnatural transfers required for their payment would involve a general collapse of normal international exchange and credit operations. The administration of the United States under President Hoover recognized this fact and initiated a moratorium on intergovernmental payments in 1931 in order to avert an immediate collapse. But the moratorium of 1931 caused another change in the situation; it made any resumption of the preexisting reparation and war debt settlements impossible, and the revision of reparations embodied in the Lausanne Agreement was made subject to conclusion of a subsequent agreement for the revision of war debts.

6. It was with these facts in mind that His Majesty's Government approached the United States Government in December 1932, and the United States Government in their note of December 7th welcomed their suggestion for a close examination between the two countries of the whole subject. After this exchange of notes His Majesty's Government paid the instalment due on December 15th, 1932, in gold, explaining that this payment was not to be regarded as a resumption of the annual payments contemplated by the existing agreement, and that it was made because there had not been time for discussion with regard to that agreement to take place, and because the United States Government had stated that in their opinion such a payment would greatly increase the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole problem. In accordance with the arrangement then made, discussions took place first in the spring and later in the autumn of last year between representatives of the two countries, and His Majesty's Government appreciate the sympathetic manner in which their representatives were listened to. But on both occasions it was found impossible to arrive at a settlement acceptable to the two Governments in face of the unprecedented state of world economic and financial conditions. Accordingly the discussions were adjourned and on June 15th and December 15th, 1933, His Majesty's Government made token payments in acknowledgment of the debt and the President expressed the personal view that he would not regard His Majesty's Government as in default.

7. In their note of November 6th last, His Majesty's Government expressed their readiness to resume negotiations on the general question whenever, after consultation with the President, it might appear that this could usefully be done, and His Majesty's Government are glad to note that the President in his message to Congress on June 1st has again stated that each of the debtor governments concerned has full and free opportunity to discuss this problem with the Government of the United States. But unfortunately recent events have shown that discussions on the whole question with a view to a final settlement cannot at present usefully be renewed. In these circumstances His Majesty's Government would have been quite prepared to make a further payment on June 15th in acknowledgment of the debt and without prejudice to their right again to present the case of its readjustment, on the assumption that they would again have received the President's declaration that he would not consider them in default. They understand, however, that in consequence of recent legislation no such declaration would now be possible, and if this be the case the procedure adopted by common agreement in 1933 is no longer practicable.

8. His Majesty's Government are, in fact, faced with a choice between only two alternatives, viz, to pay in full the sum of 262,000,000 dollars, as set forth in the communication from the United States Treasury, dated May 25th, or to suspend all interim payments pending a final revision of the settlement, which has been delayed by events beyond the control of the two Governments. Deeply as they regret the circumstances which have forced them to take such a decision, His Majesty's Government feel that they could not assume the responsibility of adopting a course which would revive the whole system of intergovernmental war-debt payments.

As already pointed out, the resumption of full payments to the United States would necessitate a corresponding demand by His Majesty's Government from their own war debtors. It would be a re-creation of the conditions which existed prior to the world crisis and were in a large measure responsible for it. Such procedure would throw a bombshell into the European arena which would have financial and economic repercussions over all five continents and would postpone indefinitely the chances of world recovery.

9. Accordingly His Majesty's Government are reluctantly compelled to take the only other course open to them. But they wish to reiterate that, while suspending further payments until it becomes possible to discuss an ultimate settlement of intergovernmental war debts with a reasonable prospect of agreement, they have no intention of repudiating their obligations, and will be prepared to enter upon further discussion of the subject at any time when in the opinion of the President such discussion would be likely to produce results of value.

R. C. LINDSAY.

To the British Ambassador, June 12, 1934

EXCELLENCY:

The observations contained in your note of June 4, 1934, concerning the indebtedness of His Majesty's Government to the United States have been studied with close attention.

This Government is sensible of the elements of the situation set forth by His Majesty's Government, the heavy war expenditures undertaken in its own behalf and in behalf of its Allies, the burden of taxation that has been borne by the British people, and the transfer difficulties that under certain circumstances may arise in the foreign exchanges. With certain observations, however, and the inferences drawn therefrom, I regret that the American Government is unable to concur and in three instances it feels that, for the purpose of record, it should make its own attitude clear.

First, His Majesty's Government states in effect that, unless payments were made in full in the sum of $262,000,000 as set forth in the communication from the United States Treasury dated May 25, 1934, the United Kingdom would fall within the effects of the recent legislation mentioned in paragraph seven of your note, so that the payment of this amount is regarded as the only alternative to suspension of all payment. The Attorney General has advised me that, in his opinion, the debtor governments which, under the ruling of his Office of May 5, 1934, are not at present considered in default because of partial payments made on earlier installments, would have to pay only the amount of the installment due June 15, 1934—for Great Britain $85,670,765.05—in order to remain outside the scope of the act.

Second, in regard to the record cited by the British Government of its loans to its Allies and the fact that His Majesty's Government has given up great sums due to it under those loan contracts, this Government must emphasize the complete independence between the aforementioned transactions and the debt contracted by His Majesty's Government to this Government. The British Government undertook to borrow under its own name and on its own credit standing, and repayment was not made contingent upon the fate of debts due to the British Government.

Third, this Government notes with disappointment the declaration of His Majesty's Government that "while suspending further payments until it becomes possible to discuss an ultimate settlement of intergovernmental war debts with a reasonable prospect of agreement, they have no intention of repudiating their obligations, and will be prepared to enter upon further discussion of the subject at any time when, in the opinion of the President, such discussion would be likely to produce results of value."

In effect, this Government reads the declaration of His Majesty's Government to mean that it will fail to meet any further payments on the debt due to the United States as evidenced by the settlement of June 19, 1923, until this Government shall first scale down this debt to an unascertained sum to which His Majesty's Government might be willing to accede. This declaration appears to represent insistence by His Majesty's Government that before it makes any payment whatsoever it must be assured of a settlement satisfactory to it and not necessarily in accordance with any accepted standards of payment or readjustment of the amounts due. The only indications before this Government of the extent to which His Majesty's Government has proposed to meet its obligations are the small fractions of the sums due mentioned by His Majesty's representative in the course of the discussions in the spring and autumn of last year referred to in your note of June 4. Adhering to the opinion so often expressed by the United States Government a situation of this kind necessarily calls for the initiation of proposals by the debtor and not by the creditor.

Should His Majesty's Government wish to put forward proposals for the resumption of payments, this Government would be glad to entertain and discuss them informally. For instance, no proposal has ever been presented to this Government looking towards payments in kind to an extent that might be found mutually practicable and agreeable. Any proposals of this or a similar character which promise mutual benefit will be carefully considered for eventual submission to the American Congress.

In conclusion, may I refer to the statement made by the President in his message to the Congress on June 1: "The American people would not be disposed to place an impossible burden upon their debtors, but are nevertheless in a just position to ask that substantial sacrifices be made to meet these debts."

Accept [etc.].

CORDELL HULL.

To the Secretary of State from the British Chargé d'Affaires, June 27, 1934

SIR:

After careful consideration of the note which you addressed to Sir Ronald Lindsay on June 12th, His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom feel that there are two questions to which it may be useful to make further reference.

In the first place, His Majesty's Government would observe that in their note of June 4th they did not state that payment of the British war debt was legally contingent upon payment of the debts due to them. What they said was that it would be impossible for them to contemplate a situation in which they would be called on to honour in full their war debt obligations to others while continuing to suspend all demands for payment of the war obligations due to them. This was a statement not of law but of fact.

Secondly, as regards the suggested payments in kind, His Majesty's Government would recall that the experience of German reparations showed that transfer difficulties are not solved by a system of deliveries in kind. As the committee presided over by General Dawes pointed out in 1924: "In their financial effects deliveries in kind are not really distinguishable from cash payments." In fact, the economic objections to cash payments would apply with equal force to deliveries in kind, unless those deliveries were to consist of indigenous products of the debtor country (excluding reexports) and unless they were to be accepted by the creditor country and consumed by it in addition to the goods taken from the debtor country in the normal course of trade. If the United Kingdom were not to receive payment for goods exported on commercial account, her exchange resources available to purchase cotton and other goods from America would be still further diminished. Therefore, while not unwilling to give further consideration to possibilities in this direction, His Majesty's Government do not at present see any method of putting such a plan into practice which would be likely to commend itself to the Government of the United States of America.

In the view of His Majesty's Government, the primary question for settlement is the amount that should be paid, having regard to all the circumstances of these debts. They regret that up to the present it has not been possible to make further progress in this matter, but they will welcome the opportunity of resuming the discussion whenever it may appear that the present abnormal conditions have so far passed away as to offer favourable prospects for a settlement, since they are always anxious to remove from the sphere of controversy all or any matters which might disturb the harmonious relations between the two countries.

ITALY

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Italian Ambassador, December 7, 1933

SIR:

I have been instructed to inform you that, referring to the contents of the communication which this Embassy has addressed to the Department of State on the 14th of June last, with regard to the war debt, the Italian Government proposes to make on the 15th of December next a further payment of one million dollars in acknowledgment of the debt pending a final settlement.

Accept [etc.].

To the Italian Ambassador, December 12, 1933

EXCELLENCY:

In reply to Your Excellency's note of the seventh instant, and to your previous oral communications dealing with the question of indebtedness of the Italian Government to the United States, I am directed by the President to say that due note has been taken of the intention of your Government to make a further payment on December 15 next, as on June 15 last, in acknowledgment of the debt pending a final settlement, in the sum of $1,000,000.

The President points out that it is not within his discretion to reduce or cancel the existing debt owed to the United States, nor is it within his power as President to alter the schedule of debt payments contained in the existing settlement. Such power rests with the Congress. The President states, however, that in view of your representations, of the payment, and of the acknowledgment of the debt, he has no personal hesitation in saying that he does not regard the Italian Government as in default.

Accept [etc.].

WILLIAM PHILLIPS,
Acting Secretary of State.

To the Secretary of State from the Italian Ambassador, June 14, 1934

SIR:

With reference to your note of May 28th, containing a statement of the amount due from Italy under the provisions of the debt agreement of November 14th, 1925, and the moratorium agreement of June 3, 1932, my Government has instructed me to address to you the following communication:

"By the token payments made on the 15th of June and on the 15th of December 1933 the Italian Government has shown its good will and at the same time the limitations imposed upon it by the actual situation.

"This situation, both in the economic and financial fields, not only has not improved since then, but has become even worse. In fact, while tariff barriers and other hindrances to the exchange of goods, which is the chief source of international transfers, have further increased, there is practically no hope that Italy may be able again to collect those payments from German reparations which in 1925 have been taken as a basis for determining Italy's ability to put aside and transfer the amounts indicated by the debt agreement of November 14, 1925.

"The Italian Government, which has always been and is still willing to acknowledge its obligation in view of a final settlement, would have been prepared to reaffirm its good will by another token payment. It has been informed, however, that, under a law recently enacted, the nations which do not make full payment of the amounts due on the 15th of June will be considered as being in default.

"In these circumstances and since, for the reasons mentioned above, the payment and transfer of the full amount due on the said date cannot be effected, the Italian Government regrets to have to abandon the intention of making a token payment.

"The Italian Government feels confident that, when the question might be re-examined by the two Governments, the very foundations of the settlement of November 1925 will, in the light of the new situation which has developed since then, help to bring about a satisfactory solution."

LATVIA

Note from the Latvian Minister for Foreign Affairs to the American Chargé d'Affaires, Riga, November 22, 1933

MONSIEUR LE CHARGÉ D'AFFAIRES :

With reference to the correspondence exchanged between our Governments concerning the indebtedness of Latvia to the United States, I have the honour to inform you that my Government have followed with the closest attention the negotiations between the American and the British Governments on the question of war debts, which were temporarily suspended on November 6th last. From the notes exchanged on this occasion between the United States Secretary of State and the Ambassador of Great Britain it results that "the present unsettled economic and financial situations" have "made an adjournment advisable."

