REPORT
OF THE
COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY,
Washington, D. C., January 3, 1935.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report, in accordance with the provisions of section 333 of the United States Revised Statutes, covering the activities of the Bureau of the Comptroller of the Currency during the year ended October 31, 1934. This Bureau was organized under an Act of Congress passed February 25, 1863. This is the seventy-second report made to Congress since the organization of the Bureau.

The Bureau of the Comptroller of the Currency has operated at a profit. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934, national banks paid a tax on circulation amounting to $4,518,904. The amount paid out from Congressional appropriations amounted to $642,333, leaving a profit to the Government of $3,876,571.

There is little evidence remaining of the collapse in March 1933 of the banking structure of the Nation. The entire system has been rebuilt. The seriousness of the situation was apparent to the President and to Congress. The never-to-be-forgotten proclamation of the President declaring a banking holiday, his request to Congress for remedial legislation, and the immediate and patriotic response of Congress, are familiar to all. The credit for the remarkable restoration of the banking structure of the Nation as shown in this report must go to the President, who devised the plan for rehabilitation, and to Congress which immediately adopted it and provided sufficient appropriations to carry it to a successful conclusion.

The execution of the Emergency Banking Act was entrusted to the Treasury Department, and particularly to the Bureau of the Comptroller of the Currency. The various steps taken to put into effect the provisions of the act are set forth in detail in the report of the Comptroller of the Currency for 1933.

Since the banking holiday, three main problems have confronted this Bureau: First, the task of reopening 1,417 banks under the jurisdiction of the Bureau which were not licensed at the conclusion of the banking holiday (this Bureau has jurisdiction over all national banks and all banks, State or National, located in the District of Columbia); secondly, the distribution of dividends to depositors in receivership banks; and, thirdly, the approval of the sale of preferred stock by national banks. The first and third of these problems were entirely new to the Comptroller's Office.

These 1,417 unlicensed banks under the jurisdiction of the Comptroller of the Currency had a deposit liability of $1,971,960,000.

All except five of these have been either reopened, voluntarily liquidated, or placed in receivership.¹ These 5 banks have $6,438,000 in deposits, or three-tenths of 1 percent of the total deposits in the 1,417 banks and all 5 of them have plans approved for reorganization. A brief summary of the disposition of these 1,417 banks may prove interesting: 1,088 banks, with deposits of $1,802,086,000, were reorganized under old or new charters, or absorbed by other national banks; 30 banks went into voluntary liquidation, paying in full $11,204,000 to their depositors; 294 banks, representing $152,048,000 in deposits, were placed in receivership. Seven of these 294 receivership banks, with deposits of $3,537,000, have plans approved for reopening. The deposit liability in these receivership banks has been reduced by the payment to the depositors of $49,029,304, leaving a balance of deposit liability in these banks of $103,018,696 after deducting the amount in the banks approved for reopening and dividends paid. This remaining balance due to depositors represents 5.2 percent of the amount frozen in the 1,417 banks unlicensed at the conclusion of the banking holiday.

Since the banking holiday there has been distributed to depositors in all closed banks under the jurisdiction of this Bureau, including those for which receivers were appointed prior to the banking holiday, the sum of $612,854,783. Of this amount $596,289,062, or 55.1 percent of the amount due, was paid to depositors in banks for which receivers were appointed following the banking holiday.

As of March 4, 1933, there were 1,067 national banks, including the District of Columbia State banks, in receivership and in process of liquidation. During the period of the banking holiday, receivers were appointed for 4 additional banks with deposits of $2,826,741, and one receivership with deposits of $493,803 was finally liquidated and closed, leaving 1,070 national and District of Columbia State banks in receivership as of March 16, 1933, with deposits at date of suspension amounting to $889,800,000. Of these total deposits, $461,500,000 had been paid to depositors up to December 31, 1934, or 51.8 percent of the total amount due the depositors of such banks. Of the 1,070 banks in receivership as of March 16, 1933, 946 still in process of liquidation as of December 31, 1934, with deposits at suspension of $816,000,000, had paid to depositors a total of $414,000,000, or 50.7 percent, of the amount due them.

A plan has been worked out between Hon. Jesse H. Jones, Chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and this Bureau for completing the liquidation of receivership banks which have assets valued at $30,000 or less. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation will loan to the receiver the full amount of the appraised value of the assets less estimated interest and collection charges, take the receiver's note, and hold the assets as collateral. The receiver is then authorized to sell the assets of his trust, subject to the loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to a depositors' committee for a nominal consideration, whereupon the receiver is instructed to terminate his trust immediately. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation will liquidate the assets until the loan has been fully repaid, and any remaining assets will be returned to the depositors' committee, which will complete liquidation in the interest of the depositors. The first trust to be handled in this manner was at Milton, N. Dak.

The plan has met with hearty approval in all parts of the country. There are approximately 400 trusts which it is hoped can be disposed of in this manner, and then the plan may be extended to other trusts.

National-bank receiverships are conducted with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of expense. From the date of the first failure of a national bank in 1865 to October 31, 1934, national banks placed in receivership numbered 2,908. Of these, 1,219 had been completely liquidated and their affairs closed. Expenses incident to the administration of these 1,219 closed trusts, such as receiver's salaries, legal and other expenses, amounted to 3.86 percent of the book value of the assets and stock assessments administered or 7.39 percent of collections from assets and stock assessments. In other words, about 93 cents out of every dollar collected by receivers went to creditors.

The importance of strengthening the capital structure of banks, as well as of making funds available for credit purposes, was quickly recognized and the work done along these lines represents one of the striking contributions made by the Administration to banking recovery. Preferred stock in the amount of $491,215,050 has been sold by 1,975 national banks, $419,313,925 of which was purchased by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and $71,901,125 in the various communities where the banks were located. In addition, the capital stock of 128 national banks has been further strengthened by the sale of $16,895,276 in new common stock, and approximately 300 national banks have plans of recapitalization formally approved by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency not yet consummated. When the provisions of these plans have been complied with, it will involve the approximate sum of $56,000,000 for additional capital strengthening.

At the close of the banking holiday there were 4,522 active national banks with deposits of $16,315,586,000 under the jurisdiction of the Comptroller's Office. There are now 5,490 licensed banks with deposits of $20,906,176,000. This represents a gain of 968 banks and $4,590,590,000 in deposits.

One of the important and serious questions before the Comptroller was the proper appraisal of assets in going banks. Manifestly, it was unfair to appraise assets on a present cash market basis, and even where there were established market quotations, they could easily have been broken by forced liquidation. Appreciating this fact, the Comptroller sent the following instructions to all chief national-bank examiners on October 26, 1933:

After the bank holiday, national-bank examiners were largely engaged in the examination of banks which did not receive a license for the purpose of reorganization. It appears that some examiners in making examinations of licensed national banks have become what might be termed "reorganization minded" and have lost sight of the President's recovery program and its relation to licensed banks. It is the administration's desire that credit channels be opened through licensed banks and this policy cannot be accomplished if examiners follow a deflation policy in examinations. We are all concerned in having solvent banks, but there is a wide distinction between the potential and intrinsic value of assets of a going institution, and liquidating values. Examiners in appraising and classifying assets of licensed banks will not apply liquidating values, but will appraise on the basis of fair values on a recovery basis. As an example, in dealing with bank buildings, the examiner must realize that a bank building of a going bank has an intrinsic value, as distinguished from present depressed values, which, combined with the element of recovery, may fully substantiate the carrying value given to it by the bank. The same is true of mortgages, and in this connection the examiners should familiarize themselves with the instructions given with respect to real-estate mortgages by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation to its examiners.

You will advise examiners who are examining licensed banks of this policy and see that it is carried out. Any examination now in process, or any future examination, will be governed by these instructions and where an examination has been completed, the examiner making the report will review the report on the above basis and rewrite such report if found necessary. If the examiner is not now available, it may be necessary to make a new examination on the proper basis.

It was found that in some few instances bank examiners had not fully comprehended these instructions, and supplemental instructions were sent to all chief national-bank examiners on March 13, 1934, as follows:

Reports of examinations received by this office recently, clearly indicate that some few of the examiners throughout the country have not fully grasped the meaning of instructions communicated to the chief examiners under date of October 26, 1933, and are making more drastic classifications of assets of the banks examined by them than is necessary under the circumstances, and more severe than is contemplated by the instructions contained in office letter referred to above.

If there are in your Federal Reserve district any examiners who, in your opinion, are making unnecessarily drastic classifications of assets, please confer with them promptly, looking toward having their classifications as lenient as circumstances in each case will permit and in order that they will be in accord with the policies of this office.

While you are familiar with the character of examinations made by your examiners, it is suggested that in determining whether or not any of them are too severe in their classifications, you give particular attention to their appraisals of banking houses, furniture and fixtures, and loans secured by real estate.

For the first time in the history of the Bureau a survey was made from the 1934 reports of the national bank examiners. As is well known to bankers, examiners classify loans under three headings—slow, doubtful, and loss. There is little room for argument when assets are placed in the loss column, and very little question arises regarding the items in the doubtful column. The slow column attracts the most attention and controversy. An examination of the reports on 5,275 banks filed in the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency reveals the following interesting figures: The total amount of loans was $7,740,596,000. The examiners placed 2.88 percent of these loans in the loss column, 4.19 percent in the doubtful column, and 27.05 percent in the slow column. It is indeed remarkable that within so short a time after the greatest banking catastrophe in the history of this Nation, less than 3 percent of the loans in national banks should be placed in the loss column and only 4.19 percent in the doubtful column. These figures speak with greater emphasis than any words. Before the State convention of bankers at Louisville, Ky., on September 12, 1934, the following definition of slow paper was given: "The items placed in the slow column are merely 'flagged.' In other words, the attention of the bank officials is called to these items with the suggestion that they be watched. No suggestion is conveyed or implied that the borrower should be requested to pay the same. They are therefore considered slow loans. This is our interpretation unless the examiner in his report makes specific criticisms of particular items in the slow column."

There has been considerable controversy and some misunderstanding with reference to the examination of banks and many people are under the impression that there is a duplication of examinations. Only two organizations in Washington examine banks at the present time. The Bureau of the Comptroller of the Currency examines all national banks, and no other examiner makes an examination of a national bank except upon a written agreement between the national bank and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. No one will deny the right of a bank to permit an examination by another agency of the Government. A national bank is examined twice a year.

With reference to the examination of State banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System, there are the following statutory provisions:

Section 5240 of the National Bank Act, as amended: The Comptroller of the Currency, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall appoint examiners, who shall examine every member bank at least twice in each calendar year and oftener if considered necessary: Provided, however, That the Federal Reserve Board may authorize examination by the State authorities to be accepted in the case of State banks and trust companies and may at any time direct the holding of a special examination of State banks or trust companies that are stockholders in any Federal Reserve bank. * * *

In addition to the examinations made and conducted by the Comptroller of the Currency, every Federal reserve bank may, with the approval of the Federal reserve agent or the Federal Reserve Board, provide for special examination of member banks within its district. * * *

Section 11 of the Federal Reserve Act: The Federal Reserve Board shall be authorized and empowered to examine at its discretion the accounts, books, and affairs of each Federal reserve bank and of each member bank and to require such statements and reports as it may deem necessary.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation does not examine banks in the sense that the Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Reserve Board examine them, since the Corporation has no supervisory functions.

The law provides that all State banks which make application for insurance shall be solvent. Therefore, the only question to be determined by a Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation representative is whether the assets are sufficient to pay the bank's liabilities. To be eligible for insurance, the bank need have no capital structure under the existing law, and the Corporation has no visitatorial powers.

It is clear, therefore, that the representatives of both the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation are not examiners in the true sense of the word. An examination of a bank implies criticism and suggestions as to its loans, an examination of all of its books and records, including the minutes of the corporation, to determine if all of the provisions of the National Banking Act have been complied with, as well as a determination of the question of solvency. None of these questions is within the jurisdiction of the representatives of either the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. In fact, Congress has been careful to exclude examination of national banks except as provided by statute, section 5241, which reads as follows:

No association shall be subject to any visitatorial powers other than such as are authorized by this title, or are vested in the courts of justice.

This is the proper place to say a word about the national bank examiners and their assistants. Political considerations do not enter into the appointment of a national bank examiner. No national bank examiner has been appointed during my term of office except from the ranks of assistant examiners, and then only after a careful review of his record as an assistant examiner and upon the successful passing of a written and oral examination. I do not know and have not inquired into the politics of any examiner appointed during my incumbency. Examiners are appointed by the Comptroller of the Currency and approved by the Secretary of the Treasury after a careful and thorough investigation of their record by both of these officials. Not an examiner has been removed for cause during my term, and only one vacancy has occurred among the 12 chief national bank examiners, and that by voluntary resignation to accept a more lucrative position. The chief examiners and the examiners have maintained the highest traditions of their profession and have reflected credit upon this Bureau and the Treasury. They have neither feared criticism nor yielded to temptation. They realize their duty and responsibility to the depositors. I have had under consideration for some time a partially perfected plan providing for a pension for examiners. This plan has not yet been developed sufficiently to be presented for consideration, but my conviction is that these men should not only feel secure in their positions but should be protected in their declining years.

The Banking Act of 1933 designated the Comptroller of the Currency as a member of the Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The organization of this corporation was covered rather fully in the Comptroller's annual report for 1933. Hon. Walter J. Cummings of Illinois, the first chairman of the Board, presented his resignation to the President on January 10, 1934, to be effective on the date of appointment of his successor. Hon. Leo T. Crowley of Wisconsin was appointed to fill the vacancy and took his oath of office on February 21, 1934. The present members of the Board are Hon. Leo T. Crowley, chairman, Hon. E. G. Bennett of Utah, and the Comptroller of the Currency. When the Comptroller's report for 1933 was written, high hopes were expressed for the success of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and they have been more than justified. On January 1, 1935, there were 14,248 banks, with insured deposits well in excess of 16 billion dollars, which had completed all membership requirements, and 9 which were approved for membership subject to completion of such requirements. The insurance of bank deposits went into effect on January 1, 1934, and from that date up to and including January 1, 1935, only one licensed national bank, the First National Bank of Lima, Mont., has been placed in receivership. Its deposits of approximately $40,000 were completely covered by insurance. Up to January 1, 1935, eight insured nonmember State banks were placed in receivership with total deposit liabilities of approximately $1,850,000. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation promptly met its responsibility in these instances as soon as the institutions were surrendered by the State authorities. There were 49 State banks which were not members of the Corporation which have failed from January 1, 1934, to January 1, 1935.

It is interesting to compare the record for 1934 with that of the 12 years from 1921 through 1932 when 10,816 banks, with aggregate deposits of $4,885,126,000, failed in the United States. In other words, the average number of failures per year during the 12 years was 901, with average deposits of $407,093,833, as contrasted with 58 bank failures during 1934, 9 of which banks were members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

It is difficult to estimate what this Corporation has contributed to the recovery program of the Administration. It has inspired confidence in banks and has eliminated fear in the depositor's mind. The Government of the United States has made a liberal contribution to the capital structure of this Corporation, which makes it virtually a special partner with the banks in protecting the depositors. Numerous changes will doubtless be made in the law to strengthen and to complete the plan approved by the Congress of the United States. While one-half of 1 percent has been levied upon the insurable deposit risk, only one-fourth of 1 percent has been collected, and this amount would seem sufficient for some time to come.

SUGGESTIONS FOR LEGISLATION

Under the provisions of Revised Statutes 333 as amended, United States Code, title 12, section 14, the Comptroller is required to include in his annual report to Congress "Any amendment to the laws relative to banking by which the system may be improved, and the security of the holders of its notes and other creditors may be increased." On pages 8 to 16, inclusive, of the Comptroller's annual report for the year ending October 31, 1933, issued January 3, 1934, certain detailed recommendations were made as to corrective and clarifying legislation, not only as to the national banking laws in general but as to the Banking Act of 1933 in particular, and bills embodying such recommendations in great part were approved by the Senate and House Banking and Currency Committees, but Congress adjourned before action could be obtained thereon by way of adoption or rejection. Without repeating the recommendations of the previous report, attention is again called to them, and the recommendation is made that the action initiated in the last session of Congress with respect to putting them into effect be completed as soon as may be possible.

Additional recommendations arising out of experience in administering the Banking Act of 1933 during the past year, as well as recommendations as to other provisions of law affecting national banks, are as follows:

1. Section 23 of the Revenue Act of 1934, paragraph (b), provides for certain deductions from gross income. It is understood that State banks which have sold capital notes or debentures to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation may under this paragraph deduct interest paid thereon in computing their net income for taxable purposes.

National banks in strengthening their capital structure have issued preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, paying dividends thereon, which payment of dividends is substantially equivalent to the payment of interest made by State banks on capital notes sold by them to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. In both cases a common object was in view, namely, strengthening capital structure, but the two methods of so doing were necessary because in many cases State banks could not issue preferred stock or stock without assessment liability. Since national banks cannot deduct the dividends paid on preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from their gross income for tax purposes, it is manifest that they are placed at a disadvantage as compared with the State banks. It is accordingly suggested that paragraph (p) of section 23 of the Revenue Act of 1934 be amended by making an additional exception in the case of banks to the extent that they have paid dividends on preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

2. Section 11 (b) of the Banking Act of 1933 prohibiting payment of interest on demand deposits, with certain exceptions, should include the added exception of demand deposits of trust funds upon which interest is required to be paid by fiduciaries under State law. This is necessary to enable national banks to comply with State law and to put national banks on a parity with State banks in competing for fiduciary appointments.

3. Section 12, amending section 22 of the Federal Reserve Act by adding section (g) thereto, prohibits loans to executive officers of member banks but provides that "loans heretofore made to any such officer may be renewed or extended not more than two years from the date this paragraph takes effect, if in accord with sound banking practice." A great many inquiries have been received as to the effect of this legislation in the event the executive officer in question is unable to pay his indebtedness at the expiration of the two-year period; that is, by June 16, 1935. It is not clear from the section as worded whether the bank or the executive officer will be considered as having violated the act and will become subject to the penal provisions thereof in the event such loan is not paid at that time. It furthermore is not stated whether or not the executive officer in question must resign his executive position if the loan is unpaid and is not extended or renewed. There is some doubt as to whether or not the bank should take the position that such loans must be carried as past-due paper and charged off as bad debts within the provisions of R. S. 5204 that "All debts due to any association, on which interest is past due and unpaid for a period of six months, unless same are well secured, and in process of collection, shall be considered bad debts." There are other cases where a bank holds the mortgage indebtedness of an executive officer incurred prior to June 16, 1933, with a maturity expiring after June 16, 1935, as would be the case of a three- or five-year mortgage. Since this obligation is not due and payable by June 16, 1935, is either the bank or the executive officer, under the provisions of this section of the law, required to take any action on June 16, 1935, relative to the disposition or payment of this indebtedness in order to avoid violating the criminal provision of this section? The two-year period for elimination of executive officer loans was placed in the act with the apparent belief that general conditions would permit such elimination in that time. Conditions have not, however, made it possible for such loans to be eliminated, creating a situation whereby the act should be amended to extend the time three more years, with the proviso that in each case where an extension or renewal is made the board of directors shall satisfy themselves that such extension or renewal is in the best interest of the bank, and that the officer concerned has made reasonable effort to reduce his obligation, such finding to be evidenced by a resolution of the board of directors spread upon the minute books of the bank.

4. Section 13 of the Banking Act of 1933, being section 23 (a) of the Federal Reserve Act, provides certain restrictions and conditions under which member banks may have dealings with their affiliates. In connection with the restriction on amount of loans to affiliates under this section, numerous cases have arisen of loans to affiliates made prior to the enactment of this law, which loans were in excess of the restrictions of this statute. Frequently the amount of these loans and the circumstances of their creation are such that, though the loans are reduced at their maturity, it is necessary as a practical matter to extend or renew. While the section does not specifically provide that upon extension or renewal such loans must be reduced in conformity with the limitations in amount provided by the section, this office has placed such construction upon the section due to the fact that no express provision is made for extensions or renewals of existing obligations of affiliates such as is specifically provided under section 12 of the Banking Act of 1933 which permits extensions and renewals without requiring reduction of loans made to executive officers of member banks.

In view of the prohibition of the section against "extension of credit to" affiliates except within certain limitations and subject to the obtaining of a prescribed type of collateral security, banks have been prevented from obtaining the benefit to be derived through an affiliate relieving the bank of objectionable paper, real estate, or other assets by purchase thereof, in cases where the affiliate is unable to make immediate payment in full in cash but is willing to give its obligation for the purchase price, which obligation, due to the size of the transaction, would exceed in amount the 10-percent limitation provided by the section.

This section states that its provisions shall not apply to any affiliate "engaged solely in holding the bank premises of the member bank with which it is affiliated." It has long been the custom recognized as permissible by the courts for banks to construct and use buildings to be occupied by the bank in its business, but these buildings also contain a great amount of office space to be leased out to others to provide an income to the bank. In those cases where an affiliate corporation owns the building occupied by the bank, a similar condition exists with respect to same being occupied by other tenants with resulting activities of the affiliate corporation involved. The affiliate corporation may invest the income received from the building in securities of various types. It is difficult to determine whether or not by the use of the words, "engaged solely in holding the bank premises", such affiliate corporation can properly claim the exemptions provided thereunder. It is not believed that Congress had in contemplation a strict construction which would limit the exemption to an affiliate corporation owning and operating premises exclusively occupied by the bank or engaged in investing and reinvesting in securities the assets of the corporation or income derived from the bank building.

It is believed that the limitation on loans to affiliates, and the provision that they must be secured in any event by a certain type of collateral should not apply in case of loans to an affiliate where the affiliate relationship has arisen out of a bona-fide debt contracted prior to the date of the creation of the affiliate relationship. Banks frequently obtain stock control of corporations through foreclosure of stock collateral. The recovery to be made by the bank often depends upon the continued operation of the corporation, with a consequent advance of funds thereto by the bank, for which advance the corporation, due to its financial condition, is unable to provide the prescribed type of collateral, and which corporation under the circumstances is unable to obtain loans from other banks. It becomes a salvage operation for the bank holding the stock control, and removal of the limitations of the section is advisable under such circumstances.

5. Section 18 of the Banking Act of 1933 amends Revised Statutes 5139 by providing that no certificate representing stock of the bank shall represent the stock of any other corporation except a member bank or one engaged solely in holding the bank premises, nor shall the ownership, sale, or transfer of such certificate be conditioned in any manner upon the ownership, sale or transfer of stock of any other corporation except a member bank.

Our comments under section 4 above relative to the intent of Congress as to when a corporation is to be considered as "engaged solely in holding the bank premises" are similarly applicable here.

Considerable difficulty has been encountered in determining what steps must be taken to comply fully with the provisions of this section, particularly that part thereof which provides that the ownership, sale, or transfer of bank stock shall not in any manner be conditioned upon ownership, sale, or transfer of a certificate representing the stock of another corporation. Difficulty arises ordinarily in cases where a corporation has been organized to relieve the bank of non-conforming assets or large amounts of real estate taken for debts previously contracted, and the stock of this corporation is trustee for the benefit of the bank's shareholders. There are many other situations where such condition arises, and from a practical standpoint there seems to be no need for a complete divorcement of this corporation from the bank, particularly if the corporation is not engaged in the type of activities described in section 20 of the Banking Act of 1933, which section defines which affiliates of member banks must be divorced by June 16, 1934. This office has construed section 20 as defining for the purposes of the Banking Act of 1933 the type of corporations which must be divorced from the bank, and has been of the opinion that section 18 here under discussion should not by implication, and does not by its express language, require divorcing of any affiliate not falling within the type defined in section 20. We have expressed our opinion that section 18 requires only that the bank eliminate from its stock certificates any provision that may appear thereon to the effect that the certificate represents stock of the other corporation or any provision that the ownership, sale, or transfer of the bank's stock is conditioned upon the ownership, sale, or transfer of the stock of the other corporation. In cases of an affiliate relationship, as above referred to, whereby trustees are holding stock of the other corporation in trust for the shareholders of the bank under a trust agreement which makes the stock of the other corporation transferable only, as and when, the bank stock is transferable, it has been our opinion that compliance with this section does not require a dissolution of such trustee arrangement or its modification so as to permit the stock of the other corporation to be transferred independently of the stock of the bank. This position has been taken for two reasons. The trust agreement in question frequently is of such type that it is not revocable or subject to amendment, at least at the instance of the bank. Consequently, the bank has no control over the situation. Secondly, it is frequently desirable that the affiliate relationship be permitted to continue under the circumstances of a particular case, whereas dissolution of the trust instrument or amendment thereof would make possible the destruction of the affiliate relationship through separation of the stockholding interests. The Banking Act of 1933 through its provisions recognizes repeatedly that there is no objection to banks having certain types of affiliates. The objectionable types are specified in section 20, being those engaged primarily in security dealings.