In this connection I should like to point out that, so far, the Latvian Government have had no opportunity for discussing with the United States Government the revision of the debt-funding agreement of September 24th, 1925, which was proposed in the correspondence between our Governments and confirmed in the Aide-Memoire of January 26, 1933, in which the United States Secretary of State announced that "the President would be glad to receive separately at Washington a representative or representatives of the Latvian Government for discussions having a similar scope and purpose (as those conducted with the British Government) after the proposed discussions with the British Government had been completed."

These latter negotiations having now been suspended in the circumstances described above, my Government are of the opinion that the negotiations between Latvia and the United States must of necessity be postponed, since they were made dependent on the completion of the discussions between the United States and Great Britain.

In view of the foregoing, I am authorized by my Government to propose to the American Government to accept on December 15 next a "token payment" of $8,500, constituting approximately 5 percent of the payment due on that date, in acknowledgment of the debt pending the revision of the existing agreement, in which respect my Government maintain the point of view exposed in the previous correspondence on this subject.

Please accept [etc.].

Telegram from Acting Secretary of State to the American Legation at Riga, December 14, 1933

With reference to note enclosed your despatch 1725, November 24, 1933, advise authorities that this Government will receive (repeat receive) the partial payment of $8,500 as confirmation of existing obligations.

PHILLIPS, Acting.

To the Acting Secretary of State from the Consul General of Latvia in New York City, in Charge of Legation, December 13, 1933

SIR:

I am authorized and directed by my Government to advise you that by order of the Government of Latvia $8,500 (eight thousand five hundred dollars) have been transferred to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, for the Account of the Treasury of the United States. My Government requests the Government of the United States of America to accept the said amount in token of acknowledgment of the indebtedness of Latvia to the United States, in connection with the payment due on December 15, 1933, pending the revision of the existing agreement.

On behalf of my Government, I beg, sir, to express sincere regret that the financial situation of the country and the actual state of the Treasury of Latvia do not permit of a larger partial payment at this time.

I have permitted myself to forward a similar notification to the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States.

Please accept [etc.].

ARTHUR B. LULE.

To the Secretary of State from the Consul General of Latvia in New York City, in Charge of Legation, June 13, 1934

SIR:

With reference to the note of the Department of State of May 28, 1934, stating the amount due the United States Government from the Government of Latvia, under the debt-funding agreement of September 24, 1925, and the moratorium agreement of June 11, 1932, I am directed and authorized to advise you that, to their great regret, the Government of Latvia feel compelled to suspend all payments due under the aforementioned agreements, pending a final revision of the debt-funding agreement.

Although, as I am authorized to declare, my Government have no intention of repudiating their obligations to the United States of America, and although they do acknowledge again their indebtedness to the Government of the United States, the Government of Latvia find that their offering a further token payment on June 15 would not serve the desired purpose since, under the Johnson Act of April 13, 1934, and in accordance with the note of the Department of State dated May 19, 1934, the Government of Latvia would not be relieved of being regarded as in default on their obligations to the United States. While my Government would be prepared to make a further token payment on June 15, if assured that in such case they would not be considered in default, it is felt that the procedure of making token payments, as adopted in 1933, upon common agreement, has become no longer practicable in view of a changed situation, as referred to above, and on account of a modified viewpoint of the United States Government, as a result of this situation.

Upon a conscientious scrutiny of the present economic and financial situation of Latvia, my Government find, to their sincere regret, that there is nothing to warrant the resumption in full of payments under the debt-funding agreement of September 1925. I understand that the Minister President of Latvia, in a note delivered on June 12, 1934, has revealed the situation to the Chargé d'Affaires of the United States in Latvia. The Government of Latvia have repeatedly requested the United States for a revision of the existing debt-funding agreement and have expressed their desire to send a delegate or delegates to Washington to discuss the entire matter of Latvia's indebtedness at such time as might be regarded as opportune and convenient by the United States Government.

While an opportunity for such discussion has not yet been offered to the Government of Latvia, I have the honor to assure you, sir, that my Government are prepared to enter further discussions concerning Latvia's indebtedness whenever this may be agreeable to the Government of the United States.

LITHUANIA

To the Secretary of State from the Lithuanian Chargé d'Affaires, June 14, 1934

SIR:

Replying to your note of May 28, 1934, transmitting a statement of the sums due to the United States Government by the Lithuanian Government on June 15, 1934, under the provisions of the debt-funding agreement of September 22, 1924, and the moratorium agreement of June 9, 1932, I have the honor to inform you that I have been instructed by my Government to submit to you the following:

"In December 1932 the Minister of Lithuania, on behalf of the Lithuanian Government, addressed a note to the Secretary of State transmitting a memorandum giving a detailed account of the economic and financial situation in Lithuania, and stating the reasons which compelled the Lithuanian Government to request a reexamination of the debt-funding agreement of September 22, 1924, with a view of its more proper adjustment to the new and changed economic and financial conditions. The Lithuanian Government also expressed a hope that the December 15, 1932, payment might be postponed or other adequate relief might be arranged, because of the extreme difficulties it would encounter in meeting this payment.

"In reply to the above-mentioned note, the United States Government stated that the President of the United States was prepared to cooperate with the Lithuanian Government in surveying the entire situation.

"Since the United States Government could not reach the conclusion enabling it to grant the postponement of the December payment the Lithuanian Government made a supreme effort entailing great sacrifices and paid the December installment in full.

"On January 24, 1933, the United States Government informed the Lithuanian Government that it would be glad to receive separately at Washington a representative or representatives of the Lithuanian Government for discussions having a similar scope and purpose after the proposed discussions with the British Government had been completed.

"Deeply grateful for this attitude of the United States Government, the Lithuanian Government was prepared to begin the reexamination of the debt problem as suggested by the United States Government, and hoped that these discussions would take place at an early date. However, in reply to a verbal inquiry as to the prospects of such discussions, the Lithuanian Government, through its Minister in Washington, was informed by the Secretary of State that as far as the debt problem was concerned no material change of the situation had taken place.

"The Lithuanian Government, because of the prevailing adverse economic and financial conditions, was unable to meet in full the payments due to the United States Government on June 15 and December 15, 1933. But, desiring to give tangible proof of its determination to meet its obligations commensurate with its ability and capacity, the Lithuanian Government made part payments on account of the installments due on the above-mentioned dates.

"Since the last payment was made, there have been no indications of betterment of the adverse economic and financial situation of Lithuania. On the contrary, in many instances, conditions have become even more aggravated. Consequently, it was imperative to make further reductions in the state budget and to resort to the most stringent measures of national economy.

"A thorough survey of the existing economic and financial conditions forced the Lithuanian Government to come to the conclusion that it is unable to meet the installment due to the United States Government on June 15, 1934, as provided under the terms of the debt-funding agreement of September 22, 1924, and the moratorium agreement of June 9, 1932.

"The Lithuanian Government, expressing its most sincere regret that it was obliged to arrive at the above-mentioned conclusion, desires to reaffirm the assurance that it continues to acknowledge its indebtedness to the United States Government, and entertains an earnest hope that an opportunity to enter upon discussions of the debt problem, with a view of its more proper adjustment to the new and changed economic and financial conditions, will be presented in the near future."

To the Secretary of State from the Rumanian Minister, June 12, 1934

SIR:

Referring to my notes of June 15, 1933, setting forth the unprecedented economic and financial difficulties facing the Rumanian Government—difficulties which have since further increased—and in reply to your note of May 28, 1934, I have the honor to recall to your attention the fact that the payment made by the Rumanian Government on June 15, 1933, was subsequent to the declaration of the President of the United States, on the occasion of the token payment made by the Government of Great Britain, that in accepting such payment it was his personal view that he would not regard the British Government as in default.

The Rumanian Government understands that a law recently passed by the Congress of the United States would render impossible a similar declaration by the President.

Under these circumstances the Rumanian Government is reluctantly obliged to suspend all further payments on its indebtedness to the Government of the United States pending a rediscussion of the entire problem, and trusts that, as requested in my notes above referred to, a date may be set for this purpose at the early convenience of the Government of the United States.

Accept [etc.].

DAVILA.

Exhibit 34

[Public No. 151, 73d Cong., S. 682]

An act to prohibit financial transactions with any foreign government in default on its obligations to the United States

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That hereafter it shall be unlawful within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction of the United States for any person to purchase or sell the bonds, securities, or other obligations of, any foreign government or political subdivision thereof or any organization or association acting for or on behalf of a foreign government or political subdivision thereof, issued after the passage of this act, or to make any loan to such foreign government, political subdivision, organization, or association, except a renewal or adjustment of existing indebtedness while such government, political subdivision, organization, or association is in default in the payment of its obligations, or any part thereof, to the Government of the United States. Any person violating the provisions of this act shall upon conviction thereof be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned for not more than five years, or both.

SEC. 2. As used in this act the term "person" includes individual, partnership, corporation, or association other than a public corporation created by or pursuant to special authorization of Congress, or a corporation in which the Government of the United States has or exercises a controlling interest through stock ownership or otherwise.

Approved, April 13, 1934.

Exhibit 35

Statement for the press by the Department of State concerning an opinion of the Attorney General requested by the Secretary of State upon various questions under the act of April 13, 1934, entitled "An act to prohibit financial transactions with any foreign government in default on its obligations to the United States"

The Secretary of State has received an opinion upon various questions pertaining to the act of April 13, 1934, entitled "An act to prohibit financial transactions with any foreign government in default on its obligations to the United States", known as the Johnson Act. The Department of State concurs in the interpretation of the act expressed in the Attorney General's opinion.

Following is the full text of the Attorney General's opinion:

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, May 5, 1934.

SIR:

I have the honor to refer to your letter of April 17 requesting my opinion upon various questions under the act of April 13, 1934, entitled "An act to prohibit financial transactions with any foreign government in default on its obligations to the United States", which reads as follows:

[Text of act is here omitted, see exhibit 34.]

Your questions, in the order in which they are set forth, and my views thereon are stated below:

"(1) What governments, political subdivisions, or associations are in default on their obligations to the United States?"

"Default" is a common word which conveys at once a known meaning, but as applied to particular situations, it is often a matter of uncertainty whether or not or when a "default" has occurred. Concerning it, Chief Justice Eyre declared in Doe v. Dacre, 1 B. & P. 250, 258; 126 Reprint 887, 891, "I do not know a larger or looser word than 'default'; but as to civil liability the following definitions are enlightening:

"As used in such an instrument (a contract), it can mean only the nonperformance of a contract—a failure upon the part of one of the contracting parties to do that which he had contracted to do." (Sixteen hundred Tons of Nitrate of Soda v. McLeod, 61 Fed. 849, 851.)

"In one sense, any failure is a default, whether it arises from the omission to perform a contract, or from a neglect of duty. In many reported cases the omission to pay a debt or to perform a contract is spoken of as a default." (Burrill v. Crossman, 69 Fed. 749, 752.)

However, the word cannot safely be accepted as importing so inclusive a significance when it is used as a penal statute, as pointed out by the Supreme Court of Nebraska in State v. Moores, 52 Neb. 770, 787, upon consideration of a constitutional provision which rendered ineligible to public office "any person who is in default as collector and custodian of public money or property" which the court declared to be "penal in its nature."

Lipman v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. of the United States, 58 F. (2d) 15, and Hartsuff v. Hall, 58 Neb. 417, each dealing with written instruments providing for payment at a stated time with grace, reached contrary conclusions upon consideration of the context and probable intention as to whether "default" occurred at the time specified for payment or at the end of the grace period, thereby indicating that no absolute or rigid meaning is to be assumed in a civil case, and a fortiori in a criminal case.