This section should accordingly be amended in such a way as to state clearly that it does not operate to prevent the ownership, sale, or transfer of stock of any other corporation being conditioned upon the ownership, sale, or transfer of a certificate representing stock of a national banking association.

6. Section 19 of the Banking Act of 1933, amending Revised Statutes 5144, prohibits a holding company from voting on any question submitted at meetings of shareholders, unless it shall have obtained a voting permit from the Federal Reserve Board. In order to obtain such permit, extensive data must be furnished, sometimes involving great expense on the holding company, and certain obligations must be undertaken by it, all of which matters are of no practical materiality where the bank is going into voluntary liquidation. Revised Statutes 5220 requires a vote of two-thirds of the bank's shareholders in order for the bank to go into liquidation. If a holding company is unable or unwilling to comply with the requirements as now laid down for the obtaining of a voting permit, or even though willing is unable to obtain such permit, the resulting inability of the holding company to vote its shares prevents the obtaining of a two-thirds vote and prevents the bank from going into voluntary liquidation where there is desire or necessity therefor. It is accordingly recommended that a holding company affiliate be exempted from the requirement of obtaining a voting permit to vote upon the question of placing the association into voluntary liquidation.

7. Under section 16 of the Banking Act of 1933 there is a provision that the limitations and restrictions contained in that section as to dealing in, underwriting, and purchasing for its own account investment securities, shall not apply to obligations of the United States and various other types of securities therein described. This provision has been construed as an authorization to national banks to deal in, underwrite, and purchase for their own accounts, such types of securities particularly specified in the section.

However, section 21 (a) (1), which is not framed as an amendment to the National Bank Act or as an amendment to the Federal Reserve Act in so many words, nevertheless prohibits any firm, corporation, association, business trust, or similar organization, engaged in the business of issuing, underwriting, selling, or distributing securities, from receiving deposits subject to check or payment upon the request of the depositor. Literal application of the language of this section taken by itself has given the impression to some that it operates to prohibit national banks from engaging in the very activities permitted to them under section 16 of the Banking Act of 1933 as above pointed out. This office has construed section 16 as governing in this situation, insofar as national banks are concerned, but the apparent conflict between the two sections should be eliminated.

8. Section 21 (a) (2) of the Banking Act of 1933 prohibits any firm, corporation, association, business trust, or similar organization other than a financial institution or private banker, subject to examination and regulation under State or Federal law, from engaging in the business of receiving deposits unless it shall submit to periodic examination by the Comptroller of the Currency or by the Federal Reserve Bank of the district, and shall make and publish periodic reports of its condition.

This section in its present form is apparently incomplete in vital respects and presents many administrative difficulties in addition to those referred to in the Comptroller's report for 1933.

No specific provision is made for payment of the cost of the examination referred to. It has been the position of this office that it cannot use funds collected from assessments on national banks for their examination, to pay the expense of examination of institutions under this section, and that by implication Congress intended that the institution submitting to examination thereunder should bear the cost thereof. Our position has been controverted by some of these institutions and any doubt on the question should be eliminated through amendment of the section. The section makes no provision or gives no direction as to what is to be done by this office beyond making examination and calling for reports. If it was intended that such examination and reports should be used as a basis for supervisory regulation, similar to that exercised by this office over national banks and by State banking authorities over State banks, the act fails so to state. If it is not intended that this office shall have power to require correction of situations dangerous to depositors of such institutions or of forcing them into liquidation where they appear to be hopelessly insolvent, then it is not apparent what purpose is attained by making examination and requiring reports of their condition.

Any contemplated amendment of this section giving part or all of the foregoing supervisory powers should be made with a view to the fact that with very few exceptions, banking institutions which come under this section are operated by individuals or by partnerships with the result that examination as to the condition of the institution involves taking into consideration not only the specific assets and liabilities of the business entity but also all other assets of the individuals conducting the business as individuals or as partners, and all of the liabilities thereof.

This is necessary because of the general rule of individual liability of partners for all partnership obligations and because the depositors of the banking institution would also have to share with all other creditors of the partners in the available assets of those conducting the business. Any proposed scheme of forced liquidation where it appears that continuance of the business is dangerous to depositors would in consequence necessarily involve not only liquidation of the banking business in which the partners are concerned but would appear to involve a typical bankruptcy proceedings embracing an adjusting of the rights and interests of all creditors of the partners or of the individuals involved, regardless of whether or not they dealt with the private banking institution. This would involve conflicts with existing bankruptcy laws and apparently would have effects far beyond those incidental to the liquidation of a bank operating in corporate form.

9. Section 22 of the Banking Act of 1933 relieves shareholders of national banks from the additional liability imposed by Revised Statutes 5151, as amended, and section 23 of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, with respect to shares issued after the date of the enactment of the Act. Bills were presented in the last session of Congress to extend this relief to all outstanding shares of stock of national banking associations, regardless of date of issue.

In the event it is determined to completely eliminate this assessment liability of shareholders, it is suggested that serious consideration be given to providing for increasing the surplus of national banking associations until same equals the amount of its common capital stock, thereby restoring to the bank's creditors the protection now given by the potential assessment liability of the shareholders and maintaining a sound banking structure.

10. Revised Statutes 5243 prohibits persons or corporations doing the business of bankers, brokers, or savings institutions except where authorized by Congress so to do, to use the word "national" as part of the name or title of such institution. The Attorney General of the United States in 22 Opinions Attorney General 475 ruled that the use by State banks of the word "international" as a portion of their name or title is not in violation of this section. It is believed that the use of the word "international" as well as other combinations of the word "national" may frequently be as misleading as the use of the word "national" and that the section in question should be amended to prohibit also the use of the word "international" or any combination of the word "national" by institutions doing a banking business except as to such as may be organized under authority of the Federal Government.

Miscellaneous incidental matters affecting the Federal Reserve System which should be provided for are as follows:

Give the Board discretion to relieve holding companies from necessity of obtaining voting permits where not engaged as a business in holding bank stocks; give the Board power to control matter of officers, directors, and employees of banks being connected with securities companies by regulation rather than by issuing of permits in individual cases; eliminate any doubt that a holding company with a permit to vote its shares may cumulate same as may any other shareholder; correct oversight in existing law so as to require member banks to reduce their stockholdings in the Federal Reserve bank upon a reduction of surplus; place State member banks on a parity with national banks as regards limitation on loans secured by Government obligations; in making loans to private concerns by Federal Reserve banks to permit same to be made on adequate endorsement or adequate security instead of requiring both as at present; authorize the Board to define the word "deposit" and related terms for the purpose of reserve requirements and permit amounts due from other banks to be deducted from gross deposits in determination of reserve balance requirements; extend present power of Board to regulate payment of interest by member banks to include all insured banks and require member banks to maintain same reserves against Government deposits as required against other deposits; amend Clayton Act to permit Board to supervise matter of interlocking directorates by regulation instead of by permit; and amend section 24 of the Federal Reserve Act to exempt real-estate loans made for industrial purposes in cooperation with Federal Reserve banks or the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from the restrictions of that section.

11. Consideration should be given to strengthening the provisions of the law governing the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. In view of the protection afforded depositors, no doubt many of the States will follow the precedent established by Congress in eliminating the double liability on shares of stock. Relieving shares of stock from the double liability, and the insurance of bank deposits offer added encouragement to the establishment of new banks. Great caution should be exercised in the future in the establishment of either State or national banks, or branches of either, in order to prevent a repetition of the failures of a few years ago. Under the present law, if a bank's assets are sufficient to pay its liabilities, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation must accept it as a member, although it may have no capital structure.

The Comptroller's Office, under existing law, is in a position to require national banks to maintain adequate, sound capital, and also to prevent the organization of a new national bank unless it has adequate, sound capital, and unless there is need for additional banking facilities in the location chosen, and a reasonable prospect that the bank will operate successfully. The Comptroller's Office is thus able to protect the interests of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in those respects with reference to national banks, particularly since the Comptroller is a member of the Board of the Corporation. There is, however, no such safeguard as to State banks, and it is believed that the law governing the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation should be amended to make a State bank's admission to the fund conditional upon the approval of its capital structure by the Corporation; and in the case of a new State bank, the Board should be required to pass upon the need for additional banking facilities in the place selected and upon the reasonable prospect of the bank's successful operation.

It would be well to consider whether the law should not be further amended to permit the Corporation, under proper limitations, to purchase assets of an insured bank for the purpose of assisting in merging such a bank with another, or of reorganizing when it becomes apparent that a loss to the Corporation is impending. In this manner, losses may be limited or minimized. Under the present law, the Corporation may do nothing until a bank is closed and after that its recovery is dependent upon liquidation. Recoveries through liquidation are certain to be less than the values which may be placed upon the same assets by a going institution.

The law should be amended to provide for examination by the Corporation of State nonmember banks which become members of the fund. An express provision should be made for reports of condition by all insured banks not now reporting to a Federal agency at intervals of not oftener than twice a year, such report to be as of the same date as a call report made by national banks to the Comptroller of the Currency.

The Banking Act of 1933 in section 11, subsection (d), makes specific provision that security for deposits of postal savings funds in banks shall not be required to the extent that such deposits are insured. A general statutory provision should be enacted so that no security shall be required under Federal statutes for any deposits in banks to the extent that deposits referred to in such statutes are insured under section 12 (b) of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended.

It is believed that Congress might well consider the advisability of levying an annual assessment under the permanent plan in lieu of an assessment merely to repair insurance losses, and that it might make provision for carrying a portion of the assessment in a reserve which could ultimately operate to decrease such annual assessment. In banking, as in other businesses, it is desirable when practicable to anticipate the fixed charges, and, so far as possible, the cost of insurance should be made a fixed charge subject to reduction through economical and efficient operation.

Miscellaneous incidental matters affecting the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation should be provided for as follows:

Extend criminal provisions applicable to officers of member banks to officers of all insured banks. Eliminate reference to par value of Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation stock in subsection E of section 13 (b) of the Federal Reserve Act by substituting therefor the amount paid for said stock; extend the prohibition in the present law against gratuities to Federal examiners to examiners of all insured banks and their officers and likewise extend to same the prohibition against disclosure of confidential information; give the Federal courts jurisdiction of actions against the Corporation; extend to the Corporation the protection now given to other Federal institutions against misleading use of their names; and extend to all insured banks the present law making robbery of member banks a Federal offense.

It would not be fitting to close this report without a word of appreciation to the hundreds of employees in the city of Washington, throughout the United States, and, in fact, in many parts of the world where our examiners are called to perform their duties. Of those who have so faithfully served with me in Washington, I desire to make special mention of F. G. Awalt, First Deputy Comptroller; E. H. Gough, Second Deputy Comptroller; Gibbs Lyons, Third Deputy Comptroller; J. E. Fouts, Supervising Receiver; W. P. Folger, Chief National Bank Examiner; George P. Barse, General Counsel; George R. Marble, Chief Clerk; E. F. Quinn, Chief of Organization Division; Adele M. Stewart, Chief of Examining Division; W. A. Kane, Chief of Statistical Division; C. E. Gross, Chief of Issue Division; W. F. Offutt, Chief of Redemption Division; L. G. Copeland, Chief of Federal Reserve Issue and Redemption Division; Margaret T. Hanlon, Acting Chief of Bookkeeping Division; J. H. Finnegan, Auditor; J. M. Kane, Administrative Assistant Conservator; John Young, Administrative Assistant Conservator; F. B. Davis, Chief Clerk of Insolvent Division, and L. H. Sedlacek and F. W. Krippel, who served successively as Chief of Reorganization Division.

It is with great regret that I chronicle the passing of Mr. E. F. Quinn, who for 21 years was Chief of the Organization Division. He did much during his years of service in this capacity to aid in shaping the policies of the Comptroller's Office upon questions concerning the organization of new banks and the consolidation of banks. He was recognized as an authority upon the subjects within the province of his Division.