In view, therefore, of the flexibility of the term, and bearing in mind that a penal statute is to be strictly construed against the imputation of criminality to an act which is not malum in se, I think it is required that we seek carefully from authorized sources the probable intent of Congress. In connection therewith your letter indicates particular concern as to Great Britain and other countries which have made so-called "token payments", and as to the Soviet Government, which has not yet, as you informed me, recognized as binding upon it the obligations incurred by prior governments in Russia. I shall, therefore, indicate to the extent that I properly can my views in these instances.

On November 7, 1933, the President issued the following statement:

"For some weeks representatives of the British Government have been conferring with representatives of this Government on the subject of the British debt to this country growing out of the World War. * * *

"It has, therefore, been concluded to adjourn the discussions until certain factors in the world situation—commercial and monetary—become more clarified. In the meantime, I have as Executive noted the representations of the British Government. I am also assured by that Government that it continues to acknowledge the debt without, of course, prejudicing its right again to present the matter of its readjustment, and that on December 15, 1933, it will give tangible expression of this acknowledgment by the payment of seven and one-half million dollars in United States currency.

"In view of these representations, of the payment, and of the impossibility, at this time, of passing finally and justly upon the request for a readjustment of the debt, I have no personal hesitation in saying that I shall not regard the British Government as in default."

On the same day the Chancellor of the Exchequer addressed the House of Commons to the same effect, concluding with the President's statement that he would not regard the British Government as in default.

A statement of similar import had been made by the President in June 1933, shortly before certain installments upon the debts were due. It is unnecessary to repeat here the statement then made or to treat further of later statements by the President and their acceptance in good faith, except to say that Great Britain and certain other countries made partial payments on installments due in June 1933, and in December 1933, with the expectation and belief that they would thereby avoid a default.

In his annual message to Congress delivered at a joint meeting of the two Houses on January 3, 1934, the President stated:

"I expect to report to you later in regard to debts owed the Government and people of this country by the governments and peoples of other countries. Several nations, acknowledging the debt, have paid in small part; other nations have failed to pay. One nation—Finland—has paid the installments due this country in full." (Cong. Rec., v. 78, p. 5.) It does not appear, however, that any further report in regard to these debts was transmitted to Congress prior to the enactment of the statute.

I find no record of the expression of any views in the Senate upon the meaning of the word "default" when the bill was under consideration, but the matter was considered in the House, as indicated by the following excerpts from the Congressional Record.

"Mr. BANKHEAD. Under this bill, what would be the status of governments like England, that made a so-called 'token payment', but has defaulted in the main?

"Mr. McREYNOLDS. The President of the United States, as I understand it, has held that they are not in default." (Cong. Rec., vol. 78, p. 6192.)

"Mr. BRITEN. Does the gentleman agree with the gentleman from New York (Mr. FISH) that those governments which have made a small token payment will not be held in default by our Government?

"Mr. JOHNSON of Texas. I am not so sure about that." (Cong. Rec., vol. 78, p. 6194.)

"Mr. JOHNSON of Texas. Yes; the language is broad and comprehensive, but the question of what constitutes a default is one that will have to be determined by the terms of the original contracts supplemented by any subsequent agreements that may have been lawfully made." (Cong. Rec., vol. 78, p. 6195.)

"Mr. KLOEB. Since that time we have beheld the spectacle of all these debtor countries, save one, either actually defaulting in the payments of the installments as they became due or making a so-called 'token payment' in order to avoid the ugly word 'default'." (Cong. Rec., vol. 78, p. 6197.)

"Mr. BRITEN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote for this bill because I have, to my own satisfaction at least, concluded that any nation of Europe in default of any portion of its indebtedness, interest or principal, to us is included in the intention of the bill.

"I realize that in the following statement I am disagreeing with the chairman of the committee, and probably with the ranking Member on this side, but on page 2, in speaking about the indebtedness, it says, 'While such government is in default in payment of its obligation or any part thereof.' I fail to see why England, with a surplus this year of $160,000,000 in her treasury, or France, with countless millions of gold in her treasury, more gold in her treasury per capita than we have, and governments of that type should be excluded from the provisions of this bill; and France is not, I realize, just because they made some insignificant token payments on account of their vast obligation to us.

"If the State Department were to exclude those nations from the provisions of this bill, then Czechoslovakia, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, and Rumania would be excluded, because they have all made some small payment.

"My contention is that the State Department should not act that way, nor has it the authority to presume that because an infinitesimal payment has been made on an indebtedness of billions it takes that nation out of one class and puts it into a preferred class." (Cong. Rec., vol. 78, pp. 6197-6198.)

Mr. McReynolds was in charge of the bill during its consideration by the House, and therefore, under the rules applied by the courts in considering such proceedings, his apparent view that Great Britain and other countries similarly situated were not to be deemed in default is entitled to especial weight.

Moreover, the President, by signing the bill, participated equally with the Houses of Congress, and his view as to the meaning of words employed in it is of great significance. I cannot assume that he believed Great Britain to be in default, within the meaning of the word as used in the bill, in view of his express statements on the subject; and from such information as I now have before me it would appear that Czechoslovakia, Italy, Latvia, and Lithuania fall in the same category with Great Britain. I conclude, therefore, that these five countries are not, at the present time, in default under the terms of the act in question.

Beyond this, a specific answer as to what governments, political subdivisions, organizations, or associations are in default on their obligations to the United States would seem to require a survey of data not immediately available to this office, but in general it may be said, in the words of the statute, that a "foreign government, political subdivision, organization, or association is in default" if it has failed "in the payment of its obligations, or any part thereof, to the Government of the United States", according to its promise or undertaking to pay a fixed amount at a definite time, unless such default has been postponed or waived in some competent manner or by a transaction having that effect in law or good morals. Should any authoritative statement, in harmony with this opinion, be issued in the form of an administrative declaration that named countries are or are not in default, I should be inclined to follow it insofar as the Department of Justice is charged with the responsibility of instituting prosecutions in cases of violation, thereby removing misapprehension and uncertainty to those who desire to avoid conflict with the statutory interdiction; and should the question come before the courts it is reasonable to believe that they would honor any such administrative determination,

With regard to the status, under the act, of a political subdivision of a defaulting country when the subdivision itself is not in default, attention is called to the fact that while explaining the bill in the House of Representatives Mr. McReynolds stated that in such a case the political subdivision, such as a city in a defaulting country, would not come within the inhibitions of the bill if the city itself were not in default (Cong. Rec., vol. 78, p. 6200). I approve this view, not only because of the presumption arising from Mr. McReynolds' explanation but because a reasonable interpretation of the statute itself supports the conclusion that the default of a foreign government would not be imputed to a political subdivision thereof, e. g., a municipality, so as to prohibit the purchase or sale of bonds or securities of the latter, if the municipality is not itself in default.

It has also been asked whether or not Canada, a member of the commonwealth of nations which compose the British Empire, is to be regarded as a political subdivision of Great Britain. The question should properly be answered in the negative, and this conclusion was suggested in Congress (Cong. Rec., vol. 78, p. 6195), but it appears to be immaterial, in view of my conclusion above stated concerning the intention of Congress as applied to the obligations of political subdivisions. Canada, I believe, is not in default.

"(2) To what types of transactions does the act apply?"

The committee reports (S. Rept. 20 and H. Rept. 974, 73d Cong.) recite that the bill was introduced following an investigation by the Senate Committee on Finance and the revelation therein that "billions of dollars of securities * * * offered for sale to the American people" were overdue and unpaid; that some of these "foreign bonds and obligations * * * were sold by the American financiers to make outrageously high profits"; and stated a purpose "to prevent a recurrence of the practices which were shown by the investigation to be little less than a fraud upon the American people * * * to curb the rapacity of those engaged in the sale of foreign obligations * * *."

This, I think, is indicative of a purpose to deal with such "bonds" and "securities" and with "other obligations" of like nature, observing the rule of ejusdem generis—that is, obligations such as those which had been sold to the American public to raise money for the use of the foreign governments issuing them—not contemplating foreign currency, postal money orders, drafts, checks, and other ordinary aids to banking and commercial transactions, which are "obligations" in a broad sense but not in the sense intended. It was obviously not the purpose of the Congress to discontinue all commercial relations with the defaulting countries.

"(3) What constitutes a renewal of an existing credit?"

Your legal adviser has concluded, in the memorandum transmitted with your letter of April 23d, that:

"It would seem that any instrument which would be issued for the purpose of replacing the evidence of any existing indebtedness would constitute a renewal or an adjustment of an existing indebtedness. If new bonds were issued to replace old ones, it would seem that such a transaction would be permissible. Any instrument given in satisfaction or extension of an existing indebtedness would, it is believed, come within this exception."

In general I approve this statement, but obviously it will be a question of fact in each case whether or not what is done amounts in good faith to the mere "renewal * * * of existing indebtedness."

"(4) Does the act apply to acceptances or time drafts?"

This question appears to be sufficiently answered by the comments under question no. 2, supra. It appears proper to add, however, that such transactions must be conducted in good faith in order to be within the law, and not as mere subterfuges to circumvent its purpose.

"(5) Is the present Soviet Government, as the successor to prior governments of Russia, to be regarded as in default, in view of the fact that no payment has been made on the bonds issued to the Government of the United States by the Provisional Government, on account of loans made to that Government by the United States during the period of the war, the Provisional Government having been the immediate predecessor of the Soviet Government?"

The proceedings in the House of Representatives indicate acceptance of the view that our Government regards the Soviet Government as responsible for the obligations incurred by prior Russian governments (Cong. Rec., vol. 78, p. 6192). The position of our Government in this respect accords with accepted principles of international law, as illustrated by the following authorities:

Moore, Int. Law Digest, v. 1, sec. 96, quoting Secretary of State Adams (August 10, 1818):

"No principle of international law can be more clearly established than this: That the rights and the obligations of a nation in regard to other States are independent of its internal revolutions of government. It extends even to the case of conquest. The conqueror who reduces a nation to his subjection receives it subject to all its engagements and duties toward others, the fulfillment of which then becomes his own duty."

Halleck, Int. Law (3d ed.) v. 1, p. 90:

"Public debts, whether due to or from the revolutionized state, are neither canceled nor affected by any change in the constitution or internal government of a state."

The same rule is stated, in substance, in Kent's Commentaries (12th ed.) v. 1, p. 26, and in an opinion of Attorney General Griggs, 22 Op. A. G. 583, 584. In connection with, and in support of, these statements the authors cite L. Whart. Int. Law Dig., sec. 5; Hall, Int. Law (4th ed.), pp. 104, 105; Rivier, Principes du Droit des Gens, I, pp. 70-72; United States v. MacRae, L. R. 8 Eq., 69; Vattel, Droit des Gens, liv II, ch. XII, §§ 183-197; Grotius, De Jur. Bel., lib. II, cap. II § 8.

This view, in fact, was stated in Congress (Cong. Rec., vol. 78, p. 6192) to have suggested the insertion of the provision in section 2 of the statute excluding from its operation public corporations controlled by the United States, which are permitted to engage in the transactions prohibited to individuals and private corporations, if administratively determined to be desirable. I, therefore, regard the Soviet Government as in default within the contemplation of the statute.

"(6) However the last question may be answered, can the Soviet Government be considered in default to the Government of the United States pending negotiations that are being had with a view to arriving at the amount of the indebtedness due from the Soviet Government to the Government of the United States?"

Bearing in mind what I have just stated in response to your fifth question, I am aware of no principle of law under which a previously existing default is waived or overcome because of the mere pendency of negotiations "with a view to arriving at the amount of the indebtedness due", assuming that there is any uncertainty in this regard, although, of course, the matter might be affected by the outcome of any such negotiations.

"(7) Would the issue and sale in the United States of 'scrip' or 'funding bonds' in part payment of outstanding obligations be in violation of the act?"