Since my induction as Comptroller, two men have served as Secretary of the Treasury—Hon. William H. Woodin from March 4, 1933, to December 31, 1933, and Hon. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., since January 1, 1934. Everyone who was familiar with the situation during and following the banking holiday is convinced that the strain put upon Secretary Woodin hastened his death. He was another soldier who fell in the service of his country. I should like to express my appreciation of the fine spirit of cooperation which has existed between this Bureau and the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Morgenthau. In him the Bureau has always found a sympathetic friend.

NATIONAL BANKS IN THE TRUST FIELD

Impressive gains in the number and volume of trusts under administration by the banks in the national banking system were reflected during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934. One thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight national banks had authority to exercise trust powers on June 30, 1934, with combined capital of $1,452,519,428 and banking assets of $20,934,134,715, which represented 35.5 percent of the number, 83.5 percent of the capital, and 87.6 percent of the assets of all banks in the national-banking system.

Of the number authorized to exercise trust powers 1,560 banks had active trust departments and were administering 122,022 individual trusts with assets aggregating $8,516,551,744, and in addition were administering 15,903 corporate trusts and acting as trustees for outstanding note and bond issues amounting to $11,484,461,737.

Compared with 1933 these figures represent a net increase of 25,785, or 18.7 percent, in the number of trusts being administered; an increase of $2,204,893,991, or 34.9 percent, in the volume of individual trust assets; and an increase of $1,066,034,800, or 10.2 percent, in the volume of note and bond issues outstanding under which national banks had been named to act as trustees.

Segregation of the number of fiduciary accounts in national banks revealed that 66,481, or 48.2 percent, were those created under private or living trust agreements; 55,541, or 40.3 percent, were trusts being administered under the jurisdiction of the courts, and the remaining 15,903, or 11.5 percent, were trusteeships under corporate bond or note-issue indentures. Private trust assets comprised $6,852,872,340, or 80.5 percent, of the total assets under administration, while the remaining $1,663,679,404, or 19.5 percent, belonged to court trusts. Invested trust funds aggregated $7,647,459,891, of which bonds constituted 47.1 percent, stocks 31.7 percent, real-estate mortgages 9.6 percent, real estate 6.9 percent, and miscellaneous assets 4.7 percent.

The impressive development of trust activities in national banks is further emphasized by comparing the record in 1934 with that of 1929, which reflects an increase during the 5-year period of 61,937, or 44.9 percent, in the number of trusts being administered; an increase of $4,278,903,081, or 50.2 percent, in the volume of individual trust assets under administration, and an increase of $4,114,307,281, or 55.8 percent, in the volume of bond and note issues outstanding for which national banks are acting as trustees.

Two hundred and forty-nine national banks were acting as trustees under 880 insurance trust agreements involving $42,467,908 in proceeds from insurance policies, while 671 national banks had been named trustees under 18,597 insurance trust agreements not yet matured or operative, supported by insurance policies with a face value aggregating $732,039,875.

Three hundred and sixty-four of the banks spent $249,278 during the year for trust advertising, 40 banks employed full-time trust solicitors, and 75 banks utilized the services of part-time trust solicitors.

An analysis of the new business placed on the books of the national banks between June 30, 1933, and June 30, 1934, developed that 231 banks were named trustees for 1,159 bond and note issues aggregating $602,576,909; 785 banks were named to act as individual trustees under 7,360 agreements involving $380,758,416; 748 banks were named to act under 2,649 executorships involving $121,641,275; 550 banks were named as administrator under 1,486 appointments involving $26,699,211; 551 banks were named under 3,671 guardianships involving $12,678,705; 11 banks were named to act as assignee in 41 instances involving $813,911; 44 banks were named to act in 227 receiverships involving $6,437,025; 129 banks were named to act as committee of estates of lunatics in 408 cases involving $2,385,814, while 402 banks were named to act 7,139 times in miscellaneous fiduciary capacities, other than those enumerated above, involving $625,722,473.

Eighty-six banks were named registrar of stocks and bonds in 323 cases involving $392,960,996, while 66 banks were named transfer agent in 276 instances involving $41,760,938.

National-bank branches, numbering 173 on June 30, 1934, were actively engaged in administering 12,617 trusts, with individual trust assets aggregating $770,715,941, and were acting as trustees for outstanding bond and note issues amounting to $362,395,271.

The following tables show in detail the activities of national banks in the trust field, segregated: First, according to capital of the banks; second, according to the population of places in which the banks were located; third, according to Federal Reserve districts, and fourth, analysis of the type of investments held in trust, with a supplemental table showing the extent to which national-bank branches were furnishing trust service to the communities in which they were located.

NATIONAL-BANK FAILURES

During the year ended October 31, 1934, receivers were appointed for 394 national banks. Of such total appointments, 40 were made for the purpose of completing unfinished business or enforcing stock assessments, the collection of which was necessary under or by reason of contracts to succeeding institutions which purchased the assets of such banks under terms by which depositors were paid in full. Of the remaining 354 appointments for actual failures, 8 were restored to solvency, leaving 346 to be liquidated by receivers. However, 20 insolvent national banks for which receivers were appointed in 1932 and 1933 were restored to solvency during the current year, making a total of 28 insolvent national banks restored to solvency during the year ended October 31, 1934. These figures for the year 1934 may be compared with figures for the preceding year of 319 receivers' appointments for actual failures, none of which was restored to solvency, with appointments of receivers for 29 banks to complete unfinished business or to enforce stock assessments.

In a further analysis of the 394 receivers' appointments for the past year, it is found that 353 appointments were for banks formerly in charge of conservators, including 3 licensed banks closed through revocations of licenses prior to appointments of conservators; one appointment for a licensed bank suspended with the immediate appointment of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation as receiver; one appointment for an unlicensed bank placed in receivership without the intervening appointment of a conservator, and 39 appointments for banks formerly in voluntary liquidation. Of the 353 appointments for banks formerly in charge of conservators, 148 with capital of $13,680,000 and deposits of $86,143,700, are found to have been straight receiverships without prior reorganizations or payments to depositors, while 205 with capital of $59,225,520, were appointments following reorganizations under conservators. The 205 banks with deposits of $497,459,087, for which receivers were appointed following reorganizations under conservators, paid depositors through the reorganizations effected prior to receivers' appointments, an estimated amount of $264,313,000, or an average payment of 53.13 percent.

The capitalization of the 394 banks for which receivers were appointed during the past year was $56,525,000 as compared with the capitalization of the 348 banks for which receivers were appointed during the previous year of $76,107,500.

During the year ended October 31, 1934, total costs incurred in liquidation of insolvent national banks as reported by receivers, amounted to 4.6 percent of total collections from all sources including offsets allowed. This percentage of costs to collections for the year 1934 may be compared with percentages of 3, 3.2 and 3.2 for the years 1931, 1932 and 1933, respectively. This 4.6 percent includes all expenses incurred while the banks were in conservatorship from March 1933, or over 19 months expenses as to conservator banks for which receivers were later appointed. Moreover, the cost of operation of a bank in conservatorship is greater than when in receivership. Therefore, the average cost of liquidation under receivers would be comparable with the cost of the previous years operation. Total collections from all sources, including offsets allowed, as reported by receivers for the year ended September 30, 1934, amounted to $501,718,516, while similar collections for the years 1931, 1932 and 1933 aggregated $132,998,054, $263,482,046 and $356,678,150, respectively.

In reporting upon the progress and results of liquidation of insolvent national banks for the year ended October 31, 1934, it has been possible for the first time to furnish data with respect to the earnings of such banks while in process of liquidation, arising out of the accrual and collections of interest, premiums, rents, etc. Expenses of receivership liquidation have heretofore been available from annual reports submitted by the Comptroller's office and such items have, it is believed, received considerable attention without perhaps due consideration having been given to corresponding income earnings of banks while in process of liquidation. From figures which are furnished in later paragraphs relative to various groups of banks in liquidation it now seems apparent that the income earnings of insolvent national banks during liquidation are on the average approximately equivalent to expenses incurred. In view of this proportion of income to expenses in connection with the liquidation of insolvent national banks, it may reasonably be asserted that depositors' equities in the assets of failed national banks are not materially lessened because of receivership operations.

This office has continued during the year ended October 31, 1934, to promote the distribution of dividends to depositors of insolvent national banks. Not only has every effort been made to provide distributions wherever the normal process of liquidation would warrant such action, but provision has been made for facilitating applications for Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans to receivers of insolvent national banks wherever possible in order to further increase the payments of dividends to depositors. Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan commitments so obtained by receivers of insolvent national banks during the year ended October 31, 1934, as indicated by the records of this office, amounted to $106,484,700, while cash advances actually drawn totaled $139,160,885. Total loan commitments obtained by receivers of insolvent national banks from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation from the date of its organization to October 31, 1934, as indicated by the records of this office, amounted to $255,675,200, while cash advances obtained thereunder totaled $193,049,684. Total Reconstruction Finance Corporation unused loan commitments and unpaid advances to receivers of insolvent national banks as of October 31, 1934, were, according to the records of this office, $44,904,325 and $74,246,615, respectively. An indication of the general distribution of and benefit derived from these loans by depositors of those banks involved is evident from the fact that such loans both hastened and increased the payments of dividends to depositors of approximately 885 insolvent national banks located in 43 of the 48 States and in the District of Columbia.

Reorganization activity during the year ended October 31, 1934, has, of course, centered largely in the group of 455 unlicensed banks with deposits of $429,997,037, which as of January 1, 1934, were still in charge of conservators without reorganizations having been effected. The extent of reorganization activity in this group of banks, referred to in more detail elsewhere in this report, is evident from a total number of 368 reorganizations during the current year, releasing deposits of approximately $183,765,000. However, reorganization efforts on the part of this office have by no means been confined to the group of unlicensed banks for which receivers had not been appointed. On the contrary, in all cases where, regardless of receivers' appointments, existing circumstances indicated the possibility for reorganizations, every effort has continued to be put forth by this office to assist and cooperate with local depositors' committees in effecting sound reorganizations. That such efforts to reopen or reorganize national banks in receivership have been to an appreciable extent successful is clearly evident from the fact that during the current year 28 insolvent national banks with deposits of approximately $21,280,000 have been completely restored to solvency and either reopened or sold to other institutions, while in 10 additional instances reorganizations have been effected through the medium of Spokane sales of assets to other institutions, providing for releases of deposits amounting to approximately $6,350,000. Further efforts to effect reorganizations of banks in receivership will continue to be made where circumstances indicate the soundness of reorganization plans advanced.

Relative to the length of time required to complete liquidation of insolvent national banks, a compilation has been made covering those insolvent national banks finally closed during the year ended October 31, 1934, and for those receiverships finally closed during the 13-year period, November 1, 1921, to October 31, 1934. From data compiled it has been found that insolvent national banks finally closed during the year ended October 31, 1934, exclusive of those banks which were restored to solvency and those for which receivers were appointed for the purpose of completing unfinished business or enforcing stock assessments, required an average period of 6 years, with a minimum period of 2 years, for liquidation. With reference to insolvent national banks, the affairs of which were finally closed during the 13-year period 1921 to 1934, exclusive of those banks restored to solvency and banks for which receivers were appointed for the purpose of completing unfinished business or enforcing stock assessments only, the average period of liquidation was found to have been 5 years.

In following paragraphs will be found tables reflecting the results and progress of liquidation to date for various groups of insolvent national banks, those which have been completely liquidated from the date of the first national bank failure in 1865 to date, and those still in process of liquidation as of October 31, 1934, etc. These tables are supported by various schedules appearing in the appendix of this report furnishing in detail for each insolvent national bank in liquidation during the current year data as to the progress and results of the receiver's administration thereof.

Receiverships, year ended October 31, 1934

Of the 394 national banks for which receivers were appointed during the past year, 8 were restored to solvency, leaving 386 banks to be administered by receivers. Of the 386 national banks so administered by receivers 40 appointments were made for the purpose of completing unfinished business or enforcing stock assessments, leaving 346 to be actually liquidated by receivers. The capital of the 394 insolvent national banks for which receivers were appointed was $56,525,000. The capital of the 40 banks for which receivers were appointed to complete unfinished business or enforce stock assessments was $8,920,000. The capital of the 8 banks restored to solvency was $685,000 and the capital of the remaining 346 banks to be liquidated by receivers was $46,920,000.

Stock assessments levied by the Comptroller of the Currency to October 31, 1934, against shareholders of the 386 national banks administered by receivers, with capital of $55,840,000, amounted to $40,938,750, while the assets of such banks, including assets acquired subsequent to their failure, totaled $615,562,497. Collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments as reported by receivers to September 30, 1934, amounted to 30.3 percent of such assets and stock assessments. Total income earnings collected by receivers from the assets of these banks amounting to $9,111,347 were in excess, or 122.89 percent, of total expenses incurred. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

In addition to the above record, it is found that total secured and unsecured claims proved as reported by receivers to September 30, 1934, aggregated $201,202,090. The outstanding circulation of the 386 banks at date of failure was $30,148,474, secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of a par value of $34,249,220. Total deposits of these banks at date of failure amounted to $381,108,228, while borrowed money consisting of bills payable, rediscounts, etc., totaled $92,592,549.

Receiverships, 1865-1934

From the date of the first failure of a national bank in the year 1865 to October 31, 1934, 2,908 national banks have been placed in charge of receivers. Of this number, 145 have been restored to solvency and either reopened or sold to other institutions and one bank eliminated through revocation of the receiver's commission as of the date of issuance, leaving 2,762 banks to be administered by receivers. Of these banks so administered, 1,543 are still in process of liquidation and 1,219 have been completely liquidated and the affairs thereof finally closed.

The capital of the 2,908 insolvent national banks at the date of failure, exclusive of the one bank eliminated through revocation of the receiver's commission, was $382,055,505. The capital of the 145 banks that have been restored to solvency was $22,115,000. The capital of the 1,543 banks that are still in process of liquidation was $231,870,085, and the capital of the 1,219 banks that have been completely liquidated was $128,070,420.

The aggregate book value of the assets of the 2,762 administered receiverships, including assets acquired after suspension, was $3,511,304,866, in addition to which there have been levied against shareholders assessments aggregating $299,465,747. Total collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments as reported by receivers to September 30, 1934, amounted to 46.33 percent of the total of such assets and stock assessments. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

In addition to the above record of distribution, there have been returned to shareholders through their duly elected agents assets of a book value of $16,597,541. Total secured and unsecured claims proved as indicated by receivers' reports aggregated $1,983,593,367. The outstanding circulation of these 2,762 receiverships at date of failure was $170,364,376, secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of the par value of $180,015,531, while total deposits at date of failure amounted to $2,297,567,989.

Active receiverships as of October 31, 1934

The 1,543 banks that were, as of October 31, 1934, still in charge of receivers and in process of liquidation had assets, including assets acquired subsequent to their failure, aggregating $2,728,221,415. The capital of these banks was $231,870,085, and there had been levied by the Comptroller of the Currency to October 31, 1934, stock assessments against their shareholders in the amount of $212,063,835. The collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments, as reported by receivers to September 30, 1934, amounted to 42.56 percent of such assets and stock assessments. Total income earnings collected by receivers from the assets of these banks amounting to $57,572,588 were in excess, or 117.04 percent, of total expenses incurred. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

Total.....	1, 436, 738, 268

In addition to the above record, it is found that total secured and unsecured claims proved as reported by receivers to September 30, 1934, aggregated $1,555,940,527. The outstanding circulation of the 1,543 receiverships at date of failure was $114,760,025, secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of the par value of $120,840,020. Total deposits of these banks at date of failure amounted to $1,878,453,602, while borrowed money consisting of bills payable, rediscounts, etc., totaled $344,686,686.

Receiverships terminated, year ended October 31, 1934

During the year ended October 31, 1934, 64 receiverships were liquidated and finally closed, in addition to which 28 receiverships were restored to solvency and either reopened or sold to other institutions. The 64 receiverships finally closed had assets, including assets acquired subsequent to their failure, aggregating $44,663,845. The capital of these 64 banks was $4,940,000 and assessments against shareholders levied by the Comptroller of the Currency aggregated $3,575,000. The collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments as indicated by receivers' final reports, amounted to 66.57 percent of such assets and stock assessments. Total income earnings collected by receivers from the assets of these banks amounted to $1,475,408 or 79.55 percent of total expenses incurred. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

In addition to the above record of distribution, there were returned to shareholders through their duly elected agents assets of a book value of $217,255. Total secured and unsecured claims proved as indicated by receivers' final reports aggregated $23,491,003. The outstanding circulation of these 64 closed receiverships at date of failure was $2,348,000, secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of a par value of $2,383,010. Total deposits of these banks at date of failure amounted to $26,590,650, while borrowed money consisting of bills payable, rediscounts, etc., totaled $11,193,371.

From the above it will be noted that the average percentage of all dividends paid on the aggregate of secured and unsecured claims of $23,491,003 proved against the 64 receiverships that were finally closed during the year ended October 31, 1934, but not including the 28 banks restored to solvency which paid 100 percent, was 64.05 percent. If payments to secured and preferred creditors, offsets, and other disbursements, amounting to $16,677,492, were included with the dividends paid in this calculation, the total disbursements to creditors would amount to $31,724,019, or 78.98 percent of the aggregate of claims proved plus secured and preferred liabilities paid, offsets allowed and settled, and other disbursements, or total basic liabilities amounting to $40,168,495.

Expenses incident to the administration of the 64 trusts, such as receivers' salaries, legal and other expenses amounted to $1,854,752, or 3.84 percent of the book value of the assets and stock assessments administered, or 6.05 percent of collections from assets and stock assessments. The assessments against shareholders averaged 72.38 percent of their holdings and total collections from such assessments as were levied amounted to 55.5 percent of the amount assessed.

Receiverships terminated, 1865-1934

From the date of the first failure of a national bank in 1865 to the close of business October 31, 1934, 1,364 receiverships have been administered and the trusts closed or the affairs thereof restored to solvency. Included in this number are the 145 banks restored to solvency, 28 in 1934, and 64 the affairs of which were finally closed during the year 1934. The 1,219 banks administered by receivers had assets, including assets acquired subsequent to their failure aggregating $783,083,451. The capital of these 1,219 banks was $128,070,420 and there were levied by the Comptroller of the Currency stock assessments against their shareholders in the amount of $87,401,912. The collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments as indicated by receivers' final reports, amounted to 59.01 percent of such assets and stock assessments. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

Total	515, 187, 182

In addition to the above record of distribution, there were returned to shareholders through their duly elected agents, assets of a book value of $16,597,541. Total secured and unsecured claims proved as indicated by receivers' final reports aggregated $427,652,840. The outstanding circulation of these 1,219 closed receiverships at date of failure was $55,604,351, secured by United States bonds on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States of a par value of $59,175,511, while total deposits at date of failure amounted to $419,114,387.

From the above it will be noted that the average percentage of all dividends paid on the aggregate of secured and unsecured claims proved against the 1,219 receiverships that have been finally closed, but not including the 145 restored to solvency which paid 100 percent, was 66.51 percent. If payments to secured and preferred creditors, offsets and other disbursements, as indicated above, were included with the dividends paid in this calculation, the total disbursements to creditors would amount to $477,106,940 or 76.91 percent of claims proved plus other liabilities paid, but not included in the figure above of proved claims, or $620,312,197.

Expenses incident to the administration of the 1,219 closed trusts, such as receivers' salaries, legal and other expenses, amounted to $33,578,643 or 3.86 percent of the book value of the assets and stock assessments administered, or 7.39 percent of collections from assets and stock assessments. The assessments against shareholders averaged 68.25 percent of their holdings and total collections from such assessments as were levied amounted to 49.78 percent of the amount assessed.

Total liquidation operations, year ended September 30, 1934

Total liquidation operations of insolvent national banks for the 12-month period October 1, 1933, to September 30, 1934, inclusive, as reported by receivers of all national banks in process of liquidation during such period, were as follows:

STATE BANK FAILURES, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Receiverships, year ended October 31, 1934

In addition to national banks placed in receivership during the year ended October 31, 1934, receivers were appointed by this office during such period for 8 State banks located in the District of Columbia, which with similar appointments previously made resulted in a total of 14 District of Columbia State banks in charge of receivers as of October 31, 1934. Of the 8 banks for which receivers were appointed during the current year 4 had operated under charters from the State of Arizona, 2 under charters from the State of West Virginia, 1 under charter from the State of Virginia, and 1 had been incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia. The appointments of receivers for these banks were made under authority granted by existing legislation permitting banks incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia and banks with State charters to operate in the District of Columbia under supervision of the office of the Comptroller of the Currency.

Total assets of these 8 receiverships, including assets acquired subsequent to their failure, aggregated $12,580,853. The capital of these banks was $740,000 and assessments against shareholders levied by the Comptroller of the Currency to October 31, 1934, aggregated $340,000. The collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments as reported by receivers to September 30, 1934, amounted to 45.75 percent of the total of such assets and stock assessments. Total income earnings collected by receivers from the assets of these banks amounting to $332,097 were in excess, or 119.56 percent, of total expenses incurred. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

In addition to the above record of distribution, it is found that total secured and unsecured claims proved against these eight receiverships as reported by receivers to September 30, 1934, aggregated $6,985,951. Total deposits of these banks at date of failure amounted to $8,271,441, while borrowed money consisting of bills payable, rediscounts, etc., totaled $2,022,624.

Active receiverships as of October 31, 1934

The 14 State banks located in the District of Columbia that were as of October 31, 1934, still in charge of receivers appointed by the Comptroller of the Currency and in process of liquidation had assets, including assets acquired subsequent to their failure, aggregating $22,064,544. The capital of these banks was $2,252,890, and there had been levied by the Comptroller of the Currency to October 31, 1934, stock assessments against their shareholders in the amount of $852,990. The collections from these assets, including offsets allowed and collections from stock assessments as reported by receivers to September 30, 1934, amounted to 40.79 percent of the total of such assets and stock assessments. Total income earnings collected by receivers from the assets of these banks amounted to $498,721, or 94.57 percent of total expenses incurred. These collections and the disposition thereof were as follows:

In addition to the above record of distribution, it is found that total secured and unsecured claims proved against these 14 receiverships as reported by receivers to September 30, 1934, aggregated $9,950,010. Total deposits of these banks at date of failure amounted to $14,779,226, while borrowed money consisting of bills payable, rediscounts, etc., totaled $4,043,212.

UNLICENSED NATIONAL BANKS

Status as of March 16, 1933

On March 16, 1933, at the close of the banking holiday, there remained 1,400 unlicensed national banks, exclusive of 10 unlicensed State banks located in the District of Columbia. In addition to these

1,400 unlicensed national banks, 5 national banks licensed prior to March 16, and 1 bank licensed after such date were subsequently closed through revocations of license and 1 bank which suspended prior to the date of the banking holiday continued as a closed institution, making in all 1,407 national banks, which, with the addition of the 10 District of Columbia State banks unlicensed as of March 16, resulted in an aggregate total of 1,417 banks the affairs of which had not been definitely and finally disposed of on March 16, 1933.

While no comparable deposit figures are available for all of these 1,417 banks, it is found that deposits as of December 31, 1932, the last call date prior to the banking holiday, for 312 of such banks disposed of to December 31, 1933, through having been licensed, placed in receivership or otherwise in liquidation without the appointments of conservators, aggregated $319,342,522. The remaining 1,105 banks, including the 10 unlicensed District of Columbia State banks which were placed in charge of conservators subsequent to March 16, had total deposits according to conservators' first reports of condition submitted to this office, amounting to $1,652,617,500. Total deposits for the entire 1,417 banks unlicensed as of March 16, 1933, as outlined above were, therefore, $1,971,960,022.

October 31, 1934*

Following reorganization and licensing operations to December 31, 1933, in connection with the 1,417 banks unlicensed upon March 16, 1933, as covered by my annual report for the year 1933, there remained as of January 1, 1934, 487 banks still in charge of conservators out of the original group of 1,417 banks. Of these 487 banks in charge of conservators as of January 1, 1934, 32 with total deposits of $44,634,425, had, however, been reorganized prior to January 1, 1934, with resulting releases amounting to approximately $24,377,000, or 54.6 percent of such total deposits, leaving 455 banks with deposits of $429,997,037 in which no reorganizations had taken place.