This question appears to present only a detail of the matter treated generally under question no. 3, and the same answer is applicable. In other words, such "scrip" or "funding bonds" are authorized if issued in the bona fide "renewal or adjustment of existing indebtedness."

It is made unlawful, as I have said, "to purchase or sell the bonds, securities, or other (similar) obligations of any foreign government * * * issued after the passage of this act, or to make any loan to such foreign government * * * except a renewal or adjustment of existing indebtedness." The word "renewal" needs no definition by me—it is frequently used and commonly understood in banking, business, and commercial transactions—and the word "adjustment", relating to accounts or claims, has been used in our statutes since the formation of the Government. (See the act of Sept. 2, 1789, 1 Stat. 65, and the act of Mar. 3, 1817, 3 Stat. 366.) It is used, I think, in the sense of compromising or determining how much is to be paid, when and where, upon what terms, and the like. Thus an adjustment of an existing indebtedness within the meaning of the act is any lawful arrangement entered into in good faith between the debtor and the creditor which comprises or determines the amount to be paid by the debtor to the creditor, and it may include other details of composition or settlement.

Respectfully,

HOMER CUMMINGS, Attorney General.

The honorable the SECRETARY OF STATE.

Exhibit 36

Message from the President to the Congress, transmitting a statement on the subject of debts owed the Government and people of the United States by the governments and peoples of foreign countries (H. Doc. No. 392, 73d Cong., 2d sess.)

To the Congress of the United States:

In my address to the Congress January 3 I stated that I expected to report later in regard to debts owed the Government and people of this country by the governments and people of other countries. There has been no formal communication on the subject from the Executive since President Hoover's message of December 19, 1932.

The developments are well known, having been announced to the press as they occurred. Correspondence with debtor governments has been made public promptly and is available in the Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury. It is, however, timely to review the situation.

Payments on the indebtedness of foreign governments to the United States which fell due in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1932, were postponed on the proposal of President Hoover announced June 20, 1931, and authorized by the joint resolution of Congress approved December 23, 1931. Yugoslavia alone suspended payment while rejecting President Hoover's offer of postponement.

In the 6 months of July to December 1932, which followed the end of the Hoover moratorium year, payments of $125,000,000 from 12 governments fell due. Requests to postpone the payments due December 15, 1932, were received from Great Britain, France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, and Poland. The replies made on behalf of President Hoover through the Department of State declined these requests, generally stating that it was not in the power of the Executive to grant them, and expressing a willingness to cooperate with the debtor government in surveying the entire situation. After such correspondence Czechoslovakia, Finland, Great Britain, Italy, Latvia, and Lithuania met their contractual obligations, while Belgium, Estonia, France, and Poland made no payment.

In a note of December 11, 1932, after the United States had declined to sanction postponement of the payment due December 15, the British Government, in announcing its decision to make payment of the amount due on December 15, made the following important statements:

"For reasons which have already been placed on record His Majesty's Government are convinced that the system of intergovernmental payments in respect of the war debts as it existed prior to Mr. Hoover's initiative on June 20, 1931, cannot be revived without disaster. Since it is agreed that the whole subject should be reexamined between the United States and the United Kingdom this fundamental point need not be further stressed here.

"In the view of His Majesty's Government therefore the payment to be made on December 15 is not to be regarded as a resumption of the annual payments contemplated by the existing agreement. It is made because there has not been time for discussion with regard to that agreement to take place and because the United States Government have stated that in their opinion such a payment would greatly increase the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question.

"His Majesty's Government propose accordingly to treat the payment on December 15 as a capital payment of which account should be taken in any final settlement and they are making arrangements to effect this payment in gold as being in the circumstances the least prejudicial of the methods open to them.

"This procedure must obviously be exceptional and abnormal and His Majesty's Government desire to urge upon the United States Government the importance of an early exchange of views with the object of concluding the proposed discussion before June 15 next in order to obviate a general breakdown of the existing intergovernmental agreements."

The Secretary of State, Mr. Stimson, replied to this note on the same day that acceptance by the Secretary of the Treasury of funds tendered in payment of the December 15 installment cannot constitute approval of or agreement to any condition or declaration of policy inconsistent with the terms of the agreement inasmuch as the Executive has no power to amend or to alter those terms either directly or indirectly or by implied commitment.

No payment was made by France December 15, 1932, as the French Chamber of Deputies by a vote on the morning of December 14 refused authorization to make the payment. The resolution voted by the French Chamber at that time invited the French Government to convoke as soon as possible, in agreement with Great Britain and other debtors, a general conference for the purpose of adjusting all international obligations and putting an end to all international transfers for which there is no compensating transaction. The resolution stated that the Chamber, despite legal and economic considerations, would have authorized settlement had the United States been willing to agree in advance to the convening of the conference for these purposes.

This resolution of the French Chamber is to be read in relation with the public statements of policy made by President Hoover and by myself on November 23, 1932. President Hoover said:

"The United States Government from the beginning has taken the position that it would deal with each of the debtor governments separately, as separate and distinct circumstances surrounded each case. Both in the making of the loans and in the subsequent settlements with the different debtors, this policy has been rigidly made clear to every foreign government concerned."

I said:

"I find myself in complete accord with the four principles discussed in the conference between the President and myself yesterday and set forth in a statement which the President has issued today.

"These debts were actual loans made under the distinct understanding and with the intention that they would be repaid.

"In dealing with the debts each government has been and is to be considered individually, and all dealings with each government are independent of dealings with any other debtor government. In no case should we deal with the debtor governments collectively.

"Debt settlements made in each case take into consideration the capacity to pay of the individual debtor nations.

"The indebtedness of the various European nations to our Government has no relations whatsoever to reparations payments made or owed to them."

Of the $125,000,000 due and payable December 15, 1932, the Treasury received $98,750,000, of which $95,550,000 was the British payment made subsequent to the above correspondence, and the other $3,000,000 represented payments by five other debtor nations. The amounts due from Belgium, Estonia, France, Hungary, and Poland which were not received amounted to $25,000,000, of which $19,260,000 was due and payable by France.

In my statement issued November 23, 1932, I had said:

"I firmly believe in the principle that an individual debtor should at all times have access to the creditor; that he should have opportunity to lay facts and representations before the creditor and that the creditor always should give courteous, sympathetic, and thoughtful consideration to such facts and representations.

"This is a rule essential to the preservation of the ordinary relationships of life. It is a basic obligation of civilization. It applies to nations as well as to individuals.

"The principle calls for a free access by the debtor to the creditor. Each case should be considered in the light of the conditions and necessities peculiar to the case of each nation concerned."

On January 20, 1933, President Hoover and I agreed upon the following statement:

"The British Government has asked for a discussion of the debts. The incoming administration will be glad to receive their representative early in March for this purpose. It is, of course, necessary to discuss at the same time the world economic problems in which the United States and Great Britain are mutually interested and therefore that representatives should also be sent to discuss ways and means for improving the world situation."

On March 4, 1933, the situation with regard to the indebtedness of other governments to the United States was, in brief, as follows:

France: The French Parliament had refused to permit payment of $19,261,432.50 interest due on the $3,863,650,000 bonds of France owned by the United States.

Great Britain: With respect to the British bonded debt held by the Treasury in the principal amount of $4,368,000,000, Great Britain in meeting a due payment of $30,000,000 principal and $65,550,000 interest had stated that the payment was not to be regarded as a resumption of the annual payments contemplated under the funding agreement of June 19, 1923, but was to be treated, so far as the British Government was concerned, as a capital payment of which account should be taken in any final settlement.

Italy: With respect to the $2,004,900,000 principal amount of bonds of the Italian Government held by the United States Treasury, the Italian Government had paid the sum of $1,245,437 interest due December 15, 1932; but in doing so it referred to a resolution of the Grand Council of Fascism, adopted December 5, 1932, in which "a radical solution of the 'sponging of the slate' type was declared to be necessary for the world's economic recovery."

Czechoslovakia, in making a payment of $1,500,000 principal due December 15, 1932, on its debt of $165,000,000, had stated that "this payment constitutes in the utmost self-denial of the Czechoslovak people their final effort to meet the obligation under such extremely unfavorable circumstances."

Belgium had declined to pay $2,125,000 interest due December 15, 1932, on its bonds of $400,680,000 held by the Treasury of the United States, and in doing so had recited circumstances which it stated "prevent it from resuming, on December 15, the payments which were suspended by virtue of the agreements made in July 1931." Adding: "Belgium is still disposed to collaborate fully in seeking a general settlement of intergovernmental debts and of the other problems arising from the depression."

Poland had not paid the $232,000 principal and $3,070,980 interest due December 15, 1932, on its bonds in the principal amount of $206,057,000 held by the Treasury of the United States.

Of the nine other governments whose bonds are held by the Treasury of the United States, Estonia and Hungary had not met payments due December 15, 1932.

Austria is availing itself of a contractual right to postpone payments.

Greece was making only partial payments on its foreign bonded indebtedness, including that held by the United States.

Yugoslavia had declined to sign any Hoover moratorium agreement and had stopped paying.

No payment by Rumania had fallen due since the close of the Hoover moratorium.

Finland, Latvia, and Lithuania were current in their payments.

Although I had informal discussions concerning the British debt with the British Ambassador even before March 4, 1933, and in April there was further discussion of the subject with the Prime Minister of Great Britain and between experts of the two governments, it was not possible to reach definitive conclusions. On June 13 the British Government gave notice that in the then existing circumstances it was not prepared to make the payment due June 15, 1933, but would make an immediate payment of $10,000,000 as an acknowledgment of the debt pending a final settlement. To this notice reply was made by the Acting Secretary of State, pointing out that it is not within the discretion of the President to reduce or cancel the existing debt owed to the United States nor to alter the schedule of debt payments contained in the existing settlement. At the same time I took occasion to announce that in view of the representations of the British Government, the accompanying acknowledgment of the debt itself, and the payment made, I had no personal hesitation in saying that I would not characterize the resultant situation as a default. In view of the suggestion of the expressed desire of the British Government to make representations concerning the debt, I suggested that such representations be made in Washington as soon as convenient.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act, approved May 12, 1933, had authorized the President for a period of 6 months from that date to accept silver in payment of installments due from any foreign government, such silver to be accepted at not to exceed a price of 50 cents an ounce. In the payments due June 15, 1933, the Governments of Great Britain, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Italy, Lithuania, and Rumania took advantage of this offer.

On June 15, 1933, payments of about $144,000,000 were due from foreign governments, the larger amounts being about $76,000,000 from Great Britain, almost $41,000,000 from France, and $13,500,000 from Italy. The amounts actually paid into the Treasury were $11,374,000 of which $10,000,000 was paid by Great Britain and $1,000,000 by Italy. Communications were received from most of the debtor governments asking a discussion of the debt question with the United States Government.

In October 1933, representatives of the British Government arrived in Washington and conferred for some weeks with representatives of this Government.

These discussions made clear the existing difficulties and the discussions were adjourned.

The British Government then stated that it continued to acknowledge the debt without prejudicing its right again to present the matter of readjustment and that it would express this acknowledgment tangibly by a payment of $7,500,000 on December 15. In announcing this I stated that in view of the representations, of the payment, and of the impossibility of accepting at that time any of the proposals for a readjustment of the debt, I had no personal hesitation in saying that I should not regard the British Government as in default.

On December 15, 1933, there was due and payable by foreign governments on their debt funding agreements and Hoover moratorium agreements a total of about $153,000,000. The payments actually received were slightly less than $9,000,000 including $7,500,000 paid by Great Britain, $1,000,000 by Italy, and about $230,000 by Finland.

At the present time Finland remains the only foreign government which has met all payments on its indebtedness to the United States punctually and in full.

It is a simple fact that this matter of the repayment of debts contracted to the United States during and after the World War has gravely complicated our trade and financial relationships with the borrowing nations for many years.