During the 10-month period January 1 to October 31, 1934, 40 of the 487 banks described above were licensed to resume business, 230 banks, including 158 in which reorganizations had been consummated, were placed in charge of receivers, 196 were otherwise placed in liquidation following reorganizations, and 21 banks, including 6 in which reorganizations had taken place, remained in charge of conservators as of October 31, 1934. The 368 conservator banks reorganized during the current 10-month period as described above, including the 40 banks licensed to resume business, had total deposits of $350,354,065, while releases through such reorganizations amounted to approximately $184,107,000 or 52.6 percent of such total deposits.

Organization data, together with figures as to capital, assets and liabilities as reported by conservators, for the 487 banks remaining in charge of conservators as of January 1, 1934, in total as well as separately, for those groups of banks licensed, placed in receivership, etc., to October 31, 1934, are given in the following table:

Administration of unlicensed national banks March 16, 1933, to October 31, 1934

Of the 1,417 unlicensed National and District of Columbia State banks, the affairs of which had not been finally disposed of as of March 16, 1933, 529 banks had as of October 31, 1934, been licensed to resume business, 296 without intervening appointments of conservators. These 529 licensed banks had total deposits, as of December 31, 1932, for the 296 nonconservator banks and as reported in conservators' first reports of condition for 233 conservator banks, amounting to $576,938,586, while the reorganizations thereof, incident to issuance of licenses effected releases of deposits amounting to approximately $522,726,000 or 90.6 percent of such total deposits.

Of the remaining 888 banks, 571 with deposits of $1,057,124,069 had been placed in receivership to October 31, 1934, 241 of such banks having been reorganized prior to such receivers' appointments. These 241 banks for which receivers were appointed following reorganizations had total deposits of $396,260,880, while releases effected through such reorganizations amounted to approximately $207,444,000 or 52.4 percent of such total deposits.

Of the remaining 317 banks, 296 with total deposits of $301,580,879 were otherwise placed in liquidation following reorganizations, while releases through such reorganizations amounted to approximately $207,958,000 or 69.0 percent of such total deposits. The remaining 21 banks with deposits of $36,316,488 were as of October 31, 1934, still in charge of conservators, although in 6 of such banks with total deposits of $21,796,137, reorganizations had taken place releasing deposits of approximately $5,178,000 or 23.8 percent of such total deposits. In all it is found that 1,072 banks out of the original 1,417 had been reorganized to October 31, 1934, with releases effected through such reorganizations amounting to approximately 72.8 percent of total deposits of the 1,072 banks.

Tables given herewith are supported by schedules appearing in the appendix of this report and in the report for the year 1933 furnishing in detail for each unlicensed national or District of Columbia State bank information as to assets, deposits, releases of deposits, etc., discussed above. Organization data, together with figures as to capital, assets and liabilities as indicated by call reports of December 31, 1932, and by conservators' first reports of condition for the 1,417 unlicensed national and District of Columbia State banks, the affairs of which had not been finally disposed of as of March 16, 1933, in total as well as separately, for the various groups of licensed banks, banks placed in receivership, etc., to October 31, 1934, are given in the following table:

ORGANIZATION AND LIQUIDATION OF NATIONAL BANKS

At the close of the current year, October 31, 1934, there were 5,589 national banking associations in existence, including inactive banks which had not gone into voluntary liquidation, suspended banks, and banks in charge of conservators for which no receivers had been appointed. Such institutions are technically in existence. This represents a net loss since October 31, 1933, of 210 banks, or a fraction less than 4 percent, and $260,131,924 in the authorized common capital stock. However, at the close of the period under discussion there was outstanding $468,078,445 of preferred capital stock issued under the provisions of the act of March 9, 1933. During the current year 107 banks increased their common capital by the aggregate sum of $8,332,526.67. Of this number, four banks effected the increase by stock dividends, the amount of such increase being $400,000, and eight banks with an aggregate increase of $175,600 from their net earnings incident to the retirement of preferred capital. During this period, by the issuing of preferred stock, 1,292 banks increased their capitalization by $373,320,150. The increase of 1,229 banks aggregating $351,173,389.65 was purchased by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

An active effort was made by the office of the Comptroller of the Currency during the past year to strengthen the capital position of existing or going national banking associations in order that all banks might be provided with a satisfactory ratio of capital to deposits and thereby increase the margin of protection for depositors. As a result 107 national banks increased common capital stock in the sum of $8,332,526.67, and additional capital strengthening in the amount of $373,320,150 was provided by the sale of preferred stock in 1,292 national banking associations. The foregoing figures, totaling $381,652,676.67, are exclusive of capital paid into newly organized national banking associations, and as a comparison it is noted that capital strengthening by the sale of common stock and preferred stock in going or existing national banks last year amounted to $57,719,950.

Covering the entire period of national banking operations, up to and including October 31, 1934, there have been authorized to begin business 14,296 national banking associations. Of these 5,945 have voluntarily closed, some of which discontinued business; others merged with other banks, both State and national; and some consolidated with other national banking associations under authority of the act of November 7, 1918. Exclusive of banks which failed but which were subsequently restored to solvency, the loss to the system throughout this entire period by the liquidation of banks through receiverships has been 2,762, the number of these receiverships being 19 percent of the total number of banks organized.

During the year ended October 31, 1934, there were 357 national banks, with total common capitalization of $45,188,000, two of which also had preferred capital aggregating $75,000, which went into voluntary liquidation. Of this number 28, with common capital of $2,295,000 and assets of $9,333,558, discontinued business; 292, with common capital of $39,403,000 and preferred capital of $75,000 were acquired by other national banks; and 37, with capital of $3,490,000 and assets of $30,159,449, entered the State banking systems. The latter group included three banks of $300,000 capital or over, with aggregate capital of $1,100,000 and assets of $7,751,310.

November 1914 marked the inauguration of the operation of the Federal Reserve System. At that date there were in existence 7,578 national banks, with aggregate common capital of $1,072,492,175, as compared with a total common capitalization of $1,326,915,901 for the 5,589 national banks in existence on October 31, 1934; 1,833 of the national banks took advantage of the act of March 9, 1933, by issuing preferred capital stock and the aggregate amount outstanding at close of the current year was $468,078,445. There was a net decrease of 1,989 in the number of banks, but an increase in common capitalization of $254,423,726 in addition to preferred capitalization of $468,078,445. During this 20-year period 3,644 national banks were chartered, with aggregate common capital of $548,516,600 and a preferred capital of $51,124,300, while 5,633 associations were closed voluntarily or otherwise.

During the year ended October 31, 1934, in addition to applications carried over from the previous year, there were received 409 applications to organize national banks and to convert State banks into national banking associations, with proposed capital stock of $49,154,190. Of these applications, 470 were approved, with proposed capital stock of $59,974,500; 59 were rejected, with proposed capital stock of $5,070,000; and the remainder were abandoned or no action was taken thereon. Of the 427 banks chartered, 244 were chartered to take over 278 banks which were in weakened condition, while 157 others were organized to acquire the assets and assume the liabilities of 158 suspended national banks and 11 State banks in charge of conservators or for which receivers were appointed. Only 26 of this total number of applications were approved for the primary organization of new national banking associations; however, 11 of this latter group subsequently acquired the assets and assumed the liabilities to creditors of a like number of insolvent national banks.

In this same year, 476 national banking associations, with common capital of $41,396,800, were authorized to begin business, 18 of which were located in the New England States, 136 in the Eastern States, 106 in the Southern States, 169 in the Middle Western States, 37 in the Western States, and 10 in the Pacific States. During this period 306 of the banks chartered had, in addition to their common capitalization, preferred capital stock aggregating $19,777,300. The greatest activity, as indicated by the number of national banks organized, was evidenced in the following States: Pennsylvania, 87; Illinois, 41; Texas, 39; Ohio, 34; Michigan, 25; New Jersey, 22; Iowa, 21; New York, 21; Wisconsin, 19; Indiana, 15; West Virginia, 13; Nebraska, 10; Colorado, 9; Arkansas, 8; Minnesota, 8; Georgia, 7; Kentucky, 7; Louisiana, 7; Oklahoma, 7; Massachusetts, 6; Maryland, 6; Missouri, 6; North Carolina, 6; and Virginia, 6. In other States the number ranged from 1 to 5 banks.

It further appears that of the total number of charters issued within the year ended October 31, 1934, 18 with authorized common capital of $5,905,000 and no preferred capital, and assets aggregating approximately $77,051,917, were the result of conversions of State banks, 31 with common capital of $2,497,000 and preferred capital of $2,498,000 were reorganizations of 32 State banks, 401 with common capital of $28,927,500 and preferred capital of $16,452,000 were primary organizations for the purpose of acquiring the business of 436 liquidating or suspended national banks and 11 State banks, and 26 with common capital of $4,067,300 and preferred capital of $827,300 did not acquire the business of any other banking institution as of date of charter. The business of 32 State banks, with capital of $1,569,500 and assets aggregating approximately $17,029,780, was purchased by national banks.

During the year ended October 31, 1934, 4 national banking associations were consolidated into 2, under authority of the act of November 7, 1918, the common capital of the consolidated banks being $300,000, and the preferred capital $50,000. In each instance there was an increase in capital, the net result by reason of these consolidations being an increase in the common capital stock of $50,000, and in the preferred capital stock of $50,000. During the same period there were 10 consolidations under the act of February 25, 1927, involving the merger of 10 State banks with national banks, through which additional assets of approximately $74,714,485 were brought into the national system.

ORGANIZATION OF BANKS OTHER THAN NATIONAL

In the year ended October 31, 1934, three banks other than national for which the consent of this office was given to permit commencement of business, were incorporated under the provisions of the Code of Laws of the District of Columbia. One of these associations was the Industrial Bank of Washington, which was organized to take over the Industrial Savings Bank for which a receiver was appointed September 20, 1934. The other two associations were the Export-Import Bank of Washington, and the Second Export-Import Bank of Washington, D. C., pursuant to Executive orders dated February 2, 1934, and March 9, 1934, respectively, which are quoted below:

EXECUTIVE ORDER

AUTHORIZING THE FORMATION OF A BANKING CORPORATION TO BE KNOWN AS EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF WASHINGTON

WHEREAS the Congress of the United States has declared that a national emergency exists by reason of widespread unemployment and disorganization of industry; and has declared it to be the policy of Congress to remove obstacles to the free flow of interstate and foreign commerce which tend to diminish the amount thereof, to provide for the general welfare, by promoting the fullest possible utilization of the present productive capacities of industries, to reduce and relieve unemployment, to improve standards of labor, and otherwise to rehabilitate industry; and

WHEREAS in order to meet said emergency and to provide the relief necessary to protect the general welfare of the people the Congress has enacted, inter alia, the following acts:

1. National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 16, 1933;
2. Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, approved January 22, 1932;
3. Bank Conservation Act, approved March 9, 1933; and

WHEREAS in order effectively and efficiently to carry out the provisions of said acts it is expedient and necessary that a banking corporation be organized with power to aid in financing and to facilitate exports and imports and the exchange of commodities between the United States and other nations or the agencies or nationals thereof;

NOW, THEREFORE, under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the National Industrial Recovery Act of June 16, 1933, it is hereby declared that an agency, to wit; a banking corporation, be created pursuant to title 5, chapter 9, section 261 of the Code of the District of Columbia under the name of Export-Import Bank of Washington.

The governing body of said corporation shall consist of a board of trustees composed of five members, and the following persons, who have been invited and who have given their consent to serve, shall act as incorporators and shall handle the concerns of the corporation for the first year:

Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce.

Robert F. Kelley, Chief of the Division of Eastern European Affairs, Department of State.

Chester C. Davis, Administrator, Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Stanley Reed, General Counsel, Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Lynn P. Talley, Executive Assistant to the Directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The operations of the corporation shall be carried on in the District of Columbia, and the main office of the corporation shall be at 1825 H Street NW., Washington, District of Columbia.

The amount of capital stock of the corporation shall be $11,000,000.00, divided into classes and shares as follows:

- (a) $1,000,000.00 par value of common stock, divided into ten thousand shares of the par value of $100.00 each; and
- (b) $10,000,000.00 par value of preferred stock, divided into ten thousand shares of the par value of $1,000.00 each.

The Secretary of State and the Secretary of Commerce are hereby authorized and directed to cause said corporation to be formed, with such certificate of incorporation, and bylaws, as they shall deem requisite and necessary to define the methods by which the corporation shall conduct its business.