These obligations furnished vital means for the successful conclusion of a war which involved the national existence of the borrowers, and later for a quicker restoration of their normal life after the war ended.

The money loaned by the United States Government was in turn borrowed by the United States Government from the people of the United States, and our Government in the absence of payment from foreign governments is compelled to raise the shortage by general taxation of its own people in order to pay off the original Liberty bonds and the later refunding bonds.

It is for these reasons that the American people have felt that their debtors were called upon to make a determined effort to discharge these obligations. The American people would not be disposed to place an impossible burden upon their debtors, but are nevertheless in a just position to ask that substantial sacrifices be made to meet these debts.

We shall continue to expect the debtors on their part to show full understanding of the American attitude on this debt question. The people of the debtor nations will also bear in mind the fact that the American people are certain to be swayed by the use which debtor countries make of their available resources—whether such resources would be applied for the purposes of recovery as well as for reasonable payment on the debt owed to the citizens of the United States, or for purposes of unproductive nationalistic expenditure, or like purposes.

In presenting this report to you, I suggest that, in view of all existing circumstances no legislation at this session of the Congress is either necessary or advisable.

I can only repeat that I have made it clear to the debtor nations again and again that "the indebtedness to our Government has no relation whatsoever to reparations payments made or owed to them" and that each individual nation has full and free opportunity individually to discuss its problem with the United States.

We are using every means to persuade each debtor nation as to the sacredness of the obligation and also to assure them of our willingness, if they should so request, to discuss frankly and fully the special circumstances relating to means and method of payment.

Recognizing that the final power lies with the Congress, I shall keep the Congress informed from time to time and make such new recommendations as may later seem advisable.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
June 1, 1934.

MIXED CLAIMS

Exhibit 37

Senate Report No. 1376, June 11, 1934, to accompany Senate Joint Resolution 135, to amend Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, as amended (73d Cong., 2d sess.)

The Committee on Finance, to whom was referred the joint resolution (S. J. Res. 135) to amend the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, as amended, having considered the same, report favorably thereon with amendments, and recommend that the resolution, as amended, do pass.

Following the war, German nationals had claims against the United States such as claims arising from our seizure of property owned by German nationals. Similarly, American nationals had claims against the German Government arising out of the war. On July 2, 1921, Congress passed the Knox-Porter peace resolution (later incorporated in the peace treaty between the United States and Germany), which provided that none of the property of the German Government and German nationals which was seized during the war should be returned until Germany had made suitable provision for the satisfaction of the claims of the United States and its nationals against Germany arising out of the war.

Germany was not in a position to make a lump payment of the amount due to Americans. Accordingly, the United States consented to the German-American debt agreement (June 23, 1930) under which Germany agreed (among other things) to make payment in installments over a period of years of an aggregate amount equal to the estimated amount due to American nationals. The installments were not sufficiently large to permit of early payments in substantial amounts. Accordingly, the American Congress appropriated $86,000,000 to be deposited in an account known as the "German Special Deposit Account", out of which payments were to be made in accordance with priorities established in the Settlement of War Claims Act of March 10, 1928. Of this $86,000,000, approximately $43,000,000 was paid to American nationals and $43,000,000 to German nationals.

The German Government took advantage of the provisions of the German-American debt agreement permitting postponement of its principal installment payments for a period not exceeding 2½ years. On March 31 of this year both the postponed installments and the installment due on that date became payable, but were not paid. The German Government did, however, make payment of interest as required by the agreement until last September, when, instead of making the interest payment to the United States, it notified the United States that it had established a credit in marks in a German bank corresponding to the interest due. On March 31 of this year Germany made payment in dollars in the United States of the current interest due; but as previously stated, failed to make payment of the principal installments due. Furthermore, the German Government has failed to make satisfactory assurances as to when those installments will be paid.

The result is that while the United States has fulfilled its undertakings, Germany has failed to make suitable provision for the satisfaction of the claims of the United States and its nationals called for in the Knox-Porter peace resolution. Under these circumstances it would appear to be in accord with the policy of the Congress as declared in that resolution to postpone any further liquidation of the claims of German nationals against the United States until the German Government fulfills its undertakings to provide for satisfaction of the claims of American nationals against it. The resolution reported is designed to carry out this policy.

The foregoing is stated in very general terms for the reason that it would be difficult to present in brief form a picture of the whole question of the war claims were an attempt made, at the same time, to set out the details and the necessary qualifications covering variations not essential to the point at issue.

A detailed statement of the situation, together with an explanation of amendments similar to those agreed to by your committee, and which are clarifying in character, is contained in the report (appended herewith) of the House Committee on Ways and Means upon a companion resolution, House Joint Resolution 365.

[H. Rept. No. 1924, 73d Cong., 2d sess.]

The Committee on Ways and Means, to whom was referred the joint resolution (H. J. Res. 365) to amend the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, as amended, having had the same under consideration, report it back to the House with amendments and recommend that the joint resolution as amended do pass.

The amendments are as follows:

On page 3, line 11, strike out "any or".

On page 4, line 14, after "postponed", insert "under this resolution".

On page 4 strike out in lines 15 to 18, inclusive, the following: "the action of the President in determining the period or periods in which Germany is in arrears in the payments hereinbefore described shall not be subject to judicial review" and insert in lieu thereof "the President is authorized to determine, for the purposes of this resolution, the period or periods in which Germany is in arrears in the payments hereinbefore described and his determination thereof shall not be subject to judicial review".

The purpose of this resolution is to postpone (a) further payments to German nationals from the German special deposit account in the Treasury Department, established under section 4 of the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, on account of awards made by the War Claims Arbitrer for ships, patents, and a radio station seized and used by this Government during the war, and (b) further return of property belonging to German nationals held by the Alien Property Custodian, while Germany is in arrears on her payments on claims of American nationals under the debt agreement of June 23, 1930.

By the terms of the Settlement of War Claims Act, the awards in favor of German nationals for ships, patents, and a radio station and the awards entered by the Mixed Claims Commission against Germany in favor of American nationals were to be paid in accordance with the scheme of priorities established in section 4 (c) of the act.

Germany is now in arrears on the payments due under the debt agreement of June 23, 1930, and there is no assurance when those arrears will be discharged or further annual payments made. It is not felt that this Government should make further payments to German nationals from the limited funds that may be available in the German special deposit account, or that it should return the small amount of property still held by the Alien Property Custodian while Germany's obligations under the debt agreement remain in their present state.

The resolution withholds all amounts which may become payable to German nationals under the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928 and withholds the return of all property belonging to German nationals now held by the Alien Property Custodian under the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended. In view of the many complicated matters involved it is believed that a review of the problems before Congress at the time it passed the Settlement of War Claims Act and a review of subsequent events may be useful to the Members of the House.

The Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928 was approved March 10, 1928. The act is complicated by reason of the innumerable complex situations covered by it and also by the complexities of the Trading with the Enemy Act, which was amended in several particulars by the Settlement of War Claims Act.

There were three major problems involving the United States and its nationals and the German Government and its nationals arising out of the war which the act attempted to settle. In order not to unduly complicate the matter, similar problems involving the United States and its nationals in their relation to the Austrian and Hungarian Governments and their nationals, also covered in the act, are not covered in this report. The three major problems referred to were as follows:

1. Alien property.—Property of German nationals in the United States was seized during the war by the Alien Property Custodian under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, and a large part, estimated at a value of over $200,000,000, was being held at the time of the enactment of the Settlement of War Claims Act with no authority in the Executive to return it. Under the Knox-Porter peace resolution of July 2, 1921, quoted in part in the first paragraph of the preamble of House Joint Resolution 365, and which was incorporated in full in the Treaty of Berlin, the United States unquestionably possessed the right to retain this property until Germany had made suitable provision for the satisfaction of the claims of American nationals against the German Government. Congress in the Settlement of War Claims Act authorized the return of 80 percent of the aggregate value of the property of German nationals so held, and further authorized that the remaining 20 percent of the aggregate value of such property be retained and invested in 5 percent certificates which participate under certain conditions and in a certain order of priority in the funds in the German special deposit account in the Treasury created by the Settlement of War Claims Act.

2. Mixed claims.—The United States Government and many American nationals suffered losses during the war period by reason of acts for which the German Government was responsible, and their claims had to be satisfied. A commission, known as the "Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany", was created by the agreement of August 10, 1922, to hear and determine the claims and to enter awards for the losses for which Germany was responsible. Through arrangements made by the Secretary of State with the Allied Governments, there had been allocated to the United States under the provisions of the Finance Ministers' agreement of January 14, 1925, 2¼ percent of all receipts paid by Germany which were available for reparation payments, with a proviso that the sum so allocated should not exceed 45,000,000 gold marks in any one year. The United States was, therefore, receiving at the time of the enactment of the Settlement of War Claims Act approximately $11,000,000 per annum through the Reparation Commission for account of Germany's obligations.

By passing the Settlement of War Claims Act, Congress in effect recognized that arrangements had been made which, if fulfilled, constituted a "suitable provision for the satisfaction of all claims" against Germany required by the joint resolution of July 2, 1921. By the debt agreement of June 23, 1930, an arrangement was made directly with Germany which superseded the previously-mentioned arrangement and provided for the gradual liquidation of the Mixed Claims awards through the payment of an annual sum of 40,800,000 reichsmarks ($9,700,000) for a period of 52 years, in semiannual installments of 20,400,000 reichsmarks each. Congress approved this agreement. But if the American claimants had been forced to rely upon only the distributive share in the payments to be made under the two arrangements mentioned, more than 70 years would have been required for payment in full. It was necessary, therefore, that some method be provided by which the American claimants could obtain a more immediate payment.

3. Awards of War Claims Arbitrator in favor of German nationals.—The United States Government, under the authority of a joint resolution of Congress, during the war seized and took title to a large number of ships owned by citizens of Germany and acquired for its own use during the war a large number of patents and a radio station. The United States recognized a duty to make compensation on these accounts to the German nationals for the value of their property so taken and used. The Settlement of War Claims Act created the office of War Claims Arbitrator and authorized the Arbitrator to hear the claims of the German nationals and to determine the fair compensation to be paid by the United States. Some provision had to be made for the payment of the amounts determined to be due.

The Settlement of War Claims Act recognized the close relationship between the three problems and their solution as a whole. Under the circumstances, it was not possible to provide for the immediate payment of all American claimants, nor the immediate payment of all owners of the ships, patents, and the radio station, nor the immediate return of all the alien property. The act did, however, provide for the immediate payment of as large a percentage as possible of the claims of the American nationals and the German nationals, and for the return of as large a percentage as possible of the alien property, with a provision for the payment of the balance due over a period of years.

The act created in the Treasury a German special deposit account into which the Secretary of the Treasury was directed to deposit the following funds:

(a) All sums invested by the Alien Property Custodian under the provisions of section 25 (a) of the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, which represents 20 percent of the aggregate value of the property of German nationals temporarily retained by the Alien Property Custodian. As the funds are invested as required by the Trading with the Enemy Act and deposited in the German special deposit account, the Secretary of the Treasury issues to the Alien Property Custodian a 5 percent participating certificate, which is payable in accordance with the priorities hereinafter enumerated.

(b) All sums transferred by the Alien Property Custodian under the provisions of section 25 (b) of the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, which was referred to as the "Unallocated interest fund" and which represented the interest accrued prior to March 4, 1923, on investments of funds of the Alien Property Custodian, plus interest on the investment of such interest after March 4, 1923. No authority of law existed for distributing any interest accruing on the investment of the funds prior to March 4, 1923, the date of the approval of the Winslow Act, which act authorized the return of not to exceed $10,000 per annum to any one person, of the income accruing after that date.

(c) Amounts appropriated by Congress for the payment of awards of the War Claims Arbitrator in favor of German nationals for ships, patents, and a radio station.

(d) All moneys received from Germany on account of the awards of the Mixed Claims Commission in favor of American nationals.

(e) Earnings on investments of funds in the deposit account.

The act authorized and directed the Secretary of the Treasury to make payments out of the German special deposit account in the following order of priority:

(1) Payment of expenses of administration.

(2) Payment in full of awards in favor of American nationals attributable to death and personal injury, together with interest thereon up to the date of payment.

(3) Payment in full of awards in favor of American nationals the amount of which, including interest to January 1, 1928, does not exceed $100,000, together with interest on such amount from January 1, 1928, to the date of payment.

(4) Payment of $100,000 on account of awards in favor of an American national, the amount of which, including accrued interest to January 1, 1928, is in excess of $100,000, provided no person shall be paid an amount in excess of $100,000 under this priority, irrespective of the number of awards made in his behalf.

(5) Additional payments on awards in excess of $100,000, including interest to January 1, 1928, entered in favor of American nationals, as and when funds are available for this purpose as determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, until the aggregate payments authorized by priorities 2 to 5 equal 80 percent of the aggregate amount of the awards entered, including interest to January 1, 1928.

It is pointed out that all the payments authorized by paragraphs 2, 3, and 4 above have been practically completed. There are a few cases remaining unpaid because the claimants cannot be located and for other reasons, but funds have been reserved for their complete payment. As to paragraph 5, payments have been made which aggregate about 74½ percent of the amount authorized to be paid under these priorities. There remains, therefore, approximately 5½ percent (about $2,000,000) to complete this priority to American nationals.

(6) Payment to German nationals of 50 percent of the awards entered by the War Claims Arbitrator for ships, patents, and a radio station, including interest to December 31, 1928. The Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to pay this amount without regard to any of the other priorities.

(7) Payment of accrued interest upon the 5 percent participating certificates evidencing the amounts invested by the Alien Property Custodian.

(8) Payment of accrued interest since January 1, 1928, on awards of the Mixed Claims Commission in excess of $100,000 in amount, including accrued interest to January 1, 1928, in favor of American nationals and accrued interest since December 31, 1928, on awards of the War Claims Arbitrator in favor of German nationals for ships, patents, and a radio station, including accrued interest to December 31, 1928.

(9) Pro rata payments, to the extent funds are available, (a) to the Alien Property Custodian, on the 5 percent participating certificates held by him as evidence of the investment of funds representing 20 percent of German property temporarily retained; (b) to German nationals on account of the balance due on their awards entered by the War Claims Arbitrator for ships, patents, and a radio station, including interest to December 31, 1928; and (c) to American nationals on account of the balance due on awards in excess of $100,000 in amount, including interest to January 1, 1928, entered by the Mixed Claims Commission.

(10) Payment to German nationals on account of the "Unallocated interest fund." No interest accrues on this sum.

(11) Payment to the United States Government on account of awards entered in its behalf by the Mixed Claims Commission, together with interest on such awards.

The Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended by the Settlement of War Claims Act, authorized the return of 80 percent of the aggregate value of the property of German nationals, as determined by the Alien Property Custodian; authorized the temporary retention of the remaining 20 percent; and authorized that funds equal to the value of such property so retained be paid to the German nationals from the German special deposit account in the order of priority established by the Settlement of War Claims Act.

The following is a statement showing the amounts of the various classes of claims, the payments made on account of each class, and the balance due as of March 31, 1934:

I. Principal of awards of Mixed Claims Commission-----	$128,500,000
Interest to Jan. 1, 1928-----	40,500,000

Interest to Mar. 31, 1934-----	38,300,000
		80,335,000

In addition it is understood that the Alien Property Custodian has property in his hands valued at approximately $10,000,000, of which 80 or 90 percent is estimated to belong to German nationals. Under the law as it now stands, 80 percent of this property would probably be returned this calendar year, the remaining 20 percent to be retained for deposit in the German special deposit account.

The following shows the funds made, or to be made, available to the German special deposit account and the payments that have been made out of such account:

Receipts:

From investments of Alien Property Custodian under Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended:
Unallocated interest fund-----	$21,750,000
20 percent German property retained-----	17,550,000
Total-----		$39,300,000
From Germany:

Total receipts-----		182,714,000

Payments:

On account of awards of the Mixed Claims Commission	$134,000,000
On account of awards of the War Claims Arbitrator	43,368,000
Miscellaneous payments (expenses, etc.)	817,000
Total	$178,185,000
Balance in German special deposit account	4,529,000
Funds in hands of Alien Property Custodian available for deposit in German special deposit account	15,500,000
Total available to German special deposit account	20,029,000

It will be noted that the funds now available to the German special deposit account amount to about $20,000,000, which are being reserved to make payment on account of any awards which the Mixed Claims Commission might enter on the claims now pending before it. In case awards are entered on account of the claims now pending before the Commission, payments will be made in the same manner and to the same extent as payments have already been made on account of awards entered and certified for payment. On the other hand, if the claims pending before the Commission are disallowed, the $20,000,000 held in reserve will be released and distributed to American and German nationals in accordance with priorities specified in section 4 (c) of the Settlement of War Claims Act, hereinafter enumerated. In such case the funds made available, together with 80 percent of the value of the property in the hands of the Alien Property Custodian estimated at $6,500,000, or a total of $26,500,000, would be distributed approximately as follows:

To American nationals:

Balance of 80 percent of awards of Mixed Claims Commission under priority no. 5 (5½ percent remaining unpaid)	$2,000,000
On account of interest accrued since Jan. 1, 1928 (approximately 40 percent of such interest)	7,800,000

Total to American nationals $9,800,000

To German nationals:

Interest on 5 percent participating certificates (20 percent of German property temporarily retained)	3,600,000
On account of interest accrued since Dec. 31, 1928, on awards of War Claims Arbitrator (approximately 40 percent of such interest)	6,600,000
Return of property in hands of Alien Property Custodian	6,500,000

Total to German nationals 16,700,000

Total available for distribution 26,500,000

Under the debt agreement of June 23, 1930, the German Government is obligated to pay semiannually to the United States for a period of 52 years on account of the awards of the Mixed Claims Commission, the sum of 20,400,000 reichsmarks ($4,850,000 at the time the agreement was concluded, or about $8,150,000 at the present mint parity of the mark). Under the debt agreement that Government has the option of postponing payment of the installments due for a period of 2½ years, but the amounts so postponed bear interest at the rate of 5 percent per annum, payable semiannually.

The Hoover moratorium was declared in June 1931 and covered payments falling due during the year July 1, 1931, to June 30, 1932. It excepted private obligations, and the joint resolution of December 23, 1931, authorizing that moratorium, treated the payments due on account of mixed claims as falling under the exception. Germany, however, took advantage of the option in the agreement to postpone the payments due, and has exercised that option ever since up to and including the payment due September 30, 1933. It paid the interest semiannually up to March 31, 1933, but the semiannual payment of interest due on September 30, 1933, was paid in reichsmarks into an account in Germany and was not transferred to the United States as required by the terms of the debt agreement. It is understood that the United States advised the German Government that it could not accept the payment in reichsmarks as a compliance with the debt agreement.

On March 31, 1934, all of the installments aggregating 102,000,000 reichsmarks, previously postponed since September 30, 1931, together with the semiannual installment of 20,400,000 reichsmarks and semiannual interest of 2,550,000 reichsmarks, or a total of 122,400,000 reichsmarks (about $50,000,000), were due and payable. Germany advised that it could not meet the principal payments falling due, but would and did pay the interest due of 2,550,000 reichsmarks (about $1,000,000).

The Treasury holds German bonds for account of mixed claims in the face amount of 2,040,000,000 reichsmarks ($500,000,000 at time of acquisition but $800,000,000 at present rates).

The debt agreement of June 23, 1930, provides that the obligation of Germany to make the payments specified therein shall cease as soon as all of the payments contemplated by the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928 have been completed and the bonds of Germany held by the United States not then matured shall be canceled and returned to Germany.

The amendment to the joint resolution striking out "any or" and the amendment inserting "under this resolution" are clerical clarifying amendments. The amendment to the last proviso specifically empowers the President to determine the period or periods in which Germany is in arrears on her payments and retains the substance of the provision stricken out, so that judicial review of the President's determination is denied.

Exhibit 39

[Public Resolution No. 53, 73d Cong., H. J. Res. 365]

Joint resolution to amend the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, as amended

Whereas the joint resolution of the Congress of the United States, approved July 2, 1921, provides in part as follows:

"SEC. 5. All property of the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors, and of all German nationals, which was, on April 6, 1917, in or has since that date come into the possession or under control of, or has been the subject of a demand by the United States of America or of any of its officers, agents, or employees, from any source or by any agency whatsoever, * * * shall be retained by the United States of America and no disposition thereof made, except as shall have been heretofore or specifically hereafter shall be provided by law until such time as the Imperial German Government * * * shall have * * * made suitable provision for the satisfaction of all claims against said [Government] * * *, of all persons, wheresoever domiciled, who owe permanent allegiance to the United States of America and who have suffered, through the acts of the Imperial German Government, or its agents * * * since July 31, 1914, loss, damage, or injury to their persons or property, directly or indirectly, whether through the ownership of shares of stock in German, * * *, American, or other corporations, or in consequence of hostilities or of any operations of war, or otherwise * * *."

Whereas the treaty between the United States and Germany of August 25, 1921, incorporated said provision of such joint resolution and also provided in article I thereof as follows:

"Germany undertakes to accord to the United States, and the United States shall have and enjoy, all the rights, privileges, indemnities, reparations, or advantages specified in the aforesaid joint resolution of the Congress of the United States of July 2, 1921, including all the rights and advantages stipulated for the benefit of the United States in the Treaty of Versailles which the United States shall fully enjoy notwithstanding the fact that such treaty has not been ratified by the United States."; and

Whereas by the agreement of August 10, 1922, between Germany and the United States, a Mixed Claims Commission was established to adjudicate claims of American nationals against Germany arising out of the World War; and

Whereas under the terms of the debt funding agreement between Germany and the United States dated June 23, 1930, Germany agreed to pay to the United States in satisfaction of Germany's obligations remaining on account of awards, including interest thereon, entered and to be entered by the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, the sum of 40,800,000 reichsmarks for the period September 1, 1929, to March 31, 1930, and the sum of 40,800,000 reichsmarks per annum from April 1, 1930, to March 31, 1931; and

Whereas Germany is now in arrears in payments due under said debt funding agreement between Germany and the United States, and has, accordingly, failed to make suitable provision for the satisfaction of the said claims against Germany: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That so long as Germany is in arrears in any payments of principal or interest, including interest at the rate of 5 per centum per annum on principal installments not paid when due, under the debt funding agreement between Germany and the United States, dated June 23, 1930, with respect to Germany's obligations remaining on account of awards, including interest thereon, entered and to be entered by the Mixed Claims Commission, United States and Germany, all payments, conveyances, transfers, or deliveries of money or property, or the income, issues, profits, and/or avails thereof authorized or directed to be made under the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, or the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, as amended, whether or not a judgment or decree has been entered with respect thereto, shall be postponed and the money or property, or the income, issues, profits, and/or avails thereof reserved: Provided, however, That such of the funds as are from time to time available (without taking into consideration interest thereafter accruing) under the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, as amended, for the payment of principal and interest upon awards of said Mixed Claims Commission shall be applied when available to the payment of principal and interest upon such awards in the same manner and to the same extent as though certain of the payments provided for in said act had not been postponed under this resolution: Provided further, That the President may, in his sole discretion, remove the restriction as to any of the cases or classes of cases in relation to which payments, conveyances, transfers, or deliveries have been postponed under this resolution: And provided further, That the President is authorized to determine, for the purposes of this resolution, the period or periods in which Germany is in arrears in the payments hereinbefore described, and his determination thereof shall not be subject to judicial review.