The persons above named are authorized and directed to subscribe for all the common capital stock for the use and benefit of the United States, of which amount five shares may be held in the respective names of the initial trustees and their successors if required by the law under which said banking corporation is incorporated.

There is hereby set aside for the purpose of subscribing for the common capital stock of said corporation the sum of $1,000,000.00 out of the appropriation of $3,300,000,000.00 authorized by section 220 of the National Industrial Recovery Act and made by the Fourth Deficiency Act, fiscal year 1933, approved June 16, 1933 (Public, No. 77, 73d Cong.).

It is hereby further directed that any common stock in said corporation standing in the name of the United States shall be voted by such person or persons as they—the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Commerce—shall appoint as their joint agent or agents for that purpose. Any vacancies occurring in the initial board of trustees shall be filled by the board of trustees, subject to the approval of the President of the United States.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
February 2, 1934.

EXECUTIVE ORDER

AUTHORIZING THE FORMATION OF A BANKING CORPORATION TO BE KNOWN AS SECOND EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF WASHINGTON, D. C.

WHEREAS The Congress of the United States has declared that a national emergency exists by reason of widespread unemployment and disorganization of industry; and has declared it to be the policy of Congress to remove obstructions to the free flow of interstate and foreign commerce which tend to diminish the amount thereof; to provide for the general welfare by promoting the fullest possible utilization of the present productive capacity of industries, to reduce and relieve unemployment, to improve standards of labor and otherwise to rehabilitate industry and to conserve national resources; and

WHEREAS in order to meet said emergency and to provide the relief necessary to protect the general welfare of the people, the Congress of the United States has enacted, inter alia, the following acts:

1. National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 16, 1933;
2. Agricultural Adjustment Act, approved May 12, 1933;
3. Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, approved January 22, 1932;
4. Bank Conservation Act, approved March 9, 1933; and

WHEREAS in order effectively and efficiently to carry out the provisions of said acts it is expedient and necessary that a banking corporation be organized with power to aid in financing and to facilitate exports and imports and the exchange of commodities between the United States and other nations or the agencies or nationals thereof;

NOW, THEREFORE, under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the National Industrial Recovery Act of June 16, 1933, it is hereby declared that an agency, to wit: a banking corporation, be created pursuant to title 5, chapter 9, section 261 of the Code of the District of Columbia (1929), under the name of Second Export-Import Bank of Washington, D. C.

The governing board of said corporation shall consist of a board of trustees composed of nine members, and the following persons, who have been invited and who have given their consent to serve, shall constitute the initial board of trustees and shall handle the concerns of the corporation for the first year:

Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce.

R. Walton Moore, Assistant Secretary of State.

George N. Peek, Special Adviser to the President on Foreign Trade.

Robert F. Kelley, Chief of the Division of Eastern European Affairs, Department of State.

Chester C. Davis, Administrator, Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Tom K. Smith, Assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Stanley Reed, General Counsel, Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Lynn P. Talley, Executive Assistant to the Directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Harold H. Neff, Assistant Chief, Securities Division, Federal Trade Commission.

The operations of the corporation shall be carried on in the District of Columbia, and the main office of the corporation shall be at 1825 H Street NW., Washington, District of Columbia, or at such other place as may be determined by the board of trustees.

The amount of capital stock of the corporation shall be $2,750,000 divided into classes and shares as follows:

(a) $250,000 par value of common stock, divided into 2,500 shares of the par value of $100 each; and

(b) $2,500,000 par value of preferred stock, divided into 2,500 shares of the par value of $1,000 each.

The Secretary of State and the Secretary of Commerce are hereby authorized and directed to cause said corporation to be formed with such certificate of incorporation, and bylaws, as they shall deem requisite and necessary to define the methods by which the corporation shall conduct its business.

The Secretary of State and the Secretary of Commerce are authorized and directed to subscribe for all of the common capital stock of said corporation for the use and benefit of the United States, and shall provide that one share thereof shall be issued to each of the initial trustees and their successors in order to qualify them to hold the office of trustee in said banking corporation.

There is hereby set aside for the purpose of subscribing for the common capital stock of said corporation, the sum of $250,000 out of the appropriation of $3,300,000,000 authorized by section 220 of the National Industrial Recovery Act and made by the Fourth Deficiency Act, fiscal year 1933, approved June 16, 1933 (Public, No. 77, 73d Cong.).

It is hereby further directed that any common stock in said corporation standing in the name of the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Commerce, for the use and benefit of the United States, shall be voted by such person or persons as they, the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Commerce, shall appoint as their joint agent or agents for that purpose. Any vacancies occurring in the initial board of trustees shall be filled by the remaining members, subject to the approval of the President of the United States.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

THE WHITE HOUSE,

March 9, 1934.

Additional information with respect to the export-import banks is published on pages 137 and 138.

BRANCHES

On February 25, 1927, the date of the passage of the so-called "McFadden bill," there were in existence in the national system 372 branches as compared with a total of 1,264 branches in existence on October 31, 1934.

During the intervening period 1,651 branches have been added to the system, of which 834 were de novo branches, 307 were branches of State banks which converted into national associations, and 510 were brought into the national system through consolidations of State with national banks, while 759 branches were relinquished, of which latter number 538 went out of the system through the liquidation of the parent institutions, and the remainder, 221, were discontinued through consolidations and for various other reasons. The net result of these operations was a gain for the national system of 892 branches for the period under discussion.

In the year ended October 31, 1934, a net gain of 53 branches in existence was recorded, 113 de novo branches being established, 64 of which were authorized under the Banking Act of 1933 in places other than local. There were no branches brought into the system during this period through the conversion of State banks, or the consolidation of State banks with national banks.

Sixty branches were lost to the national system, 38 through liquidation of the parent bank and 22 through action of the directors and shareholders.

There follows a summary of branch-banking operations in the national system during the period discussed in the foregoing:

Of the 5,422 reporting licensed national banks on June 30, 1934, there were 4,600 banks with common capital of $919,833,000 issuing circulating notes, and on the same date the amount of notes outstanding aggregated $698,293,000. The 822 banks which did not exercise the circulation privilege had common capital stock amounting to $406,889,000.

A table disclosing the number of licensed national banks issuing circulation, their capital and amount of circulation outstanding, according to reserve cities and States, together with the number of associations not issuing circulation and their capital, on June 30, 1934, is published in the appendix of this report.

There is also published in the appendix a table showing, by months, the profit on national-bank circulation based upon a deposit of $100,000 Panama Canal 2-percent bonds of 1916-36 at the average net price during the year ended October 31, 1934. The table includes also like figures relative to $100,000 of United States 2-percent consols of 1930 so far as may be computed. Due to the unknown date of maturity of the consols, however, it is impossible to determine the amount of sinking fund necessary to provide for liquidation of the premium paid for the bonds. The tables mentioned are supplemented by others showing the investment value of circulation bonds quarterly and the monthly range of prices in New York in the year ended October 31, 1934.

With reference to the Federal Home Loan Bank Act approved July 22, 1932, section 29 of which extended the circulation privilege to national banks for a period of 3 years upon the deposit with the Treasurer of the United States bonds with interest not exceeding 3% percent, no calculation can be made of profit on circulation issued through bonds deposited for the purpose due to the indeterminate market value of the bonds at the end of the 3-year period.

REDEMPTION OF NATIONAL AND FEDERAL RESERVE BANK CIRCULATION

During the year ended June 30, 1934, the national-bank notes, Federal Reserve notes, and Federal Reserve bank notes aggregating $1,558,047,780 were redeemed in the United States Treasury at a total expense of $463,776.22.

Redemptions included Federal Reserve notes amounting to $1,039,575,495; Federal Reserve bank notes received from all sources, $50,426,500; and national-bank notes of $468,045,785, the latter amount including $99,748,405 redeemed on retirement account.

National-bank notes were redeemed at an average cost of 90 cents per $1,000; Federal Reserve notes received from sources other than the Federal Reserve banks, 56 cents per 1,000 notes; canceled and other Federal Reserve notes received direct from Federal Reserve banks and branches, 31 cents per 1,000 notes redeemed; and redemption on account of Federal Reserve bank notes at the rate of 86 cents per 1,000 notes.

Statements showing the amount of national-bank notes, Federal Reserve notes, and Federal Reserve bank notes received monthly for redemption in the year ended June 30, 1934, the source from which received, the rate per $1,000 of national-bank notes redeemed, and the rate per 1,000 notes of Federal Reserve and Federal Reserve bank notes redeemed, are published in the appendix of this report.

CONDITION OF NATIONAL BANKS AT DATE OF EACH CALL DURING THE YEAR

Under authority of section 5211, United States Revised Statutes, national banks were called upon to submit four reports of condition during the year ended October 31, 1934, as of various dates specified by the Comptroller.

Summaries of assets and liabilities of reporting banks on the date of each call during the year, together with a summary for October 25, 1933, are shown in the following statement:

² Includes bonds, notes, and debentures of public utilities, real estate, and other domestic corporations.

NOTE.—The amounts shown in the schedules of loans and discounts, investments and deposits of this table for banks other than national do not agree in all particulars with figures as reported to this office, due to the fact that several of the classifications furnished were incomplete. In such cases estimates of various amounts have been used, based on classifications reported to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in its call made for June 30, 1934, of insured State banks and trust companies not members of the Federal Reserve System.

Assets and liabilities of all active banks in the United States, Alaska, and insular possessions, June 1934 (includes national, State (commercial) banks, loan and trust companies, savings and private banks)—Continued

¹ Licensed banks; i. e., those operating on an unrestricted basis.

² Figures for 1934 revised since published in text edition of the report due to the fact that amended figures were subsequently obtained for private banks in the State of New York.

³ Includes reserves for dividends.

Section 21 (a) of the Banking Act of 1933 provides, in part, that after June 16, 1934, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, association, business trust, or other similar organization, other than a financial institution or private banker subject to examination and regulation under State or Federal law, to engage to any extent whatever in the business of receiving deposits subject to check or to repayment upon presentation of a passbook, certificate of deposit, or other evidence of debt, or upon request of the depositor, unless such person, firm, corporation, association, business trust, or other similar organization shall submit to periodic examination by the Comptroller of the Currency or by the Federal Reserve bank of the district and shall make and publish periodic reports of its condition, exhibiting in detail its resources and liabilities, such reports to be made and published at the same times and in the same manner and with like effect and penalties as are now provided by law in respect of national banking associations transacting business in the same locality. Section 21 (b) of the act provides a penalty of $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than 5 years, or both, upon conviction of any person who shall willfully violate section 21 (a).

As of June 30, 1934, there were 131 private banks affected by this act which elected to submit to periodic examination as prescribed by the statute. Eighty-five of the banks elected to be examined by the Federal Reserve bank and the remainder, or 46, had either elected to be examined by the Comptroller or correspondence was pending with a view to obtaining from such banks which agency they elect to examine them. The banks were located in 9 States, as follows: Alabama 1, Arkansas 4, Florida 3, Georgia 42, Iowa 14, Michigan 27, New York 1, Pennsylvania 6, and Texas 33.

Statements of their assets and liabilities as of June 30, 1934, are included in the foregoing tabulation with respect to all private banks in the country as of that date, and summaries of their returns classified by States are published in the appendix of this report.

² Capital and surplus at end of period.³ Deficit.Building and loan associations in District of Columbia

The assets of the 28 building and loan associations operating in the District of Columbia under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency on June 30, 1934, totaled $93,359,000 and exceeded by $5,009,000 the assets of these associations on June 30 a year ago.

The loans, which aggregated $84,946,000, showed an increase in the year of $2,027,000. Installment payments on shares increased also from $78,308,000 to $83,871,000.

Twenty-three of the associations operated on the permanent plan and five on the serial plan. The total membership was 103,550, as compared to 93,427 members a year ago, and of the total in the current year the numbers borrowing and nonborrowing were 25,722 and 77,828, respectively.

The statement following discloses the number of building and loan associations in the District of Columbia, their aggregate loans, installments paid on shares, and total assets on June 30 each year 1914-34. (Summaries of the assets and liabilities of the individual associations as of June 30, 1934, together with consolidated statements of assets and liabilities and receipts and disbursements for the 6-month periods ended Dec. 31, 1933, and June 30, 1934, are published in the appendix of this report.)