Whereas section 16 of the act of March 3, 1933 (Public No. 428, 47 Stat. 1517), provides for reorganizations within the executive branch of the Government; requires the President to investigate and determine what reorganizations are necessary to effectuate the purposes of the statute; and authorizes the President to make such reorganizations by Executive order; and

Whereas I have investigated the organization of all executive and administrative agencies of the Government and have determined that certain regroupings, consolidations, transfers, and abolitions of executive agencies and functions thereof are necessary to accomplish the purposes of section 16:

Now, therefore, by virtue of the aforesaid authority, I do hereby order that:

SECTION 1.—PROCUREMENT

The function of determination of policies and methods of procurement, warehousing, and distribution of property, facilities, structures, improvements, machinery, equipment, stores, and supplies exercised by any agency is transferred to a Procurement Division in the Treasury Department, at the head of which shall be a Director of Procurement.

The Office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department is transferred to the Procurement Division, except that the buildings of the Treasury Department shall be administered by the Treasury Department and the administration of post-office buildings is transferred to the Post Office Department. The General Supply Committee of the Treasury Department is abolished.

In respect of any kind of procurement, warehousing, or distribution for any agency the Procurement Division may, with the approval of the President, (a) undertake the performance of such procurement, warehousing, or distribution itself, or (b) permit such agency to perform such procurement, warehousing, or distribution, or (c) entrust such performance to some other agency, or (d) avail itself in part of any of these recourses, according as it may deem desirable in the interest of economy and efficiency. When the Procurement Division has prescribed the manner of procurement, warehousing, or distribution of anything, no agency shall thereafter procure, warehouse, or distribute such thing in any manner other than so prescribed.

The execution of work now performed by the Corps of Engineers of the Army shall remain with said corps, subject to the responsibilities herein vested in the Procurement Division.

The Procurement Division shall also have control of all property, facilities, structures, machinery, equipment, stores, and supplies not necessary to the work of any agency; may have custody thereof or entrust custody to any other agency; and shall furnish the same to agencies as need therefor may arise.

The fuel yards of the Bureau of Mines of the Department of Commerce are transferred to the Procurement Office. * * *

SECTION 2.—NATIONAL PARKS, BUILDINGS, AND RESERVATIONS

All functions of administration of public buildings, reservations, national parks, national monuments, and national cemeteries are consolidated in an Office of National Parks, Buildings, and Reservations in the Department of the Interior, at the head of which shall be a Director of National Parks, Buildings, and Reservations; except that where deemed desirable there may be excluded from this provision any public building or reservation which is chiefly employed as a facility in the work of a particular agency. This transfer and consolidation of functions shall include, among other, those of the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior and the National Cemeteries and Parks of the War Department which are located within the continental limits of the United States. National cemeteries located in foreign countries shall be transferred to the Department of State, and those located in insular possessions under the jurisdiction of the War Department shall be administered by the Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department.

The functions of the following agencies are transferred to the Office of National Parks, Buildings, and Reservations of the Department of the Interior, and the agencies are abolished:

Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission.

Public Buildings Commission.

All other functions now performed by the Bureau of Prohibition are transferred to such divisions in the Department of Justice as in the judgment of the Attorney General may be desirable.

The function of disbursement of moneys of the United States exercised by any agency is transferred to the Treasury Department and, together with the Office of Disbursing Clerk of that Department, is consolidated in a Division of Disbursement, at the head of which shall be a Chief Disbursing Officer.

The Division of Disbursement of the Treasury Department is authorized to establish local offices, or to delegate the exercise of its functions locally to officers or employees of other agencies, according as the interests of efficiency and economy may require.

The Division of Disbursement shall disburse moneys only upon the certification of persons by law duly authorized to incur obligations upon behalf of the United States. The function of accountability for improper certification shall be transferred to such persons, and no disbursing officer shall be held accountable therefor.

SECTION 5.—CLAIMS BY OR AGAINST THE UNITED STATES

The functions of prosecuting in the courts of the United States claims and demands by, and offenses against, the Government of the United States, and of defending claims and demands against the Government, and of supervising the work of United States attorneys, marshals, and clerks in connection therewith, now exercised by any agency or officer, are transferred to the Department of Justice.

As to any case referred to the Department of Justice for prosecution or defense in the courts, the function of decision whether and in what manner to prosecute, or to defend, or to compromise, or to appeal, or to abandon prosecution or defense, now exercised by any agency or officer, is transferred to the Department of Justice.

For the exercise of such of his functions as are not transferred to the Department of Justice by the foregoing two paragraphs, the Solicitor of the Treasury is transferred from the Department of Justice to the Treasury Department.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the function of any agency or officer with respect to cases at any stage prior to reference to the Department of Justice for prosecution or defense.

SECTION 19.—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Each agency, all the functions of which are transferred to or consolidated with another agency, is abolished.

The records pertaining to an abolished agency or a function disposed of, disposition of which is not elsewhere herein provided for, shall be transferred to the successor. If there be no successor agency, and such abolished agency be within a department, said records shall be disposed of as the head of such department may direct.

The property, facilities, equipment, and supplies employed in the work of an abolished agency or the exercise of a function disposed of, disposition of which is not elsewhere herein provided for, shall, to the extent required, be transferred to the successor agency. Other such property, facilities, equipment, and supplies shall be transferred to the Procurement Division.

All personnel employed in connection with the work of an abolished agency or function disposed of shall be separated from the service of the United States, except that the head of any successor agency, subject to my approval, may, within a period of 4 months after transfer or consolidation, reappoint any of such personnel required for the work of the successor agency without re-examination or loss of civil service status.

SECTION 20.—APPROPRIATIONS

Such portions of the unexpended balances of appropriations for any abolished agency or function disposed of shall be transferred to the successor agency as the Director of the Budget shall deem necessary.

Unexpended balances of appropriations for an abolished agency or function disposed of, not so transferred by the Director of the Budget, shall, in accordance with law, be impounded and returned to the Treasury.

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 6727, MAY 29, 1934, POSTPONING EFFECTIVE DATE OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 6166 OF JUNE 10, 1933

Whereas it appears that the interests of economy require that certain transfers, consolidations, and eliminations provided for under section 4 of Executive Order No. 6166 of June 10, 1933, be further delayed beyond the effective date of said order:

Now, therefore, pursuant to the provisions of section 22 of the said order, I hereby order that, except as hereinafter provided, the transfers, consolidations, and eliminations contemplated by section 4 of Executive Order No. 6166 of June 10, 1933, which are not effected prior to June 30, 1934, pursuant to Executive Order No. 6224 of July 27, 1933, and Executive Order No. 6540 of December 28, 1933, together with the operation of all other provisions of Executive Order No. 6166 of June 10, 1933, in so far as they relate to said section 4, be further delayed until December 31, 1934: Provided, That any transfer, consolidation, or elimination, in whole or in part, under said section 4, including any other provisions of the said order of June 10, 1933, in so far as they relate to section 4 thereof, may be made operative and effective between June 30, 1934, and December 31, 1934, by order of the Secretary of the Treasury, approved by the President.

THE WHITE HOUSE,

EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 6728, MAY 29, 1934, REVOKING IN PART SECTION 4 OF EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 6166 OF JUNE 10, 1933

Whereas section 4 of Executive Order No. 6166 of June 10, 1933, provides in part:

"The function of disbursement of moneys of the United States exercised by any agency is transferred to the Treasury Department and, together with the Office of Disbursing Clerk of that Department, is consolidated in a Division of Disbursement, at the head of which shall be a Chief Disbursing Officer."

Whereas the effective date of section 4 of Executive Order No. 6166 has been deferred until December 31, 1934, by Executive Order No. 6727 of this date, subject to the provisions contained therein; and

Whereas, after further consideration, I have determined that such transfer of the disbursing functions under the jurisdiction of the War Department, the Navy Department, and the Panama Canal, except as hereinafter set forth, would adversely affect the operation of our military and naval forces in time of emergency and would not be in the public interest;

Now, therefore, by virtue of and pursuant to the authority vested in me by section 16 of the act of March 3, 1933 (ch. 212, 47 Stat., 1489, 1517), it is ordered that the above-quoted provision of section 4 of Executive Order No. 6166 of June 10, 1933, be, and it is hereby, revoked in so far as and to the extent that it is applicable to the disbursing functions under the jurisdiction of the War Department, the Navy Department (including the Marine Corps), and the Panama Canal, except those pertaining to departmental salaries and expenses in the District of Columbia: Provided, That the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy shall continue to furnish the Secretary of the Treasury such fiscal reports as are now or may hereafter be required by law, and such other fiscal data as may be required by the Secretary of the Treasury from time to time: Provided further, That upon the request of the Secretary of the Treasury and with the approval of the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, as the case may be, the facilities of the War and Navy Departments and the Panama Canal may be utilized in the disbursement, or aiding in the disbursement, of public moneys of the United States available for expenditure by any executive department, independent establishment, or agency of the Government.

This order will become effective in accordance with the provisions of section 1, title III, of the act of March 20, 1933 (ch. 3, 48 Stat. 8, 16).

TABLES

EXPLANATION OF BASES USED IN TABLES

Figures in the following tables are shown on various bases, namely: (1) Daily Treasury statements, unrevised (current cash); (2) daily Treasury statements, revised (actual); (3) warrants issued; (4) checks issued; and (5) collections reported by collecting officers.

Daily Treasury statements (unrevised) (receipts and expenditures).—The figures shown in the daily statement of the United States Treasury are compiled from the latest daily reports received by the Treasurer of the United States from Treasury officers and public depositaries holding Government funds. The daily Treasury statement, therefore, is a current report compiled from latest available information, and, by reason of the promptness with which the information is obtained and made public, it has come into general use as reflecting the financial operations of the Government covering a given period, and gives an accurate idea of the actual condition of the Treasury as far as it is ascertainable from day to day. This is known as "current cash basis", according to daily Treasury statements (unrevised). Table 3 (p. 294) shows receipts and expenditures on this basis. The current assets and liabilities of the Treasury and the outstanding public debt are also available on this basis.

Daily Treasury statements (revised) (receipts and expenditures).—On account of the distance of some of the Treasury offices and depositaries from the Treasury, it is obvious that the reports from all officers covering a particular day's transactions cannot be received and assembled in the Treasury at one time without delaying for several days the publication of the daily Treasury statement. It is necessary, therefore, in order to exhibit the actual receipts and expenditures for any given month or fiscal year, to take into consideration those reports covering the transactions for the last few days of the month or fiscal year concerned which have not been received in the Treasury until the succeeding month or fiscal year, and to eliminate receipts and expenditures relating to the preceding month. After taking into consideration these reports, the revised figures indicate the condition of the Treasury on the basis of actual transactions occurring during the period under review. This is known as "the basis of daily Treasury statements (revised)."

It is not practical to delay the publication of the daily Treasury statement in order to include the later reports, as the difference between the revised and the unrevised figures is immaterial. The unrevised figures as shown in current daily Treasury statements are the basis for the Budget estimates submitted to Congress by the President. The revised figures are of no practical use except to enable the use of a true General Fund balance on the monthly statement of the public debt of the United States and to bring the daily Treasury statement figures into agreement with the figures based on warrants issued. The table on page 154 shows receipts and expenditures on this basis. The current assets and liabilities of the Treasury and the outstanding public debt are also available on this basis.

Warrants issued (receipts).—Section 305 of the Revised Statutes provides that receipts for all moneys received by the Treasurer of the United States shall be endorsed upon warrants signed by the Secretary of the Treasury, without which warrants, so signed, no acknowledgment for money received into the Public Treasury shall be valid. The issuance of warrants by the Secretary of the Treasury, as provided by law, represents the formal covering of receipts into the Treasury.

Certificates of deposit covering actual deposits in Treasury offices and depositaries, upon which covering warrants are based, cannot reach the Treasury simultaneously, and for that reason all receipts for a fiscal year cannot be covered into the Treasury by warrants of the Secretary immediately upon the close of that fiscal year. It is necessary to have all certificates of deposit before a statement can be issued showing the total receipts for a particular fiscal year on a warrant basis. The figures thus compiled will agree with the figures compiled on the basis of daily Treasury statements (revised). The details in table 1 (p. 276) show receipts on this basis.

Warrants issued (expenditures).—The Constitution of the United States provides that no money shall be drawn from the Treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law. Section 305 of the Revised Statutes requires that the Treasurer of the United States shall disburse the moneys of the United States upon warrants drawn by the Secretary of the Treasury. As the warrants are issued by the Secretary they are charged against the appropriate appropriations provided by law. Some of these warrants do not represent actual payments to claimants, but are merely advances of funds to be placed to the credit of disbursing officers of the Government with the Treasurer of the United States for the payment of Government obligations. The disbursing officer then issues his check on the Treasurer in payment of such obligations. As far as the appropriation accounts are concerned, the warrants issued and charged thereto constitute expenditures, but it will be observed that such expenditures necessarily include unexpended balances to the credit of the disbursing officers. Under normal conditions these balances over a period of several years fluctuate very little in the aggregate, and the difference between the total expenditures on a warrant basis and a cash basis (revised) is immaterial. Statement of the expenditures on a warrant basis from 1789 to 1915 is shown on page 302 of this report.

Checks issued (expenditures).—This basis, more than any other, reflects the real expenditures of the Government. Expenditures for a given fiscal year on the basis of checks issued differ from the corresponding figures on the basis of warrants in that the former include expenditures made by disbursing officers from credits granted during the previous fiscal year, and exclude the amount of unexpended grants remaining to their credit at the end of the fiscal year. The basis of checks issued differs from the basis of the daily Treasury statement (revised) in that the former includes checks outstanding at the end of the fiscal year, and excludes unpaid checks outstanding at the beginning of the fiscal year. A detailed explanation of the basis of checks issued will be found on page 89 of the Secretary's report for 1927. Table 2 (p. 282) shows expenditures on this basis.

Collections reported by collecting officers (receipts).—Statements showing receipts on a collection basis are compiled from reports received by the various administrative offices from collecting officers in the field, such as collectors of internal revenue and collectors of customs. These reports cover the collections actually made by these officers during the period specified. The collections are then deposited in a designated Government depository to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States, which depository renders a report to the Treasurer. The reports of the collecting officers and the depositories do not, of course, coincide, for the reason that the collecting officers make collections during the last few days of the fiscal year which are not deposited until after the close of the fiscal year. On this account the two reports do not agree. The receipts are reported on a collection basis merely for statistical purposes and to furnish information as to detailed sources of revenue. Classification of such items on the basis of deposits has been found to be impracticable and uneconomical. Tables 7 and 13 (pp. 317 and 329) show receipts on a collection basis.

DESCRIPTION OF ACCOUNTS THROUGH WHICH TREASURY OPERATIONS ARE EFFECTED

All receipts of the Government are covered into the General Fund of the Treasury from which all expenditures are made. Receipts and expenditures, however, are classified in the Treasury's records according to the class of accounts through which operations are effected. Transactions are segregated in order to exhibit separately those effected through general fund accounts, as contrasted with those effected through special and trust accounts representing restricted or specially allocated receipts and expenditures chargeable thereto. This classification was first shown in published records for 1927 for the warrants and checks-issued bases and on the daily Treasury statements beginning with the July 1, 1930, issue, in order to conform to the practice of the Bureau of the Budget. In some tables in this report, however, transactions in the three types of accounts are combined for purposes of historical comparison. A brief general explanation of the three classes of accounts is presented below.

General fund accounts.—The principal sources of general fund account receipts are income taxes, miscellaneous internal revenue, and customs duties. In addition, a large number of miscellaneous receipts come under this head including such items as proceeds of Government owned securities (except those which are applicable to public debt retirement), sale of surplus and condemned property, Panama Canal tolls, fees (including consular and passport fees), fines, penalties, forfeitures, rentals, royalties, reimbursements, immigration head tax, sale of public land, tax on national bank circulation, interest on public deposits, seigniorage on coinage of subsidiary silver and minor coins, etc. Moneys represented in the general fund accounts may be withdrawn from the Treasury only in pursuance of appropriations made by Congress. There are four classes of appropriations payable through the general fund accounts of the Treasury, namely: (a) Annual, being those made each year in the several departmental supply bills and limited for obligation during the fiscal year for which made; (b) continuing (no year), being available until expended or until the object for which appropriated has been accomplished, such as construction of public works; (c) permanent-specific, being fixed amounts provided for each of a series of years by permanent legislation, without annual action of Congress; and (d) permanent-indefinite, being indefinite amounts (so much as may be necessary) provided by permanent legislation without annual action of Congress, such as the indefinite appropriation to cover interest on the public debt.

A statement of general fund receipts and expenditures is, therefore, in the nature of a general operating statement, and gives a picture of the relationship between the general revenues of the Government and the operating expenditures (including capital outlays and fixed charges) chargeable against them.

Special accounts.—Special account receipts may be generally defined as funds received under special authorizations of law which may be expended only for the particular purposes specified therein. Special account receipts may not be used for the general expenditures of the Government. The most important items of receipts included under this heading, from the standpoint of amounts, are those applicable to the retirement of the public debt. Other important special account receipts are the reclamation fund under the Department of the Interior, funds received for river and harbor improvements, Forest Service cooperative funds, and proceeds from sales of ships, etc., by the United States Shipping Board available for construction loans. There are many other special account receipts of lesser importance.

Trust accounts.—Trust account receipts represent moneys received by the Government for the benefit of individuals or classes of individuals. Moneys held in trust, being payable to or for the use of beneficiaries only, are not available for general expenditures of the Government. There are several classes of trust account receipts, the beneficiaries under which may be either individuals or groups of individuals. The funds may represent (a) moneys received directly from or for account of individuals, as in the case of moneys received from foreign governments or other sources in trust for citizens of the United States or others under the act of February 27, 1896; (b) moneys collected as revenues and held in trust, such as the proceeds of sales of Indian lands which are held as interest-bearing funds for the benefit of Indian tribes; and (c) proceeds of grants from the general fund accounts of the Treasury in pursuance of treaty or other obligations such as the perpetual trust fund created for the Ute Indians under section 5 of the act of June 15, 1880.

NOTE.—Excess credits and adjustments in italics to be deducted.

⁹ Revised to adjust classification.⁷ Emergency expenditures prior to the fiscal year 1934 (except Reconstruction Finance Corporation) are included in general expenditures, the classification of which emergency expenditures is not available for comparison with emergency expenditures for the fiscal year 1934. Therefore, neither the totals of general expenditures nor the totals of emergency expenditures for the fiscal year 1934 are comparable with the totals for prior fiscal years.⁸ Total expenditures and excess of expenditures for the fiscal years 1932 and 1933 include expenditures made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, whereas the expenditure statements for those years did not show Reconstruction Finance Corporation expenditures, except $500,000,000 in payments from the proceeds of sales to the Treasury of the Corporation's capital stock.⁹ The classification of receipts and expenditures in contributed accounts prior to the fiscal year 1934 is not available. Such receipts and expenditures were classified as special funds and are included in the receipts and general expenditures under General and Special funds for the fiscal year 1933 and prior fiscal years.¹⁰ Expenditures for the District of Columbia representing the share of the United States are charged against the amount to be advanced from the General Fund until the authorized amount is expended. After that they are charged against the revenues of the District under trust accounts. For total District of Columbia expenditures the 2 items should be added.¹¹ Since July 1, 1932, deductions from salaries credited to the civil service, foreign service, and Canal Zone retirement funds and the earnings from investments of such funds and of the adjusted service certificate fund have been classified as receipts, whereas prior to that date such items were used to offset expenditures for the respective funds.

² The classification of general expenditures for public building construction and sites, Treasury Department, and for War Department (nonmilitary) prior to the fiscal year 1934 is not available, and such expenditures are therefore included in general expenditures under Treasury Department and National Defense—Army, respectively.

⁷ The figures for May include an adjustment of $44,904,068.68 on account of repayments of crop production loans from July 1, 1933, to Apr. 30, 1934, which previously were credited against expenditures of the "Farm Credit Administration (Reconstruction Finance Corporation)" instead of against "Crop production loans."

⁸ Revised to adjust classification.

¹⁰ The classification of receipts and expenditures on account of contributed accounts prior to the fiscal year 1934 is not available. Such receipts and expenditures were classified as special funds and are included in the receipts and general expenditures under General and Special funds for the fiscal year 1933.

³ Approximately 30 percent of the Fourth 4½'s outstanding on October 12, 1933, were called for redemption on April 15, 1934, on which date interest ceased. On April 13, 1934, about two-sevenths of the then uncalled fourth 4½'s were called for redemption on October 15, 1934. The approximate division between called and uncalled bonds is based on the October 12 division, less subsequent exchanges for Treasury bonds of 1943-45 and redemptions.

⁴ Funds available for the adjusted service certificate fund are invested and reinvested in special short-term securities which are redeemed from time to time to meet current obligations. These transactions will occur until the adjusted service certificates mature about 1945.

Figures for 1853 to 1885, inclusive, are taken from "Statement of receipts and expenditures of the Government from 1855 to 1885 and principal of public debt from 1791 to 1885", compiled from the official records of the Register's office. Later figures are taken from the monthly debt statements and revised figures published in the annual reports of the Secretary of the Treasury.

² Exclusive of the bonds issued to the Pacific railways (provision having been made by law to secure the Treasury against both principal and interest) and the Navy pension fund (which was in no sense a debt, the principal being the property of the United States).

⁵ Division of German bonds between private awards and Government awards is an estimate based upon best information available at this time. When Mixed Claims Commission has completed its duties, a more accurate division may be made. Awards generally bear interest at 5 percent per annum. Bonds do not bear interest, but the aggregate face amount thereof will be sufficient to cover payment of the principal and interest due on the total awards finally entered by the Mixed Claims Commission. Bonds for private awards are held in trust, the proceeds thereof when received at maturity to be distributed by the Treasury to the claimants. Bonds mature on Mar. 31 and Sept. 30 of each year in the principal amount of RM. 20,400,000 each. No payments are to be made on Government awards until all private awards are paid in full.

⁴ See footnote 3, p. 389.

NOTE.—For description of security held for redemption, see note 3, p. 388.

² Difference between principal of funded debts and amounts here stated represents deferred payments provided for in the funding agreements, for which gold bonds of the respective debtor governments have been or will be delivered to the Treasury.

² Figures for 1912, 1922, and 1931, from the United States Bureau of the Census (funded debt and special assessment debt, the latter including an indeterminate amount of short-term debt). Estimates for intervening and succeeding years based on changes from year to year, as indicated in the long-term issue and maturity statistics published in the State and Municipal Compendium of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, and adjusted to produce a continuous series with census figures for 1912, 1922, and 1931.

[The records of the Treasury Department, except in the cases mentioned in notes at end of this statement, do not show the amounts disbursed or allotted to the several States and Territories under the respective appropriations shown in this statement, such matters being under the control of the Department or establishment of the Government that administers the activities covered by the appropriations. The Department, however, for general information has compiled from its records so far as available, and in the other cases from figures furnished by the departments and establishments concerned, the following statement, exhibiting by States and Territories the amounts paid to each under the appropriations for Federal aid to States shown under class I in the preceding statement (table 46). Any discrepancies between this and the preceding table are due to unavoidable differences in the bases upon which these figures have been compiled. The amounts in this table, derived from the accounts of various departments and establishments, are not on the same accounting bases, and are consequently not strictly comparable. This table includes only direct payments to States and does not include amounts expended in cooperation with States, appropriations for certain of which are included under class II, table 46]