Export-Import banks in the District of Columbia

Pursuant to Executive orders dated February 2, 1934, and March 9, 1934, which are quoted elsewhere in this report, two export-import banks were established in the District of Columbia to commence business in the year ended October 31, 1934. These banks were incorporated under the provisions of title 5, chapter 9, section 261 of the Code of Laws of the District of Columbia.

The Export-Import Bank of Washington was authorized on February 16, 1934, to begin the business of banking with capital stock of $11,000,000, of which amount $10,000,000 was preferred stock taken by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and $1,000,000 common stock taken by the National Recovery Association under section 220 of the National Industrial Recovery Act. The par values of the preferred stock of this bank is $1,000 per share and the par of the common stock $100 per share. The articles of association provide for dividends of 5 percent per annum on the preferred stock.

The Second Export-Import Bank of Washington, D. C. was authorized on March 24, 1934, to begin the business of banking with capital stock of $2,750,000, of which amount $2,500,000 was preferred stock taken by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and $250,000 common stock taken by the National Recovery Association under section 220 of the National Industrial Recovery Act. The par value of the preferred stock of this bank is $1,000 per share and the par of the common stock $100 per share. The articles of association provide for dividends of 5 percent per annum on the preferred stock.

² Sec. 4-b of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, provides that "the Board (Federal Home Loan Bank Board) shall determine the minimum amount of capital stock of the Corporation (Home Owners' Loan Corporation) and is authorized to increase such capital stock from time to time in such amounts as may be necessary, but not to exceed in the aggregate $200,000,000. Such stock shall be subscribed for by the Secretary of the Treasury on behalf of the United States, and payments for such subscriptions shall be subject to call in whole or in part by the Board and shall be made at such time or times as the Secretary of the Treasury deems advisable. In order to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to make such payments when called, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and directed to allocate and make available to the Secretary of the Treasury the sum of $200,000,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, and for such purpose the amount of notes, bonds, debentures, or other such obligations which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered under sec. 9 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, to have outstanding at any time, is hereby increased by such amounts as may be necessary." The amount of such stock subscribed for by the Secretary of the Treasury is $200,000,000.

⁵ Sec. 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act as amended made available to the Secretary of Agriculture $200,000,000. Of this amount $135,000,000 was paid to him of which $20,000,000 was returned to the Corporation. Of the $85,000,000 difference $44,500,000 was reallocated and disbursed as capital of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporations (sec. 201 (e) Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932). The remainder, $40,500,000, was made available and has been paid to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, pursuant to the provisions of sec. 5 (a) (1) of the Farm Credit Act of 1933.

In addition to loans and other authorizations reflected on the statement of condition, the Corporation has approved in principle loans in the amount of $175,954,616.21 and purchase of preferred stock, capital notes and debentures of banks and trust companies in the amount of $55,338,140 upon the performance of specified conditions.

This statement of condition does not take into consideration expenditures incurred but not paid by the Corporation at the close of business September 30, 1934, nor income of Regional Agricultural Credit Corporations whose capital stock was subscribed by the Corporation.

Joint-stock land banks

On September 30, 1934, there were 44 joint-stock land banks in operation, 1 in voluntary liquidation and 3 in process of liquidation through receivership. A consolidated statement of condition of the active banks on the date indicated was not compiled by the Farm Credit Administration, as heretofore, although individual statements of such banks, as well as of the banks in process of liquidation through receivership, are available.

The Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, approved May 12, 1933, provided that "After the date of enactment of this act, no joint-stock land bank shall issue any tax-exempt bonds or make any farm loans except as are necessary and incidental to the refinancing of existing loans or bond issues or to the sale of any real estate now owned or hereafter acquired by such banks." The act in effect prohibits joint-stock land banks from acquiring new business and restricts them to the orderly liquidation of their existing assets. Sections 30 and 31 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, as a means of expediting the required liquidation, authorized and directed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make available to the Land Bank Commissioner for a period not exceeding 2 years from date of enactment of the act, the sum of 100 million dollars to be used for the purpose of making loans to the joint-stock land banks organized and doing business under the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended, at a rate of interest not to exceed 4 percent per annum, payable annually.

NUMBER OF DEPOSITORS AND AMOUNT OF DEPOSITS IN NATIONAL BANKS, OCTOBER 25, 1933

In addition to the regular statement of condition rendered by national banks as of October 25, 1933, figures concerning which were published in the annual report for 1933, the associations were requested to render as of the same date a supplemental statement showing the number of depositors and amount of deposits according to size and class of deposit balances, for information in connection with a study being made with respect to the original Temporary Federal Deposit Insurance Fund which became effective January 1, 1934, guaranteeing up to $2,500 the deposits of licensed banks which were doing business on an unrestricted basis at the beginning of the year. However, due to the fact that tabulations of the supplemental statement had not been completed in sufficient time to permit the returns to be shown in the report for 1933, they are being included in this report.

Although the temporary fund provided for insurance on deposits based on the amount of deposits eligible for insurance and certified to the insurance corporation as of the close of business December 15, 1933, the 5,057 licensed national banks on October 25, 1933, reported a total of 25,419,269 depositors with deposits aggregating $17,055,-208,000, classified as follows:

The number of depositors reported represented the actual number of depositors rather than the number of deposit accounts. In other words, if a customer had more than one deposit account of which he was the owner, whether checking, savings, time certificate, or other accounts, he was counted as one depositor and the aggregate amount of his accounts was included as one figure in the proper group. State, county, and municipal funds: Regardless of the number of accounts any one State, county, municipality, etc., may have had in the bank, it was treated as one depositor, and the aggregate of all balances which stood to the credit of any one State, any one county, or any one municipality, etc., was included in a single group. United States Government deposits: All United States Government deposits were shown in one aggregate as the deposits of one depositor. Postal Savings: As in the case of United States Government deposits, all Postal Savings funds on deposit under the terms of the Postal Savings Act were reported as the balance of one depositor. Deposits of other banks: The total amount on deposit to the credit of any one bank, whether or not held in more than one account, was treated for the purpose of the report as the balance of one depositor. Certified and cashiers' checks, and cash letters of credit outstanding: The figures reported against this item represent the number of checks and letters of credit outstanding, including travelers' checks (not the number of depositors as in the case of other items), classified according to the amounts of the individual checks and letters of credit. Other deposits—active accounts: Against this item was shown the number of depositors (other than States, counties, municipalities, etc., the United States Government, the Postal Savings System, and other banks) and the total amount of all demand and time balances standing to the credit of such depositors in each of the size groups, excluding such dormant balances as were required to be reported in another item. Other deposits—dormant accounts: These accounts represented deposits from which no withdrawals and to which no credits had been made (other than interest credited to such accounts) in the period from January 1, 1929, to October 25, 1933 (approximately 4 years and 10 months), except that if a depositor who had a dormant account within this definition also had one or more active accounts, all of his accounts were combined and included with active deposits as one account. To what extent the returns included deposits of creditors whose whereabouts were unknown to the banks is not in evidence. However, the total number of accounts which showed no change in the period indicated was 4,532,601 and the total credits $132,018,000, representing an average credit on these accounts in all national banks of $29.13. The total number of all depositors in national banks on the same date was 25,419,269 and the aggregate of all deposits $17,055,208,000. Hence, the number of dormant accounts was 17.83 percent of the total, but the volume of these accounts was only three-fourths of 1 percent of the aggregate deposits.

This was the first time since February 21, 1921, that national banks were requested to furnish information with respect to dormant deposits, and as of that date the 8,143 active banks reported 1,143,920 of such accounts having total credits of $28,912,000, which represented 5.58 percent of the total of 20,500,000 deposit accounts and less than one-fifth of 1 percent of all deposits which aggregated $15,484,080,000. The average credit on dormant accounts in all national banks on February 21, 1921, was $25.27.

NOTES

Act of Feb. 25, 1863, provided for reports of condition on the first of each quarter, before commencement of business.

Act of June 3, 1864—First Monday of January, April, July, and October, before commencement of business, on form prescribed by Comptroller (in addition to reports on first Tuesday of each month showing condition at commencement of business in respect to certain items; i.e., loans, specie, deposits, and circulation).

Act of Mar. 3, 1869, not less than 5 reports per year, on form prescribed by Comptroller, at close of business on any past date by him specified.

Act of Dec. 28, 1922, minimum number of calls reduced from 5 to 3 per year.

Act of Feb. 25, 1927, authorized a vice president or an assistant cashier designated by the board of directors to verify reports of condition in absence of president and cashier.

Act of June 16, 1933, requires each national bank to furnish and publish not less than three reports each year of affiliates other than member banks, as of dates identical with those for which the Comptroller shall during such year require reports of condition of the bank. The report of each affiliate shall contain such information as in the judgment of the Comptroller shall be necessary to disclose fully the relations between the affiliate and the bank and to enable the Comptroller to inform himself as to the effect of such relations upon the affairs of the bank.

Sec. 21 (a) of the Banking Act of 1933 provides, in part, that after June 16, 1934, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, association, business trust, or other similar organization, other than a financial institution or private banker subject to examination and regulation under State of Federal law, to engage to any extent whatever in the business of receiving deposits subject to check or to repayment upon presentation of a passbook, certificate of deposit, or other evidence of debt, or upon request of the depositor, unless such person, firm, corporation, association, business trust, or other similar organization shall submit to periodic examination by the Comptroller of the Currency or by the Federal Reserve bank of the district and shall make and publish periodic reports of its condition, exhibiting in detail its resources and liabilities, such reports to be made and published at the same times and in the same manner and with like effect and penalties as are now provided by law in respect of national banking associations transacting business in the same locality. (First call made on such private banks was for June 30, 1934.)

² Combined excess of amounts due to banks over amounts due from banks as shown by individual bank reports. When, for a given bank, amounts due from banks exceed amounts due to banks, the excess due from cannot be deducted in determining deposits on which reserves are computed, and for this reason amounts in this column do not agree with the difference between aggregate amounts due to banks and due from banks. In this calculation the amounts due to banks include due to Federal Reserve banks (deferred credits), due to other banks and trust companies (subject to immediate withdrawal), certified, cashiers', and dividend checks outstanding, and letters of credit and travelers' checks sold for cash and outstanding; while amounts due from banks include items with Federal Reserve banks in process of collection, amounts due from banks and trust companies in United States (subject to immediate withdrawal), balances payable in dollars due from foreign branches of other American banks (subject to immediate withdrawal), and exchanges for clearing-house and other checks on local banks.

⁴ The cash in vault (exclusive of national-bank notes) and due from approved Reserve agents.

¹ Including school, irrigation, drainage, and reclamation districts, and instrumentalities of 1 or more States.

³ All real estate loans.

NOTE.—The amounts shown in the schedules of loans and discounts, investments and deposits of this table do not agree in all particulars with figures as reported to this office, due to the fact that several of the classifications furnished were incomplete. In such cases estimates of various amounts have been used, based on classifications reported to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in its call made for June 30, 1934, on insured State banks and trust companies not members of the Federal Reserve System.

NOTE.—The amounts shown in the schedules of loans and discounts, investments and deposits of this table do not agree in all particulars with figures as reported to this office, due to the fact that several of the classifications furnished were incomplete. In such cases estimates of various amounts have been used, based on classifications reported to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in its call made for June 30, 1934, on insured State banks and trust companies not members of the Federal Reserve System.

SHOWING STATEMENTS OF ASSETS AND LIABILITIES OF THE INDIVIDUAL LICENSED NATIONAL BANKS
(and private banks not under State supervision)
AT CLOSE OF BUSINESS DECEMBER 31, 1934
IS OMITTED FROM THIS REPORT AND
PUBLISHED AS A SEPARATE TABLE
(States, Territories, and Towns Arranged Alphabetically)

NOTE.—In each of the years 1923 to 1929, inclusive, a table similar to table "L" mentioned above, showing statements of assets and liabilities of the individual national banks for one date in the year, was also issued as a supplement to the Comptroller's report, but in lieu of being designated as tables "A" to "G", inclusive, they were numbered 89, 93, 94, 98, 121, 97, and 103, respectively. Since 1930 the supplements are lettered alphabetically, beginning with the letter "H." Prior to 1923 individual statements were included in the report proper.

Figures for individual private banks, which are published by the Comptroller for the first time in the supplement for 1934 (table L), due to the requirements of section 21 (a) of the Banking Act of 1933, are shown alphabetically, by States, following those for national banks in the State of Wyoming.
